THE YEAR'S WORK IN FIGURES

The following statistics exhibit the work of the Library during the year 1918 as compared with 1917. A substantial gain is shown in every department except that of reference work, where there was a decrease quite obviously due to the withdrawal of large numbers of our readers from their ordinary pursuits to serve the nation, the practical suspension of colleges and universities, and the many preoccupations of people generally in war activities of various kinds.

Annotations in Library Book Bulletins

WHEN a Library prints a list of the books it has purchased during a given period it not only gives the public a convenient index to such purchases but it says, in effect: "Here are the books we have bought with your money during the past month, quarter or year. They represent our best judgment in selecting, from all the books offered by the publishers, those that we—having in mind our limitations and your tastes and desires as experience has revealed them to us—think we should have bought. We think they are good books within their several fields, and that they will add to your pleasure or profit, or both, if you will read them, and to the usefulness of the Library by standing on its shelves. If we did not think so they would not be here."

Thus the Library is prepared to "stand behind" its book purchases, and is, or should be able to explain or defend, if need be, the presence of each separate book in its lists. And since the inclusion of each separate book in the lists is the result of a separate, conscious, mental process on the part of some one or more persons charged with the business of book selection, and represents consideration and deliberation, and a decision reached, perhaps in a few minutes, but sometimes only after a much longer period, it follows that this attitude of standing behind its books is not baseless presumption but is founded upon a legitimate conviction duly and conscientiously arrived at.

This being true, it seems that something of value might be added to the lists if the deliberations of the Library in its book selecting activities could be shared with the public. By thus taking the latter into its confidence the Library would not only be better able to justify its expenditures of book funds but might also afford to its readers information that would be welcomed as a means of stimulating interest in, or providing additional information about, a given book or, better, about all of the books in the lists. It has been found that this can be accomplished very satisfactorily by means of annotations—the addition to each title of a concise little note framed to convey the thoughts indicated above.

Book annotations in Library Bulletins must be brief, pointed, honest and convincing. Being designed, in the first instance, not to induce book-buying but book reading—not always concomitant objects—they need not, or should not, savor too much of the untempered enthusiasm of the publisher's or publicity man's eulogy aptly described by a remarkable term of trade jargon as the "blurb." On the other hand they should be so framed as to answer, as completely as possible in a very small space, the double query as to "Why we bought this book and why you should read it." From the information compiled by the book selecting officials of a Library before the book was bought, it should be possible to evolve such an answer to the satisfaction of every reasonable inquirer. Frequently such information will be best conveyed in the words of others who have said just what we wished to say and have said it much better. In that event quotations should be used without compunction and with no fear of a latent implication of evading responsibility. We are still standing behind the book—once removed. Sometimes the note may be wholly subjective, reflecting the mental reactions of the reader; at other times a mere description will suffice, while not seldom nothing can be said about a book that is not already apparent from its title.

At all events it has seemed wise to introduce annotations into the Book Bulletin and, beginning with this issue, the practice will be continued at least long enough to afford a fair trial as to its value from the point of view both of the Library and of its patrons. While it will increase somewhat the cost, and will add considerably to the labor of preparation, these burdens will be justified and cheerfully borne, and, eventually, will disappear if, as we confidently believe, the annotations will enhance the usefulness of this publication and contribute to a better realization, on the one hand, of the policies and purposes of the Library in buying some books and in not buying other books, and, on the other hand, of the results of our labors by our patrons for whom they are performed.

Poetry

- Davies, Mary Carolyn. The drums in our street; a book of war poems. 1918. E 10868
Poems of war as it is felt by those who stay at home.
"He laughed and died;
And something died to me
In greening countryside,
In grass and bud and tree.
Color died from the world,
And all the sky was dim;
And something in each soul
I meet, died, too, with him."
—For a young soldier.

- Downey, June E. The imaginal reaction to poetry; the affective and the aesthetic judgment. 1911. L 13995, 2
(University of Wyoming. Department of Psychology).

- Foxcroft, Frank, ed. War verse. 1918. E 10436
Anthology of poems on the war by soldiers and civilians, containing in addition to many of the oft-printed favorites several poems not before published.

- Frankau, Gilbert. The other side, and other poems. 1918. E 10942
Poems by a soldier emphasizing the horror of war.
"Lord, if I'd half your brains, I'd write a book:
None of your sentimental platitudes,
But something real, vital; that should strip
The glamour from this outrage we call war,
Shewing it naked, hideous, stupid, vile—
One vast abomination. So that they
Who, coming after, till the ransomed fields
Where our lean corpses rotted in the ooze,
Reading my written words, should understand
This stark stupendous horror, visualize
The unutterable foulness of it all."
—From "The other side."

- Gibbons, Herbert A., comp. Songs from the trenches, the soul of the A. E. F. 1918. E 10437
Collection of verses written by American soldiers in camp, on transport, or in the trenches in France.

- Phelps, William L. The advance of English poetry in the twentieth century. 1918. J 6328

- Sassoon, Siegfried. The old huntsman, and other poems. 1918. E 11565
Perhaps no poet who has written of the war has excelled the grim beauty of some of the poems in this volume.
"Light many lamps and gather round his bed.
Lend him your eyes, warm blood, and will to live.
Speak to him; rouse him; you may save him yet.
He's young; he hated war; how should he die
When cruel old campaigners win safe through?
But Death replied: 'I choose him! So he went,
And there was silence in the summer night;
Silence and safety; and the veils of sleep.
Then, far away, the thudding of the guns.'"

- Shorter, Mrs. Dora S. (Mrs. Clement Shorter). The sad years, by Dora Sigerson. 1918. E 11539
Last poems, written during the years of the war, from the heart of an Irish poet, sad with the sorrows of her native and adopted lands.
"Sick I am and sorrowful, how can I be well again
Here where fog and darkness are, and big guns boom all day,
Practising for evil sport? If you speak humanity,
Hatred comes into each face, and so you cease to pray.
If I saw the wild geese fly over the dark lakes of Kerry
Or could hear the secret winds, I could kneel and pray.
But 'tis sick I am and grieving, how can I be well again
Here where fear and sorrow are—my heart so far away."
—From "Sick I am and sorrowful."

- Villon, François. Poems of François Villon. Biographical and critical essay by Robert Louis Stevenson. 1917. E 8839
John Payne's translation, with his notes. Except for some omissions, indicated when they occur, the text follows the revised translation, printed for the Villon Society, 1892. The study by Stevenson appeared in his "Familiar studies of men and books" (1st edition, 1881) under title, "François Villon, student, poet, and housebreaker," and has also been published separately.

Beautiful Books

The following list was prepared by Miss Margaret E. Ely, librarian of Lake View High School Library (a branch of the Chicago Public Library), for the meeting of the National Council of Teachers of English, February 27th and 28th. It is included here in the belief that the list will be of permanent value and interest to lovers of beautiful books in general.

INTRODUCTION

THIS is a selected list of editions for high school library purchase. The titles included are chosen from the standpoint of availability, attractiveness and usability. No edition listed exceeds five dollars in price and most of the titles are far less expensive. This makes it possible for practically any high school library to secure many, if not all, of the editions suggested. No edition has been included unless its illustrations distinguish it from other well bound and perfectly usable editions. The distinction between a good edition and an illustrated edition has been closely observed. Poor binding and heavy makeup have excluded an otherwise attractive edition from inclusion on the list.

Since every title in the list has been personally observed by the compiler, there is some omission of editions which might well be acceptable. The exhaustiveness of the list should, however, offset this omission and, for the most part, the editions omitted are merely further editions of titles already included on the list.

All publishers and prices have been verified to date.

Beautiful Books

Addison, Joseph. Days with Sir Roger de Coverley. Macmillan, $1.50.

Attractively illustrated by Hugh Thomson, famous for his wonderful delineations of old English life.

Addison, Joseph. Sir Roger de Coverley and other papers from the Spectator. Dutton, $1.50.

Illustrations by C. E. Brock, very similar in style to those of Hugh Thomson.

Aesopus. Aesop's fables. Century, $2.

Illustrated in black and white with numerous insets by E. Boyd Smith.

Aesopus. Aesop's fables. Doubleday, $2.

A truly charming edition, translated by V. S. V. Jones and illustrated in black and white and color by Arthur Rackham.

Alcott, Louisa May. Little women. Little, $2.50.

Jessie Willcox Smith has illustrated this favorite, adding to the attractiveness and catching the spirit of the story.

Andersen, Hans Christian. Fairy tales. Dutton, $3.

This edition includes all of the stories most interesting to children. It is translated by Mrs. Lucas and illustrated in black and white by the Robinson brothers.

Andersen, Hans Christian. Fairy tales. Harper, $1.50.

Very attractive, rather large edition, with black and white illustrations by Louis Rhead.

Arabian nights. Scribner, $2.50.

This should be a first choice in a collection of fine editions. It is edited by K. D. Wiggin and N. A. Smith and beautifully illustrated by Maxfield Parrish.

Arabian nights. Arabian nights' entertainments. Harper, $1.50.

Illustrated by Louis Rhead in black and white, with a number of insets. Print is large and cover attractive.

Arabian nights. Arabian nights' entertainments. Holt, $1.50.

Edited by Frances Jenkins Olcott and illustrated rather over vividly by M. S. Orr, but is one of the best editions.

Arabian nights. Arabian nights' entertainments. Longmans, $1.

Very practical and attractive with illustrations in black and white by H. S. Ford.

Arabian nights. More tales from the Arabian nights. Holt, $1.50.

Beautifully vivid full page colored illustrations by Willy Pogany make this an edition to be chosen among the first.

Arabian nights. Stories from the Arabian nights. Doran, $2.

These stories are retold by Laurence Housman and illustrated by Edmund Dulac, the rival of Rackham. A charming edition.

Austen, Jane. Emma. Dutton, $2.

Quaint black and white illustrations by C. E. Brock.

Austen, Jane. Emma. Macmillan, $1.25.

This and the edition illustrated by C. E. Brock are invaluable for costume of the period. Hugh Thomson illustrates this edition in black and white. The fineness of print detracts somewhat from the usability of the edition.

Austen, Jane. Mansfield Park. Dutton, $2.

Illustrated by C. E. Brock.

Austen, Jane. Mansfield Park. Macmillan, $1.25.

Illustrated by Hugh Thomson.

Austen, Jane. Northanger Abbey. Dutton, $2.

Illustrated by C. E. Brock.

Austen, Jane. Northanger Abbey. Macmillan, $1.25.

Illustrated by Hugh Thomson.

Austen, Jane. Pride and prejudice. Dutton, $2.

Illustrated by C. E. Brock.

Austen, Jane. Pride and prejudice. Macmillan, $1.25.

Illustrated by Hugh Thomson.

Austen, Jane. Sense and sensibility. Dutton, $2.

Illustrated by C. E. Brock.

Austen, Jane. Sense and sensibility. Macmillan, $1.25.

Illustrated by Hugh Thomson.

Barrie, James Matthew. Little minister. Crowell, $1.50.

Illustrated from photographs of the play as presented by Maude Adams. Has an attractive binding and good print.

Barrie, James Matthew. Peter and Wendy. Scribner, $1.50.

Illustrations by F. D. Bedford add to the charm of this fairy story.

Barrie, James Matthew. Peter Pan in Kensington gardens. Scribner, $1.50.

This whimsical story is just as whimsically illustrated by Arthur Rackham and is ideal in its charm. There is a more sumptuous edition illustrated by Rackham, which costs $5.

Black, William. Judith Shakespeare. Harper, $1.25.

Drawings by E. A. Abbey make this a desirable edition. But the print is too small and the paper is poor.

- Blackmore, Richard Doddridge. Lorna Doone. Harper, $2.
Illustrated from photographs by Clifton Johnson. Fineness of print detracts from appearance.
- Blackmore, Richard Doddridge. Lorna Doone. Harper, $2.50.
This is the Dooneland edition, illustrated from photographs and very ornate.
- Blackmore, Richard Doddridge. Lorna Doone. Jacobs, $1.50.
Very handsome in general makeup and the illustrations by H. M. Grose completely satisfy. Price and appearance make this first choice of the three editions listed here.
- Browning, Robert. The pied piper of Hamelin. Warne, $1.50.
Kate Greenaway's illustrations vouch for the beauty of this edition.
- Browning, Robert. The pied piper of Hamelin. Rand, $1.25.
Profusely and beautifully illustrated in color by Hope Dunlap.
- Bunyan, John. Pilgrim's progress. Oxford University press, 75c.
Very usable edition, illustrated in black and white by George Cruikshank.
- Burney, Fanny. Evelina. Macmillan, $2.50.
Delightfully illustrated in color by Hugh Thomson. Also a few black and white illustrations.
- Carroll, Lewis. Alice in Wonderland. Doubleday, $2.
Arthur Rackham has caught the spirit of this child's classic and added to its charm with his delightful colored illustrations.
- Cervantes Saavedra, Miguel de. Adventures of Don Quixote. Dutton, $2.
Illustrated in black and white by W. H. Robinson, Florid cover detracts from dignity of the book.
- Cervantes Saavedra, Miguel de. Don Quixote. Lane, $1.50.
This is retold by Judge Parry. The retelling is well done and the illustrations by Walter Crane in black and white add to its merit.
- Chaucer, Geoffrey. Complete poetical works. Macmillan, $2.
Put into modern English by Percy MacKaye and John Tatlock. Extremely attractive because of its black and white illustrations by Warwick Goble.
- Clemens, Samuel Langhorne. The prince and the pauper. Harper, $2.50.
Unusually pleasing, with colored illustrations by Franklin Booth.
- Coleridge, Samuel Taylor. The ancient mariner. Crowell, $5.
This is illustrated in color by Willy Pogany and is invaluable in use with English classes.
- Cooper, James Fenimore. Last of the Mohicans. Holt, $1.50.
Very suitably illustrated in color and black and white by E. Boyd Smith. Has attractive cover and good print.
- Craik, Mrs Dinah (Mulock). John Halifax, gentleman. Crowell, $1.50.
This edition is just a trifle above the rank of a good edition, since it has some rather good illustrations by A. B. Stephens and is well bound. However, it is not especially decorative.
- Craik, Mrs Dinah (Mulock). The little lame prince. Rand, $1.25.
Charming edition of a very charming fairy tale, illustrated in color and black and white by Hope Dunlap.
- Creswick, Paul. Robin Hood. McKay, $2.50.
Illustrations by N. C. Wyeth in color make this a sumptuous edition.
- Dana, Richard Henry. Two years before the mast. Houghton, $1.65.
Illustrated in color and black and white by E. Boyd Smith.
- Darton, F. J. Harvey. Tales of the Canterbury pilgrims. Stokes, $1.50.
A retelling of tales from Chaucer and others, sumptuously illustrated by Hugh Thomson.
- Dasent, Sir George Webbe. Norse fairy tales. Lippincott, $1.35.
These charming tales are profusely illustrated in black and white by R. L. Knowles and H. J. Knowles.
- Defoe, Daniel. Life and strange surprising adventures of Robinson Crusoe. Harper, $1.50.
Illustrated by the Rhead brothers in black and white with numerous insets. Attractive binding.
- Defoe, Daniel. Life and strange surprising adventures of Robinson Crusoe. Houghton, $1.65.
Colored and black and white illustrations by E. Boyd Smith.
- Dickens, Charles. Christmas carol. Dutton, $1.25.
Very dainty with its illustrations in color and black and white by C. E. Brock. The binding is rather poor.
- Dickens, Charles. Christmas carol. Lippincott, $1.50.
Delightful illustrations by Arthur Rackham.
- Dickens, Charles. The cricket on the hearth. Dutton, $1.25.
Same edition as the Dutton Christmas carol, above.
- Dickens, Charles. David Copperfield. Doran, $5.
The Frank Reynolds illustrations of Dickens' classics are inimitable. The pictures are very large and the books necessarily very heavy. They are of course impractical for general circulation, but invaluable for class room use.
- Dickens, Charles. Old curiosity shop. Doran, $5.
Illustrated by Frank Reynolds.
- Dickens, Charles. Pickwick papers. Doran, $5.
Illustrated by Frank Reynolds.

- Dodge, Mrs Mary (Mapes). Hans Brinker. Scribner, $2.
Illustrated in lovely bright colors by G. W. Edwards.
- Eliot, George. Silas Marner. Macmillan, $1.
Illustrated in color by M. V. Wheelhouse.
- Eliot, George. Silas Marner. Macmillan, $2.50.
Charming black and white colored illustrations by Hugh Thomson.
- Franklin, Benjamin. Autobiography. Holt, $2.
Edited by F. W. Pine. Very pleasing edition, illustrated in color and black and white by E. Boyd Smith.
- Gaskell, Mrs Elizabeth. Cranford. Lond. Bell, $1.
Quaint colored illustrations by M. V. Wheelhouse.
- Gaskell, Mrs Elizabeth. Cranford. Macmillan, $1.50.
Daintily illustrated by Hugh Thomson. Binding is poor.
- Goldsmith, Oliver. She stoops to conquer. Doran, $5.
Hugh Thomson has illustrated this in color. Costume suggestions from such an edition are invaluable.
- Goldsmith, Oliver. She stoops to conquer. Harper, $1.50.
Black and white illustrations by E. A. Abbey.
- Goldsmith, Oliver. The vicar of Wakefield. Macmillan, $1.75.
Quaint black and white illustrations by Hugh Thomson, which portray excellently the spirit of the book.
- Grahame, Kenneth. Golden age. Lane, $3.
These exquisite sketches of child life are beautifully illustrated in black and white by Maxfield Parrish.
- Grahame, Kenneth. Wind in the willows. Scribner, $2.
Paul Bransom has doubled the charm of this unusual animal story with his colored illustrations.
- Grimm brothers. Fairy tales. Doubleday, $2.50.
Translated by Mrs. Lucas and illustrated in color and black and white by Arthur Rackham.
- Grimm brothers. Fairy tales. Harper, $1.50.
Attractively bound and illustrated by Louis Rhead in black and white.
- Grimm brothers. Fairy tales. Lippincott, $1.50.
Translated by Mrs. Lucas and illustrated by Rackham as in the Doubleday edition, but the pictures are reprints.
- Grimm brothers. Fairy tales. Macmillan, $1.50.
Prettily colored illustrations by Charles Folkard.
- Grimm brothers. Fairy tales. Rand, $1.50.
Hope Dunlap has illustrated this very successfully.
- Grimm brothers. Household stories. Macmillan, $1.75.
Illustrated in black and white by Walter Crane.
- Harris, Joel Chandler. Nights with Uncle Remus. Houghton, $3.
Animal stories a delight in themselves, beautifully illustrated by Milo Winter. Many will still prefer the Harper edition, with the black and white pictures by E. B. Frost, so thoroughly identified with these famous stories.
- Hawthorne, Nathaniel. The house of the Seven Gables. Houghton, $1.
Interesting because of illustrations from photographs by C. S. Olcott.
- Hawthorne, Nathaniel. Tanglewood tales. Rand, $1.65.
Many full page illustrations by Milo Winter.
- Hawthorne, Nathaniel. Tanglewood tales for girls and boys. Houghton, $2.75.
Rather ornate edition illustrated in black and white by G. W. Edwards.
- Hawthorne, Nathaniel. Wonder book and Tanglewood tales. Duffield, $2.50.
No more lovely book exists. Beautifully illustrated by Maxfield Parrish.
- Hawthorne, Nathaniel. Wonder book for boys and girls. Houghton, $3.
An edition any library should have. Illustrated by Walter Crane.
- Hughes, Thomas. Tom Brown's school days. Harper, $1.50.
Very attractive with black and white illustrations by Louis Rhead.
- Hughes, Thomas. Tom Brown's school days. Macmillan, $2.50.
Daintily illustrated by E. J. Sullivan.
- Hughes, Thomas. Tom Brown's school days at Rugby. Putnam, $3.
Illustrated from photographs.
- Irving, Washington. Alhambra. Macmillan, $1.75.
Illustrated in black and white by Joseph Pennell. No library in a high school where the Alhambra is studied should be without this edition.
- Irving, Washington. Legends of the Alhambra. Lippincott, $2.50.
Valuable on account of the illustrations by George Hood. The lovely vivid color of the illustrations is a delight.
- Irving, Washington. Tales from the Alhambra. Houghton, $1.35.
Adapted by Josephine Brower and illustrated in black and white by C. E. Brock.
- Irving, Washington. Bracebridge Hall. Macmillan, $1.75.
Cleverly illustrated by Randolph Caldecott.

Jackson, Helen Hunt. Ramona. Little, $1.75.

Plain but attractive edition with a few black and white illustrations by Henry Sandham.

Kingsley, Charles. Water babies. Lippincott, $1.35.

Lovely illustrations by M. L. Kirk.

Kingsley, Charles. Water babies. Macmillan, $1.75.

Warwick Goble has illustrated this in color.

Kingsley, Charles. Westward ho! Macmillan, $1.25.

Good editions of this are rare. This one, illustrated by C. E. Brock is the best. The print is a little small and a few colored illustrations would make it much more attractive.

Kipling, Rudyard. Puck of Pook's Hill. Doubleday, $1.50.

Usual Doubleday edition of Kipling, with a few colored illustrations by Arthur Rackham.

Lamb, Charles. Tales from Shakespeare. Dutton, $3.

This edition, delicately illustrated by Arthur Rackham will delight the Art Department and furnish valuable costume suggestions.

Lamb, Charles. Tales from Shakespeare. Dutton, $3.

Many black and white and six full page colored illustrations by Wal Paget.

Lamb, Charles. Tales from Shakespeare. Scribner, $1.50.

Illustrated in color by N. M. Price.

Illustrated in black and white with small insets by Willy Pogany.
- Stevenson, Robert Louis. The black arrow. Scribner, $2.50.
N. C. Wyeth's illustrations of this classic are in themselves a marvelous telling of a tale of adventure.
- Stevenson, Robert Louis. Child's garden of verses. Scribner, $2.50.
Jessie Willcox Smith, in illustrating this in black and white and beautiful full page color, has doubled the charm of these verses.
- Stevenson, Robert Louis. Kidnapped. Scribner, $2.50.
Exceedingly attractive. Illustrated by N. C. Wyeth.
- Stevenson, Robert Louis. Treasure island. Harper, $1.50.
Illustrated in black and white by Louis Rhead.
- Stevenson, Robert Louis. Treasure island. Scribner, $1.25.
Attractive illustrations by Wal Paget, in black and white.
- Stevenson, Robert Louis. Treasure island. Scribner, $1.50.
Unusually well illustrated edition for the price. There are pictures in color and black and white by George Varian.
- Stevenson, Robert Louis. Treasure island. Scribner, $2.50.
N. C. Wyeth's illustrations make this by far the most attractive edition.
- Swift, Jonathan. Gulliver's travels. Dutton, $3.
Large, attractive edition, illustrated by Arthur Rackham in black and white and color.
- Swift, Jonathan. Gulliver's travels. Harper, $1.50.
Black and white illustrations by Louis Rhead.
- Swift, Jonathan. Gulliver's travels. Macmillan, $2.
Edited by Padraic Colum and illustrated by Willy Pogany. Very usable.
- Swift, Jonathan. Travels into several remote nations of the world. Macmillan, $1.75.
Illustrated by C. E. Brock.
- Tennyson, Alfred. Idylls of the king. Hodder, $1.50.

Books and Reading

Newton, A. Edward. The amenities of book-collecting and kindred affections. 1918. J 2844

Contents: Book-collecting abroad.—Book-collecting at home.—Old catalogues and new prices.—“Association” books and first editions.—“What might have been.”—James Boswell—his book.—A light-blue stocking.—A ridiculous philosopher.—A great Victorian.—Temple Bar then and now.—A macaroni parson.—Oscar Wilde.—A word in memory.

A book to delight the bibliophile. The author, whose hobby is the collecting of books made precious by their associations, discusses rare books, their rising values, the second-hand book stores where they may be found, and the dealers who buy and sell them.

Philosophy

Columbia University. Dept. of Philosophy. Studies in the history of ideas. 1918. L 12933

Spiritualism

Cameron, Margaret (Mrs. H. C. Lewis). The seven purposes; an experience in psychic phenomena. 1918. L 13488

The author recounts her experiences with automatic writing. The seven purposes are the fundamental truths which she alleges were imparted to her from the spirit world.

Mental Physiology and Hygiene

Dana, Marvin. How to train your mind; a practical method for the development of mental power. 1918. L 13895

Lindsay, Forbes. Everyday efficiency. 1918. L 14105

Material originally used as a series of lessons in a correspondence course and designed as a guide to the ordinary man or woman who is seeking to develop mental and physical efficiency.

New Thought

Larson, Christian D. Healing yourself. 1918. L 13252

Conduct of Life

Bennett, Arnold. Self and self-management; essays about existing. 1918. L 14083

Clever talks on such varied subjects as running away from life, writing a diary, being sensible about war work, and being too fussy.

Religion

Faunce, William H. P. Religion and war. 1918. M 8927

Contents: The attitude of the Old Testament.—The attitude of the New Testament.—The pacifism of the rationalists.—The moral leadership of the church.—Light on the cloud.—The rebuilding of the world.

Flint, Herbert. An application of the teachings of Christ to the American Japanese problem. 1915. M 4750, 1915

Roberts, Richard. The church in the commonwealth. 1918. M 9849

(The new commonwealth books, II)

Has attracted wide attention by its thesis that the church in order to make its best contribution to society must be freed from its present subservience to the authority of the state.

Speer, Robert E. The Christian man, the church and the war. 1918. M 9977

Written while the war was still in progress, this little book, like that by Faunce listed above, attempts to point out to churchmen the identification of the ideals for which the Allies were fighting with the ideals of the Christian life and the Christian Church.

Bible

Bible. O. T. Job. The Book of Job as a Greek tragedy, restored with an introductory essay on the original form and philosophic meaning of Job by Horace M. Kallen. 1918. M 6630

The author believes that "Job represents the attempt of a Hebrew writer to compose a tragedy after the Greek manner. His version has been acted both at Wisconsin and Harvard."—Walter Pritchard Eaton in the Bookman.

Henry, Francis A. Jesus and the Christian religion. 1916. M 9176

Hodges, George. How to know the Bible. 1918. M 6372

A thoughtful book which studies the Bible as a library of religious writings. Explains the seeming contradictions; the sources; the conflicts between religion, science, and morality; the meaning of inspiration; and the work and characters of the New Testament writers.—The Booklist.

Christian Life

Chapman, Edward M. Companions of the way; a handbook of religion for beginners. 1918. M 8756

A message addressed to young people discussing problems of faith and conduct in the light of the Christian religion.

Non-Christian Religions

Starr, Frederick. Korean Buddhism, history—condition—art: three lectures. 1918. M 8091

Cooley, Charles H. Social progress. 1918. L 15294

A study of the manner in which social life grows and changes—perhaps progresses.

Reconstruction

Benn, Ernest J. P. The trade of tomorrow. 1918. L 20081

A contribution to the subject of industrial reconstruction in England. The author describes his book as a "plea for the organization of the trades of this country in such a way that the parties interested—the state, workman, and capitalist—may develop them to their fullest extent."

Bradley, Harriett. The enclosures in England; an economic reconstruction. 1918. L 6589, 80

(Columbia University studies in history, economics and public law).

Coffin, Henry S. In a day of social rebuilding; lectures on the ministry of the church. 1918. M 8809
(Lyman Beecher lectureship on preaching in Yale University).

Addressed primarily to theological students, these lectures contain a wealth of advice on practical problems of worship, organization, preaching, pastoral care, and evangelism. Since such problems are subordinated, however, to the vaster problems of the church's relationship to the regeneration of the entire social order, it is a book for the layman quite as much as for the clergyman.—Adapted from the Nation.

Friedman, Elisha M., ed. American problems of reconstruction; a national symposium on the economic and financial aspects. 1918. L 16670

Twenty-eight articles dealing with the economic and financial problems of reconstruction, by specialists in their various fields. The first comprehensive survey from the American point of view.

Andrews, Clarence E. The writing and reading of verse. 1918. J 3280
A study of metrics which includes a chapter on vers libre.

Coates, Archie Austin. City tides. 1918. E 10776

Poems, mostly free verse, which reflect the life of the city streets.

Colson, Ethel M. How to read poetry. 1918. E 10809

The simple intent of this book is to assist the lay poetry lover to comprehend and, if necessary, defend his affection; and to persuade the non-poetic reader who believes he does not like poetry that at heart he really does.—Foreword.

Ferguson, John. Thyrea, and other sonnets. 1918. E 10927

The principal sequence in this collection of sonnets deals with bits of human drama suggested by life in a tuberculosis sanatorium.

Fletcher, John G. Japanese prints. 1918. E 10932

Imagist poems which "illustrate something of the charm" the author has found in Japanese poetry and art.

"An old courtyard
Hidden away
In the afternoon.
Grey walks,
Mossy stones,
Copper carp swimming lazily,
And beyond,
A faint toneless hissing of the rain
That tears at my heart." —Japan.

Gibran, Kahlil. The madman, his parables and poems. 1918. E 3104

Translations from an Arab sage whom Rodin called the William Blake of the twentieth century.

Hewlett, Maurice. The village wife's lament. 1918. E 11031

A dramatic poem in which an English wife protests against the cruelty of the war which took away her husband and caused the death of her child.

Rice, Cale Young. Songs to A. H. R. 1918. E 8385

"Love lyrics.
"Around us is the sea's dance,
And the glad, swinging flight
Of wild windy gulls whose joy
Is never to alight!"

Above us is the June sun,
And higher still the Blue—
And God, like a dream, dear,
The whole world through!"

Ridge, Lola. The Ghetto, and other poems. 1918. E 11443

Her longest poem "The Ghetto" is beyond doubt the most vivid and sensitive and lovely embodiment that exists in American literature of that many-sided transplantation of Jewish city dwellers which vulgarity dismisses with a laugh and a jeer.—Francis Hackett in the New Republic.

Swinburne, Algernon C. The springtide of life; poems of childhood. 1918. E 11559

In this volume, delicately illustrated by Arthur Rackham, Edward Gosse has collected the poems of Swinburne which are addressed to children or are descriptive of child life.

Flickinger, Roy C. The Greek theater and its drama. 1918. E 12162

Comprehensive survey of Greek dramatic art, embodying the results of the latest investigations.

Humphrey, Grace. The seven gifts, by Stuart Walker, as described by Grace Humphrey. 1918. E 12364

A pantomime first given at the community Christmas tree in New York City.

Johnson, Gertrude E. Choosing a play: suggestions and bibliography for the director of amateur dramatics. 1918. E 12420

A pamphlet including a list of books which will be of assistance to the dramatic director, a list of publishers from whom dramatic catalogues may be obtained at little or no cost, and suggestive lists of plays for amateur production.

Phelps, William L. The twentieth century theatre, observations on the contemporary English and American stage. 1918.

E 12734

An appeal for better theaters and more theaters for the good drama of the day.

Rolland, Romain. The people's theater. 1918.

E 12763

A translation of articles which appeared almost twenty years ago. "A polemic against the convention-ridden theater and drama of the day, and a work of inspiration for those who believed that the theater ought to be a place of recreation and education, especially for the laboring classes.—Barrett Clark in the Preface.

Russia

Bryant, Louise. Six red months in Russia, an observer's account of Russia before and during the proletarian dictatorship. 1918. A 6051

A series of articles recording the author's observations of the working of the present government of Russia, including a clear explanation of the political parties and a description of the leaders. She believes that the Bolshevik government is the form desired by and most appropriate for the mass of the Russian people.

Buchanan, Meriel. The city of trouble. 1918. A 6052

The daughter of the former British Ambassador to Petrograd who worked as a nurse in a Russian hospital in the early days of the war describes the moments of highest interest in her three years' stay in Russia, and gives a vivid picture of Russian life. She regards the rise of the Bolsheviks to power as a calamity.

Petrunkévitch, Alexander I. and others. The Russian revolution. 1918. A 6061

Contents: The rôle of the intellectuals in the liberating movement in Russia, by A. Petrunkévitch. —Forces behind the Russian revolution, by S. N. Harper. —The Russian revolution, by F. A. Golder. —The Jugo-Slav movement, by R. J. Kerner.

Rudnitsky, Stephen. Ukraine, the land and its people; an introduction to its geography. 1918. A 6050

The third of the handbooks described under Wissler below.

The chapter of the present volume which deals with the Aztecs will be found of especial interest.

Wissler, Clark. North American Indians of the plains. 1912. B 8511

Handbook series. No. 1.

The first of a series of handbooks published by the American Museum of Natural History which, although designed as guides to museum collections, have little in common with the conventional guide-book.

This volume, written by the curator of anthropology, furnishes a summary of facts and interpretations making up the anthropology of the Indians of the plains. Clearly written, well illustrated, a convenient book for the young or adult student.

Hergesheimer, Joseph. Java Head. 1919. F 13710

A romantic story of Salem in the old shipping days, rather unusual and fantastic, with a touch of the orient.

(Scandinavian classics).

Moore, George. A mummer's wife. 1917. F 15484

A new edition of one of the author's earliest and best known novels.

—Sister Teresa. 1918. F 15485
New edition.

Fiction

Beckley, Zoe. A chance to live. 1918. F 10978

A vivid picture of life in the New York tenements and the struggles of the poor for existence, touched with the hope of socialism.

Burt, Maxwell S. John O'May, and other stories. 1918. F 11285

Contents: John O'May.—Wings of the morning.—A cup of tea.—Closed doors.—The water-hole.—Le panache.—The glory of the wild green earth.

Unusual character studies, dramatic and clever.

Capes, Bernard E. The house of many voices. 1911. F 11654

Chapin, Maud H. Rush-light stories. 1918. F 11821

Contents: The Ushebti's love story.—The Rose of Jericho.—The house of Father Snail.—The weather cock.—The tapisser of Notre Dame.—The golden chrysalis.—The windmill.—The marionettes.—The zodiac.—The potter.—The sea horses.—Abdihl Rahman.—The clock of St. Gudule.—The legend of the river.—Ars longa.

Parables with a touch of mysticism.

Comfort, Will Levington. The shielding wing. 1918. F 12055

The story of a war correspondent's experience on a trip from Austria to China. Full of adventure, romance and mysticism, but rather heavy with the author's philosophy.

Faulkner, Georgene. Sammy's service star; the story of a Christmas angel. 1917. F 12844

Haggard, Sir H. Rider. Moon of Israel, a tale of the exodus. 1918. F 13453

A story of ancient Egypt in the time of the Exodus of the Israelites and very readable.

Hendryx, James B. The Texan. 1918. F 13689

A tale of the cattle country vividly written and full of action, with a tenderfoot who proves a hero in emergencies.

Noyes, Alfred. Walking shadows; sea tales and others. 1918. F 15706

Contents: The light-house.—Uncle Hyacinth.—The creative impulse.—The man from Buffalo.—The Lusitania waits.—The log of the Evening star.—Goblin peaches.—May Margaret.—Marooned.—The garden of the cliff.—The hand of the master. Short stories of submarine told with poetic charm and the vigor of realism.

Ryan, Mrs. Marah Ellis. The treasure trail; a romance of the land of gold and sunshine. 1918. F 17557

The author's knowledge of Indian lore and customs is woven into a story of life on the Mexican border—and of the German-Mexican plots against the United States.

Sawyer, Ruth. Doctor Danny. 1918. F 17685

Contents: When Padraic came piping.—The tinkler's Meg.—Sheila of the dunes.—Paddy the gander.—A lad from nowhere.—The unwakefulness of Timothy Baron.—Peter-Peter.—The coming o' the King.—The courting of Bridget.—The wee road to Bethlehem.—Road-members.—The tall one and the wee one.—Doctor Danny.—The lifting of the promise.—As it was told by the lazy bush.

Very delightful and imaginative folk-tales of Ireland "with its poetry, its fancy, its humor and its sorrow" among the simple people and in its remote places.

Vorse, Mrs. Mary M. H. The Prestons. 1918. F 18804

A delightful story of family life told with sympathy and humor.

Wharton, Edith. The Marne. 1918. F 19268

An intensive study of France in the war and a tribute to her courage, told in the simple story of an American boy's devotion to the country he had learned to understand and love.

A City's Highway

*UPON the busy river, day by day,
The crowding vessels shoulder as they pass;
The toil prosaic goes upon its way,
Grouping itself in struggling,
straining mass.
But when the burning sunset in the west
Dims into tender twilight's mystic gray,
The prose of life to poetry is blest—
And softly glows the city's great highway.*

Wanted: More Books for Soldiers.

THE supply of gift books for the soldiers and sailors has been suddenly cut off. With the conclusion of the armistice the American public has apparently lost interest in its boys in the service. Over a million and a half are still under orders—in France, in demobilization camps in this country, in hospitals. More than ever their leisure, with the great preoccupation of war removed, requires wholesome employment. Classes, schools, study courses are being conducted under government auspices in France, in Belgium, in Germany, wherever American boys are stationed to finish the task they went over for. Individually they are sending their thoughts back home ahead of their own longed for return, seeking to determine the kind of work there may be for them to do when the khaki and blue shall have been finally put away, and trying to fit themselves through study and investigation to take the places awaiting them or to make places for themselves. The American Library Association is spending every cent of its funds, received through the United War Work Campaign last fall, for technical, vocational and educational books. These are going to meet the urgent call, most of them overseas and a good portion to the numerous hospitals in Chicago, and the money to buy them with is fast running out.

There is no money to buy recreational books with; just novels, stories, picture books, jokes. They must come through gifts. Millions of such books are needed, for the sick and wounded in the hospitals here, and for the homesick and lonely million and a half still overseas. Why have the American people stopped their gifts of books?

Please send all good books you can spare, especially fiction, to Dispatch Office, American Library Association, 70 E. Randolph street, or call Central 5822 "Dispatch Office" to have books sent for.

And please continue sending your good magazines to the camps, by putting a one cent stamp on the cover and dropping magazine in the nearest mail box.

Some Books Concerning a League of Nations

This list comprises merely a few of the books pertinent to the phases of the question most vital at the present moment—the arguments for and against the formation of an international league, discussion of details of organization, and consideration of the effect of such a league upon the United States. To what an extent would its sanction involve abrogation of the Monroe Doctrine; and would that abrogation be a desirable or regrettable factor? There has been no attempt to make it even approximately exhaustive of the material in the library bearing directly or indirectly upon the formation of a league of nations.

Those desiring periodical and pamphlet material will find it of easy access in the Reference and Civics Departments of the Main Library building. An extensive bibliography on the subject prepared by the Division of Bibliography of the Library of Congress is on file in the Civics Department, and one is included in "Selected articles on a league of nations" compiled by E. M. Phelps and listed below.

Bassett, John Spencer. The lost fruits of Waterloo. 1918. A 6702

Traces the disastrous results of the short-sighted peace terms concluded by the European powers in 1815 and advocates the formation of an international league as the means of preventing their repetition in the present crisis.

Brailsford, Henry Noel. A league of nations. 1917. L 17963

First published in 1914 and issued in revised form three years later. H. G. Wells calls it the "classic of the movement in England." The author, an Englishman of liberal tendencies, is a strong advocate of a league.

Dickinson, G. Lowes. The choice before us. 1917. L 14248

The purpose of this book is, first, to expose the ruin that lies before the world unless this war shall indeed end war. Next to discuss some of the problems of that league of nations the creation of which, with the United States as a principal member, is the only way to a lasting peace.—Preface to the American edition.

Goldsmith, Robert. A league to enforce peace. 1917. L 14252

Discussion of the program of the organization for a league to enforce peace, of which ex-President Taft is the head.

Kallen, Horace Meyer. The league of nations. 1919. L 18004

The most recent book on the subject. After a prefatory chapter arguing that "the league of nations must be," the author suggests and defends a protocol for a league of nations based upon the principles set forth and implied in the various statements of President Wilson. Although the details of the organization are not identical with those provided for in the constitution, of the proposed league now made public, the discussion of the various points is most pertinent.

Latané, John Holladay. From isolation to leadership. 1918. L 16301

A survey of America's foreign policy, the trend of which points to the inevitability of the acceptance by the United States of a leading position in world affairs.

McLaughlin, Andrew Cunningham. America and Britain. 1919. L 16299

Addresses by the Head of the Department of History at the University of Chicago, delivered at the University of London last year. In the paper entitled "The Monroe doctrine" the author contends that, in joining an international league the United States would be extending rather than abrogating the principles of the Monroe doctrine.

Marburg, Theodore. League of nations. 1917-1918. 2 v. L 17984

The first volume gives a history of the movement in the United States toward the establishment of a league to enforce peace.

Volume two explains and analyzes the principles of such a league. The author is a former United States Minister to Belgium.

Minor, Raleigh Colston. A republic of nations. 1918. L 15864

Outline and discussion by the Professor of Constitutional and International Law at the University of Virginia of a possible organization for a league of nations patterned after the federal government of the United States. The manner of discussion will make it of interest to the student rather than the general reader.

PHELPS, E. M., comp. Selected articles on a league of nations. 1919. L 18006

The articles in this volume chosen from addresses and periodical literature with the purpose of reflecting impartially arguments for and against a league of nations make a book which although not suited to general reading will be most convenient for reference.

Sayre, Francis Bowes. Experiments in international administration. 1919. L 18005

Describes former attempts at the establishment of international organizations and analyzes the causes for their failure.

Wells, H. G. In the fourth year. 1918. L 17995

Mr. Wells has hidden under this unfortunately non-descriptive title a most forceful plea for a league of free nations.

Philosophy

Addison, Charles Morris. The theory and practice of mysticism. 1918. L 13803

Intimate, simple talks on mysticism, its use today, and the best method of approaching it.—Preface.

Spiritualism

Hookham, Paul. "Raymond"; a rejoinder, questioning the validity of certain evidence and of Sir Oliver Lodge's conclusions regarding it. 1917. L 13490

Hyslop, James H. Life after death, problems of the future life and its nature. 1918. L 13491

The author is secretary of the Society for Psychical Research and has been a professor of philosophy at Columbia. His book is a scholarly review of psychical beliefs held by mankind from the time of the earliest savage records to the present day. He assumes that the fact of survival after death has been proved and limits his discussion to its nature.

Martin, Alfred W. Psychic tendencies of to-day, an exposition and critique of new thought, Christian science, spiritualism, psychical research (Sir Oliver Lodge) and modern materialism in relation to immortality. 1918. L 13540

The author assumes a position of "entire neutrality toward all psychic theories and institutions." He refrains from the tone of ridicule which characterizes "The question" by Clodd (L 13485) and examines the movements discussed in a fair and sympathetic manner, rejecting alike however the conclusions of them all.

Ethics

Bosanquet, Bernard. Some suggestions in ethics. 1918. L 14096

Must a man be selfish because he does not live for others? Can morality be hostile to beauty or vice versa? Is it true that retributive punishment is a mere survival of vindictiveness? Have we any right to be stupid? On difficulties of this kind I thought some suggestions might be helpful.—Author's preface.

Calkins, Mary W. The good man and the good; an introduction to ethics. 1918. L 14084

Hocking, William E. Human nature and its remaking. 1918. L 13908

Reflections of a scholarly mind upon the problems of making human nature over. Closely reasoned, illustrated by fine feeling, and presented with an engaging lucidity and literary grace, the book will be found especially readable in these days of interest in reconstruction.—The Survey.

Contents: Introduction.—War instincts.—War and the struggle for life.—Selection by means of war.—The chosen people.—How war is being metamorphosed.—How the army has been transformed.—Wherein patriotism is rooted.—Different species of patriotism.—Unjustifiable chauvinism.—The legitimate individualism of nations.—Altruism.—How war may be abolished: The evolution of the idea of the world as an organism. The world as an organism. The transformation in human judgment. War and religion.

League of Nations

Kallen, Horace M. The league of nations, today and tomorrow; a discussion of international organization, present and to come. 1919. L 18004

Outlines and defends clearly and forcefully a protocol for a League of nations based upon the principles set forth or implied in utterances of President Wilson, the organization of which would utilize international machinery already existing.

League to Enforce Peace. Win the war for permanent peace. 1918. L 14278
Addresses delivered at the National Convention of the League to Enforce Peace in Philadelphia May 16 and 17, 1918.

Tead, Ordway. The people's part in peace; an inquiry into the basis for a sound internationalism. 1918. L 16652

A consideration of the economic phases of international reorganization based on the peace terms advocated in the Inter-Allied Labor War Aims. Favors the creation of international commissions similar to those called into existence among the Allied nations by the necessity of the war whose functions should be to regulate the economic problems which have caused warfare between nations in the past.

Commerce

Herzog, Siegfried. The future of German industrial exports; practical suggestions for safeguarding the growth of German export activity in the field of manufactures after the war. 1918. L 20121

Translation of a work by a German engineer and economist presenting a plan for developing German commerce after the war.

Verrill, A. Hyatt. Getting together with Latin America. 1918. L 20113

Similar in intent to Cooper's "Understanding South America," I 11139. Both books urge a more sympathetic understanding of the South American people as necessary to the establishment of better business relations.

Education

Bachman, Frank P. and Bowman, Ralph. The Gary public schools; costs, school year 1915-1916. 1918. L 20073

Cather, Katherine Dunlap. Educating by story-telling; showing the value of story-telling as an educational tool for the use of all workers with children. 1918.

L 19799

Play school series. "List of stories by months for each grade," pp. 341-370.

An especially good book for teachers. Chapters consider story interests, story building and method of telling, dramatization and the connection with school work in history, geography, nature study and art.—The Booklist.

Flexner, Abraham and Bachman, Frank P. The Gary schools; a general account. 1918. L 20071

The introductory volume to a series of eight pamphlets which have been prepared at the request of the Gary school authorities to "present an accurate and comprehensive account of the Gary schools in their significant aspects."

Contents: Amy Lowell.—Sara Teasdale.—Witter Bynner.—Robert Frost.—Edwin Arlington Robinson.—Percy Mackaye.—Edgar Lee Masters.—Vachel Lindsay.—Henry Van Dyke.—Edwin Markham.—Cale Young Rice.—Conrad Aiken.—Robert Service.

My purpose in this book is simply to present our American poets of to-day, to tell something of their lives, their writings, what they have done and what they bid fair to do.—Foreword.

Dearmer, Geoffrey. Poems. 1918. E 10872

Carefully wrought poems of war by an English soldier.

"Five million men are dead. How can the worth Of all the world redeem such waste as this? And yet the spring is clamorous of birth, And whispering in winter's chrysalis Glad tidings to each clod, each particle of earth. So the year's Easter triumphs. Shall we then Mourn for the dead unduly, and forget The resurrection in the heart of men? Even the poppy on the parapet Shall blossom as before when Summer blows again."

—Resurrection.

Eastman, Max. Colors of life. 1918. E 10889

Poems, songs, and sonnets, and three prefaces in which the author deals with American ideals in poetry, with sonnets, and with the philosophy of his own early poems.

"A hut, and a tree
And a hill for me,
And a piece of weedy meadow.

I'll ask no thing,
Of God or King,
But to clear away his shadow."
—Diogenes.

Eaton, Walter Prichard. Echoes and realities. 1918. E 10893

The echoes here are from the facts of existence, as Mr. Eaton has observed and been moved by the war, the spectacle of city life, and the grim characteristics of New England life and scenery. The realities lie on the other side of his experience, on the inner and imaginative side.—W. S. Braithwaite in The Boston Transcript.

Foley, James W. Friendly rhymes, old friends in joyous verse. 1918. E 10933
Verses which make good "pieces to speak."

Frothingham, Robert, ed. Songs of men, an anthology. 1918. E 10410

Collection of poems which "run the gamut of man's emotions in so far as they can be stimulated by wanderlust, camp and trail pioneering, seafaring, sport, battle afloat and ashore, gold seeking, vagabonds, animals, the great war, the joy of accomplishment and the bitterness of failure."—Preface.
Most of the poets represented are modern. The collection contains the complete authorized version of the much quoted "Fifteen men on a dead man's chest."

Hofmannsthal, Hugo v. Lyrical poems. 1918. E 11046

Translated from the German by Charles W. Stork who has also written a critical estimate of Hofmannsthal as a lyric poet as an introduction to his volume.

Meynell, Alice C. A father of women, and other poems. 1917. E 11324

A collection of new poems from the most sensitive and reticent of living poets—spiritual poems appealing to our conscience as well as to our emotional and aesthetic feelings.—Padraic Colum in The Bookman.

Warren, Lansing and Donaldson, Robert A. En repos and elsewhere over there, verses written in France, 1917-1918. 1918. E 11703

Verses by two members of the American Field Service which testify to the ability of the American soldier to cling bravely to his sense of humor even in the face of the battle-fields of France.

Wattles, Willard A. Lanterns in Gethsemane; a series of Biblical and mystical poems in regard to the Christ in the present crisis. 1918. E 11704

Wild, Payson S. Idylls of the Skillet Fork. 1918. E 11706

Verses in rural dialect descriptive of the life about the country of the Skillet Fork—a river of southern Illinois. Many of them are familiar to readers of B. L. T.'s Line o' type.

Masques and Pageants

Pomona College. Claremont, Cal. Historical pageant given by Pomona College & the city of Claremont, California, in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Pomona College. 1913. E 12720

Essays

Cabell, James Branch. Beyond life; dizain des demiurges. 1919. E 2153

A consideration of the qualities which give to good books a "life beyond life" which is chiefly concerned with the part played in life and literature by romance. There is much delightful incidental comment on authors and books; and those interested in contemporary letters will especially enjoy the essay entitled "Which concerns the contemporary."

Kettle, Thomas M. The day's burden; studies, literary & political, and miscellaneous essays. 1918. E 4125

Essays on political and literary subjects by the author of "The ways of war"—an Irish writer who died a lieutenant in the Dublin Fusiliers.

The political studies deal for the most part with Ireland. The literary essays include "a new theory of Hamlet, a criticism of Anatole France's work, and a chat, full of irony and aspiration, on Francis Thompson's 'Health and happiness.'"—London Times.

Readers and Speakers

Shurter, Edwin Du Bois, ed. Patriotic selections for supplementary reading. 1918. J 5987

A history of the United States marine corps from its earliest days through its achievements in the late war.

Becker, Carl L. The eve of the revolution; a chronicle of the breach with England. 1918. B 5086, 11

The chronicles of America series.

One of a new series which when complete will consist of fifty volumes, each by a different author and dealing with a phase or period of American history, but so related as to present a complete survey of the development of the country from the beginning to the present day.

The separate narratives so far published give every promise of achieving the editor's purpose "to make the traditions of our nation more real and vivid to those of our citizens who are not in the habit of reading history." They are graphic, full of color and romance, eminently readable, and unusually attractive in physical make-up.

Farrand, Max. The development of the United States from colonies to a world power. 1918. B 5657

The general reader will with difficulty find a more interesting and readable brief history of the United States than this. Avoiding dates and details, the author succeeds in picturing the evolution of a people in a fashion which, although its occasional iconoclasm may disturb some readers, will on the whole prove stimulating to student and general reader alike.

Hough, Emerson. The passing of the frontier; a chronicle of the old West. 1918. B 5086, 26

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw five books for home use.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of one cent a day on each work of non-fiction, and three cents a day on each work of fiction, is imposed whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

Sassoon, Siegfried. Counter-attack and other poems. 1918.

E 11566

Sassoon depicts war with fiercer realism and greater power than any other poet of the day. Four years of active service in the British army have changed a poet of prettiness and a lover of nature into a poet of savage irony and a hater of war and those who create it.

"Does it matter? . . . Losing your sight?
There's such splendid work for the blind;
And people will always be kind,
As you sit on the terrace remembering
And turning your face to the light.

Do they matter? . . . Those dreams from the pit?
You can drink and forget and be glad,
And people won't say that you're mad,
For they'll know that you've fought for your country,
And no one will worry a bit."
—From "Does it matter?"

Reconstruction

Economic and Industrial

The following list of references in this bulletin covers those phases of the question of economic reconstruction which are receiving the most attention at the present time. It was found that space would permit listing only books, some documents, and a few pamphlets.

These have been selected from a full bibliography on the subject, which is in card form in the Civics Department. The subjects in the latter are minutely divided in order to bring out the various phases of the problem. All references to articles in the periodicals in the library are given, and in numerous cases references to important sections in books are made. This card bibliography is accessible for reference use in the Civics Department.

Pamphlets (indicated "Pam") and documents (indicated "Doc"), unless otherwise marked, circulate from the Civics Department. Those marked * do not circulate, but may be had for reference use in the Civics Department. *Ser represents serials which do not circulate.

A popular exposition of the methods of city planning as developed by the Chicago Plan Commission of which the author is managing director. In addition to its interest to city planners elsewhere, it will make a special appeal to Chicago readers for the information it contains of the cultural and commercial life of the city.

The details of the plan for a more beautiful and practical Chicago are presented at greater length in the author's previous book, Wacker's manual of the plan of Chicago, B 7865. The present work lays emphasis upon the promotional work necessary to the plan's realization.

"Quiet miles of golden sky,
 And in my heart a sudden flower.
 I want to clap my hands and cry
 For Beauty in her secret bower.
 Quiet golden miles of dawn—
 Smiling all the East along;
 And in my heart nigh fully blown,
 A little rose-bud of a song."

Essays

A. E., pseud. of George W. Russell. The candle of vision. 1918. E 5504

A beautiful and vivid picture of the mystical experiences with which the Celtic poet has been familiar since his early youth.

Belloc, Hilaire. On something. 1911. E 1898

Dipping into this graceful volume of essays we come across a delightful description of the cathedral of St. Front in Périgueux of the Périgord; a charming portrait of a child; a child's questionings as to fairyland; an exquisite sketch of the signif-cance of sacramental things; bits of real poetry; and a tale that holds in it all the sense of home.—North American Review.

Galsworthy, John. Another sheaf. 1919. E 3072

Contents: The road.—The sacred work.—Balance sheet of the soldier-workman.—The children's jewel fund.—France, 1916-1917—an impression.—Englishman and Russian.—American and Briton.—Anglo-American drama and its future.—Speculations.—The land, 1917.—The land, 1918.—Grotesques.

Essays and studies concerned largely with after-the-war problems. The collection contains, among others, the article on Anglo-American relations read by Mr. Galsworthy during his visit to Chicago, and an exquisitely beautiful call to the rehabilitation of the wounded soldier.

Scollard, Clinton. Footfarings. 1904. E 5575

Contents: Footfarings.—In the haunts of the hepatica.—In the time of the trillium.—Rain in spring.—Where the wild phlox blows.—Brook babble.—The search for the lady's-slipper.—The pathway through the pines.—A woodland walk.—On the shady side of the woods.—A retrospect in winter.—April and the poets.—Climbing Ben Voirlich.—Up and down to Aberfoyle.—At Jedburgh and Kelso.—Driving to Stonehenge.—A glimpse of Herrick's Devon.—A nook in northwestern Cornwall.

Pleasant tale of a walking tour through little frequented ways of Japan.

Asia Minor

Hawley, Walter A. Asia Minor. 1918. I 8434

A very readable travel book in which "an attempt is made, after briefly sketching its physiography and history, to give a general idea of the character of the scenery of this part of Asia, to show the present primitive condition of its agricultural and industrial development, and to indicate some of the possibilities of its future. The people also are described as they appear in their secular affairs and religious observances; and the classic ruins depicted as they appear today."—Preface.

United States

Shackelton, Robert. The book of Philadelphia. 1918. I 4880

A well illustrated description of the present-day city and its life—its churches, public buildings and mansions, and the historical associations by which they are surrounded.

Contents: Voice and vision.—Literary life in Boston.—Fin de siècle.—Sailing enchanted seas.—Italian life and experiences.—Social seasons in Rome.—Days in Athens and Algiers.—Life and art in Paris.—Friends and days in London.—The friendships of William Angus Knight.—The genius of Percival Lowell.—A summer tour through Canada.—The moving finger.

Reminiscences of a long and varied career.

Individual Biography

Bochkareva, Maria L. Yashka, my life as peasant, officer and exile. 1919. C 20910

Few more thrilling tales have come out of the war than that of this Russian peasant girl who escaped from exile in Siberia to become the leader of the Battalion of Death.

Clemenceau, Georges E. Hyndman, Henry M. Clemenceau, the man and his time. 1919. C 21287

The author, a well-known English socialist, is a staunch friend and admirer of the man of whom he writes. He depicts Clemenceau's public career against the background of French political life during the last half century, devoting two especially vivid chapters to the part he played in the Dreyfus affair.

Fielding, Henry. Cross, Wilbur L. The history of Henry Fielding. 1918. 3 v. C 21905

An authoritative and exhaustive biography which substitutes a new conception of Fielding's character for the traditional one so long accepted.

Foch, Ferdinand. Atteridge, A. Hilliard. Marshal Ferdinand Foch, his life and his theory of modern war. 1919. C 21946

Subordinates biographical details to an analysis of military theories and achievements, presented, however in a readable, non-technical style.

Gilchrist, Mrs. Anne. The letters of Anne Gilchrist and Walt Whitman. 1918. C 22095

Letters now published for the first time which reveal the passionate admiration of an Englishwoman of letters for the American poet.

Keeling, Frederic H. Keeling letters & recollections. 1919. C 22724

Interesting letters by a young Englishman who might well have been the hero of a Wells novel. They reflect the writer's life at Cambridge where he was an active Fabian, his work for social betterment, and as an editor of the New Statesman. Perhaps the most interesting of all are the letters he wrote after his enlistment in the war, in which he was killed at the age of thirty.

Lamartine, Alphonse W. Whitehouse, H. Remsen. The life of Lamartine. 1918. 2 v. C 22848

The first full life of Lamartine published in any language.—New York Times Book Review.

Lincoln, Abraham. Grierson, Francis. Abraham Lincoln; the practical mystic. 1918. C 23042

—Wright-Davis, Mrs. Mary, comp. The book of Lincoln. 1919. C 23044
Convenient compilation containing several of Lincoln's speeches and many well-chosen poems written about him.

Pennypacker, Samuel W. The autobiography of a Pennsylvanian. 1918. C 23724

Tennant, Christopher. Lodge, Sir Oliver J. Christopher; a study in human personality. 1919. C 24501

Life and letters of Christopher Tennant, an English boy who died in the war. Unlike the author's Raymond, the book contains no record of spirit communications.

Wilson, Woodrow. Archer, William. The peace-president, a brief appreciation. 1919. C 24910

An appreciation of President Wilson from the English point of view, which in a brief sketch considers him as a man, a writer, a historian, a statesman, and the great leader at the peace conference.

HISTORY

European War

Abbott, Lyman. The twentieth century crusade. 1918. A 6902

Letters in which the war is regarded as a spiritual crusade.

Anderson, Mrs. Isabel. Zigzagging. 1918. A 6908

Story of the author's experience as a Red Cross canteen worker and nurse.

Barron, Clarence W. War finance, as viewed from the roof of the world in Switzerland. 1919. A 6918

Finance is but one of many miscellaneous topics discussed in this series of war-time letters written from Switzerland, France and England.

Cowing, Kemper F., comp. "Dear folks at home—"; the glorious story of the United States marines in France as told by their letters from the battlefield. 1919. A 6891

Glimpses of the war as depicted in letters written home by numerous U. S. marines.

Dawson, Coningsby. Living bayonets; a record of the last push. 1919. A 6916

Letters that take up the thread of the English soldier's war narrative at the point where it was broken at the end of Carry on, A 6387.

Dawson, Eric. P. Pushing water. 1918. A 6911

The life of those who serve in that department of the British navy known as the Mosquito fleet.

Doty, Madeleine Z. Behind the battle line. 1918. A 6901

In 1918 the writer made a journey around the world and here records her impressions of Japan, China, revolutionary Russia, Sweden, Norway, France and England. She is interested especially in the position of women in the various countries visited.

Frost, Wesley. German submarine warfare; a study of its methods and spirit, including the crime of the "Lusitania," a record of observations and evidence. 1918. A 6900

As American consul at Queenstown during the period that preceded our entrance into the war, the author collected evidence of no slight importance concerning German methods of waging submarine warfare. These he recounts in popular style in the present volume. Probably nowhere will be found a more authoritative account of the torpedoing of the Lusitania.

Lake, Harold. Campaigning in the Balkans. 1918. A 6905

The lie of the 3rd of August, 1914. 1917. A 6914

Loyson, Paul Hyacinthe. The gods in the battle. 1917. A 6898

Translation of the author's: Etes-vous neutres devant le crime?

Open letters in which a well-known French playwright passionately upholds the cause of France. The latter half of the book is devoted to a criticism of the attitude maintained toward the war by Romain Rolland.

McMaster, John B. The United States in the world war. 1918. A 6910

Presentation by an eminent historian of a mass of facts and details concerning the events that lead to the entry of the United States into the war.

Manwaring, G. B. If we return; letters of a soldier of Kitchener's army. 1918. A 6904

Impressions of the war by a young English officer in France.

Merrill, Wainwright. A college man in khaki. 1918. A 6899

Letters of a nineteen-year-old American who joined the British artillery and was killed at Ypres. Most of them were written while the young author was training in England and are interesting chiefly because of his literary enthusiasms, especially that for Kipling and the district of which he wrote.

Newbolt, Sir Henry. Submarine and anti-submarine. 1919. A 6915

Brief sketch of the evolution of the submarine and a graphic account of the adventures of the British undersea craft during the war.

Price, Julius M. Six months on the Italian front, from the Stelvio to the Adriatic. 1915-1916. 1917. A 6913

Personal narrative of the war-artist correspondent of the Illustrated London News, illustrated with his sketches.

Price, M. Philips. War & revolution in Asiatic Russia. 1918. A 6895

As correspondent for the Manchester Guardian the author witnessed the campaigns of 1915 and 1916 in the Caucasus making journeys into Persia, Armenia, and the Black Sea coast, and was engaged in relief work among the refugees in the Trans-Caucasus and neighboring regions of Turkey. His report of these journeys and later observations of the effect of the Russian revolution on the Asiatic provinces form an interesting contribution to a subject concerning which little has been written.

Rossiter, Ivan. In cultured captivity; life and death in Germany's prison camps and hospitals. 1918. A 6909
Experiences of a Canadian taken prisoner by the Germans at Ypres.

Stidger, William L. Soldier silhouettes on our front. 1918. A 6907
War experiences of a Y. M. C. A. worker with the A. E. F.

Swan, Carroll J. My company. 1918. A 6903
Story of the part played in the war by Company D of the 101st Engineers, 26th Division of the United States army, told by their captain.

Towne, Charles Hanson. Shaking hands with England. 1919. A 6917
An American's appreciation of the achievements and quiet courage of war-time England.

Waldo, Fullerton L. America at the front. 1918. A 6912
Reminiscences of a "Y" man who worked among the American soldiers in France.

Yapp, Sir Arthur K. The romance of the red triangle. 1918. A 6906
Story of the service rendered during the war by the British Y. M. C. A.

Austria-Hungary

Hrbkova, Šárka B. The Slavs of Austria-Hungary. 1918. A 4318
Publications of the Society for the Advancement of Slavonic Study.

France

Phillipson, Coleman. Alsace-Lorraine; past, present and future. 1918. A 4159
A conscientious consideration by an Englishman of the many sided phases of the Alsace-Lorraine problem which concludes that the provinces should determine their own future by a plebiscite.

Van Vorst, Bessie. "Mrs. John Van Vorst." A popular history of France. 1918. A 5742
French history in capsule form.

Russia

Gourko, Basil. War and revolution in Russia, 1914-1917. 1919. A 6055
First hand narrative of Russia at war by one of the most successful leaders of the Russian army. Operations in East Prussia, Poland, and Galicia where the author rose to the position of Commander-in-chief of the Western Armies are described in detail and followed by an account of his experiences with the Russian revolution toward which his attitude is frankly unsympathetic.

Stebbing, Edward P. From Czar to Bolshevik. 1918. A 6056

Roumania

Gordon, Mrs. Winifred. Roumania yesterday and to-day. 1918. A 5254

Africa

Fairbridge, Dorothea. A history of South Africa. 1918. A 5049

Covers in brief compass the entire period of South African history from earliest times to the formation of the Union in 1910.

Hammond, John Hays. The truth about the Jameson raid. 1918. A 5044

An account reprinted from the North American Review written by one of the leading participants in the Jameson raid who at the time was consulting engineer to a large mine owner in the Transvaal.

Mexico

Trowbridge, Edward D. Mexico to-day and to-morrow. 1919. B 4831

Description of political, social, and economic conditions in Mexico during the period that has followed the rise of Diaz to power. Chapters deal with Mexico and the world war and the question of Mexico and foreign capital. The whole is introduced by a rapid sketch of Mexican history.

United States

Abel, Annie H. The American Indian as participant in the Civil war. 1919. B 7327, 2

Andrews, Charles M. The fathers of New England; a chronicle of the Puritan commonwealths. 1919. B 5086, 6
The chronicles of America series.

Dodd, William Edward. The cotton kingdom; a chronicle of the old South. 1919. B 5086, 27

The chronicles of American series.
A picture of the southern planter before the Civil War—his plantation, his philosophy, life and literature, religion, education, and politics.

Goodwin, Mrs. Maud W. Dutch and English on the Hudson; a chronicle of colonial New York. 1919. B 5086, 7
The chronicles of America series.

Hendrick, Burton J. The age of big business; a chronicle of the captains of industry. 1919. B 5086, 39

The chronicles of America series.
Tracing the development of the Standard Oil Company, the steel industry, the invention and spread of the telephone, the automobile, and agricultural machinery, and the growth of public utilities, the author pictures the transformation of the United States during the past fifty years from "a nation of farmers and small-scale manufacturers to a highly organized industrial state."

Macy, Jesse. The anti-slavery crusade; a chronicle of the gathering storm. 1919. B 5086, 28

The chronicles of America series.

Ogg, Frederic Austin. The Old Northwest; a chronicle of the Ohio Valley and beyond. 1919. B 5086, 19

The chronicles of America series.

"There is no general history of the Northwest," the author states, "covering the whole of the period dealt with in this book except Hinsdale's The old Northwest." The newer book is more readable and concise and reflects more vividly the life and spirit of the times.

Richman, Irving B. The Spanish conquerors; a chronicle of the dawn of empire overseas. 1919. B 5086, 2

The chronicles of America series.

Stephenson, Nathaniel W. The day of the confederacy; a chronicle of the embattled South. 1919. B 5086, 30

The chronicles of America series.

Wood, William. Elizabethan sea-dogs; a chronicle of Drake and his companions. 1918. B 5086, 3

The chronicles of America series.

Wrong, George M. The conquest of New France; a chronicle of the colonial wars. 1918. B 5086, 10

The chronicles of America series.

FICTION

Allen, James Lane. The emblems of fidelity; a comedy in letters. 1919. F 10512

Austin, F. Britten. According to orders. 1919. F 10739

Short stories presenting the German mind under the stress of war. The scenes are laid behind the German lines.

Contents: Zu Befehl.—In the Hindenburg line.—The terror in the sky.—Panzerkraftwagen.—The spy.—Nach Verdun.—The conquerors.—The sea devil.—The iron cross.—"And the earth opened her mouth."—Peace.

Blasco Ibáñez, Vicente. The shadow of the cathedral. 1919. F 11246

Translation of the author's: La catedral.

A novel written fifteen years ago and a discourse on the misrule of the church in Spain. The author sets forth his opinions on Christianity, evolution and socialism.

Brand, Max. The untamed. 1919. F 11283

An exciting western story.

Clouston, J. Storer. The man from the clouds. 1919. F 12044

Spy story in which two men in an observation balloon drop onto the Island of Ransay in the North Sea when a wild naval conspiracy is in progress.

Connor, Ralph, pseud. of Charles W. Gordon. The sky pilot in No man's land. 1919. F 13235

A story of the Canadians who held the Ypres salient in those terrible months in 1915 and of the Sky Pilot as a chaplain in the trenches.

Marmol, José. Amalia; a romance of the Argentine. 1919. F 15094

A tale of Argentine under the dictator Rosas. An interesting picture of life in South America during this period.

Maxwell, William B. The mirror and the lamp. 1918. F 15190

A long slow-going English novel, but good in character study. The clergyman who loses his faith, but is restored to the church, is handled with searching and sympathetic analysis.

Merrick, Leonard. While Paris laughed; being pranks and passions of the poet Tricotrin. 1918. F 15254

Short and amusing sketches of life in the Latin quarter.

Ostrander, Isabel. The twenty-six clues. 1919. F 15859

An unusually good mystery story.

Parker, Sir Gilbert. Wild youth, and another. 1919. F 15998

Contents: Wild youth.—Jordan is a hard road.

Two short stories, somewhat connected. Not as good as his other stories.

Patricia Brent, spinster, by the author of ?. 1918. F 16066

Light, but clever story. Patricia invents a fiancé, who promptly "plays up."

Reynolds, Katharine. Green Valley. 1919. F 17113

A charming, quaint little story of Lombard, Ill., "Where life is sweet and roomy, and old-fashioned, where the days are full of sunshine and work, where neighbors really neighbor, and men and women are life size."

Streeter, Edward. "That's me all over, Mable." 1919. F 18411

Continuation of the author's: Dere Mable. F 18410.

Van Loan, Charles E. Score by innings. 1919. F 18819

Contents: The National Commission decides.—Piute vs. Piute.—Chivalry in Carbon county.—The Squirrel.—I O U.—The bone doctor.—His own stuff.—Excess baggage.—Nine assists and two errors.—Mister Conly.

Lively and interesting baseball stories.

YOUNG PEOPLES BOOKS

Miscellaneous Works

Baker, Emilie K., comp. The children's first-third book of poetry. 1915. 3 v. E 14282

Very carefully edited collection of poetry for children from first to third grade.

Stories

Barbour, Ralph Henry. Under the Yankee ensign. 1919. H 7362

Adventures of two typical American boys aboard a submarine chaser during the Great War. Filled with action from first to last page.

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw five books for home use.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of one cent a day on each work of non-fiction, and three cents a day on each work of fiction, is imposed whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

Science and Technology

Books for the High School Library

THIS list is based on recommendations by science teachers in the Chicago High Schools, and comprises the books used in the High School Libraries.

A less technical list, compiled by teachers for outside reading, follows on page 97.

A star (*) prefixed to titles indicates "for advanced students."

Reference Books

- Bailey, Liberty H. Cyclopedia of American agriculture, 4 v. Macmillan, $20.
- Freeman, William G. World's commercial products. Pitman, $3.50.
- Hiscox, Gardner D. Henley's twentieth century book of recipes, formulas and processes. Henley, $3.
- Hopkins, Albert A. Scientific American reference book. Munn, $5.
- New international encyclopedia. Dodd, $138.
- Thorpe, Thomas E. Dictionary of applied chemistry. 5 v. Longmans, $70.
- Wilcox, Earley V. Farmers' cyclopedia of livestock. Judd, $4.50.

General Science

- Barber, F. D. First course in general science. Holt, $1.25.
- Berget, Alphonse. The earth, its life and death. Putnam, $1.75.
- Clark, Bertha M. General science. Amer. Bk. Co., 80c.
- Collins, A. Frederick. Magic of science. Revell, $1.25.
- Comstock, Anna B. Handbook of nature study. Comstock, $3.25.
- Dana, Edward S. Minerals and how to study them. Wiley, $1.50.
- Davenport, Eugene. Domesticated animals and plants. Ginn, $1.25.

- Duncan, Robert K. The new knowledge. Barnes, $2.
Simple exposition of the new physics and the new chemistry in their relation to the new theory of matter.
- Fabre, J. Henri. Story book of science. Century, $2.
- Hessler, John C. First year science. Sanborn, $1.25.
- Higgins, Lothrop D. First science book. Ginn, 65c.
- Hodge, Clifton E. Nature study and life. Ginn, $1.50.
- Hutchinson, Woods. Preventable diseases. Houghton, $1.50.
- Kellogg, Vernon L. Animals and man. Holt, $1.25.
Elementary text book of zoology and human physiology.
- Locy, William A. Biology and its makers. Holt, $2.75.
- Lodge, Sir Oliver. Pioneers of science. Macmillan, $2.50.
- Parker, T. Jeffery. Lessons in elementary biology. Macmillan, $2.60.
- Pease, Clara A. First year course in general science. Merrill, $1.08.
- Salisbury, Rollin D. Physiography for high schools. Holt, $1.60.
- Sedgwick and Wilson. Introduction to general biology. Holt, $1.75.
- Snyder, William H. First year science. Allyn & Bacon, $1.25.
- Williams, Henry S. Story of nineteenth century science. Harper, $2.50.
- Crocker, Francis B. Dynamo electric machinery. American School of Correspondence, $1.
- *Croft, Terrell. Practical electricity. McGraw-Hill, $2.50.
- *Duff, A. Wilmer. Text-book of physics. Blakiston, $2.75.
- Fournier, Edmund E. Electron theory. Longmans, $1.75.
- Gage, Simon H. The microscope. Comstock, $2.
- Gibson, Charles R. Autobiography of an electron. Lippincott, $1.50.
- Gibson, Charles R. Electricity of to-day. Lippincott, $1.50.
- Gibson, Charles R. Scientific ideas of to-day. Lippincott, $1.50.
- Hanchett, George F. Alternating currents. Wiley, $1.
- Hargrave, Jesse. Electric instruments and testing. Spon, $1.
- Hawkins, Nehemiah. Electrical guide. Audel, $10.
- Hopkins, George M. Experimental science. 2 v. Munn, $5.
Elementary practical and experimental physics.
- Houston, Edwin J. Wonder book of light. Stokes, $1.50.
- How to make things electrical. Popular Electricity Publishing Co., $1.
- Jackson, Dugald C. Elementary electricity and magnetism. Macmillan, $1.40.
- Jameson, Joseph M. Elementary practical mechanics. Wiley, $1.50.
- Jansky and Faber. Principles of the telephone. McGraw-Hill, $1.50.
- *Karapetoff, Vladimir. Experimental electric engineering. Wiley, $3.50.
- Kaye, George W. C. X rays. Longmans, $1.75.
- *Kimball, Arthur L. College physics. Holt, $2.75.
- Knox and Shaad. Electric lighting and wiring. Am. School of Correspondence, $1.
- Millikan and Mills. Electricity, sound and light. Ginn, $2.
- Morgan, Alfred P. Boy electrician. Lothrop, Lee, $2.
- *Poole, Cecil. Designs for small dynamos and motors. McGraw-Hill, $2.
- Power kink book. Power, $1.75.
- Schneider, Norman H. Electric instruments and testing. Spon, $1.
- Shafer, Don C. Harper's beginning electricity. Harper, $1.
- Shafer, Don C. Harper's every-day electricity. Harper, $1.

Physics

- Adams, Joseph H. Harper's electricity book for boys. Harper, $1.50.
- Arthur, James. Time and its measurement. Popular Mechanics, $1.50.
- Ashe, S. W. Electricity. Van Nostrand, $2.
- Ashley and Hayward. Wireless telegraphy and telephony. Am. School of Cor. $1.
- Barham, G. Basil. Development of the incandescent electric lamp. Van Nostrand, $2.
- Bonney, G. E. Electro-platers' handbook. Van Nostrand, $1.20.
- Carhart and Chute. First principles of electricity. Allyn & Bacon, $1.25.
- Casson, Herbert N. History of the telephone. McClurg, $1.50.
- Collins, A. Frederick. Book of electricity. Appleton, $1.
- Collins, A. Frederick. How to fly. Appleton, $1.10.

- Shealy, E. M. Heat. (Engineering education series.) McGraw-Hill, $2.

Gavit, Mrs. Lucy Lamont. Mother-love in action, by Prudence Bradish, pseud. 1919. L 14300

Simple intimate talks on the management and care of children.

Lay, Wilfrid. The child's unconscious mind; the relations of psycho-analysis to education. 1919. L 13924

A book for teachers and parents.

Spiritualism

Hill, J. Arthur. Spiritualism; its history, phenomena and doctrine. 1919. L 13492

A survey of the growth of spiritualism and psychological research in Europe and America, which, being more recent and less bulky, will to a great extent supersede Podmore's Modern spiritualism, L 5550.

Sciens, pseud. How to speak with the dead; a practical handbook. 1918. L 13502

RELIGION

Philosophy of Religion

Hegel, G. W. F. Lectures on the philosophy of religion, together with a work on the proofs of the existence of God. 1895. M 9166

Orchard, William E. The outlook for religion. 1917. M 9697

A fearless diagnosis of the condition of the present-day church by a prominent English non-conformist minister. His hope for the future lies in a "social and international application of Christianity in a new catholicism."

Yale University. School of Religion. Religion and the war. 1918. A 6925

Essays in which members of the School of Religion at Yale discuss the question of non-resistance; the effect of the war upon the church, upon religious education, foreign missions, and social work; and the part the church may play in the reorganization of the world.

Future Life

Maeterlinck, Maurice. The light beyond. 1917. L 11301

Essays taken from Our eternity, The unknown guest, and The wrack of the storm.

Contents: Our injustice to death.—Annihilation.—Communications with the dead.—The fate of our consciousness.—Two aspects of infinity.—Our fate in those infinities.—Conclusions.—The knowledge of the future.—Heroism.—On rereading Thucydides.—

The dead do not die.—In memoriam.—The life of the dead.—The war and the prophets.—The will of earth.—When the war is over.

Walpole, George H. S., bp. Life in the world to come. 1917. M 4415

For the stricken and desolate the Bishop of Edinburgh here interprets the promise of immortality as preached by Christ and his apostles.

Religious Education

Cope, Henry Frederick. Religious education in the church. 1918. M 8806

Discussion of the agencies through which the church may fulfil its function of imparting moral and religious education to the community.

Lawrance, William Irvin. The social emphasis in religious education. 1918. L 19912

A study of the work of the Sunday School, bent upon establishing sympathy between the child and all nature, animate and inanimate. The author discusses the psychology of children of different ages and outlines a curriculum which includes more than Bible study.—The Booklist.

Roman Catholic Church

Sullivan, John F. The externals of the Catholic church; her government, ceremonies, festivals, sacramentals, and devotions. 1918. M 7712

SOCIOLOGY

Reconstruction

American Academy of Political and Social Science. Phila. Rehabilitation of the wounded. 1918. K 31078

Annals, vol. 80, no. 169.

Friedman, Elisha M. Labor and reconstruction in Europe. 1919. L 16735

An account of the commissions appointed in eighteen foreign countries to consider plans for reconstruction; discussion of the general problems facing those commissions in Germany, England, and France; and a detailed examination of the labor problem in Germany and England. The author has gathered and condensed in one volume a vast quantity of useful and timely information.

Howe, Frederic C. The land and the soldier. 1919. L 17539

Advocates farm colonies planned, financed, and developed by the government, not only as a partial solution of the problem of the returning soldier, but to relieve the food shortage and improve the general condition of the laboring class.

Wood, Charles W. The great change; new America as seen by leaders in American government, industry and education who are remaking our civilization. 1918.

As reporter for the New York World the author has interviewed about twenty leaders of American industry and thought as to the changes the war has introduced into the relations between capital and labor. From these interviews he concludes that the eventual ownership and control of industry by the workers is inevitable.

Economics

Co-operation

Woolf, Leonard S. Co-operation and the future of industry. 1919. L 17550

Traces briefly the development of the co-operative movement in England, but is interested rather in its possibilities than in its past achievements.

Taxation

National Civic Federation. National conference on taxation. 1901. L 17746

Public Utilities

Lincoln, Edmond Earle. The results of municipal electric lighting in Massachusetts. 1918. L 18221

Hart, Schaffner & Marx prize essays.

A careful study of municipal electric lighting throughout the United States, dealing most exhaustively with Massachusetts as the state offering fullest statistical information on the subject.

Wang, Ching Chun. Legislative regulation of railway finance in England. 1918. L 4079,7 1,11

University of Illinois studies in the social sciences.

Political Science

Ogg, Frederick A. and Beard, Charles A. National governments and the world war. 1919. L 18066

Deals mainly with comparative government and undertakes to show what the heritage and genius of the principal peoples lately engaged in the world war have meant in shaping contemporary political institutions and ideas. It seeks also to describe the changes wrought in governmental organization and procedure during the war, and to point out the major political problems that remain for settlement during the early years of peace.—Preface.

Democracy

Follett, M. P. The new state; group organization the solution of popular government. 1918. L 15762

Robinson, William A. Jeffersonian democracy in New England. 1916. A 2219, 3

U. S. Government and Politics

Munro, William Bennett. The government of the United States, national, state, and local. 1919. L 18384

General survey of the American government, national, state, and local, which not only explains the form and function of political institutions but traces their development and compares them with those of other countries.

Socialism

MacKaye, James. Americanized socialism; a Yankee view of capitalism. 1918. L 17605

Russell, Bertrand. Proposed roads to freedom. 1919. L 17621

A clearly written, most readable brief survey—historical and critical—of socialism, anarchism, and syndicalism, each of which the author considers sympathetically in turn, to conclude by favoring a form of guild socialism leaning toward anarchism.

International Relations

History circle, comp. British-American records and concord; a record of three centuries. 1918. L 16297

A small monograph summarizing the relations of England and America from 1607 down to the present time. The membership of the History circle includes historians, business men, editors, engineers, and writers.—Wisconsin Library Bulletin.

Lippmann, Walter. The political scene; an essay on the victory of 1918. 1919. L 16296

An essay reprinted from the New Republic, which considers some of the problems before the peace conference and advocates American support of the league of nations, provided the peace terms succeed in embodying Wilson's fourteen points. The text of the proposed league is printed in full.

Wells, H. G. and others. The idea of a league of nations. 1919. L 18008

A general argument.

International Law

Legnano, Giovanni da. Tractatus de bello, de repesaliis et de duello. 1917. N 5221, 8

The classics of international law.

Poetry

Hagedorn, Hermann. Hymn of free peoples triumphant. 1918. E 11036
A poem of exalted tone celebrating the victory of the Allies.

Helton, Roy A. Outcasts in Beulah Land, and other poems. 1918. E 11030

With a talent for the rhymed narrative the poet takes an incompetent clerk or a tired mill-girl, the tinsel glitter of Market Street, a city boy and a turn of twine, a corner crossing or a chop suey interior and makes ballads out of them as romantic as they are real.—Louis Untermeyer in The new era in American poetry.

Kipling, Rudyard. The years between. 1919. E 7706

Poems written for the most part since the outbreak of the war, many of them characterized by the old Kipling swing and vigor.

Lawrence, D. H. Look! We have come through! 1918. E 11183

A poem sequence.

McCrae, John. In Flanders fields, and other poems. 1919. E 11327

The poem which gives its name to this collection has doubtless been more universally popular than any other produced by the war. It was written by a Canadian doctor who died with the army in France. A brief biography is appended to his poems in the present volume.

Morley, Christopher. The rocking horse. 1919. E 11329

Another book of poems in which, as in the even more charming Songs for a little house, E 11316, Mr. Morley sings easily the songs of home and familiar things.

Neihardt, John G. The song of three friends. 1919. E 11337

A single narrative poem, grim and dramatic, the first in a cycle to deal with the fur-trade period of the Trans-Missouri region. The second in the series is The song of Hugh Glass, E 11332.

Palmer, George Herbert. Formative types in English poetry; the Earl lectures of 1917. 1918. E 8198

Studies of Chaucer, Spenser, Herbert, Pope, Wordsworth, Tennyson, and Browning, in whose work the author sees the embodiment of the stages in the development of English poetry.

Untermeyer, Louis. The new era in American poetry. 1919. E 8768

The first attempt at a comprehensive critical estimate of contemporary American poetry and contemporary American poets, great and small.

Yeats, William Butler. The wild swans at Coole. 1919. E 11717

A note of disillusionment has crept into these latest poems of the Celtic poet, which still retain the rich beauty and symbolic imagery of his earlier work.

Collections, Anthologies

Ayer, Mary Allette, comp. Our mothers. 1916. E 1808

Extracts of prose and verse.

Beaumont, C. W. and Sadler, M. T. H., ed. New paths; verse, prose, pictures, 1917-1918. 1918. E 1854

A new venture in anthology making which promises to appear annually and keep American readers informed of the new tendencies in English poetry, prose, and art. In addition to articles on these subjects the present volume contains lists of noteworthy poetry and novels by young English writers, a number of the poems themselves, a few parodies on modern novelists, reproductions of the works of contemporary English artists, and an article on Ivan Mestrovic, the Slavic sculptor the exhibition of whose work in England was one of the art events of the year.

Braithwaite, William Stanley, comp. Victory! Celebrated by thirty-eight American poets. 1919. E 14285

Cody, Sherwin, ed. A selection from the great English poets, with an essay on the reading of poetry. 1917. E 14289

Daily average circulation.....			22,192	24,289
Total increase	683,929

It is significant that by far the largest gain is found in the use of the branch libraries. Although but two new branches were opened the increase in branch circulation was 11.3%. That there was a slight drop in the circulation from the central building simply confirms the theory that its patronage is largely from the younger business people—the first to have been called to service and the ones we are most pleased to number among our heaviest users.

Our work with the schools has increased heavily. There are now 1336 classroom and 30 special school deposits. The high school libraries continue to be among our most successful activities. Their number was not increased during the year because of difficulty in securing suitable help, but an additional one is to be opened on or before October 1 in the new Robert Lindblom High School with an initial collection of 3500 volumes.

The Thomas Hughes Room for Young People shows a very remarkable gain in the number of books circulated. The picture collection is constantly growing and is capable of unlimited development and widely extended use.

Reference use of the Library naturally suffered most from the extraordinary distractions of the public mind. The reduction in the number of students in the university and professional schools, the added duties imposed upon teachers as well as students in all institutions, and the prevailing unrest and tension contributed to the neglect of studious pursuits.

A new subdivision of the Reference Department called the Short Loan Desk has been organized to supply reference service to branches and deposit stations. Through this bureau our numerous and widely scattered extra-mural agencies are enabled to offer their patrons the vast reference facilities of the main library. Problems of research are promptly covered, and the necessary books are despatched as "short loans" to outlying depositories through the Delivery Stations.

The use of public documents has greatly multiplied during the past two years. This may be ascribed in part to the tremendous activities of the government in calling attention to the importance of its publications.

Four hundred and twenty-six volumes for blind readers were added during the year and 8,487 volumes were circulated for home use.

Books Added to the Library

Books marked * do not circulate; those with the letter P are in the Art room, and those marked Doc. are in the Document department. *Ser. represents serials which do not circulate.

PHILOSOPHY

Cobb, Stanwood. The essential mysticism. 1918. L 13810

A study of man's fundamentally spiritual nature which takes into account Oriental character as well as Christian mysticism.

De Laurence, Lauron William. The old book of magic; a precise history of magic, its procedure, rites and mysteries as contained in ancient manuscripts, embellished with engravings of wonderful charms and talismans. 1918. L 13365

Kelway-Bamber, Mrs. L., ed. Claude's book, with an introductory letter from Sir Oliver Lodge. 1919. L 13494

Communications received by the author through a medium from her son Claude, a member of the Royal Flying Corps, who was killed in action in Flanders, November, 1915.

Leaf, Horace. What is this spiritualism? 1919. L 13495

The author is a believer, convinced like many others against his will and most interesting when recounting the experiences that effected his conversion. Without entering into arguments, he asserts that the spiritualistic claims have positively proved the fact of personal survival.

Lodge, Rupert C. The meaning and function of simple modes in the philosophy of John Locke. 1918. L 15422, 12

Mackenzie, John S. Elements of constructive philosophy. 1917. L 12974

Rignano, Eugenio. Essays in scientific synthesis. 1918. L 12978

This book by the editor of the international magazine, Scientia, consists of seven essays translated into excellent English. They treat of the latest hypotheses as to the origin of animal and vegetable life, the nature of consciousness, the modern aspect of religious phenomena, historical materialism, and the defects of all forms of property expropriation.

Vance, John G. Reality and truth; a critical and constructive essay concerning knowledge, certainty, and truth. 1917. L 12900

Psychology and Ethics

American Library Association. War Service. Your job back home; a book for men leaving the service. 1919. L 14363

Illustrations, articles, and good lists of books intended to aid the returning men to get back into their places, but equally useful for any young man starting out in life.

Coulton, George G. The main illusions of pacificism: a criticism of Mr. Norman Angell and of the Union of democratic control. 1916. L 14282

Flint, George Elliot. The whole truth about alcohol. 1919. L 14531

A defence of liquor which the late lamented Dr. Abraham Jacobi introduces as a "protest against the outrages of pessimistic prohibitionists."

Goddard, Harold C. Morale. 1918. L 13918

A convincing and well-sustained discussion of war psychology, briefer and less scholarly than Hocking's.

Gulick, Luther H. Morals and morale, with an introduction by Raymond B. Fosdick. 1919. L 14468

Dr. Gulick has given in this book an enlightening account of General Pershing's repression of vice and the cure and prevention of disease. How our men lived over there, how their energies were directed into healthy channels under moral conditions, how the morale was improved and preserved and the team spirit promoted are matters told in detail.—Boston Transcript.

Hobson, Richmond Pearson. Alcohol and the human race. 1919. L 14533

A vigorous sermon on prohibition.

Hocking, William Ernest. Morale and its enemies. 1918. L 13919

A thoughtful, well-rounded study designed to help the civilian as well as the soldier in the self-understanding and mental reconstruction made necessary by the war.—Booklist.

Kellogg, Walter Guest. The conscientious objector; introduction by Newton D. Baker. 1919. K 31081

Major Kellogg represented the army on the commission that examined the cases of conscientious objectors and so came in personal contact with hundreds of them. The account of how the objectors bore themselves before the commission is preceded by some historical notes on the relation of this class to other wars and other governments.

Mateer, Florence. Child behavior; a critical and experimental study of young children by the method of conditioned reflexes. 1918. L 13702

The report of a series of experiments intelligently performed by the author, who is psychologist at the Massachusetts School for the Feeble-minded, for the purpose of comparing the reactions of normal and sub-normal children to a conditioned stimulus.

Seton, Julia (Mrs. J. S. Sears). The key to health, wealth and love. 1917. L 13229

—The science of success. 1914. L 14411

Spillman, Harry Collins. Personality; studies in personal development. 1919. L 14147

This is a book which may encourage the very young, serious-minded adventurer into the strange world of business or social relationships. It may be used as inspirational material by teachers directing vocational courses.—Booklist.

Ward, James. Psychological principles. 1918. L 13988

Cambridge psychological library.

Essentially a philosopher's psychology. . . . Whoever the reader be, he will find this work written with directness, with all the simplicity that seems possible, and to be happy in its use of literary similes and to reflect a catholic learning.—Spectator.

The book is an expansion of the author's Britannica article on psychology.

RELIGION

Browne, Edward G., comp. Materials for the study of the Bábí religion. 1918.

M 7976

The Bábí religion is a living example of the rise and rapid spread of a religion growing up around a single personality within our own century. Mr. Browne here records and preserves documents of rare value for students of comparative religion, together with the correspondence which places them in the proper perspective.

Davis, Ozora S. The gospel in the light of the great war. 1919.

M 5077

Dr. Davis here offers sketches for sermons and references to literature that will be useful to ministers in meeting the needs of congregations suffering from recent contact with the horrors of war and its attendant spiritual problems.

Garesché, Edward F. Your neighbor and you; our dealings with those about us. 1919.

M 9010

Essays making an eloquent appeal for the apostleship of the common man. While the book is addressed particularly to the laity of the Catholic church, the specific method of the author in his advice should be found equally suggestive to men and women of other faiths. The book is of value as a manual for the application of religion to daily life.—Survey.

Gladden, Washington. The interpreter. 1918.

M 4892

Fifteen uplifting sermons.

Hopkins, E. Washburn. The history of religions. 1918.

M 7514

A comprehensive study of comparative religion beginning with the earliest animistic nature worship of savage races. The author is a recognized authority, especially on the native religions of India.

Jastrow, Morris, jr. A gentle cynic; being a translation of the book of Koheleth commonly known as Ecclesiastes, stripped of later additions; also, its origin, growth and interpretation. 1919.

M 6600

Dr. Jastrow sums up the results of critical study with reference to the original text, and in his interpretation gives an added human quality and sense of personality to the Preacher. He compares the poem to Omar's quatrains and Hesiod's verses.

Lyman, Eugene W. The experience of God in modern life. 1918.

M 9498

Three studious but clearly written lectures dealing with the function of God in the development of personality and in social progress. The author takes issue with H. G. Wells' "finite, personal god." Not iconoclastic, but interesting to the thoughtful.—Booklist.

Murray, Andrew. The prayer-life; the inner chamber and the deepest secret of Pentecost. 1918.

M 9623

Library of standard religious authors.

Orchard, W. E. The temple; a book of prayers. 1918.

M 9698

Phelps, William Lyon. Reading the Bible. 1919.

M 6385

This little volume gives a most popular and attractive presentation of the Bible, comparing its art with secular literature and its ideals with other ethical teachings.

Rauschenbusch, Walter. Dare we be Christians. 1914.

M 9827

Robinson, Benjamin Willard. The life of Paul. 1918.

M 6879

The University of Chicago publications in religious education.

A popular biography dealing with Paul as "a man of action with an international purpose to which he bent every energy of his powerful personality." It is intended as a textbook for junior college classes.

Walker, Williston. A history of the Christian church. 1918.

M 7478

A reliable history covering the entire life of the church. It is well written in a clear and lucid style, making a very readable volume for the student and general reader as well as a valuable reference book for busy workers.

Wallis, Wilson D. Messiahs: Christian and pagan. 1918.

M 7155

SOCIOLOGY

General and Practical

Best, Harry. The blind; their condition and the work being done for them in the United States. 1919.

L 18654

This statistical study of the blind, their legal treatment, economic condition, and the educational and material provision for them, is of the utmost value to social workers and as a book of reference.

Breshkovsky, Catherine. Orphans' settlements in Russia. 1919.

Cabot, Richard C. Social work; essays on the meeting-ground of doctor and social worker. 1919.

L 18653

The author is a physician, and his essays give technical assistance to the social worker untrained in medicine.

Hart, Hornell. The new social order in America; a study syllabus. 1918.

L 15417

Page, James F. Socializing for the new order; or, Educational values of the juvenile organization, including a résumé of "Boy Scouts," "Camp Fire Girls," and twelve other organizations. 1919.

Sartorio, Enrico C. Social and religious life of Italians in America. 1918.

L 16076

Slingerland, William H. Child-placing in families; a manual for students and social workers. 1919.

L 18863

The author believes that the judicious practice of this form of child-help will solve the problem of providing for the greatly increased number of juvenile dependents following upon the war.

Swift, Morrison I. Can mankind survive? 1919.

L 15441

Contents: Bankruptcy of the human species.—Why great races have died out.—Sabotage on brains.—The Hebrew choice.—Man outwits the universe.—Mankind the product of the unfittest.—Social war on the young.—Human slavery to the stupid.—Nature's revenge on man for choosing stupidity.—Man's abolition of intellect.—Man morally below brutes.—Return to evolution.

Wholesale arraignment of religion, education, and government.

Webster, Hanson H. Americanization and citizenship; lessons in community and national ideals for new Americans. 1919.

Labor

Bloomfield, Meyer. Management and men; a record of new steps in industrial relations. 1919. L 16921

A summary of the changes in the development of industry in the British labor movement.

Brissenden, Paul F. The I. W. W.; a study of American syndicalism. 1919. L 6589, 83

Columbia University studies in history, economics, and public law.

Wisely treats the I. W. W. neither as a philosophy nor as a contribution to pure theory, but presents a comprehensive and impartial historical account of the organization as a militant tactic from its inception to date.—Dial.

Commons, John R. Industrial goodwill. 1919. L 16923

The book gives a very lucid account of the present problem of labor with interesting information concerning such movements as scientific employment, health measures, bonuses and depressions.

It will not satisfy the radical, but will command his respect; it will mildly arouse the capitalist, but will not hurt his conscience. The author is intensely practical in his viewpoint.—Boston Transcript.

Garton Foundation, London. Memorandum on the industrial situation after the war. 1919. L 16738

Revised to January, 1919.

Husslein, Joseph. The world problem; capital, labor and the church. 1918. L 16736

A Catholic priest's discussion of social and industrial problems, advocating a restoration of the guilds as a preventive of socialism.

Kellogg, Paul U. and Gleason, Arthur. British labor and the war; reconstructors for a new world. 1919. L 16739

Gives in detail the attitude of various British labor groups toward the problems raised by the war and reconstruction. It is a guidebook to the new social order. Over 100 pages of appendices make the volume invaluable for documentary reference.—Dial.

Leverhulme, Lord. The six-hour day and other industrial questions. 1919. L 16944

Co-partnership, housing betterment, education, and a drastic reduction in hours of labor are advocated to produce better workmen mentally and physically and effect greater production in industry. The author claims that more leisure is absolutely essential for good citizenship, and this can be had with a six-hour working day.

Reckitt, Maurice B. and Bechhofer, C. E. The meaning of national guilds. 1918. L 17885

A comprehensive exposition of the English movement known as guild socialism, which advocates the abolition of the wage system and state ownership of industries under the control of national guilds of the workers.

Slichter, Sumner H. The turnover of factory labor. 1919. L 20384

Based on statistical records and personal investigation, this book discusses the high rates of turnover and suggests remedies. It will be useful for employment managers, executives, industrial engineers, and students of labor problems.

Stoddard, William Leavitt. The shop committee; a handbook for employer and employee. 1919. L 16752

It tells in detail the introduction, operation, and success of the shop-committee system, showing how for both workman and employer it is the ideal intra-factory machinery for eliminating friction and bringing about good relations. The author was an administrator of the National War Labor Board.

Finance

Ebersole, J. F. Elementary banking. 1918. L 17331

Fisk, Harvey E. Our public debt; an historical sketch with a description of United States securities. 1919. L 17728

Hollander, Jacob H. War borrowing; a study of treasury certificates of indebtedness of the United States. 1919. L 17729

Laughlin, J. Laurence. Money and prices. 1919. L 17858

Contents: A theory of prices.—Gold and prices after 1873.—Changes in prices since 1896.—The increased cost of living.—The European war and inflation.—Agricultural unrest.—Socialism in the price question.—A monetary system for Santo Domingo.—The refunding bill of 1881.—Government vs. bank issues.—The monetary commission of 1897.

A semi-technical presentation by a conservative authority. It presents the subject in connection with the war and with socialism.

Levine, Louis. The taxation of mines in Montana. 1919. L 17744

The essay is a dispassionate and objective presentation of information bearing on the taxation of mines, and of the elementary and generally undisputed economic principles which relate to this information.—The Nation.

Peddle, J. Taylor. Economic reconstruction. 1918. L 16657

Companion volume to the author's A national system of economics. L 16656.

—A national system of economics; with a consideration of the Paris economic resolutions and of their influence on nationality. 1916. L 16656

Villard, Harold G. and Willoughby, W. W. The Canadian budgetary system. 1918. L 17732

The Institute for Government Research. Studies in administration.

Willoughby, William F. The movement for budgetary reform in the states. 1918. L 17736

Institute for Government Research. Studies in administration.

This book carries into the individual states the discussion of the budget system which is treated in more detail in the author's Problem of a national budget.

—The problem of a national budget. 1918. L 17733

Institute for Government Research. Studies in administration.

Gives a detailed explanation of what a budget is and how the system should be instituted, as well as the constitutional problems involved in applying it to American administration.

Political Science

Government, General and Local

- Cooper, E. H. How to prepare for civil service. 1918. L 18164
A discussion of the departments under civil service, the nature of the examinations, and desirable preparation for them. Mention is made of the opportunities in Washington for university work while in the service and of professions beyond to which the training and experience may lead.
- Douglass, Harlan P. The little town, especially in its rural relationships. 1919. L 18215

The town is here regarded as the natural center of the farming community, and the author presents a plea for co-operation between the farms and the town in matters relating to home and civic improvement.

- Fitzpatrick, Edward A., ed. Experts in city government. 1919. L 18214

National municipal league series.

Twenty-three articles by authorities on municipal government. Various plans for training city employees in order to provide experts are suggested.

- Foulke, William Dudley. Fighting the spoilsmen; reminiscences of the civil service reform movement. 1919. L 18166

From the passage of the Pendleton law in 1883 to the present, with the record of each president from Cleveland to Wilson.

- Jones, Henry Ware. Safe and unsafe democracy; a commentary on political administration in the American commonwealths. 1918. L 15903

A serious exposition of the relative failure of the electoral and administrative machinery of the United States. The system of party or partisan government is strongly criticised and the necessity for full recognition of its own responsibility by the electorate is insisted on. The proposed method of amendment is based on political education of the people and the development of a logical body of administrative law.—Athenaeum.

- Lowell, A. Lawrence. Greater European governments. 1918. L 18023

An abridgment of the author's well-known Government of England L 6444, and Governments and parties in continental Europe, L 6430. England, France, Italy, Germany, and Austria-Hungary are the governments treated.

- Means, Philip Ainsworth. Racial factors in democracy. 1918. L 15321

- Stull, William. The food crisis and Americanism. 1919. L 17863

The author, who has worked at farming or with farmers during his whole life, here accuses America of neglecting the farming industry and farming education, of promoting unfortunate betterment schemes and so being responsible for an inexhaustible large number of crop failures and for the growth of an indigent tenant class.—Booklist.

- Thomas, Arthur G. Principles of government purchasing. 1919. L 18073
Institute for Government Research. Principles of administration.

- Willoughby, W. F. An introduction to the study of the government of modern states. 1919. L 15836
An excellent introduction to the study of political science. The author limits himself to a discussion of principles and does not burden his readers with laborious citation of illustrative cases. He presents some pertinent questions with regard to the shortcomings of our own political organization.

- Willoughby, Westel W. Prussian political philosophy; its principles and implications. 1918. L 18032

Contains a chapter by Walter J. Shepard, entitled Tendencies towards responsible government in Germany.

A clearly outlined picture of the underlying political philosophy of Prussia: the principles of militarism, absolutism, and nationalism. This is preceded by a survey of the American ideals we daily take for granted, and the contrast is conspicuously evident at every point.

International Relations

League of Nations

- Brailsford, H. N. The covenant of peace; an essay on the league of nations. 1919. L 17952

This essay won the prize offered by the English Review for the best short study on the subject. See also A league of nations, L 17963, by the same author.

- Erzberger, M. The league of nations, the way to the world's peace. 1919. L 18010
Draft of constitution of the league of nations, p. 309-323.

It is a mere political pamphlet, which puts forward the aims of German policy under the old régime, and calls them by other names.—London Times.

- Morrow, Dwight W. The society of free states. 1919. L 17954

Mr. Morrow prefaces this sympathetic analysis of the covenant submitted Feb. 14, 1919, by an account of earlier plans for world federation in the course of history.

- Oppenheim, L. The league of nations and its problems. 1919. L 18011

Contributions to international law and diplomacy. Three lectures showing the development of the idea of a league of nations from the middle ages to the second Hague conference. The author thinks that regular meetings of the Hague conferences at stated periods to codify international law and to give hearing to international disputes will preserve the "national state" from further wars.

- Problems of the international settlement; introduction by G. Lowes Dickinson. 1919. L 17955

"The papers included in the present volume (with the exception of the last three) are reproduced . . . from the Recueil de rapports published by the Central Organization for a Durable Peace."

- Stallybrass, W. T. S. A society of states; sovereignty, independence and equality in a league of nations. 1919. L 18009

The author admits that a league of nations implies a diminution of sovereignty, but only in the same way and to the same extent that this is involved in international treaties.

- Wilson, Woodrow. International ideals; speeches and addresses made during the president's European visit, December 14, 1918, to February 14, 1919. L 16327
First draft of the league constitution, p. 137-152.

The most complete and usable collection hitherto compiled, extending to April, 1917. The book is edited by Mr. Albert Shaw, who prefaces each address with notes connecting it with the preceding one, the whole forming a continuous account of our domestic and foreign relations for that period.

Reconstruction and Rehabilitation

Cameron, James R. Instruction of disabled men in motion picture projection; an elementary text-book. 1919. K 29542

Harris, Garrard. The redemption of the disabled; a study of programmes of rehabilitation for the disabled of war and of industry, with an introductory chapter by Frank Billings. 1919. L 19709

Problems of war and of reconstruction.

A review by a member of the Federal Board for Vocational Education of what is being done by our government and those of other countries to prepare the disabled fighting men for the new conditions to be met.

Paeuw, Léon de. The vocational re-education of maimed soldiers, with a preface by Madame Carton de Wiart. 1918. L 19708

This book describes in detail the excellent work done by the Belgian government at the two schools of Port Villez and Ste. Adresse in France to re-educate the crippled soldiers.

Simons, A. M. The vision for which we fought; a study in reconstruction. 1919. L 16659

The citizen's library of economics, politics and sociology.

The theme of this volume is that in mobilizing society for war, social forces, inspired by the vision of democracy, were given a common direction. It is the belief of the author that this social solidarity "should now be mobilized to fight ignorance, disease, and social injustice."

Smith-Gordon, Lionel and Staples, L. C. Rural reconstruction in Ireland; a record of co-operative organization. 1919. L 17546

History of the movement inaugurated by Sir Horace Plunkett in 1880 and its results in the present agricultural and industrial co-operation, with its co-operative creameries, credit societies, and societies for the purchase of farmers' supplies. Summary of beneficial results, social and educational as well as economic.—Booklist.

A companion volume to Trading with Latin America, L20090.

Lee, Frederic S. The human machine and industrial efficiency. 1918. L 20377

Describes the benefits derived both by the individual worker and the industry from the scientific testing of the physical condition of the men. The author speaks with authority, as consulting physiologist of the U. S. Public Health Service.

- Lindsay, Forbes. Business insurance, a concise description of the adaptation of life insurance to corporations, business firms, and individuals. 1918. L 19252
- MacElwee, Roy S. Ports and terminal facilities. 1918. L 20120
An up-to-date work describing the characteristics of a typical well-designed seaport, and comparing the principal harbors of the world. Emphasis is placed upon the immediate importance of the construction of suitable ports.
- McNaughton, Flint. More business through postcards; an exhaustive analysis of possibilities for intensively increasing profitable sales through return postcards. 1917. L 20666
"Drawn from the experiences and records of over one hundred firms, representing practically every line of business."
- Maxwell, William. The training of a salesman. 1919. L 20381
Lippincott's training series.
General advice seasoned with special applications and based on the idea to "size up" no one, but to do your utmost to sell everyone" rather than "to size up" each prospective customer and gauge your efforts accordingly. Has a good chapter on the "50-dollar-a-week girl."—Booklist.
- Modern business; a series of texts prepared as part of the modern business course and service of the Alexander Hamilton Institute. 1917. 24 v. L 20310
The subjects covered include the general principles of organization, administration, correspondence, advertising, salesmanship, accounting, finance, credit, transportation, etc.
- Moore, James T. M. American business in world markets; our opportunities and obligations in securing export trade, the plans and purposes of other nations. 1919. L 20119
- Thorne, William V. S., comp. Hospital accounting and statistics. 1918. L 20491
The fact that this book has rapidly reached its fourth edition shows that it is a valuable compilation.
- Vedder, George C. American methods in foreign trade; a guide to export selling policy. 1919. L 20118
The author seeks to familiarize American business men with the existing American methods of building up foreign trade as practiced by our most successful exporters, which are based consciously or unconsciously, he asserts, on the golden rule. Discourages imitation of foreign practices.—Booklist.
- Manufactures, Trades,
Chemical Technology
- Abraham, Herbert. Asphalts and allied substances; their occurrence, modes of production, uses in the arts and methods of testing. 1918. K 25253
This reference book is designed for the work-chemist engaged in testing and analyzing raw and manufactured products; to assist the refinery or factory superintendent in blending and compounding mixtures; to enlarge the knowledge of the salesman; and to expound the principles underlying the practical application of bituminous products for structural purposes.—N. Y. Times.
- Allen, Charles R. The instructor, the man and the job; a hand book for instructors of industrial and vocational subjects. 1919. K 22272
Mr. Allen's thesis is that training should cut out all merely scientific material not of immediate use in the factory. . . . This text is not alone useful as a handbook for those who intend to establish factory training, but it is also bound to be useful in persuading practical managers of the value of such training.—Survey.
- Bigwood, George. Cotton. 1919. K 25839
Staple trades and industries.
This well-illustrated book is a non-technical treatise tracing the cotton industry from its beginnings to the present time.
- Giles, Frederic M. and Giles, Imogene K. Vocational civics; a study of occupations as a background for the consideration of a life-career. 1919. L 14389

LITERATURE

Bowen, Ray P. The novels of Ferdinand Fabre, including an account of his life and a discussion of his position in literature. 1918. J 7228

Mr. Bowen's painstaking study forms the best companion in English for the reader of Fabre.—Nation.

Burton, Richard. Charles Dickens. 1919. J 7216

Largely composed of selections from Dickens' novels.

Cunliffe, J. W. English literature during the last half century. 1919. J 6332

Contents:—Introductory.—George Meredith.—Thomas Hardy.—Samuel Butler.—Robert Louis Stevenson.—George Gissing.—George Bernard Shaw.—Rudyard Kipling.—Joseph Conrad.—H. G. Wells.—John Galsworthy.—Arnold Bennett.—The Irish movement.—The new poets.—The new novelists.

He professes to have written "to provide guidance for firsthand study—assistance in reading the authors themselves, not a substitute for it." As a first aid to the explorer, the book presents just what is needed: biographical sketches, summaries of novels and plays, critical excerpts, bibliographies, and a temper generally hospitable and temperately appreciative.—The Review.

Neal, Robert Wilson. Today's short stories analyzed; an informal encyclopedia of short story art as exemplified in contemporary magazine fiction for writers and students. 1918. J 7217

Each of twenty-two stories from recent magazines is preceded by a study of its technique along lines laid down in the author's Short stories in the making, J 3239. Particular sentences and paragraphs are analyzed in foot notes.

Pater, Walter. Sketches and reviews. 1919. J 4812

Contents: Aesthetic poetry.—M. LeMaitre's Serenus and other tales.—The life and letters of Gustave Flaubert.—Coleridge as a theologian.—Wordsworth.—A novel by Mr. Oscar Wilde.—A poet with something to say (Arthur Symonds).—George Moore as an art critic.

Pierce, Frederick E. Currents and eddies in the English romantic generation. 1918. J 6347

A picture of the brilliant transitional period of forty years in English letters from the French revolution to Tennyson, including, besides the masters, minor figures who influenced thought. Written with animation and with amusing and informing details about authors and their work.—Booklist.

Rankin, T. E. American authorship of the present-day (since 1890). 1918. J 6431

Schevill, Rudolph. Cervantes. 1919. J 5484
The results of Professor Schevill's brilliant scholarship and penetrating criticism are interesting to the general reader and indispensable to students of the Spanish Renaissance and of its greatest figure.—Dial.

Sedgwick, Henry Dwight. Dante; an elementary book for those who seek in the great poet the teacher of spiritual life. 1918. E 7130

Mr. Sedgwick succeeds in giving a fresh, unhackneyed account of the poem that will induce many a reader to subject himself to the spell of Dante's own language and even to learn the Italian tongue for the sake of doing so.—Nation.

Shanks, Lewis Piaget. Anatole France. 1919. J 5360

The best book in English on the world's greatest living man of letters.—Nation.

Starrett, Vincent. Arthur Machen, a novelist of ecstasy and sin. 1918. J 7222

Contains also two poems by A. Machen, entitled, The remembrance of the bard and The praise of Myfanwy.

Machen has been writing in England since 1885 with occasional high praise from discriminating critics, but was practically unknown to most readers until he wrote in 1914 an account of the retreat at Mons describing the miraculous intervention of the English archers of Agincourt.

Williams, Blanche Colton. How to study "The best short stories"; an analysis of Edward J. O'Brien's annual volumes of the best short stories of the year, prepared for the use of writers and other students of the short story. 1919. J 7227

Useful in connection with the author's Handbook on story writing, J 7225.

Poetry

Benét, Stephen Vincent. Young adventure. 1918. E 10649

"The hemp," a ballad, one of the best of recent years, I shall describe in a word as falconlike,—keen of eye, strong in swoop, and not unworthy of a ducal wrist.—Nation.

The author is a young man of twenty, whose poems show not a promise merely, but a fulfilment of remarkable maturity of thought and richness of imagination and of poetic expression.

Brody, Alter. A family album, and other poems. 1918. E 10662

Realistic free verse with a definite personal note placing it above the average of its type, which the Dial says "is rapidly becoming as conventional as the conventions against which it rebels."

Chapman, John Jay. Songs and poems. 1919. E 10766

We admire Mr. Chapman's poems for the rich and experienced spirit out of which they spring. He gives us a moment of pause in the mad rush for strange and exotic moods which beset and confuse us wherever we turn.—Boston Transcript.

Gregory, Lady. The Kiltartan poetry book; prose translations from the Irish. 1919. E 10984

A collection of folk songs, many of them reprinted from former collections.

Grumbine, Harvey C., comp. Humanity or hate: which? 1918. E 14311

A comparison between French and German ideals as expressed in thirty-two of their war songs. Introducing these are essays comparing the French and German God-conceptions and the souls of the two nations.

Hare, Maud Cuney, ed. The message of the trees; an anthology of leaves and branches. 1918. E 14296

Holland, Rupert S. All 'round our house. 1919. E 11049

Poems.

Jones, Howard Mumford. Gargoyles, and other poems. 1918. E 11118

The title is well chosen to symbolize the grotesque visages which frequently peer through the thin veils of rhythmic fancy. The poet displays a vivid touch and a facile dominion over words; his style is incisive rather than fluid.—Dial.

Kilmer, Aline. Candles that burn. 1919.
E 11139

Poems by the widow of Joyce Kilmer.
"Using the simplest ways of expression she yet avoids the commonplace by her grace, her whimsicality, her quiet sincerity, her sensitiveness to beauty."—Dial.

Lee, Joseph. Work-a-day warriors. 1918.
E 11199

Written in the trenches, all the horror and exaltation, the weariness and inspiration, the grim humor and satire of trench warfare live in the vivid measures, some lilting like old border ballads, some sonorous and stately.—Boston Transcript.

Middleton, Scudder. The new day. 1919.
E 11326

In these poems, realistic and imaginative, one finds dignity and idealism and passages of beauty and poetic wisdom.—Booklist.

Noyes, Alfred. The new morning. 1918.
E 11355

These poems, covering all that Noyes has produced since the outbreak of the war together with some others not hitherto published in this country, seem to lack a certain beauty found in his earlier ones, while possessing more of moral earnestness and intellectual content.

Pierce, Frederick E. Poems of New England and old Spain. 1918.
E 11403

A collection of stories in conventional verse on themes from everyday life in rustic New England, together with one symbolic poem on the Inquisition.

Poe, Edgar Allan. The complete poems of Edgar Allan Poe; collected, edited, and arranged with memoir, textual notes, and bibliography, by J. H. Whitty. 3d ed. rev. 1918.
E 8273

Preston, Keith. Types of Pan. 1919.
E 11421

Collects the deft and slangy verses of the dual personality who is "Pan" to the readers of B. L. T.'s Line-o'-type column in the Chicago Tribune and associate professor of Latin to the students at Northwestern.—Dial.

Van Dyke, Henry. Golden stars, and other verses, following The red flower. 1919.
E 11647

Twelve short poems in praise of courage, democracy, and righteous wrath.

W. B. in California; a tribute. 1919.
E 14302

This book of poems by Mr. Witter Bynner's students and friends was presented to him at a dinner held May 27, 1919.

Waley, Arthur, tr. A hundred and seventy Chinese poems. 1919.
E 14312

Convey in unpretentious, artless free verse the simplicity and directness that make the substance of Chinese poetry charming.—Dial.

Weaving, Willoughby. Heard melodies. 1918.
E 11688

There is so much dashing about from one thing to another that the volume almost gives the impression of exercises in versification. Occasionally, it is true, one is enabled to shake off this impression, for Mr. Weaving gives a sympathetic setting to a number of his themes. When he is content to sing, he is most sure in his art.—Dial.

Wood, Charles E. Maia; a sonnet sequence. 1918.
*P 4590

Author's edition, highly ornate.

Drama

Eller, William Henri. Ibsen in Germany, 1870-1900. 1918.
E 12381

It tells much about the man and his plays. . . . From far and wide Mr. Eller has gathered the substance of his book, but he unfortunately lacks the ability to put it into an effective historical or literary form.—Boston Transcript.

Fielding, Henry. The tragedy of tragedies; or, The life and death of Tom Thumb the Great. 1918.

Includes text of Tom Thumb based on the first (1730) and second editions. This was enlarged in 1731 into The tragedy of tragedies.

Gyp (pseud.). The little blue guinea-hen. 1919.
E 13163

Poet lore plays.

Irvine, Theodora Ursula. How to pronounce the names in Shakespeare; the pronunciation of the names in the dramatis personæ of each of Shakespeare's plays, also the pronunciation and explanation of place names and the names of all persons, mythological characters, etc., found in the text; with foreword by E. H. Sothorn. 1919.
E 10132

Lavedan, Henri Léon Émile. Their heart. 1919.
E 13163

Poet lore plays.

Lawrence, Edwin Gordon. Sidelights on Shakespeare. 1918.
E 10144

Macintire, Elizabeth and Clements, Colin. The ivory tower. 1919.
E 13163

Poet lore plays.

Martin, John Joseph. The Wife of Usher's Well; a tragedy of the fantastic based on an old English ballad. 1919.
E 13163

Poet lore plays.

Moeller, Philip. Molière; a romantic play in three acts. 1919.
E 14062

A less successful attempt at staging a brilliant comedy in the past with a historical personnel than the author's Madame Sand, E 14060.

Essays

Brooks, Charles S. Chimney-pot papers. 1919.
E 2123

Contents: The chimney-pots.—The quest of the lost digamma.—On a rainy morning.—"1917."—On going afoot.—On livelihoods.—The tread of the friendly giants.—On spending a holiday.—Runaway studies.—On turning into forty.—On the difference between wit and humor.—On going to a party.—On a pair of leather suspenders.—Boots for runaways.—On hanging a stocking at Christmas.

Carries on the essay tradition of Hazlitt and Lamb with that studied artlessness whose other name is charm. It should be popular with all who cherish a literary wardrobe laid away in lavender.—Dial.

Burroughs, John. Field and study. 1919.
E 2130

A collection of random essays containing little that is new but much that is charming and refreshing. Part 1, "Field," deals with nature and her ways, especially with birds, and includes a good characterization of the burdock. Part 2, "Study," contains essays on literary criticism, science, and religion.

Leacock, Stephen. The Hohenzollerns in America; with the Bolsheviks in Berlin and other impossibilities. 1919. E 4193

These satires attack the pride of the "great" reduced to lower East Side New York, the "side effects" of the war, and the movies and other foibles of the day with occasionally a serious moment of sincere human appreciation. Not his best work by any means.—Booklist.

O'Sullivan, Seumas. Mud and purple; pages from the diary of a Dublin man. 1918. E 5066

Portor, Laura Spencer. Adventures in indigence, and other essays. 1918. E 5142

Contents: Adventures in indigence.—Guests.—The disappointments and vicissitudes of mice.—Birthdays and other egotisms.

Readers and Speakers

McNaught, Rosamond L., comp. Christmas selections, for readings and recitations. 1919. J 6205

Serl, Emma and Pelo, William J., comp. American ideals; selected patriotic readings for seventh and eighth grades and junior high schools. 1919. J 6240

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION

Burke, Thomas. Out and about London. 1919. I 10118

A collection of sketches of London in 1917—London, without lights—without color—without liquor. The author laments the passing of the dock and Limehouse types into a mold of mediocre respectability. "Attaboy" is an appreciation of the everyday American soldier with his baseball and slang.

Desmond, Shaw. The soul of Denmark. 1918. I 10329

A superficial chatty account of three or four years agreeably spent in Denmark. According to the London Times, "the one thing which Mr. Desmond tells us nothing whatever about is the soul of Denmark."

Edwards, George W. Alsace-Lorraine. 1918. I 7514

An anecdotal and impressionistic description of the "lost provinces" hardly less illustrative or more informing than the beautiful pictures in color and black and white that adorn it.

Finley, John. A pilgrim in Palestine; being an account of journeys on foot by the first American pilgrim after General Allenby's recovery of the Holy Land. 1919. I 10907

Dr. Finley was sent to Palestine by the government with the Red Cross commission. He describes General Allenby about the time of the capture of Jerusalem. Then follows an account of the author's journey from Jaffa to Jericho, a night on the Mount of Olives, a journey on foot from Beer-sheba to Dan, and to other places of hallowed associations.

Fisher, Fred B. and Williams, Gertrude M. India's silent revolution. 1919. I 10732

This volume endeavors to present from the American viewpoint the economic, social, political and religious situation in India.—Foreword.

Frank, Mary. Exploring a neighborhood; our Jewish people from eastern Europe and the orient. 1919. I 4917

Library work with the foreign born.

La Motte, Ellen N. Peking dust. 1919. I 10653

A series of impressions of modern China in the form of letters, showing how unfairly the Chinese have been treated by most of the strong nations of the world.

Petrie, W. M. Flinders. Eastern exploration, past and future. 1918. K 27878

Contents: Palestine.—Mesopotamia.—The future.

Saillens, E. Facts about France; brief answers to recurring questions. 1918. I 6901

A French interpreter to the British army has prepared for the Allies, from the French point of view, a compact cyclopedia which succeeds in being at once clear, useful, and entertaining.—Booklist.

BIOGRAPHY

Collected Biography

Cumberland, Gerald. Set down in malice; a book of reminiscences. 1919. C 19416

The reminiscences give intimate glimpses of such well-known figures in the English world of arts, letters and politics as George Bernard Shaw, George Moore, Lloyd George, Edward Grieg, Sir Herbert Tree, Sir Edward Elgar, etc.

Davenport, C. B. and Scudder, Mary T. Naval officers, their heredity and development. 1919. K 15961, 259

Station for experimental evolution at Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y. Paper, no. 29.

Includes brief biographies of naval officers.

Humphrey, Grace. Women in American history. 1919. C 19639

Contents: Pocahontas.—Anne Hutchinson.—Betsy Ross.—Mary Lindley Murray.—Molly Pitcher.—Martha Washington.—Jemima Johnson.—Sacajawea.—Dolly Madison.—Lucretia Mott.—Harriet Beecher Stowe.—Julia Ward Howe.—Mary A. Livermore.—Barbara Fritchie.—Clara Barton.

Osborn E. B. The new Elizabethans, a first selection of the lives of young men who have fallen in the great war. 1919. C 19867

Brief memoirs of "scholars, sportsmen, and poets," killed in the war, 1914-16.

Parkman, Mary R. Fighters for peace. 1919. C 19874

Contents: The champion of honor: King Albert of Belgium.—The hero of the Marne: Marshall Joffre.—The chevalier of flight: Captain Guynemer.—"Le patron": Marshall Foch.—The "Tiger" as man of victory: Premier Clemenceau.—The man behind the guns: David Lloyd George.—The crusaders of the war: (1) The liberator of Bagdad, General Maude; (2) The deliverer of Jerusalem, General Allenby.—The spirit of Garibaldi: Victor Emmanuel and his armies.—"The big chief": General Pershing.—The chivalry of the sea: Admiral Beatty.—The champion of peace: President Wilson.

Wolf, Simon. The presidents I have known from 1860-1918. C 20104

Heraldry

Marquand, Allan. Robbia heraldry. 1919. K 10440, 7

Roland, Mary J. Driver. Old Glory, the true story. 1918. B 5967

"Old Glory was first applied to the national emblem in Nashville, Tenn., on February 25, 1862, by a Salem (Mass.) sea-captain, William Driver."

Individual Biography

Alfred the Great. Lees, Beatrice A. Alfred the Great; the truth teller, maker of England, 848-899. 1919. C 20554

Heroes of the nations.

While following the traditional sources for Alfred's life the author has been able to supplement them by a reconstruction of the national life of the period, and the result is a decidedly interesting narrative.

Argyll, Duke of. Passages from the past. 1907. 2 v. C 20635

Brontë Society. Charlotte Brontë; 1816-1916, a centenary memorial. 1918. C 20994

The Brontë Society was founded in 1893. Mrs. Humphry Ward—the president in 1916—contributes a truly delightful paper, "Some thoughts on Charlotte Brontë." Other papers are by Edmund Gosse, G. K. Chesterton, C. E. Vaughan, A. C. Benson, Sir Sidney Lee, and Richard Garnett.

Clemenceau, Georges. Lecomte, Georges. Georges Clemenceau, the Tiger of France. 1919. C 21288

A Frenchman's intimate and enthusiastic sketch of the man who has been the inspiration of France during the war. He is pictured as strenuous, fiery, lovable, and fun-making, losing no opportunity to restore courage to jaded deputies or poils.—Booklist.

Cobden, Richard. Hobson, J. A. Richard Cobden, the international man. 1919. C 21298

This is not a biography but consists largely of hitherto inaccessible letters treating of Cobden's political and economic philosophy in relation to the world at large. Though not a pacifist he was a man of peace and had definite plans for international disarmament and arbitration of disputes.

Edwards, William J. Twenty-five years in the Black belt. 1918. C 21757

Autobiographical narrative and history of the Snow Hill Normal and Industrial Institute, Snow Hill, Ala. The last third of the book discusses the author's solution of the race problem, which he finds in compulsory education.

Ellis, George W. and Morris, John E. King Philip's war; based on the archives and records of Massachusetts, Plymouth, Rhode Island and Connecticut, and contemporary letters and accounts. 1906. B 3777

The Grafton historical series.

Isabella, queen of Castile and Aragon. Plunket, Irene L. Isabel of Castile, and the making of the Spanish nation, 1451-1504. 1919. C 22576

Heroes of the nations.

An impartial and vivid picture . . . The Queen's relations with Columbus are told in detail as well as her part in the Italian wars and her services to literature . . . A picturesque and absorbing biography of a many-sided person.—N. Y. Times.

Meredith, George. Barrie, Sir J. M. George Meredith, 1909. 1913 C 23373

Pershing, John J. Tomlinson, Everett T. The story of General Pershing. 1919. C 23731

Smith, Harry James. Letters of Harry James Smith. 1919. C 24292

These letters, covering a period of twenty years and abruptly halted by the fatal accident met in Red Cross service, reveal a charming personality and a buoyant spirit. The writer was a novelist of some repute.

Swinburne, Algernon Charles. Gosse, Edmund, and Wise, Thomas James, ed. The letters of Algernon Charles Swinburne. 1919. 2 v. C 24456

These letters cover the period from 1858 to 1909 and their themes are mostly literary and personal with very little intrusion of public affairs. Their style is as full of hyperbole as we might expect, and we learn of Swinburne's enthusiasms for his fellow Victorians and for the Elizabethan drama.

Voltaire, François Marie Arouet de. Voltaire in his letters; being a selection from his correspondence. 1919. C 24702

An effective translation of letters of autobiographical value, and such as will interest readers of the present, notably those which deal with Frederick the Great, since they present to us a strong likeness of the last German emperor.—Booklist.

HISTORY

Brown, Arthur Judson. The mastery of the far east; the story of Korea's transformation and Japan's rise to supremacy in the Orient. 1919. A 4784

A discussion of the present phase of the eastern question presented with impartiality and common sense. Although not blind to the faults of Japan, the book is on the whole a justification of her policy in Korea. Dr. Brown feels that Japan rescued Korea from Russian oppression and also from the corruption and incompetence of her own official system. The subject of missions and their influence on the development of the Orient is competently handled.

Cassavetes, Nicholas J. The question of northern Epirus at the Peace conference. 1919. A 5232

Chesterton, Cecil. A history of the United States, with an introduction by Gilbert K. Chesterton. 1919. B 5582

This history is written for English people by an English author after a short stay in this country. It is necessarily superficial, and the author admits that its interest to Americans will lie in the fact that it gives a foreigner's interpretation.

Dako, Christo A. Albania, the master key to the Near East. 1919. A 5257

Faris, John T. The romance of old Philadelphia. 1918. B 8174

The author has known how to make us really acquainted with the city's beginnings, and because of this moving presentation of life the book becomes literature, which too few guidebooks are.—Dial.

Hasbrouck, Louise S. Mexico, from Cortes to Carranza. 1918. B 4829

An account of Mexico's story and her people that is not too dry and heavy for school children of the upper grades.

Hassall, Arthur. France, mediaeval and modern; a history. 1918. A 5724

A good history suitable for reference use, with maps and genealogical tables and full indexes.

Mathews, Basil J. The riddle of nearer Asia, with a preface by Viscount Bryce. 1919. A 4833

A forceful and intelligent brief for Christianity as against Mohammedanism and other oriental religions in the Levant.

Newell, Frederick Haynes. Asiatic Turkey; its problems and resources. 1919. A 4835

University of Illinois bulletin.

Older, Fremont. My own story. 1919. B 2873

It is a picture of an epoch, a portrait of a strongly-marked individuality, and a challenge to the consideration, from a fresh angle, of old unanswered questions of human fate and will.—Nation.

The author is a well-known San Francisco editor who has taken an active part in some of California's most sensational political and judicial events.

Vosnjak, Bogumil. A bulwark against Germany; the fight of the Slovenes, the western branch of the Yugoslavs, for national existence. 1919. A 4324

Presents as does nothing else in print in English the Yugoslav side of the conditions leading to the disagreement with Italy in the territory of occupation in Austria.—Survey.

Webster, Charles Kingsley. The Congress of Vienna, 1814-1815. 1919. A 5950

Published for the historical section of the British foreign office.

Wells, Warre B. and Marlowe, N. The Irish convention and Sinn Fein. 1919. A 5519

Continuation to 1918 of A history of the Irish rebellion of 1916, A 1454. The authors defend the movement for a republic on the ground that the Irish ideal of self-determination cannot be attained without complete separation.

Russia and Poland

Beazley, Raymond, and others. Russia from the Varangians to the Bolsheviks. 1918. A 6060

To 1504 by Raymond Beazley; from 1505 to 1800 by Nevill Forbes; from 1801 to 1917 by G. A. Birkett.

Benson, E. F. The white eagle of Poland. 1919. A 6093

This book is intended as a warning against the encroachments of Germany toward the east, and so is now mainly of academic and historical value.

Cantacuzène, Princess, née Julia Dent Grant. Revolutionary days; recollections of Romanoffs and Bolsheviks, 1914-1917. 1919. A 6047

It illustrates how short a time is required to bring one of unpretentious democratic origin into the spirit of an aristocratic caste. It is, however, so natural, naive and unaffected, that it is not unpleasant. . . . Princess C's account of the Revolution is intensely interesting, giving, as it does, the impression of the dramatic events as seen by those on the inside. . . . The volume contains several excellent pen-portraits of Russian and foreign notabilities.—Nathan Haskell Dole in Boston Transcript.

Jones, Paul V. B. The new Poland. 1919. A 6095

University of Illinois bulletin.

Kerensky, A. F. The prelude to bolshevism; the Kornilov rising. 1919. A 6049

The title and red flag on the cover of this book are obvious attempts to disguise from the reader its point of view. It is Kerensky's deposition before the Commission of Inquiry with bracketed interpolations written later. From the questions of the Commission and the answers of the witness emerges the picture of a man fighting overwhelming odds. It is a valuable historical document but will not be popular reading.

Lebedev, Vladimir L. The Russian democracy in its struggle against the Bolshevik tyranny. 1919. A 6046

Published by the Russian Information Bureau in the United States.

Rappoport, Angelo S. Pioneers of the Russian revolution. 1919. A 6059

The author compares the Russian with the French revolution, emphasizing the part played by the Jews in breaking down autocracy. He thinks the outlook for a Russian republic discouraging because of the large number of different parties and races.

Reed, John. Ten days that shook the world. 1919. A 6057

A graphic account of the Bolshevik revolution of November 1917 by a participant in some of the most spectacular incidents. The reproduction of manifestoes, decrees, and speeches add historical value. The author's sympathies are with the Bolsheviks, but he has "tried to see events with the eye of a conscientious reporter interested in setting down the truth."

Spargo, John. Bolshevism, the enemy of political and industrial democracy. 1919. A 6058

Valuable addition to our mounting literature about Bolshevism. An overrunning storehouse of facts for which all students will be grateful. Goes back almost a century. . . . describes its genesis, follows its growth, considers every influence that fostered it. . . . There is no denunciation in his book and no conclusion that seems tinged with prejudice. The futility of the Bolshevik conception of life and society is revealed.—C. E. Russell in New York Times.

European War

Beston, Henry B. Full speed ahead; tales from the log of a correspondent with our navy. 1919. A 6941

Exciting stories and lively descriptions.

Birmingham, George A., pseud. of James Owen Hannay. A padre of France. 1919. A 6948

Modestly and with many touches of that same quiet, deliciously whimsical humor which makes "Spanish Gold" and the rest tales of such rare delight, Canon Hannay writes of his experiences as a chaplain with the British Expeditionary Force in France.—New York Times.

Blankenhorn, Heber. Adventures in propaganda; letters from an intelligence officer in France. 1919. A 6942

Informal letters from a member of the intelligence division of the War Department to his family in the summer of 1918. His mission was to organize a propaganda to get some knowledge of the true state of things over to the enemy behind their lines.

- Booth, Evangeline and Hill, Grace Livingston. The war romance of the Salvation Army. 1919. A 6953
A simple and direct narrative, full of incident and anecdote, giving an account of the selection, training, and activities of the Salvation workers in the war from the point of view of their own commander.
- Brazil. Brazilian Ministry for Foreign Affairs. The Brazilian green book, consisting of diplomatic documents relating to Brazil's attitude with regard to the European war, 1914-1917. 1918. A 6947
- Canby, Henry Seidel. Education by violence; essays on the war and the future. 1919. A 6934
Essays by a Yale professor of English who was in England and France during the war. They deal with the effect of the war on the youth of the world. Among the subjects treated are the English people, the Irish mind, the sense of race, morale, salvage and waste.
- Corcoran, A. P. The daredevil of the army; experiences as a "buzzer" and despatch rider. 1918. A 6945
What it is to be a "glorified messenger boy of the army," to deliver a despatch at all costs or to swallow it away from the enemy; to win at last the mild commendation of "not so bad" from the scornful, non-bicycling Tommies; this is the story of the telegraph and motorcycle department of the army.—Booklist.
- Daniels, Josephus. The navy and the nation; war-time addresses. 1919. A 6950
About forty popular addresses and messages to naval students, industrial societies, surgeons, and other groups during war time.
- Gibbons, Helen Davenport. A little gray home in France. 1919. A 6939
A book of warm-hearted hospitality from an American woman who has kept her little gray home in France open for the doughboys. It is amusing and pleasant with the whole-souled joy of serving.—Booklist.
- Gibbs, Philip H. The way to victory. 1919. A 6931
v. 1. The menace.—v. 2. The repulse.
Despatches of a war correspondent for the New York Times and the London Daily Chronicle beginning November 21, 1917. These two volumes form with his Battles of the Somme, A 6322, and From Bapaume to Passchendaele, A 6780, one of the most valuable histories of the war, notable for its graphic descriptive power and intense human quality.
- Hay, Ian, pseud. of John Hay Beith. The last million; how they invaded France—and England. 1919. A 6946
The picture drawn of the British soldier in The first hundred thousand [A 6206] is here companioned by that of the American doughboy to whom it is dedicated. A gay, cheery, slangy account with fictional characters who tell the facts about the ocean voyage, the trenches, and the good results of two English speaking countries rubbing shoulders. Will be enjoyed even though the war interest is past.—Booklist.
- Hayes, Ralph A. Secretary Baker at the front. 1918. A 6938
Written by Secretary Baker's private secretary who accompanied him on his trip to France and Italy.
- Hobbs, William Herbert. The world war and its consequences. 1919. A 6943
Theodore Roosevelt, in his introduction, gives unqualified endorsement to the author's energetic arraignment of the conditions, aims, and acts that have rendered Germany a world menace; to his plainly expressed disapproval of the president; to his denunciation of pacifists (frequently by name) and to his tributes to General Wood and others.—Booklist.
- Hough, Emerson. The web; the authorized history of the American Protective League. 1919. A 6952
Mr. Hough calls this the worst and the best book he ever wrote. It is made up from fine siftings of an enormous amount of material from A. P. L. centers in almost every town in the country. The vigorous opinions expressed in the summaries are the inevitable result of contact with the mass of first-hand evidence from this secret service organization during the war.
- Imbrie, Robert Whitney. Behind the wheel of a war ambulance. 1918. A 6929
A personal narrative of the war beginning in December, 1915. There are gruesome touches but for the most part the tone is cheerful. It contains intimate glimpses of French peasant life and good descriptions of the Verdun district.
- Isaacs, Edouard Victor. Prisoner of the U-90. 1919. A 6930
"The personal narrative of the adventures of the only line officer of the United States navy to be captured in the great war." With an introduction by Secretary Daniels.
- Italian Bureau of Public Information (New York). The story-teller's handbook. 1919. A 6936
Short sketches of heroic acts performed by Italians during the European war.
- Lewys, Georges, pseud. The "charmed American," a story of the Iron Division of France. 1919. A 6944
The story of François Xavier, a French settler in San Francisco who joined the French army on the day he was to become a naturalized American. His account of his thirty-odd months in the war is simple and vivid and told with much interspersing of poilu slang.
- Macfarlane, C. W. The economic basis of an enduring peace. 1918. A 6954
- Marcosson, Isaac F. S. O. S. America's miracle in France. 1919. A 6937
An account of the organization and operation of the "service of supply" (S. O. S.) which equipped and fed the A. E. F. It contains lessons of value for the later requirements of reconstruction.
- Moore, Frederick. The chaos in Europe; a consideration of the political destruction that has taken place in Russia and elsewhere and of the international policies of America, with an introduction by Charles W. Eliot. 1919. A 6956
This book was written in December 1918, and offers three suggestions with reference mainly to Russia. One of these is the formation of a league by the Allies for future security and the prevention of war, which the author believes would be a practical beginning for a future permanent league and in this respect he is critical of the position of the present administration.
- Rice, Philip Sidney. An American crusader at Verdun. 1918. A 6940
Earlier edition published under the title, An ambulance driver in France.

Rickenbacker, Capt. Edward V. Fighting the flying circus, with maps and a foreword by Laurence La Tourette Driggs. 1919. A 6949

This gives a graphic account of the sensations experienced in flying and interesting anecdotes connected with the aviation service during the war. Quentin Roosevelt is mentioned.

Thayer, William Roscoe. Volleys from a non-combatant. 1919. A 6932

Essays published in various periodicals during the progress of the war, many of them illuminating and prophetic.

Contents: Preface.—The collapse of superman.—America's international relations.—Are the Hohenzollerns doomed?—John Hay's policy of Anglo-Saxonism.—Beware of a Judas peace.—Despotism by the drags.—Italy's great service in the war.—John Hay's good deed in a naughty world.—Campaigning for dupes: are you one?—Out of their own mouths.—France: 1916.—Let Foch decide!—Prussia's pewter Napoleon.—Italy and the Adriatic: peace terms.

Toynbee, Arnold. The new Europe; some essays in reconstruction. 1916. A 6951

Contents: Two ideals of nationality.—Historical sentiment.—Politics and economics.—Natural frontiers and economic rights of way.—Culture and the mother tongue.—Anarchy and internationalism.—The Ukraine—a problem in nationality.

Whitlock, Brand. Belgium; a personal narrative. 1919. 2 v. A 6955

The American minister at Brussels here relates with the vivid pen of an experienced novelist the development of Belgium's tragedy from the peaceful celebration of national ceremonies in the spring of 1914 through the first approach and occupation of the Germans, their military rule, intimidations, deportations, etc., down to the cessation of our own diplomatic relations with Germany.

Whittemore, Thomas, tr. Ivan speaks. 1919. A 6957

These sayings on war and peace were set down by Madame Fedorchenko, a Russian nurse, from talks which she overheard among Russian soldiers at the front in 1915, 1916, and 1917.—Preface.

It is at once the most hopeful and disillusioning publication about Russia that has come to hand. Disillusioning because the "mystery of Russian character" which it "penetrates and reveals" turns out to be no mystery whatever in the Russian himself. . . . Nothing is held in reserve, nothing repressed—and nothing is made ignoble or unclean.—H. M. Kallen in The Dial.

FICTION

Anderson, Sherwood. Winesburg, Ohio; a group of tales of Ohio small town life. 1919. F 10546

Andreiyeff, Leonidas. A dilemma; a story of mental perplexity. 1910. F 10554

Arnim, M. A. B., Countess von. Christopher and Columbus, by the author of Elizabeth and her German garden. 1919. F 10663

Two orphans of German parents are shipped to America by an uncle. They have some amusing adventures and an American bachelor solves their problems for them.

Ashford, Daisy. The young visitors: or, Mr. Salteena's plan, with a preface by J. M. Barrie. 1919. F 10684

A delicious bit of satire upon English society in the 90's supposed to have been written by a child of nine.

Bailey, H. C. The gamesters. 1919. F 10795

A gay tale of the adventures of a brother and sister who lived in the time of Frederick the Great.

Barbellion, W. N. P. The journal of a disappointed man. 1919. F 10799

Extracts from the diary of a talented and ambitious Englishman who was a student of entomology, and who died at the age of twenty-eight after a life-long struggle with disease.

Benson, E. F. Across the stream. 1919. F 11122

The story of psychic influences that pervaded a young Englishman's life from youth to manhood.

Beresford, J. D. The Jervaise comedy. 1919. F 11108

A comedy of English country life showing the barriers between the landed classes and the peasantry.

Bernard, M. and Serrell, E. Deer godchild. 1919. F 11119

The amusing correspondence between an American godfather of eleven, hard pressed for funds, and his little French charge, who is supposed to be a boy, but turns out disappointingly to be a girl.

Bosher, Kate Langley. His friend Miss McFarlane; a novel. 1919. F 11297

Tommy wanted an education so badly that he managed to get into a reformatory to get one. Then a society girl takes an interest in him and befriends him.

Bowen, Marjorie, pseud. of Campbell, G. M. V. Kings-at-arms. 1919. F 11660

A carefully written and skilfully developed story, centering around the characters of Peter the Great of Russia and Karl XII of Sweden. It gives a vivid account of a very important and very dramatic period of history.

New Books for the Blind

THIS list includes books for the blind which the Library has received since the printed catalogue was issued in May, 1916. Over four hundred volumes were added within the past year and these new titles contain some very good literature of a comparatively recent date.

Books from this collection are loaned to blind residents of the State of Illinois, and may be called for at the Library or may be sent free through the mails to the nearest post office or postal station. They are shelved in the Newspaper and Patents Room, in the main building, first floor, at the right of the Randolph Street entrance, and may be obtained on any week day (not a legal holiday) between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5:30 p. m.

Information for Borrowers of Books for the Blind.

1. When ordering books, borrowers should send a list of at least six numbers or titles in order of preference, and when the book number is not used should indicate the type desired.

2. Whenever possible each book should be returned as soon as read.

3. Books may be kept one month, and then renewed for one more.

4. Books sent by mail must be well protected by several thicknesses of newspaper and a strong outer wrapper, and must be wrapped so as to be examined easily.

On the upper left corner of wrapper place the name of the sender, and on the upper right corner write: "Free. Reading matter for the blind."

A package weighing more than 4 pounds should contain only one volume.

5. The Library must be notified if packages are not received in good condition.

6. The telephone number of the Library is Central 5822.

7. Letters about books for the blind should be addressed to: Chicago Public Library, Chicago, Ill.

RELIGION

The Bible

Lewis, Frank Grant. How the Bible grew, the story as told by the Book and its keepers. 1919. M 6379

The University of Chicago publications in religious education. Handbooks of ethics and religion.

This book traces in simple style the development of the Bible. More than that, it clarifies the study of the book as the literature of a great spiritual movement.

MacIlravy, Cora Harris. Christ and His bride; an exposition of the Song of Solomon. 1916. M 6631

Missions

Barton, James L. The Christian approach to Islam. 1918. M 8105

College of missions lectureship.

By presenting a history of Islam, together with its characteristics and needs, the book is designed to aid missionary students. It suggests appropriate methods for making a successful appeal.

Kelsey, Rayner Wickersham. Friends and the Indians, 1655-1917. M 8128

A history of the relations between the Quakers and the Indians from before the advent of Penn to the present.

Judaism

Jacobs, Joseph. Jewish contributions to civilization; an estimate. 1919. A 2854

A well-presented modest statement of the debt of Western civilization to the Jew. One chapter is devoted to answering Sombart's The Jews and modern capitalism, A 2930.

Kirk, Harris Elliott. The consuming fire. 1919. M 6657

A comparison between the Judea of the eighth century B. C. and America of the twentieth century A. D., on the ground that "Isaiah faced the grave problems of social and religious readjustment that are at present our supreme concern."

Raisin, Max. A history of the Jews in modern times. 1919. A 2853

SOCIOLOGY

Labor and Laboring Classes

Angell, Norman, pseud. of R. N. A. Lane. The British revolution and the American democracy; an interpretation of British labour programmes. 1919. L 16655

The author, while denouncing the repression of freedom by the dictatorship of the proletariat, emphasizes that the will of the people is the strongest political reality.

Carnegie United Kingdom Trust. Report on public baths and wash-houses in the United Kingdom. 1918. Civics Dept.

Colvin, Fred H. Labor turnover, loyalty and output; a consideration of the trend of the times as shown by the results of war activities in the machine shops and elsewhere. 1919. L 20315

Hutton, J. E. Welfare and housing; a practical record of war-time management. 1918. L 17048

Result of the author's experience as manager of labor and the catering department of a British company which operates several huge munitions and shipbuilding plants. The book deals with housing, canteens, hospitals, and other activities involved in caring for one hundred thousand war laborers.

Veblen, Thorstein. The vested interests and the state of the industrial arts. 1919.

L 16675

Professor Veblen desires to show the cause of the discrepancy between the principles of law and custom underlying the business-like management of industry, and the new material conditions which have grown up with the invention and development of machinery. He discusses also the civil and political difficulties to which this discrepancy has given rise.

Webster, W. L. Why be an employee? or, Democracy in business after the war. 1918.

L 16753

Finance, Insurance

Gephart, William F. Effects of the war upon insurance, with special reference to the substitution of insurance for pensions. 1918.

L 19246

Carnegie endowment for international peace. Preliminary economic studies of the war.

McVey, Frank L. The financial history of Great Britain, 1914-1918.

L 17731

Carnegie endowment for international peace. Preliminary economic studies of the war.

Political Science

Democracy

Cleveland, Frederick A. and Schafer, Joseph, ed. Democracy in reconstruction. 1919.

L 15900

A compilation of articles by competent writers on the ideals and institutions of democracy and embracing all phases of after-war problems. It gives arguments for and against the suggested policies and will be suitable for college classes.

Laski, Harold J. Authority in the modern state. 1919.

Sequel to studies in the problem of sovereignty, L 15788.

Contents: Authority in the modern state.—Bonald.—Lamennais.—Royer.—Collard.—Administrative syndicalism in France.

Leads through the ferment in which the transformation of the state is being worked out to the foundation of a new political order. The book is fair, and one which no student of politics, law, or sociology can afford to leave unread and unmastered.—Nation.

International Relations

Barclay, Sir Thomas. Collapse and reconstruction; European conditions and American principles. 1919.

L 17951

A detailed examination and interpretation of the Fourteen Points in their bearing upon various phases of the European situation.

Boyce, Myrna. The diplomatic relations of England with the Quadruple Alliance, 1815-1830. 1918.

L 15421,7I

University of Iowa. Studies in the social sciences.

Chung, Henry, comp. Korean treaties. 1919.

L 17950

Kawakami, K. K. Japan and world peace. 1919.

L 16293

An attempt by a Japanese to describe Japan's place in the League of Nations, and the effect of the new régime on her hopes and fears.

Scott, James Brown. James Madison's notes of debates in the Federal convention of 1787 and their relation to a more perfect society of nations. 1918.

L 17953

Stephens, Frank Fletcher. The Monroe doctrine; its origin, development and recent interpretation. 1916.

The University of Missouri bulletin.

Wilson, Woodrow. Guarantees of peace; messages and addresses to the Congress and the people, Jan. 31, 1918, to Dec. 2, 1918, together with the peace notes to Germany and Austria, with an appendix containing the corrected text of the armistice. 1919.

L 18472

This volume supplements two earlier collections, Why we are at war, A 6378 and In our first year of war, A 6625. It is followed by International ideals, L 16327.

Reconstruction

Kahn, Otto H. The morning after. 1919.

L 16645

A Founder's Day address at Carnegie Institute.

Quick, Herbert. From war to peace; a plea for a definite policy of reconstruction. 1919.

L 16658

Demobilization, transportation, and employment for soldiers, are among the points for which the author thinks Congress should provide immediately by a definite program of readjustment.

Reid, Leonard J. The great alternative: saner politics or revolution. 1918.

L 16662

An appeal to moderate people to constitute a mediating agency between the extremists of labor and capital to carry out reforms that will avoid post-bellum strife. The author advocates freedom for private enterprise.

Vanderlip, Frank A. What happened to Europe. 1919.

L 16664

A book vividly portraying industrial conditions in Europe and enlisting America's aid.

Rehabilitation

Camus, Jean, and others. Physical and occupational re-education of the maimed. 1919.

L 19710

Contains a few articles on British institutions (notably Sir Arthur Pearson's on St. Dunstan's) but consists mostly of translations from French workers in rehabilitation of the disabled.

Devine, Edward T. and Brandt, Lilian. Disabled soldiers and sailors pensions and training. 1919.

K 31084

Carnegie endowment for international peace. Preliminary economic studies of the war.

Pearson, Sir Arthur. Victory over blindness; how it was won by the men of St. Dunstan's and how others may win it. 1919.

L 19711

Sir Arthur Pearson, owner and manager of a large chain of English papers, became totally blind about the time the war broke out. He founded St. Dunstan's Hostel which cared for practically all the blinded British soldiers. His book is an inspiring record invaluable to the worker with the blind and good reading for anyone.

Practical Sociology, Criminology

Georgia. University. Sanitary conditions among the negroes of Athens, Georgia. 1918. L 16174.4

Mounts, Lewis Hendrix. Dependents, defectives and delinquents in Iowa; a study of the sources of social infection. 1919. L 15421.7II

University of Iowa. Studies in the social sciences.

Mercier, Charles. Crime and criminals; being the jurisprudence of crime, medical, biological, and psychological. 1919. L 18895

Dr. Mercier writes from the standpoint of common sense, often protesting against absurdities in legal practice, especially as found in English law. His book is an excellent, practical, and thought-provoking exposition for all those who have at heart the interests of the derelicts of society.

Rhodes, D. P. Our immortality. 1919. L 15429

Contents: The foundation of knowledge.—The meaning of immortality.—Practical implications of a rational view of immortality, as regards war, murder, rape, eugenics, alcoholism; habitual use of drugs, marriage and feminism, mother love, arts and sciences, property, government, the first duty.

Belief in the future life in its bearing on human conduct with reference to the present problems of society. The author attempts to define just how much may be regarded as definitely established, and how much is unknown.

Education

Caldwell, Otis W. The Gary public schools: science teaching. 1919. L 20077

Dewey, Evelyn. New schools for old; the regeneration of the Porter school. 1919. L 20052

The inspiring story of the regeneration of a backward rural community in Missouri through the wisely directed development of the district school.

Kendall, C. N. and Mirick, G. A. How to teach the special subjects. 1918. L 19516

Riverside text-books in education.

Companion volume to How to teach the fundamental subjects, L11918, dealing with those other subjects of primary education that are assigned to special teachers—music, art, physical education, and manual training.

Kolbe, Parke Rexford. The colleges in war time and after; a contemporary account of the effect of the war upon higher education in America. 1919. L 19945

Problems of war and of reconstruction.

Considerable space is devoted to various measures of co-operation between the government and universities to keep a continuous supply of college-trained men in the government's service during the war.

Folklore

Andrews, Elizabeth. Ulster folklore. 1919. L 21124

The author's theory is that the current Ulster legends and fairy tales of the "little people" are reminiscent of an aboriginal race of prehistoric pygmies.

Haigh, Richmond. An Ethiopian saga. 1919. L 21135

A native tale of South Africa, based on material gathered at first hand.

LANGUAGE

Poetry by Individual Authors

Aldington, Richard. War and love, 1915–1918. 1919. E 10624

There is ecstasy and exquisite suffering in these poems of love in wartime, but not sentimentality. The war has produced no more genuine poetry.—Dial.

Baudelaire, Charles. Poems and prose poems. 1919. E 10640

In an introductory essay which incidentally makes illuminating comments on Poe, De Quincey, Hawthorne, Whistler, and other kindred personalities, Mr. James Huneker characterizes Baudelaire as an "extraordinary poet with a bad conscience."

Bodenheim, Maxwell. Minna and myself. 1918. E 10674

Poems and two one-act poetic plays.

Among the most delicately tinted and fantastically subtle of contemporary poems in free verse.—Dial.

Bynner, Witter. The beloved stranger; two books of song and a divertissement for the unknown lover. 1919. E 10729

This volume includes poems in two rather distinct manners,—some beautiful love poems like those for which Mr. Bynner is best known, and some with an oddly futurist turn like those he has written under the pseudonym of Emanuel Morgan.

Carmichael, Waverley Turner. From the heart of a folk; a book of songs. 1918. E 10754

Striking interpretations of negro life by a Southern negro of limited education who has the skill to write the feeling of his people and his impressions of the life about him.—Boston Transcript.

Deutsch, Babette. Banners. 1919. E 10874

A collection of poems in almost all grades of form from the stereotyped sonnet to genuine free verse of much delicacy and beauty.

Fletcher, John Gould. The tree of life. 1918. E 10911

A collection of love poems.

Hayes, James M. The grave of dreams, and other verses. 1917. E 11040

Housman, Laurence. The heart of peace. 1919. E 11061

A few verses of wartime are grouped among these lyrics tuned mostly to the usual poetical themes of peace.

Mac Cathmhaoil, Seosamh, pseud. of Joseph Campbell. The mountainy singer. 1919. E 10752

Charming Irish lyrics.

Untermeyer, Jean Starr. Growing pains. 1918. E 8769

Poems of self-analysis, of visions, emotions, and experiences, written with much depth and charm and without sentimentality.

Wood, Clement. The earth turns south. 1919. E 11686

A volume of poems which are unusually typical of the best of our current American magazine verse. A few of these are already widely known, as, "I see America marching."

Essays and Miscellanies

Balfour, Arthur James. The mind of Arthur James Balfour; selections from his non-political writings, speeches, and addresses, 1879–1917, including special sections on America and Germany. 1918. E 1889

A consideration of the ex-premier as a personality and thinker, quite apart from his public life. Something of the philosophic spirit, keenness in repartee and debate, and personal charm with which he delighted Parliament may be appreciated even from the printed words.

Hearn, Lafcadio. Karma. 1918. E 3311

Contents: Karma.—A ghost.—The first Muezzin, Bilâl.—China and the western world.

Russell, George W. E. Prime ministers and some others; a book of reminiscences. 1919. E 5516

Genial essays on politics, education, religion, and most delightfully of all on famous men, including nine prime ministers from Lord Palmerston to Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and a dozen others "in honor of friendship."

Symonds, John Addington. Last and first; two essays. 1919. E 5816

Studies of the function of the Renaissance in the development of human history, and of Arthur Hugh Clough's point of view as poet and thinker.—Nation.

Underwood, Edna Worthley. Letters from a prairie garden. 1919. E 6161

Letters of a woman who corresponded with an unknown artist. They show a wide and discriminating knowledge of literature and music, and a vivid joy in color, nature and dream life.—Book-list.

Wit and Humor

Jourdain, Philip E. B., ed. The philosophy of Mr. B*rrtr*nd R*ss*ll, with an appendix of leading passages from certain other works. 1919. E 3866

A sympathetic reductio ad absurdum of symbolic logic which the Dial calls "a delicious bit of philosophical spoofing."

Marquis, Don. Prefaces. 1919. E 4438

Amusing prefaces to imaginary books. These include a cook book, a medium's dope book, works of Billy Sunday, the novels of Harold Bell Wright, etc.

BIOGRAPHY

Parker, Carleton H. Parker, Cornelia Stratton. An American idyll. 1919. C 23692

Dr. Parker believed in applying the best knowledge of behavior psychology to the question of migratory labor. He had a winning personality, and as mediator in thirty-two strikes was trusted alike by laborers, operators, and the government. His wife's account of his achievements, and the obstacles overcome to make them possible, gives also the beautiful love-story of their ten years of married life richly lived.

Pett, Phineas. Autobiography. 1918. A 3389,51

Publications of the Navy Records Society.

The story of a master-builder and naval commissioner in the days of the early Stuarts. Pett was more or less responsible for every ship added to the navy, and for many merchant vessels, during the reigns of James I and Charles I.

Prominent Jews of America; a collection of biographical sketches of Jews who have distinguished themselves in commercial, professional and religious endeavor. 1918. C 19898

Roosevelt, Theodore. Lewis, William D. The Life of Theodore Roosevelt, with an introduction by W. H. Taft. 1919. C 23993

HISTORY

Europe

Ashley, Roscoe Lewis. Modern European civilization; a textbook for secondary schools. 1919. A 5944

A concise study of the social and economic development of Europe upon a background of political history from the beginning of the seventeenth century. Excellent for general reading and for historical classes.

Asquith, H. H. Some aspects of the Victorian age. 1918. A 5378

The aspects dealt with comprise literature, history, philosophy, and science, excluding the "controversial domains of politics and theology."

Chekrezi, Constantine A. Albania past and present. 1919. A 5258

"An interpretation of the Albanian people, an exposition of Albanian history, a presentation of Albanian claims, straight from the mind and heart of a native of that country."—Charles D. Hazen in introduction.

Ferrero, Guglielmo. Problems of peace, from the Holy Alliance to the league of nations. 1919. A 5948

A summary and running comment on the history of Europe from 1815. The only problem of peace that he sees in the present is the complete satisfaction of the claims of Italy to compensate for her unparalleled chivalry in rushing to the aid of the Allies.—Dial.

European War

Deland, Margaret. Small things. 1919. A 6962

Mrs. Deland accompanied her two daughters when they went to France on canteen duty for the American Author's Service. Her chronicle reflects the heroic endurance of the French people, the idealism of American soldiers, the spirit of service of our civilian relief, the frightfulness of German practice.

French, Field-Marshal J. D. P. 1914; with a preface by Marshal Foch. 1919. A 6963

This book cannot fail to be a valuable source book for the campaigns of the first year of the war. We get the commander's own story of the retreat on the Marne, the battles of the Aisne and of Ypres, of his stand against Kitchener's opposition, and of Joffre's achievements.

Huidekoper, Frederick L. 33rd Division, A. E. F., from its arrival in France, until the armistice with Germany, November 11, 1918. 1919. A 6981

Nevinson, Henry W. The Dardanelles campaign. 1919. A 6964

A well-balanced and clearly written treatise on the failure at the Dardanelles by an authority, a war correspondent of many years' standing with a desire for strict adherence to the facts.

Reece, Robert H. Night bombing with the Bedouins, by one of the squadron. 1919. A 6959

History of the aeroplane in wartime, as well as a story of the international unit, the Bedouins, and of the men who composed it.

Russell, Charles Edward. After the whirlwind; a book of reconstruction and profitable thanksgiving. 1919. A 6960

Deals mainly with the causes and after-effects of the war. It condemns the competitive system on the basis that the results have been universally disastrous, and presents a plea for co-operation and industrial democracy.

United States. Dept. of State. Diplomatic correspondence between the United States and Germany, August 1, 1914-April 6, 1917; ed. by James Brown Scott. 1918. A 6958

Washburn, Slater. One of the Yankee division. 1919. A 6961

Trench-life commonplaces of the 101st field artillery, with descriptions of action at Chateau Thierry and the Marne, make an interesting book.

Y. W. C. A. War Work Council National Board. Young Women's Christian Association overseas. 1919. A 6965

Armenia

Armenian National Union of America (New York). Should America accept mandate for Armenia? 1919. A 4844

Hacopian, A. P. Armenia and the war; an Armenian's point of view with an appeal to Britain and the coming peace conference. With a preface by Viscount Bryce. 1917. A 4845

Pasdermadjian, G. Why Armenia should be free; Armenia's role in the present war. 1918. A 6966

Siberia and the Far East

Ackerman, Carl W. Trailing the Bolsheviks; twelve thousand miles with the Allies in Siberia. 1919. A 4801

The greater part of the book assumes that Bolshevism is a failure in Russia and that outside of Russia it is nothing but socialism. A valuable feature is its analysis of the extent of Japanese influence in Siberia. Full of good news stories and reminiscences.

Millard, Thomas F. Democracy and the Eastern question; the problem of the Far East as demonstrated by the great war, and its relation to the United States of America. 1919. A 4828

The author is editor of Millard's Review, a magazine published in China, and of vigorously anti-Japanese sympathies.

Mexico and South America

Gibbon, Thomas Edward. Mexico under Carranza; a lawyer's indictment of the crowning infamy of four hundred years of misrule. 1919. B 4840

This volume is an arraignment of Carranza and the entire class of Latin-Mexicans, placing the sole hope of the natives in United States intervention. It dwells especially upon the blessing of foreign capital.

Sweet, William Warren. A history of Latin America. 1919. B 4960

The story of Latin America with emphasis laid on its old-world foundations and carried down to its present-day domestic conditions and foreign relations. Useful for college classes and of interest to the general reader.

United States

Brooks, R. P. Conscription in the Confederate States of America, 1862-1865. 1917. B 7372

University of Georgia. Bulletin.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S BOOKS

Browne, E. Gordon. Little Dwarf Nose and The magic whistle. 1916. H 7585

Darrow, Floyd L. The boys' own book of great inventions. 1918. K 22448

Takes up the story of a few of the greatest inventions, tracing their influence upon world progress and describing simple experiments for home laboratory work. It will appeal decidedly to the boy of a scientific turn of mind. Ages 12-16.

Lucia, Rose. Peter and Polly in winter. 1914. H 4803

This is the story of Peter and Polly's daily life in the country. There is a map showing the hill where they found the Christmas tree, also the house where they live, and many other places. Seven and eight year old children will enjoy the conversational style in which the story is written.

Smith, Gertrude. The stories of Peter and Ellen. 1903. H 6557

A record of Peter and Ellen's busy, happy days in which the making of mud pies was one of their greatest delights. The large, black type and many illustrations make it enjoyable for little people. Ages 5-7.

Stein, Evaluen. Our little Celtic cousin of long ago; being the story of Ferdiad, a boy of Ireland, in the time of Brian Boru. 1918. H 6626

The little cousins of long ago series. Brian Boru was an early Irish king who lived about the year 1000.

In the Thomas Hughes Room

Bosschère, Jean de. Folk tales of Flanders.

An interesting collection of the popular fables and legends of Flanders. Some of the tales are very primitive and crude, but they have the freshness and strength of new things. The illustrations in vivid colors and black and white are most attractive. Ages 8-12.

Garnett, Louise Ayres. The merry-makers. 1918.

Jolly rhymes, in which well-known Mother Goose characters appear at most unexpected places. The illustrations, suggesting joy of childhood and full of action, will hold the attention of the little tot too young to read the rhymes. Ages 4-6.

Hand, Gertrude. Historical stories in dramatic form. 1914. 4 v.

Contents: v. 1. Christopher Columbus at the court of Spain.—Ferdinand Magellan.—Francis Drake.—John Smith in Virginia.—The French in Canada.—Henry Hudson in the new world.—Miles Standish.—Roger Williams. v. 2. Peter Stuyvesant in New Amsterdam, 1664.—Exploration of the Mississippi.—William Penn and the Quakers.—La Salle and his journey down the Mississippi.—The charter oak.—Patrick Henry.—George Washington. v. 3. Washington, the Commander, at Valley Forge.—The Boston tea party.—Paul Revere and the battle of Lexington.—Israel Putnam.—Nathan Hale.—Daniel Boone. v. 4.—John Paul Jones.—George Rogers Clarke.—Gen. Marion, the Swamp Fox.—Thomas Jefferson.—Daniel Webster.—Abraham Lincoln.—Ulysses Simpson Grant.

Interesting events in American history dramatized for the grades.

Murphy, Ethel Allen. The victory of the gardens; a pageant in four episodes written for the United States School Garden Army. 1918.

Circulating copies in Doc. Dept. For the imaginative participation of the children of America, this pageant offers the fascinating story of the united efforts of man and nature.

Page, Thomas Nelson. Tommy Trot's visit to Santa Claus. 1908.

Tommy dreams of a visit to the polar regions where he finds Santa Claus and his shop. Tommy's adventures will interest the littlest ones.

Pyle, Katharine. Six little ducklings. 1917.

The six little ducklings have such cunning names—there is one called Curly Tail and another Pin-Toes. The story tells all about what they do day by day, and with pictures to show how they look, you can get very well acquainted with the whole family. For children from six to eight.

Children's Book Week

November 10 to 15

A MERICAN librarians have spent much time and effort in developing and enforcing the theory that one of the most potent influences in the formation of character is found in a child's reading. They have insisted upon the importance of such commonplace ingredients as sanity, probability, honest and realizable ideals. They enforced the truth of their contention by pointing to the wonderful and enduring success of such books as those of Louisa May Alcott, who broke through her own straight-laced environment and performed the very divine feat of creating the first human family in American juvenile literature—a most ordinary but a most human family! They denied that books had either to be written down or “spiced up” for youthful comprehension and dwelt upon the fact that the greatest children's books of all time were not written for children at all but for their elders, viz.: Arabian Nights, King Arthur, Pilgrim's Progress, Robinson Crusoe, Gulliver. The study of children's literature and the rights of children in public libraries became one of the major specialties in American library administration. Theorizing presently gave place to experiment, observation, and practical demonstration. Teachers were easily led to investigate the new doctrine and as easily convinced of its essential truth. Parents, contrasting the memories of the literary pabulum of their own childhood with some of the products of the new era, saw and approved the difference. And now the makers and sellers of books have not only fallen in with the movement, but have taken their proper place at its head by instituting the Children's Book Week, during which they, in common with librarians, teachers, and parents, will take thought of Good Books for Children. Every bookshop will make special displays of children's books. Conferences and lectures will be organized; descriptive and selected lists adapted to every age will be compiled. All persons charged with responsibilities for the reading tastes and habits of a child or group of children will welcome the opportunity to survey the results of the campaign as they appear on the tables of the bookseller or the shelves of the library. And not the least among those interested will be the child of the eighties and nineties, who will behold with wonder the great advances that have come in the methods and ideals of those who make books for children.

The recognition of the human child in literature is a matter of relatively recent accomplishment. Both as hero, or heroine, in current juvenile stories, and as the reader thereof, he or she has been long in arriving. The present generation of adults must still recall the hopelessly perfect little prigs whose performances, either in sheer impossible goodness or in overcoming all foes, animate and inanimate, or in achieving fame and fortune with incredible speed, were the staple of every childish tale. Aside from these there were for the boy only the forbidden atrocities of the dime novel, and for the girl the pale romances diluted from the formulas of the "family story paper."

The turning point came when writers of American juvenile stories began to produce Good Books for and about human children instead of merely books for and about Good Children, and with the hastening of that day the public libraries of America had a good deal to do.

The Public Library, therefore, joins with great pleasure in the plans for the proper observance of Children's Book Week. In every branch library, as well as in the main building, displays of suggestive lists and of recommended books have been organized. The Central Library display is installed in the corridor on the fourth floor adjoining the Thomas Hughes room, which is the headquarters of our children's department. Visitors are invited, and opportunity will be given for the discussion of problems or the inspection of groups of books suited to various ages, tastes, or conditions. Conferences between parents, teachers, and librarians will be organized if desired. While the library is, of course, at all times prepared to offer advice and expert assistance in matters of book selection, the opportunity offered by Children's Book Week will be made the occasion for particular emphasis upon this phase of our service.

Attention is also called to the lists printed on the succeeding pages. They are offered merely as specimens and are neither complete nor exhaustive.

PHILOSOPHY

Psychology

Blackford, Katherine M. H., and Newcomb, Arthur, ed. Character analysis by the observational method. 1919. 10v. L 13762

- v. 1. Introduction.—Color.
2. Form.—Size and structure.
3. Texture, consistency and flexibility.—Proportion.
4. Proportion (con.).
5. Expression.
6. Condition.—The features.
7. The hand and the foot.—Interpreting combinations of variations.
8. Sample analysis.—Disease, crime, insanity, and other deficiencies.
9. Marital and family relations.—Character analysis in salesmanship.—Vocational guidance.
10. Scientific employment.

Nicoll, Maurice. Dream psychology. 1917. L 13650

Oxford medical publications.
An English army surgeon's explanation of dreams from the non-Freudian point of view of the Swiss psychologists.

Spiritualism

Barker, Elsa. Last letters from the living dead man, with an introduction. 1919. L 10091

The author states that these spiritualistic messages are from Judge David P. Hatch, of Los Angeles, Feb., 1917–Feb., 1918. The book is a companion volume to the author's Letters from a living dead man (1914), L 10102, and War letters from the living dead man (1915), L 10093.

Hubbell, Walter. The great Amherst mystery; a true narrative of the supernatural. 1916. L 13394

A minute description of spirit manifestations connected with a haunted house in Amherst, Nova Scotia, in 1878 and 1879.

Hyslop, James H. Contact with the other world; the latest evidence as to communication with the dead. 1919. L 13538

A history of the growth of modern spiritualism. The problems which face the scientist are clearly and fairly stated, and Dr. Hyslop has left the reader with an appreciation of the efforts being made to explain psychic phenomena and also with an interest in the subject as a field for further exploration.

Watson, Albert Durrant. The twentieth plane; a psychic revelation. 1919. L 13504

The author is president of the Canadian Psychical Research Association, and vouches for the integrity of his medium. The "20th plane publication committee" responsible for the book consists of Lincoln, Emerson, Whitman, and Ingersoll. Coleridge dedicates the book to the heroes of the war and names some of the synthetic foods enjoyed by dwellers on the plane, while Alfred Russel Wallace describes the process of communication.

RELIGION

Bousset, W. Jesus. 1911. M 7123
Crown theological library.
A discussion of the historicity problem.

Carroll, Robert S. The soul in suffering; a practical application of spiritual truths. 1919. L 14099

It stands for medical ideals reaching out to Christian ideals, that one of the greatest problems of human existence—the problem of suffering, which through the ages has been so pitifully solved by the many—may be a bit more worthily met by all helpers of mankind.—Introduction.

Hunter, Robert. Why we fail as Christians. 1919. M 9216

A searching attempt to find and to proclaim a truly Christian rule of ideal and of practice in the field of economic adjustment. The striking feature is its analysis of Tolstoy's attempt to live the truly Christian life and his failure.—Survey.

McGarrah, Albert F. Modern church management; a study in efficiency. 1917. M 9514

Petre, M. D. Modernism; its failures and its fruits. 1918. M 7711

The London Times calls this book, whose author is a friend of Tyrrell, "the obituary notice of a movement which has been extinguished by authority."

Salter, William. Sixty years, and other discourses, with reminiscences. 1907. M 4837

History of Religion

Bartlet, J. Vernon, and Carlyle, A. J. Christianity in history; a study of religious development. 1917. M 7466

An attempt to set forth the genesis and growth of some typical forms which Christianity has assumed under the various secular influences to which it has been exposed. Accurate and scholarly.—London Times.

Moore, George Foot. History of religions. 1913–19. 2v. M 3723, 16

Professor Moore of Harvard is one of the most scholarly authorities in this country on comparative religion and the history of religions. The present work (whose second volume was delayed by the war) includes the study of (vol. 1) China, Japan, Egypt, Babylonia, Assyria, India, Persia, Greece, and Rome, and (vol. 2) of Judaism, Christianity, and Mohammedanism.

Non-Christian Religions

Hess, Moses. Rome and Jerusalem; a study in Jewish nationalism. 1918. A 2852

King, Leonard W. Legends of Babylon and Egypt in relation to Hebrew tradition. 1918. M 7964

Contents: Egypt, Babylon, and Palestine, and some traditional origins of civilization.—Deluge stories and the new Sumerian version.—Creation and the dragon myth; and the problem of Babylonian parallels in Hebrew tradition.

- Koran. The Holy Qur-ân; containing the Arabic text with English translation and commentary, by Maulvi Muhammad Ali. 1917. M 8112

SOCIOLOGY

- Bevan, Edwyn. German social democracy during the war. 1918. L 18487
An English historian's account of the position of the German Social Democratic party and its leaders in August, 1914, and how this was affected by the fortunes of war during the first three years.

- Gretton, R. H. The English middle class. 1917. L 15921
With judgment and a due sense of proportion the middle class is defined as "that portion of the community to which money is the primary condition and primary instrument of life." Its history is followed to the present from the time of the merchant guilds in the 11th and 12th centuries.

- Higginson, John Hedley. Tariffs at work; an outline of practical tariff administration, with special reference to the United States and Canada. 1913. L 17790

Reconstruction

- Canadian National Reconstruction Groups. The problems of national reconstruction; a summary. 1918. L 16646

- Lindsay, Samuel McCune, ed. War labor policies and reconstruction. 1919. L 7286, 8, II
Proceedings of the Academy of political science in the city of New York.

A series of addresses and papers presented at the Labor Reconstruction Conference held under the auspices of the Academy of political science in the city of New York, December 6-7, 1918.

- Lippincott, Isaac. Problems of reconstruction. 1919. L 16669
The study is thorough and comprehensive and a valuable addition to reconstruction literature. The title, however, is not a true index of the contents of the book, for fully two-thirds of it is devoted to an outline of war control.—American Economic Review.

- Morman, James B. The place of agriculture in reconstruction; a study of national programs of land settlement. 1919. L 17498

The author thinks that only those soldiers should be settled at once upon the land who have had previous agricultural experience or show special aptitude for and interest in farm life. His careful study of settlement programs is as pertinent for normal periods of transition as for the readjustment following upon the war.

- Study outline in the problems of the reconstruction period. 1918. L 15354

- Turner, Samuel. From war to work. 1918. L 16663

- Wells, H. G. The elements of reconstruction. 1917. L 16677

Contents: Introduction.—Science in education and industry.—Scientific agriculture and the nation's food.—The long view and labour.—Problems of political adaptation.—An imperial constitution.—Higher education in the empire.

Series of articles contributed in July and August, 1916, to the Times, by "D. P."

Immigration

- Malcom, M. Vartan. The Armenians in America, with an introduction by James W. Gerard. 1919. L 16074

The Negro

- Elwang, William Wilson. The negroes of Columbia, Missouri; a concrete study of the race problem. 1904. L 16171

- Johnson, M. K. School conditions in Clarke County, Georgia, with special reference to negroes. 1916. L 16174, 3
Bulletin of the University of Georgia.

Labor

- Cole, G. D. H., and Mellor, W. The meaning of industrial freedom. 1918. L 17193

Contents: The need for freedom.—Socialism old and new.—The purpose of trade unionism.—Craft industry and class.—The effects of the greater unionism.—Control, true and false.—Democracy in industry.—The state and the guilds.—The bondage of iron.—The world for the worker.

Papers written from the point of view of guild socialism.

- Frank, Glenn. The politics of industry; a foot-note to the social unrest. 1919. L 16643

Mr. Frank presents the point of view of the modern business man and his attempt not only to solve the present unrest, but to introduce a constructive policy that will save industry from radical bolshevistic schemes. He does not advocate government control but "the organization of industry and business on a more representative and democratic basis."

- Furniss, H. Sanderson, ed. The industrial outlook, by various writers. 1917. L 16644

Contents: Introductory, by H. S. Furniss.—Employers and property, by G. W. Daniels.—The war and the status of the wage-earner, by Henry Clay.—Labour organization, by J. R. Taylor.—The control of industry by producers and consumers, by William Piercy.—Rural problems, by A. W. Ashby.—Credit and banking, by T. E. Gregory.—Industry and taxation, by W. H. Pringle.—The state and the control of industry, by W. H. Pringle.

- Henderson, Arthur. The league of nations and labour. 1918. L 17949

The league of nations series.

A very short paper by the great British labor leader.

- The Labour year book. 1919. L 16742
Issued in London under the auspices of the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress.

Mallock, W. H. Capital, war, and wages; three questions in outline. 1918. L 16744

The first of these two papers relates to the conscription of capital for war purposes; the second concludes that the future welfare of both capital and labor will result from an increased production brought about by the continuous use and improvement of machine-capital and by the development of alertness and energy in wage-earners by the inducement of graded rewards.

Rowntree, B. Seebohm. The human needs of labour. 1918. L 16948

Civil Service, Municipal Government

Waterman, A. E. Self-instruction courses in civil service; comprising examinations for the federal, state, and municipal civil service. 1918. L 18178

Issued by the Civil Service Instruction Co. of Chicago.

Woodruff, Clinton Rogers, ed. A new municipal program. 1919. L 18243

National municipal league series.

The work of an able committee on municipal administration, concisely compiled in one volume. Municipal program, model charters, civil service, the short ballot, franchise policy, finance, and city planning are among the subjects treated.

New York (State). General Education Board. Private endowment and public education; a report on the use of the Handley fund, with an introduction by R. Gray Williams. 1919. Civics Dept.

Customs, Folk-Lore

Barker, W. H., and Sinclair, Cecilia, comp. West African folk-tales. 1917. L 21125

Folklore which is supposed to have furnished one source of the Uncle Remus stories.

Cripps-Day, Francis Henry. The history of the tournament in England and in France. 1918. L 20772

Very serious contribution to a most fascinating subject. Its delightful illustrations and copious quotations from old documents bring this strangest of human institutions before our eyes with great vividness.—Spectator.

Language

Esnault, Gaston, comp. Le poilu tel qu'il se parle; dictionnaire des termes populaires récents et neufs employés aux armées en 1914-1918, étudiés dans leur étymologie, leur développement et leur usage. 1919. *R 2193

Etymological dictionary of new French terms used in the war.

Racine, Jean Baptiste. Athalie, a tragedy; with explanatory notes for the use of students. 1871. J 7424

Students' series of classic French plays.

SCIENCE

Mathematics

Coolidge, Julian Lowell. A treatise on the circle and the sphere. 1916. K 18705

A very technical account of the various theories of the circle and sphere, taking into consideration elementary and Cartesian geometry, tetracyclic planes and pentaspherical space, the circles of Feuerbach, Lemoine, Tucker, and Brocard, circle and sphere transformations, oriental circles and spheres, the parametric and Kummer methods for circle congruences, etc.

Geology

Cunningham-Craig, E. H. Oil-finding; an introduction to the geological study of petroleum. 1917. L 20419

Natural History

Downing, Elliot Rowland. A source book of biological nature-study. 1919. K 20681

The University of Chicago nature-study series.

In treating of familiar animal and vegetable life the author "undertakes to make significant some of our commonplace environment and to suggest ways in which living material may serve educational ends."

Fabre, J. Henri. The mason-wasps. 1919. K 21899

The second volume on wasps in the collected edition of Fabre's Souvenirs entomologiques. The first of these was the Hunting wasps K 21893.

Mills, Enos A. The grizzly, our greatest wild animal. 1919. K 22186

Much information delightfully given in narrative form, with pleasing illustrations. While not written directly for children, its style is so clear that it will afford them both pleasure and profit, especially boys. —Booklist.

USEFUL ARTS

Hygiene

Pani, Alberto J. Hygiene in Mexico; a study of sanitary and educational problems. 1917. N 1507

Engineering

Gillette, Halbert Powers. Handbook of rock excavation, methods, and cost. 1916. K 23067

Wegmann, Edward. Conveyance and distribution of water for water supply; aqueducts, pipe-lines and distributing systems, a practical treatise for water-works engineers and superintendents. 1918. K 23779

The author was an engineer in the water department of New York City for thirty years, and his treatise is a distinctly practical one, well supplied with illustrations and useful tables and specifications.

Yates, Raymond Francis, ed. Model making, including workshop practice, design and construction of models, a practical treatise for the amateur and professional mechanic. 1919. K 22982

Metallurgy

Mellor, J. W. The crystallization of iron and steel; an introduction to the study of metallography. 1918. K 25655

Fruit Growing

Hedrick, U. P. Manual of American grape-growing. 1919. K 24088
The rural manuals.

Pets

Farrington, Edward I. Practical rabbit keeping. 1919. K 24470

There is something of a revival in rabbit raising just now because of the increasing demand for the meat and skins. This little book gives in clear and simple language the details that should be understood in keeping rabbits for pets or raising them for market.

Business

MacGregor, T. D. The new business department; its organization and operation in a modern bank. 1917. L 17343

Purinton, Edward Earle. Personal efficiency in business. 1919. L 20408

Reynolds, W. B. and Thornton, F. W. Duties of the junior accountant. 1919. L 20480

Treats of trial balances, the verifications of balances and securities, checking inventories, making schedules, the care of clients' books, the utilization of waiting time.

A. W. Shaw Co. Buildings, equipment and supplies; location and general construction, planning the bank's interior, special equipment which pays, how to reduce the cost of supplies. 1919. L 17356

Transportation

Collins, Nelson. Opportunities in merchant ships. 1919. K 25164

Straightforward and hearty consideration of seafaring as a regular trade shorn of much of the hardship and precariousness of the past. Relative advantages and disadvantages of a career on sea and land, and of the navy and merchant marine specifically.—Booklist.

Haines, Henry S. Efficient railway operation. 1919. K 25141

Technical treatise covering a field familiar to the author as administrator, operative head, and engineer. There is a short introduction on the evolution of the railway.—Dial.

Manufactures, Trades

Ermatinger, Henry L. Scientific hat finishing and renovating. 1919. K 26134

"A complete and profusely illustrated course of instruction, enabling the novice to acquire the art of finishing and remodeling hats of all varieties according to tested and approved methods."

Marson, Percival. Glass and glass manufacture. 1918. K 25493

Pitman's common commodities and industries.

A concise account of the history, properties, and production of the different kinds of glass. Somewhat technical in treatment but popular in style.

Milton, Archie S. and Wohlers, Otto K. A course in wood turning. 1919. K 26075

The fundamentals of wood turning taught by progressive lessons, and supplemented by illustrations and patterns.

Ross, Joseph. Waterproofing engineering for engineers, architects, builders, roofers and waterproofers. 1919. K26298

Silk Association of America. Silk essays; consisting of several essays and abstracts submitted in the Silk Association of America prize essay competition. 1914. K25835

LITERATURE

Ford, J. D. M. Main currents of Spanish literature. 1919. J5491

Contents: The heroic tradition: the epic.—The heroic tradition: the ballad.—Cervantes: the man and his work.—The rise of the drama and its triumph in the golden age: Lope de Vega.—The culmination of the dramatic movement: Calderón.—Lyric poetry.—The novel.—High points of Spanish-American literature.

For the general reader, who does not desire exhaustive treatment, this will furnish an adequate survey. For more comprehensive discussions see Fitzmaurice-Kelly's History of Spanish literature, J5496, and Chapters on Spanish literature, J5497, and Coester's Literary History of Spanish America, J5483.

Fowler, W. Warde. The death of Turnus; observations on the twelfth book of the Æneid. 1919. L2859

Lynd, Robert. Old and new masters. 1919. J4809

Contents: Dostoevsky the sensationalist.—Jane Austen, natural historian.—Mr. G. K. Chesterton and Mr. Hilaire Belloc.—Wordsworth.—Keats.—Henry James.—Browning, the poet of love.—The fame of J. M. Synge.—Villon, the genius of the tavern.—Pope.—James Elroy Flecker.—Turgenev.—The madness of Strindberg.—"The prince of French poets."—Rossetti and ritual.—Mr. Bernard Shaw.—Mr. Maschfield's secret.—Mr. W. B. Yeats—Tchekhov, the perfect story-teller.—Lady Gregory.—Mr. Cunningham Graham.—Swinburne.—The work of T. M. Kettle.—Mr. J. C. Squire.—Mr. Joseph Conrad.—Mr. Rudyard Kipling.—Mr. Thomas Hardy.

He sketches a swift portrait in a few trenchant phrases, epigrammatic and biting. This method has its obvious faults. One of them is that it scarcely allows time or space for a variety of impressions. The virtue of the method is that it leaves a lasting picture on the brain.—Carl van Vechten in Chicago Daily News.

Machen, Arthur. Hieroglyphics; a note upon ecstasy in literature. 1912. J4811

Comments on literature and the standards by which it is to be judged. The author finds in ecstasy "the touchstone which will infallibly separate the higher and lower in literature."

Magnus, Laurie. A general sketch of European literature in the centuries of romance. 1918. J4810

From the twelfth century to the year 1637.

The mass of knowledge of which he disposes, if nowhere amounting to specialism, is in the aggregate extraordinarily copious and varied; and he handles it with an agility of mind, an openness to impressions and a deftness in seizing salient points which make his book constantly fresh and informing.—London Times.

Moore, George. Aowals. 1919. E4649

A book for the literary reader written in beautiful studied prose, much of it in the form of imaginary conversations. Subjects of discussion are the achievements of English prose narrative, the censorship of literature, Tolstoy, Kipling, Patet, Shakespeare and Balzac, and Moore's experiences and associations with literary Paris.

Williams, Harold. Modern English writers: being a study of imaginative literature, 1890-1914. 1918. J6375

A very comprehensive work covering almost two hundred recent names and thus in many instances supplying reference material inaccessible elsewhere.

Poetry

Bridges, Robert. The necessity of poetry. 1918. E 10663

Poetry is necessary not as a substitute for religion in cultivated minds, but as the only possible expression of a certain order of ideas which are essential to the integrity of our mental life. It is, therefore, literally necessary to every man, and not least to the intelligent workingman, whom Mr. Bridges is here addressing.—Nation.

Davies, William H. Forty new poems. 1918. E 10875

Seven out of his forty new poems touch upon the war, and these seven only make more evident his abstraction from it. As a poet, he is still on the tramp, remote, unfriended, solitary, taking his own thoughts down his own road, glad in the children, the birds and the flowers.—London Times.

Knish, Anne, and Morgan, Emanuel, pseud. of A. D. Ficke and W. Bynner. Spectra; a book of poetic experiments. 1916. E 10914

One of the most successful hoaxes that ever startled the literary world. Even now, three years after its publication, the critics are not agreed as to just which poems, if any, are intended seriously.

Locchi, Vittorio. The feast of Saint Gorizia. 1919. E 11209

The jewels of the eroica.
English and Italian text on opposite pages.

Lowes, John Livingston. Convention and revolt in poetry. 1919. E 11230

A delightful and penetrating study of the fundamentals of poetry. The author holds no brief either for established or radical poetical forms. He feels that while the history of poetry has been but a succession of revolts, the greatest poetry has been written by revolvers who have infused new life into forms endeared by tradition.

Smith, C. Fox. Sailor town; sea songs and ballads. 1919. E 11545

—Small craft; sailor ballads and chantys. 1919. E 11546

Stirring and salty chanteys. Miss Smith catches and keeps the tone of sailors' personality with extraordinarily masculine vigor, and her verse is ready either to move with a steady breeze or to tack and shift effectively as occasion requires.—Nation.

Stevenson, Robert Louis. New poems and variant readings. 1918. E 11550

The surprising additions are many love-poems and other self-revealing pieces that we might, by a process of internal criticism, find appropriate dates for in his biography. It would have been a calamity to lose this unexpected salvage.—Athenaum.

Thomas, Edward. Last poems. 1918. E 8733

No other English poet has expressed in a quietude more profound the longing for home, the passion for solitude. None has left pictured more truly that remoter, changeless England which for those who have fought and suffered should be the inheritance of their peace.—London Times.

Trench, Herbert. Poems, with fables in prose. 1918. E 8696

His distinction is drawn from the quality in which Pindar and Virgil are preëminent, from style as Matthew Arnold used the word, a peculiar heightening, a happy excitement, an intoxication derived from the beauty of one's own voice, which all musical poets share with thrushes and nightingales.—London Times.

Turner, W. J. The dark fire. 1918. E 8719

The author of these poems possesses a remarkable and distinctive talent. There is an almost uncanny strength in his work. He expresses the strangeness of strange places as no poet since Coleridge has done.

Wilkinson, Marguerite. New voices; an introduction to contemporary poetry. 1919. E 11705

A well arranged anthology which groups its illustrative poems and comments under the headings of technique and spirit of contemporary poetry. It is critically generous and most useful to the average reader, perhaps, for its inclusiveness.—Booklist.

Drama

Bennett, Arnold. Judith; a play in three acts, founded on the apocryphal book of Judith. 1919. E 13490

Mr. Bennett brightens up an ancient theme with a few references to the war and some simple fun. Such words as "handmaid" and "bondman" attest the Biblical origin of the play, and the second person singular is used throughout—sometimes with painful results.—Athenaum.

Colby, Elbridge. Early American comedy. 1919. E 11940

Drinkwater, John. Abraham Lincoln; a play, with an introduction by Arnold Bennett. 1919. E 12018

This is a one-act play written by an Englishman and has had a phenomenally long and successful run in London. It may not seem convincing to Americans as there has been no attempt to reproduce American setting or idiom, but the character of Lincoln stands out in heroic relief. The form is dignified prose relieved by lyric choruses in the style of Greek tragedy.

O'Neill, Eugene G. The moon of the Caribbees, and six other plays of the sea. 1919. E 14168

Contents: The moon of the Caribbees.—Bound east for Cardiff.—The long voyage home.—In the zone.—Ile.—Where the cross is made.—The rope.

One-act plays of rough brutalized seamen and of lower phases of the life of those who follow the sea. The characters are well worked out, the dialogue racy and arising out of character, and the author has a remarkable quality for creating dramatic tension and atmosphere.—Open Shelf.

Pearse, Padraic. The singer, and other plays. 1918. E 14188

Contents: The singer.—The king.—The master.—Iosagan (tr. by Joseph Campbell).

Symons, Arthur. Studies in the Elizabethan drama. 1919. E 12874

Ten of these essays, written by the well-known critic in the last years of the nineteenth and the early years of the twentieth century, are on Shakespeare, and three others are on Massinger, Day, and Middleton and Rowley.

Trask, Katrina. Without the walls; a reading play. 1919. E 12933

A drama of the time of Christ, showing His influence on various typical characters. The action centers in a Jewish girl's struggle between her duty to her Pharisee father and her love for a young Roman noble.

Essays

Clemens, Samuel L. (Mark Twain). The curious republic of Gondour, and other whimsical sketches. 1919. E 2239

Contents: The curious republic of Gondour.—A memory.—Introductory to Memoranda.—About smells.—A couple of sad experiences.—Dan Murphy.—The tournament in A. D. 1870.—Curious relics for sale.—A reminiscence of the back settlements.—A royal compliment.—The approaching epidemic.—The tone-imparting committee.—Goldsmith's friend abroad again.—Our precious lunatic.—The European war.—The wild man interviewed.—Last words of great men.

Dacey, A. V. The statesmanship of Wordsworth; an essay. 1917. E 11685

Galsworthy, John. Addresses in America. 1919. E 3073

Seven addresses delivered by the well-known novelist and dramatist in his recent visit to the United States. The underlying theme in all of them is the future unity of England and America and the part this union is to play in reconstruction.

Lucas, E. V. 'Twixt eagle and dove. 1918. E 4361

The first of these delightful essays recalls the peaceful state of the world in 1859 when the German emperor was born. The others include sketches of town and country in England, and a few are on the themes suggested by the war.

BIOGRAPHY

Collected Biography

Smith, David Nichol, ed. Characters from the histories and memoirs of the seventeenth century, with an essay on the character and historical notes. 1918. C 19989

Calls attention to the interest of the seventeenth century in personality and studies of human life as reflected in biography and history.—Dial.

The word character is used throughout in the sense of character sketch or literary portrait.

Individual Biography

Dickens, Charles. Ley, J. W. T. The Dickens circle, a narrative of the novelist's friendships. 1919. C 21607

This circle of Dickens' correspondents consisted mainly of authors, artists, actors and lawyers. There is no suggestion of a political atmosphere to mar the essentially literary quality of the book.

Foch, Ferdinand. Puaux, René. Marshal Foch, his life, his work, his faith. 1918. C 21945

Foster, George Burman. A memorial service at the University of Chicago. 1919. C 21962

Redmond, John. Wells, Warre B. The life of John Redmond. 1919. C 23901

An excellent character study of a great man, presenting in sympathetic terms the history of Ireland during Redmond's leadership in Parliament.

Menzies, Amy Charlotte (Mrs. Stuart Menzies). Further indiscretions by a woman of no importance. 1918. C 23365

Continuation of the author's Memories discreet and indiscreet, C 23364.

Roosevelt, Theodore. Bishop, Joseph Bucklin, ed. Theodore Roosevelt's letters to his children. 1919. C 23995

These charming letters portray the delightful comradeship and sympathy that existed between Roosevelt and his children, and cover the ten years from the Spanish war through his residence in the White House. The letters are illustrated with crude sketches possessing quite the vividness and action of Thackeray's, though less of artistic merit.

—Hard, William. Theodore Roosevelt, a tribute. 1919. C 23996

First printed in the New Republic for January 25, 1919, under the title, Roosevelt now.

Senator Lodge's memorial address delivered before Congress, Feb. 9, 1919.

FICTION

Bartlett, Frederick Orin. Joan & Co. 1919. F 10820

An heiress plays fairy godmother to a young inventor who promptly falls in love with her. She marries a man of her own class and is, we are led to suppose, happy ever after.

Bell, J. J. Just Jemima. 1919. F 11019

The amusing experience of a maid in a boarding house at a summer resort. She describes the peculiarities of her guests and their love affairs.

Belloc, Hilaire. Emmanuel Burden, merchant of Thames St., in the city of London, exporter of hardware; a record of his lineage, speculations, last days and death. 1917. F 10981

Cannan, Gilbert. Mummery, a tale of three idealists. 1919. F 11670

A futurist scene painter, a dramatist, and a young actress, are the three idealists. The story attempts to show the conflict between idealism and our commercial and social conventions.

Deland, Margaret. The promises of Alice; the romance of a New England parsonage. 1919. F 12469

A quaint little story about a girl whose mother wanted her to be a missionary. It shows the indomitable power of the New England conscience.

Dell, Ethel M. The lamp in the desert. 1919. F 12461

A rather melodramatic story of India. It tells how a woman is punished for marrying a man whom she does not love.

De Morgan, William. The old madhouse. 1919. F 12409

A good mystery story, the last chapter of which was finished from the author's notes by his wife after his death. It tells of the unaccountable disappearance of the headmaster of a boys' school and the effect upon his family.

Hay, James. The winning clue. 1919. F 13592

A detective story centering about a mysterious murder in which an amateur and a professional detective attempt to run down a clue. It has an intricate plot which will baffle the efforts of the most resourceful reader to solve it in advance.

Hergesheimer, Joseph. The happy end. 1919. F 13707

Contents: Lonely valleys.—The Egyptian chariot.—The flower of Spain.—Tol'able David.—Bread.—Rosemary Roselle.—The thrush in the hedge.

Short stories which originally appeared in magazines. They are interesting in plot and of fine workmanship.

Jacobs, W. W. Deep waters. 1919. F 14317

Contents: Shareholders.—Paying off.—Made to measure.—Sam's ghost.—Bedridden.—The convert.—Husbandry.—Family cares.—The winter offensive.—The substitute.—Striking hard.—Dirty work.

Stories of English sea-faring men told by an old sailor who relates his adventures and mishaps.

Leverage, Henry. The white cipher. 1919. F 14730

An interesting story of an attempt to gain the secrets of German dye formulas which are in cipher form.

Lynde, Francis. David Vallory. 1919. F 14823

A young engineer has one standard for business and another for private life. This story tells of his regeneration through the failure of a great engineering enterprise.

Richardson, Dorothy M. Backwater. 1919. F 17151, 2

The second book in the series of her realistic novels entitled Pilgrimage. The first is Pointed Roofs, F 17151, and the third, Honeycomb, F 17151, 3.

Sinclair, May. Mary Olivier: a life. 1919. F 18161

An unusual and realistic biography of a child of abnormal parents whose life was a pitiful reaching out for everything that she could not attain.

Street, Julian. After thirty. 1919. F 18415

The adventures of a married man who, finding life a little stale, enlivens things by his friendships with different women of his acquaintance. He gets into various difficulties from which his patient wife has to extricate him.

Williamson, C. N., and Williamson, A. M. The lion's mouse. 1919. F 19546

A sensational mystery story.

Wodehouse, Pelham Grenville. Their mutual child. 1919. F 19700

A satire on eugenics and the follies of social life. Full of humor and pleasant to read.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S BOOKS

Bailey, Carolyn Sherwin. Stories of great adventures. 1919. H 7380

For the children's hour series.

Stories from the classics simplified for children. The author has imparted a certain charm in retelling them and they promise to be as popular as her other stories.

Chaffee, Allen. The adventures of Twinkly Eyes, the little black bear. 1919. H 7670

These tales are especially suitable for the children's bedtime reading although they may be appreciated by older people for their fidelity to natural science.

Kelly, Mrs. M. A. B. Short stories of our shy neighbors. 1896. H 4577

The wonder world of nature explained to the very young. Especially useful to teachers in the primary grades.

Knipe, Emilie B., and Knipe, Alden A. Vive la France; a narrative founded on the diary of Jeannette de Martigny. 1919. H 4578

The story of a young French girl's experiences during the first year of the war in Reims. It promises to be as popular as the other war stories by the same authors.

Lindsay, Maud, and Poulsson, Emilie. The joyous travelers. 1919. H 4827

A group of merry verses and fairy tales told in an interesting way for children.

Mathews, Franklin K., ed. The boy scouts book of stories. 1919. H 5225

Contents: The great big man, by O. Johnson.—A twilight adventure, by M. D. Post.—Tad Sheldon, second class scout, by J. F. Wilson.—The red-headed league, by A. C. Doyle.—The ransom of Red Chief, by O. Henry.—The honk-honk breed, by S. E. White.—The devil-fish, by N. Duncan.—The jumping frog, by Mark Twain.—Bingism, by B. Opera Scores, Librettos, and Plots

IN the Music Room on the fifth floor of the Main Library building are to be found librettos and from ten to twenty copies of the vocal scores of all the favorite operas and a smaller number of the less familiar ones. They may be borrowed on special music cards issuable to all registered book borrowers on application.

Much difficulty has been experienced in trying to secure scores of the new operas announced for production in the Chicago Opera repertory for this season, and not all have proved to be obtainable. Below is a list of references to books containing plots of the operas in this winter's program.

An interpretation of the aggressive spirit of the modern economic, scientific, and democratic age in terms of idealism.

Psychology

Franz, Shepherd Ivory. Handbook of mental examination methods. 1919. L 13902
 A manual for students, psychiatrists, and neurologists; not an exhaustive treatment.

Terman, Lewis M. The intelligence of school children; how children differ in ability, the use of mental tests in school grading, and the proper education of exceptional children. 1919. L 13717
 Riverside textbooks in education.

Psychical Research

Carrington, Hereward. Modern psychical phenomena; recent researches and speculations. 1919. L 13529

Mr. Carrington's object is to describe the methods which psychical research is using today and the very latest knowledge attained through it; and also to explain the value of the phenomena, if proved true. The first portion treats of the relation of these phenomena to the biological and psychological sciences, and the rest is devoted to recent experiments and theories.

Crawford, W. J. Experiments in psychical science, levitation, contact, and the direct voice. 1919. L 13531

The author has described very interesting mechanical tests in levitation and table rapping in his Reality of psychic phenomena, L13533. In this book he enters more into detail and records tests in "contact" phenomena and the "direct voice."

RELIGION

Lawson, J. Gilchrist, comp. Greatest thoughts about Jesus Christ, compiled from many sources. 1919. M 7138

Steele, David M. Addresses and sermons to students; being a series of commencement orations and baccalaureate sermons. 1919. M 4964

The author is an Episcopalian rector of Philadelphia.

Thomas, W. H. Griffith. The Christian life and how to live it. 1919. M 4210

A reprint of the sermons contained in the volume entitled Royal and loyal, including two additional chapters.

Thompson, Silvanus P. A not impossible religion. 1918. M 4221

A scientist's conviction that though orthodox religion has been made impossible by "the unreality, the uselessness, of the theological equipment that has done duty for religion," religion itself and the value of the example of Christ have not been destroyed.

The Bible

Fullerton, Kemper. Prophecy and authority; a study in the history of the doctrine and interpretation of Scripture. 1919. M 6658

An Oberlin professor's historical investigation of the theories of prophecy, inspiration, infallibility, and of the millennial hope which has lately been revived by the war among many Christian people.

Lawson, J. Gilchrist, comp. Greatest thoughts about the Bible gleaned from many sources. 1918. M 6375

Selections in prose and poetry from well-known preachers and laymen emphasizing the spiritual power and beauty of the Bible.

Penniman, Josiah H. A book about the English Bible. 1919. M 6384
Religious science and literature series.

Perhaps the real contribution of the volume is its emphasis of the fact that Israel made her heritage a new creation. It was not only a literary deposit, but something unique in itself.—Boston Transcript.

Church Work

Brunner, Edmund de S. The country church in the new world order. 1919. M 8683

Briefly considers the country church war activities, rural community organization, and the obligation of the church to furnish inspired leadership in initiating the rural community into the new world order.—Booklist.

Earp, Edwin L. The rural church serving the community. 1918. M 8883

A concise and practical treatment of the country church problem, giving definite suggestions for procedure in making it a rural social center of the most helpful kind. The psychological and economic features are not neglected.

Religious Education

Bower, William Clayton. A survey of religious education in the local church. 1919. L 19908

The University of Chicago. Publications in religious education.

Instructions for making surveys in church work on as scientific principles as those employed in other lines of social service. Frequent reference is made to the best books on both religious and secular teaching.

Cope, Henry Frederick. The school in the modern church. 1919. M 8252

A book of sound pedagogy and practical suggestions. By references to the leading movements in secular education the author brings out new ideals for the church school and opens new fields of activities.—Booklist.

Johns Hopkins University studies in historical and political science.

Land Tenure

Bond, Beverley W. jr. The quit-rent system in the American colonies. 1919. A 2219, 6
Yale historical publications.

The colonists were only secondary owners of their land as every acre was held first either by the king or landed proprietors who received it in a grant from him. The quit-rent was undoubtedly one of the grievances that brought on the revolution.

Finance

Selden, G. C. The machinery of Wall Street, why it exists, how it works and what it accomplishes. 1919. L 17469

Smitley, Robert L. What every investor ought to know. 1918. L 17467

Labor

Leitch, John. Man to man; the story of industrial democracy. 1919. L 16746

A plan for a representative form of government in industrial plants on the principle of the federal political organization. It has been successfully introduced into more than a dozen factories in the last few years.

Political Science

Ferrara, Orestes. Lessons of the war and the peace conference. 1919. L 17948

Contents: German policy.—Dismemberment of Austria-Hungary.—The remains of the Turkish empire.—The rights of Italy.—Count William Zoltern.—The Russian revolution.—Pacifism, past and future.—The league of nations.—The fourteen points.

A general discussion by a professor of public law at the National University of Havana, emphasizing throughout the political rather than the social or economic situation.

Geiser, Karl Frederick. Democracy versus autocracy; a comparative study of governments in the world war. 1918. L 18061

A brief and simple study of political ideals and institutions. After a consideration of comparative government, the specific governments of Germany, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, and Brazil are treated in detail.

Howell, Roger. The privileges and immunities of state citizenship. 1918. *L 3201, 36

Johns Hopkins University. Studies in historical and political science.

Jenks, Edward. The state and the nation. 1919. L 15784

An expansion of A short history of politics, L 6517.

The main outlines of social and political evolution. Mr. Jenks is happiest in his analysis of industrial reconstruction. He discusses briefly, but with admirable clarity, the Whitley scheme, syndicalism, guild socialism, and state socialism. —Nation.

Laski, Harold J. The problem of administrative areas; an essay in reconstruction. 1918. L 18063

Smith College studies in history.

Thayer, William Roscoe. Democracy: discipline: peace. 1919. L 15918

Brown University. The Colver lectures, 1919.

Discusses arguments for and against democracy, showing that a practical democracy is worth while; contrasts American educational ideals with German, emphasizing our need of discipline to fit us to the tasks of democracy; and urges interest in the battles of peace time against disease, social evils and poverty.—Booklist.

Law

Shealey, R. Preston. The law of government contracts. 1919. N 5490

A book for lawyers or business men, interpreting contracts with the government and the statutes and policies governing them. It quotes the laws, cites references to illustrative cases, and gives much clear explanatory matter necessary to the average person engaged in contract with the government. —Booklist.

International Relations

Brown, Louise Fargo. The freedom of the seas. 1919. L 17945

This includes a historical account of the centuries-old controversy and recommendations for its solution, involving the abolition of trade barriers and an international law of the sea determined by an international court and administered by international machinery.

Chung, Henry. The oriental policy of the United States. 1919. L 16289

A Korean's appeal to the United States on behalf of China whose national existence (together with the welfare of the world) he considers imperiled by Japanese aggression.

Elliot, Arthur D. Traditions of British statesmanship; some comments on passing events. 1919. L 16291

The author maintains that England's foreign policy has always been as peaceful as was consistent with her own security, and enters in detail into her pre-war relations with Germany. Among other subjects he takes up her preparedness, methods of warfare, reconstruction programs, and the Irish question.

League of Nations

Reconstruction

Culbertson, William Smith. Commercial policy in war time and after; a study of the application of democratic ideas to international commercial relations. 1919. L 20134

Problems of war and of reconstruction.

In the author's opinion the collapse of the two extreme theories of individualism and nationalism has proved that some international organization with at least an elementary sort of governmental au-

Education

Andress, J. Macc. Health education in rural schools. 1919. L 19612

A book of unusual practical value for rural school authorities in teaching hygiene and emphasizing its importance.

Lippincott, Horace Mather. The University of Pennsylvania, Franklin's college; being some account of its beginnings and development, its customs and traditions and its gifts to the nation. 1919. L 19948

This book has a broader interest than its attraction for the children of Alma Mater in that it serves to perpetuate the memory of college traditions and customs which are fast dying out in the businesslike atmosphere and vastness of the modern university.

Moore, Ernest Carroll. What the war teaches about education, and other papers and addresses. 1919. L 19398

The entire book is centered around the theme of the unlimited power of education, which in its utilitarian aspects the author thinks must bear the burden of responsibility for the new world-order that is to follow upon the war.

Parker, Samuel Chester. General methods of teaching in elementary schools, including the kindergarten and grades I to VI. 1919. L 19545

A simple and elementary consideration of the subject intended primarily for normal schools and training classes.

West, Andrew F. The war and education; together with a translation of the war address of M. Lafferre. 1919. L 19433

Considers that the most important contribution of the war to education lies in the increased emphasis placed upon discipline and the idea of duty, as opposed to mercenary or sentimental theories.

A small volume of newspaper verses by a Chicago poet.

Garesché, Edward F. The world and the waters. 1918. E 10950

A book of poems by a Jesuit priest, which the Bookman says "contains some very superior singing."

Lowell, Amy. Pictures of the floating world. 1919. E 7753

A book of impressions, fleeting and delicate, yet keenly and vividly defined. There are few poems in it that lack distinguished beauty, a beauty expressed simply and eloquently.—New York Times.

Oppenheim, James. The solitary. 1919. E 11381

Contents: The sea.—Songs out of solitude.—Songs out of multitude.—Night, a drama.

Poems notably expressive of the social and intellectual confusion, the blend of half-formed, worthily felt indignations, hopes, and despair of America at the present moment.—Nation.

Spicer, Anne Higginson. The last crusade. 1918. E 11549

Poems.

Squire, J. C. Poems; first series. 1919. E 11543

His poems are as compact of detail as a patch of turf, and like the turf they have a deceptive air of plainness. As a result the book is packed with interest.—Athenaum.

Tietjens, Eunice. Body and raiment. 1919. E 8736

Many forms of verse to suit many environments and moods and the poet's own complexity which is attractively analyzed in the first poem. Renderings and translations of a few Japanese and other poems.—Booklist.

Wheelock, John Hall. Dust and light. 1919. E 11708

For a tender virility, a charm of unsullied youth, a searching ardor, a human poignancy and tragic sense of reality—for these rare things expressed in verse unwavering and untrammelled by any snare of mere literariness, his first volume is a permanent boon to our native literature.—Percy Mackaye.

Wilbur, Russell J. Theodore Roosevelt; a verse sequence in sonnets and quatorzains. 1919. E 11709

A series of verses which, as William Hard says in the preface, "do not give us the Roosevelt of a faction or of a moment, but rather Roosevelt's assemblage of conflicts, of human eternal conflicts, demanding to be solved."

Wilson, Eugene E., comp. Comrades of the mist, and other rhymes of the grand fleet. 1919. E 11689

A memento of one phase of our participation in the war that is well worth having.—New York Times.

In The Drama, November, 1918.

Rolland, Romain. The wolves; a play in three acts.

E 12466

In The Drama, November, 1918.

Shaw, George Bernard. Heartbreak house, Great Catherine, and playlets of the war. 1919.

E 12847

"Heartbreak House" represents cultured, leisured England before the war—its sentimentality, romance, and snobbishness. At the end the war itself is symbolized by a bomb whose sole effect is to bring disaster to the business men of the party through their excessive caution. There are the usual Shavian prefaces.

Besides this "fantasia in the Russian manner on English themes" the volume contains: Great Catherine (whom Glory still adores); O'Flaherty, V. C., a recruiting pamphlet; The inca of Perusalem, an almost historical comedieta; Augustine does his bit, a true-to-life farce; Annajanska the bolshevik empress, a revolutionary romancelet.

Theis, Grover. Numbers, and other one-act plays. 1919.

E 12894

Contents: Numbers.—Between fires.—The crack in the bell.—There's a difference.—Like a book.

The first gives a picture of trench madness; the scene of the second is laid in Italy; the third thrashes out the riddle of existence at night on a park bench; and the last two are comedies. According to the Nation they are "neither very firm in structure nor quite clarified in their motivation and tendency, but give evidence of an intelligent mind and a talent for the drama."

Turrell, Charles A. ed. and tr. Contemporary Spanish dramatists. 1919.

E 12947

Contents: Introduction.—Electra. (Galdós).—The claws (Rivas).—The women's town (Quintero).—When the roses bloom again (Marquina).—The passing of the magi (Zamacois).—Juan Jose (Dicenta).

This is the only representative collection of modern Spanish plays in English, and the introduction serves to give them their proper place in contemporary Spanish literature.

Wellman, Rita. Dawn; a one-act play. 1919.

E 13497

In The Drama, February, 1919.

—The Gentile wife; a play in four acts. 1919.

E 13016

The theme is the disastrous consequence of marriage between a Jew and a Gentile. Better adapted for acting than for reading.

Wilcox, Constance. Told in a Chinese garden; a story in one act. 1919.

E 11897

In The Drama, May, 1919.

Essays and Miscellanies

Eason, J. Lawrence, and Weseen, Maurice H., ed. English, science, and engineering; a collection of expository essays for students of science and engineering. 1918.

E 2655

These essays are collected from the writings of such well-known scientists as Huxley, Darwin, Tyndall and Newcomb, and are grouped around the following subjects: thinking and writing, natural science, science, scope and limits, engineering, and engineering education.

Hendrick, Ellwood. Percolator papers. 1919.

E 3487

A collection of scholarly essays, for the most part reprinted from the Chemists' Club organ, The Percolator. According to the Dial, "Mr. Hendrick sees life amiably, tranquilly; his pen betokens a mind as neat—and as untrammelled—as a clipped hedge."

Middleton, Arthur, pseud. of E. J. H. O'Brien. The forgotten threshold; a journal. 1919.

E 4991

Maurice, Arthur Bartlett. The Paris of the novelists. 1919.

I 6828

Includes one hundred pages of storied rural France as well.

O'Brien, Frederick. White shadows in the South Seas. 1919.

I 1637

This excellent book of travels records the experiences of some years spent in the Marquesas islands, which once had a large cannibalistic population, now almost extinct. It is a fascinating story of a strange people in a strange place.

Wharton, Edith. French ways and their meaning. 1919.

I 6915

An intimate and interesting commentary with wisdom enough in some of its single sentences to furnish the raison d'être of a more pretentious volume.—Dial.

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION

North America

Burr, Agnes Rush. Alaska, our beautiful northland of opportunity. 1919.

I 4439

"See America first" series.

A beautiful book, with much of the charm in pictures, some colored, and much in picturesque incidents and romantic descriptions.—Booklist.

Chamberlain, Allen. Vacation tramps in New England highlands. 1919.

I 4803

An inviting "fingerboard" of the New England wilderness, which is pleasant reading whether one expects to go vacationing or not. It discusses the hiker's equipment, the spots of beauty to visit, and gives outlines and maps for several journeys.—Booklist.

Stephenson, William B., jr. The land of tomorrow. 1919. I 4440

A rather general description of nature and life in Alaska.

Yard, Robert Sterling. The book of the national parks. 1919. I 4314

A particularly fresh and stimulating description from a popular scientific point of view. Mr. Yard thinks the enjoyment of the mountains and canyons will be the greater if the intellectual pleasure of understanding is added to the emotional appeal of the scenery.

BIOGRAPHY

Ayscough, John, pseud. of Mgr. John Bickerstaffe Drew. Letters to his mother during 1914, 1915 and 1916. 1919. A 7024

The author served as chaplain to a British field ambulance for the first eighteen months of the war. The charm of his letters lies not so much in the description of life at the front as in the filial devotion that breathes through their pages.

Dodd, Walter James. Macy, John Albert. Walter James Dodd; a biographical sketch. 1918. C 21614

An intimate friend's tribute to the lovable personality and valuable services of a well-known physician and X-ray expert of international reputation, who died from injuries received through his experiments.

Hamilton, Emma, Lady. Danby, Frank, pseud. of Mrs. Julia Frankau. Nelson's legacy. Lady Hamilton; her story and tragedy. 1915. C 22289

Howe, Julia Ward. The walk with God; extracts from Mrs. Howe's private journals, together with some verses hitherto unpublished; and an essay on immortality entitled "Beyond the veil." Ed. by her daughter, Laura E. Richards. 1919. C 22496

McCormack, John. Key, Pierre V. R. John McCormack, his own life story. 1918. C 23125

Written by a newspaper reporter from intimate interviews. Simply told and with many personal details.

Osborn, Chase S. The iron hunter. 1919. C 23655

An interesting and essentially American autobiography of one of Michigan's former governors, furnishing at the same time a chapter in the history of the development of the Great Lakes region.

Parker, General Ely S. Parker, Arthur C. The life of General Ely S. Parker, last Grand Sachem of the Iroquois, and General Grant's military secretary. 1919. B 4004, 23

Mainly a narrative of Indian life.

Roosevelt, Theodore. Abbott, Lawrence F. Impressions of Theodore Roosevelt. 1919. C 23986

The publisher of the Outlook disclaims any biographical intention and simply sketches the impressions received in personal contact with Roosevelt during the last twenty years. His book is particularly valuable for its intimate account of the European trip.

Thayer, William Roscoe. Theodore Roosevelt; an intimate biography. 1919. C 23985

One of the best books on Roosevelt by the successful biographer of Hay and Cavour. Mr. Thayer was his classmate at Harvard and a lifelong friend, and writes the more impartially as he was not of the same political faith.

Tynan, Katherine, (Mrs. H. A. Hinkson). The years of the shadow. 1919. C 22442

Continues from 1912 to 1918 the entertaining and gossipy reminiscences begun in Twenty-five years (C 22439), and The middle years (C 22440). Many interesting people drift through the pages—Lord and Lady Dunsany, Ledwidge, H. G. Wells, etc.

HISTORY

Europe

Dawson, William Harbutt. The German empire, 1867–1914, and the unity movement. 1919. 2v. A 4222

A dispassionate political history of the origin and progress of the German empire treated through the effect of personalities on the course of history.

Glover, T. R. From Pericles to Philip. 1918. A 2567

A survey of many-sided Greek life during the interesting and significant period of which Herodotus, Thucydides, Xenophon, Plato, and Aristotle wrote their contemporary accounts retold and interpreted in a delightful manner.—Open Shelf.

Hazen, Charles Downer. Fifty years of Europe, 1870–1919. A 5951

This new history of recent Europe, dealing especially with the rise and fall of the German empire, reprints the later chapters of Mr. Hazen's Modern European history (A 5928) with certain modifications and adds new material covering the war.

Jusaitis, Kunigas Antanas. The history of the Lithuanian nation and its present national aspirations. 1918. A 6096

Besides furnishing information with regard to Lithuania's history and institutions, the book contains interesting facts on Lithuanian organizations in America.

Lavell, Cecil Fairfield. Reconstruction and national life. 1919. A 5955

Professor Lavell traces the history of idealism in modern times in four principal countries—England, France, Germany, and Russia—and makes some appraisal of the part which liberal thought is prepared to take in these lands in shaping the political and economic policies of the coming age. His book is a useful summary.—Nation.

Marvin, F. S. The century of hope; a sketch of western progress from 1815 to the great war. 1919. A 5958

A philosophical history of the nineteenth century, in which one of the most distinguished Oxford humanists "endeavors to exhibit the growth of humanity in the world," taking as a leading theme "the development of science and its reactions on other sides of national and international life."—Dial.

Phillipson, Coleman, and Buxton, Noel. The question of the Bosphorus and Dardanelles. 1917. A 5166

European War

André, C. H. A. Above the battles. 1919. A 6972

An unusually well translated account of a French aviator's experiences in the war, full of humor and picturesque incident.

Brooke, Tucker, and Canby, Henry Seidel, ed. War aims and peace ideals; selections in prose and verse, illustrating the aspirations of the modern world. 1919. A 6975

Representative selections from the literature of the nations engaged in the great war chosen to characterize the souls of the peoples. Quotations are made from Cardinal Mercier, Daudet, Tolstoy, Arthur Henderson, Joyce Kilmer and many others.

Cable, Boyd, pseud. Air men o' war. 1919. A 6976

A collection of short stories, full of the significant daily happenings of the air "pieced together from facts." The thrilling adventures are told in a vivid style especially suited to hold the interest of the older boys.

Dresser, Horatio W. On the threshold of the spiritual world; a study of life and death over there. 1919. A 7025

From experiences at the front the author pronounces the war "something altogether splendid in human history." Man emerges as a spirit with perception of things beyond the flesh; death is simply "a step in life" and there are comforting answers to some of the human questionings about our soldier dead.—Booklist.

Gaines, Ruth. Helping France; the Red Cross in the devastated area. 1919. A 7022

Though more statistical and less picturesque than the Village in Picardy (A 6834) by the same author, this book is nevertheless an interesting record of obstacles overcome.

Hainsselin, Montague Thomas. The curtain of steel, by the author of In the northern mists, Grand fleet days, Naval intelligence. 1918. A 6978

Hamon, Augustin. Lessons of the world-war. 1919. A 6974

A translation of a Franco-Belgian's deeply antimilitaristic lectures on the world problems of the present and future. Regarding war as criminal, it advocates complete disarmament, death to autocracy, and liberty through the small government unit in which each man's personality is still retained. It ardently supports President Wilson.—Booklist.

Hurd, Archibald. Italian sea-power and the great war. 1918. A 6980

Husband, Joseph. On the coast of France; the story of the United States naval forces in French waters. 1919. A 6971

This is not a systematic history but offers some interesting sidelights on a phase of our navy service. The descriptions are good and the cuts illuminating.

—A year in the navy. 1919. A 6973
Interesting account of the author's experiences at the Great Lakes training station and in overseas service.

Man, Henry de. The remaking of a mind; a soldier's thoughts on war and reconstruction. 1919. A 7026

Treats of the author's reactions to the successive phases of the war. A Belgian intellectual who had entered earnestly into the internationals' attempt to oppose the war, he enlisted in the Belgian army when that opposition proved unavailing and followed the fortunes of the war on four fronts.

Milan, René, pseud. of Maurice Larrouy. Vagabonds of the sea; the campaign of a French cruiser. 1919. A 6979

A romantic narrative of a French naval officer's service in a part of the war zone which, though not the scene of decisive battles, was nevertheless important. His accounts of the Mediterranean and its pirates contain many dramatic situations.

Nordhoff, Charles Bernard. The fledgling. 1919. A 6977

Reminiscences and scraps from the diary of an American's service as ambulance driver and aviator in the Lafayette escadrille.

Tunney, Thomas J. Throttled! The detection of the German and anarchist bomb plotters. 1919. A 7023

The full story of nearly a dozen plots against our war industries told by the head of the bomb squad of the New York City police department.

Ward, Mrs. Humphry. Fields of victory. 1919. A 7021

Letters describing the author's observations on the fields of France where the British army was most engaged in 1918. It follows Mrs. Ward's Toward the goal, A 6440, and England's effort, A 6245.

Great Britain and Ireland

Boulger, Demetrius Charles. The battle of the Boyne, together with an account based on French and other unpublished records of the war in Ireland (1688-1691) and of the formation of the Irish brigade in the service of France. 1911. A 5504

Coulton, G. G., comp. Social life in Britain from the conquest to the reformation. 1918. A 5379

Extracts from mediaeval documents. . . . Schoolboys and university students, monks and secular scribes, priests and friars, knights and kings, rich and poor, manor lords and serfs, pilgrims and merchants, master masons and workers, physicians and their ungrateful patients—all pass before us in a long, long line and leave an impression that will not fade.—Survey.

Creel, George. Ireland's fight for freedom, setting forth the high lights of Irish history. 1919. A 5502

This account is in entire sympathy with Ireland's cause and does not touch at all upon England's side of the question.

Shaw, Bernard. How to settle the Irish question. 1917. A 5517

A pamphlet consisting of articles written at the suggestion of the London Daily Express.

Italy

Adriacus, pseud. From Trieste to Valona; the Adriatic problem and Italy's aspirations. 1919. A 5117

Annunzio, Gabriele d', pseud. of Gaetano Rappagnetta. The rally. 1918. A 6967
Contents: To the guard of the Piave.—To a gathering of officers of all branches.—To the Italians of the Latin republics.—To the Italians of the United States.—To the 1899 recruits.—The winner cannot win.—The loser cannot lose.—The winged shadow and the shadow of the cross.—Easter-day of promise.—To the recruits of 1900.—The soldier's crown.—To America in arms, July 4, 1918.

Italy. Navy. Italy, what she was, what she is, what she will become; a keepsake offered to their U. S. A. comrades in arms on land and sea, by the Italian sailors. 1919. A 5118

Trevelyan, George Macaulay. Scenes from Italy's war. 1919. A 6970

An interesting and vivid account at close range of great events in Italy from the author's personal experiences during four years as commander of the first British Red Cross detachment in Italy.

Russia

Bolshevik aims and ideals, and Russia's revolt against Bolshevism. 1919. A 6041

Two articles reprinted from the British quarterly review, the Round Table. Their author believes with Spargo that though not deserving the exaggerated abuse heaped upon it, bolshevism is a menace to Russia and the world. He thinks its power is crumbling under the growing resistance of the Russian people.

Long, Robert Crozier. Russian revolution aspects. 1919. A 6043

He refuses to despair of Russia's ultimate fate, although he makes no effort to minimize the seriousness of her present situation. His book is chiefly interesting for its pen pictures of Kerensky, Korniloff, Lvoff, and other commanding figures of the revolutionary era.—Review of Reviews.

Masaryk, Thomas Garrigue. The spirit of Russia; studies in history, literature and philosophy. 1919. 2v. A 6042

A study of the Russian spirit (published in German in 1913) by the man who was later to become the political leader of Czecho-Slovakia. The entire work centers around Dostoevski. It compares his philosophy of history and religion with that of his predecessors and successors, and discusses his relationship to the literature of Russia and of western Europe.

Ransome, Arthur. Russia in 1919. A 6044

This account of present-day life in Russia by an English man of letters is exceedingly well written,—simple, clear and graphic with a quiet charm of style. It leaves the reader with a distinct picture of the political, industrial, economic and intellectual life under the Bolshevik regime and seems to have been written with no desire to mould opinion.

Russell, Charles Edward. Bolshevism and the United States. 1919. A 6045

The author is an advocate of the soviet system of representative government but is not in sympathy with the bolshevist movement in America on the ground that it is more autocratic in principle than it is democratic.

Asia, Oceania

Fletcher, C. Brunsdon. The problem of the Pacific. 1919. A 3887

The Australian author of The new Pacific (A 3886) in this new work adds materially to his former discussion of the world questions. The discussion of the relations of Australia to India and France is valuable in suggestion and exposition.—Outlook.

Hyndman, H. M. The awakening of Asia. 1919. A 4827

Mr. Hyndman not only believes that European influence has not been wholly beneficial to the Asiatic peoples, but even that they would be far better able to work out their own salvation if that influence were now to be withdrawn.

Kalaw, Maximo M. Self-government in the Philippines. 1919. B 7619

"A record of what the Filipino people have done since the establishment of Philippine autonomy, and the reasons which impel them to demand their separation from the United States," by the author of The case for the Filipinos, B 7621.

Weale, B. L. Putnam, pseud. of B. L. Simpson. The truth about China and Japan. 1919. A 4953

This volume offers a brief survey of the early history of China and Japan to explain their present relations to one another and to Korea, and an analysis sympathetic to China of her recent development and of the present problems of the Far East.

No. 1

The Year in the Library

DURING the current year the Public Library passed the million mark in the number of volumes on its shelves, the millionth volume being acquired some time in September, though its identity cannot be exactly determined. At the close of the year the total number of volumes was 1,008,394. Circulation of books to home readers took a great upward leap as soon as the war stopped and shows a total of 7,509,257 volumes circulated from the main library and 1,584 outlying stations, branches, deposits, etc., as against 7,061,180 volumes issued in 1918 through 1,260 agencies. Our work with the public schools has increased very heavily, thanks to the hearty coöperation of the teachers. There are now 1,336 classroom deposits in use and new applications are received more rapidly than they can be filled. The amount expended for books during the year was $110,000; for periodicals, $11,000; for binding and repair of books, $45,000. There are now 570 persons on the staff, with an annual payroll of over $500,000.

Chief among our projects for extension is the new Regional Branch, to be named after the late Henry E. Legler, librarian from 1909 to 1917. Work on this handsome building, located at West Monroe and 40th Sts., was begun in March; the corner stone was laid on Memorial Day, and in spite of strikes and unforeseen delays, the building will be finished early next spring. The West Side will then have a center of book distribution which in size, scope, and extent of service will be second only to the Central Library, and will bring the Public Library closer to the citizens of that section than was ever before possible.

Similar Regional Branches on the North and South Sides are included in our plans for the future. Indeed our plans for increasing and developing the activities of the Chicago Public Library are limited only by the size of our budget. We fully realize the overwhelming need and possibilities of such development and are constantly inspired to greater efforts by the many evidences of appreciation that come to us from our large and ever growing host of patrons.

Books Added to the Library

Books marked * do not circulate; those with the letter P are in the Art room, and those marked Doc. are in the Document department. *Ser. represents serials which do not circulate.

PHILOSOPHY

Baylor, Courtenay. Remaking a man; one successful method of mental refitting. 1919. L 13204

Relaxation of mental tenseness must precede the re-education of mental processes. Mr. Baylor shows how the diagnosis is arrived at and gives suggestions for improving the thinking process until normality is recovered along with health. Illustrative cases are cited in differing types of neurosis.—Springfield Republican.

Dresser, Horatio W. A history of the new thought movement. 1919. L 13214

An analysis and spiritual interpretation of the modern movement as one of many liberalizing tendencies. Quimby's healing, the beginnings of Christian Science, the "mental science" period, the development of the New Thought movement (without definition) here and abroad, are followed in chronological order.

King, Basil. The abolishing of death. 1919. L 13498

The author believes he has received, through automatic writing, messages from spirits in the other world. The philosophy communicated by the leader of these spirits is given in detail. It is very much like that of Margaret Cameron's Seven purposes, L 13488.

Radhakrishnan, Sarvepalli. The philosophy of Rabindranath Tagore. 1918. L 14870

Psychology, Ethics

Burger, W. H. Boy behavior. 1919. L 13686

A small psychology of boy life. The conditions of the physical, emotional and instinctive life of the boy are simply stated, showing the importance of muscular development, of confidence from older people, and of preventing repression. Freud and Adler are quoted especially for their suggestions of treatment of the abnormal child.—Booklist.

Chamberlain, Arthur Henry, and James F. Thrift and conservation; how to teach it. 1919. L 14376

(Lippincott's educational guides.)

Essays to provide the teacher with suggestions and data on the subject of national and personal economy.—Survey.

James, William. Habit. 1890. L 13920

Münsterberg, Hugo. Business psychology. 1918. L 13933

(La Salle Extension University, Business administration.)

Ross, J. Elliot. Christian ethics; a textbook of right living. 1919. L 14140

Intended for use in Catholic schools.

White, William A. The mental hygiene of childhood. 1919. L 13722

(Mind and health series.)

A rather technical discussion on Freudian lines emphasizing the sexual elements in the child's impulses and the normal antagonisms between parents and children.

RELIGION

Jastrow, Morris, jr. Zionism and the future of Palestine; the fallacies and dangers of political Zionism. 1919. A 2851

Professor Jastrow sympathizes with the effort to establish Jewish colonies in Palestine, but does not favor its reorganization as a Jewish state with a complete control involving the oppression of native nationalities.

Kelman, John. The war and preaching. 1919. M 9338

(Lyman Beecher lectureship on preaching in Yale university.)

The author, who spent much time with the Y. M. C. A. at the front, urges the necessity of a new and vital interpretation of Christianity to meet the challenge that has come through the individual experience of the war. The ideal preacher should be statesman, priest, and prophet.

Tiplady, Thomas. Social Christianity in the new era. 1919. M 4238

Mr. Tiplady is well known as the author of The cross at the front (A 6574), and The soul of the soldier (A 6771), written while a chaplain in the war. This book is a plea for a league of churches which he considers as great a need as a league of nations. He points out many fields where reform is needed.

The Bible

Bryant, Sophie. How to read the Bible in the twentieth century. 1918. M 6365

Outlines for Bible reading and suggestive talks on teaching methods and interpretation, with a discussion of the development of Hebrew genius and of the historic and eternal Christ from the orthodox point of view.

Soden, Baron Hermann von. Books of the New Testament; contributions to early Christian literature. 1907. M 6903

Crown theological library. v. 13.

Stix, Henry S. The three men of Judea: John, Jesus, and Paul. 1917. M 6901

Readable and interesting chapters whose substance reflects the viewpoint of the Jew. Written with the hope of mitigating the antagonism between Jew and Christian, which the author believes to be largely the product of general ignorance of religious history.—Booklist.

Doctrinal Theology

Holmes, John M. Jesus and the young man of to-day. 1919. M 7135

Studies on the life of Christ intended to confirm the faith of young people who have become confused by their secular education. The book is clearly written and contains many quotations.

Macintosh, Douglas Clyde. Theology as an empirical science. 1919. M 9518

An attempt to relate theological theory to the knowledge of the divine acquired through individual religious experience, and to show how this knowledge may be formulated and inductively developed.

Webb, Clement C. J. God and personality; being the Gifford lectures delivered in the University of Aberdeen in the years 1918 and 1919. M 4743, 1918-19

(Library of philosophy.)

Willey, John Heston. Between two worlds; the new day and the old questions. 1919. M 4493

A cheerful, sensible little book for those troubled with doubts about immortality, the nature of the next world if there is one, the horror of death. He shows that pure materialism robs life of its meaning and by quotations from many well-known writers establishes a wholesome faith in the future.—Booklist.

SOCIOLOGY

Cannan, Gilbert. The anatomy of society. 1919. L 15409

Contents: Definitions.—Humanity.—The social contract.—Patriarchalism.—Marriage.—Women as citizens.—Science and art.—Social structure.—East and west.—Democracy.

Society's first step toward protecting itself against a repetition of the war calamity should be a careful analysis of existing human institutions. These should then be so reshaped as to give themselves to the needs of the spirit rather than to the demands of a sordid and mechanistic age, to the making of men rather than of things.

Phelan, John J. Pool, billiards and bowling alleys as a phase of commercialized amusements in Toledo, Ohio. 1919. L 15574

(Social survey series 1.)

A survey designed to lead to the improvement of bad local conditions. The summary of Ohio laws and of various city ordinances relating to the subject, together with outlines and questions for surveys, bibliographies, etc., give it general value as a social service textbook.

Sumner, William Graham. The forgotten man, and other essays. 1918. L 15440

Two dozen essays for the most part on national currency, tariff, and industrial organization, written between the years 1876 and 1896, with the exception of one which appeared ten years later.

Statistics

Dublin, Louis I., and others. Mortality statistics of insured wage-earners and their families; experience of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, industrial department, 1911 to 1916, in the United States and Canada. 1919. L 15605

West, Carl J. Introduction to mathematical statistics. 1918. L 15612

A clear exposition of the best methods of plotting data and smoothing curves, with applications to fluctuations of prices, rainfall, yield of crops, etc., also containing a welcome chapter on the method of moments and its application to curve fitting.—American Economic Review.

Economics

American Academy of Political and Social Science, Philadelphia. Industries in readjustment. 1919. L 16604

(Annals.)

Contents: Pt. 1. Industries in readjustment.—2. Capital and labor in readjustment.—3. Economic utilization of industrial equipment.—4. Standardization of industrial equipment.—5. The industrial and financial outlook.

Goldstein, Dr. Joseph M. Russia, her economic past and future. 1919. L 16642

A review of economic conditions put out by the Russian Information Bureau in the United States.

Neilson, Francis. The old freedom. 1919. L 16667

Mr. Neilson discusses socialism, communism, and syndicalism as attempts to repair the damage that has been done in departing from the old freedom when democracy was based on the man with land to till. He advocates the taxation for the benefit of the community of values created by it, though he does not use the term "single tax."

Robertson, J. M. The economics of progress. 1918. L 16640

Robinson, Cyril E. New fallacies of Midas; a survey of industrial and economic problems. 1919. L 16666

One of the sanest, and at the same time most attractive, books on political economy that we have ever read. The author keeps his mind firmly fixed on the real man behind the abstractions of production, distribution, and consumption, but he is not led astray by amiable sentimentalities. He thinks strongly and writes crisply.—Spectator.

Shelby, Gertrude Mathews. How to face peace; a handbook of community programs. 1919. L 16672

An attempt to outline general principles and specific suggestions for co-operative effort toward post-bellum readjustment.

Labor and Laboring Classes

American Federation of Labor. History, encyclopedia, reference book, prepared and pub. by authority of the 1916 and 1917 conventions. 1919. *R 3244

—Labor and the war; American Federation of Labor and the labor movements of Europe and Latin America. 1918. L 16756

"From the Proceedings of the conventions of 1914-15-16-17-18 American Federation of Labor and from the American Federationist of Nov. and Dec., 1916, Jan., May, and Nov., 1917, and April, 1918."

Cohen, Julius Henry. An American labor policy. 1919. L 16755

Mr. Cohen, formerly counsel for the Employers' Protective Association, advocates in the present crisis the freedom to organize for both employed and employer, the registration of all agreements between them with a national labor board, and their enforcement by a tribunal created for the purpose.

Stowell, Charles Jacob. The Journeymen Tailors' Union of America; a study in trade union policy. 1918. L 4079. 7IV

(University of Illinois studies in the social sciences.)

Wood, Edith Elmer. The housing of the unskilled wage earner, America's next problem. 1919. L 17059

(American social progress series.)

Mrs. Wood investigates housing conditions and legislation here and abroad and outlines a housing policy for the United States which should interest those concerned in big industrial organizations.

Political Science Democracy

Herron, George D. The greater war. 1919. L 16323

On the ground that the Peace of Paris is no peace at all, Mr. Herron, a socialist, asserts that if the Allies do not undertake to remake it in the interest of democracy, Germany will do so in her own interest, working insidiously through international socialism.

Mackinder, Halford J. Democratic ideals and reality; a study in the politics of reconstruction. 1919. L 15792

Mr. Mackinder interprets history from the geographical point of view. He asserts that "the grouping of lands and seas, and of fertility and natural pathways, is such as to lend itself to the growth of empires and, in the end, of a single world empire."

United States Government

Beck, Herbert M. Aliens' text book on citizenship; laws of naturalization of the United States. 1919. L 18364

Black, Henry Campbell. The relation of the executive power to legislation. 1919. L 16405

Parsons, Geoffrey. The land of fair play; how America is governed. 1919. L 18406

The principles of our government are simply and clearly presented for the benefit of children of upper grades (and foreigners as well) through analogy with the rules of their games and the contacts of their daily life.

Willoughby, William Franklin. Government organization in war time and after; a survey of the federal civil agencies created for the prosecution of the war. 1919. L 18458

(Problems of war and of reconstruction.)

Wilson, Woodrow. The triumph of ideals; speeches, messages, and addresses made by the president between February 24, 1919, and July 8, 1919, covering the active period of the Peace Conference at Paris. 1919. L 18473

Continuing the series: Why we are at war (1917), A 6378; In our first year of war (1918), A 6625; Guarantees of peace (1919), L 18472; International ideals (1919), L 16327.

Municipal Government

Evans, Frederick Noble. Town improvement; a review of the principles by which physical improvement in the town or city may be accomplished, with observations as to the effect of such improvement upon the life of the community. 1919. L 18216

Rightor, Chester E., and others. City manager in Dayton; four years of commission-manager government, 1914-1917; and comparisons with four preceding years under the mayor-council plan, 1910-1913. 1919. L 18229

(The citizen's library of economics, politics and sociology.)

League of Nations

Duggan, Stephen Pierce, and others, ed. The league of nations, the principle and the practice. 1919. L 17946

Sixteen chapters by experts in the various phases of law, history, economics, government, and other branches of knowledge involved in international co-operation. It is not edited to meet the requirements of any point of view and makes a good reference work.

Hill, David Jayne. Present problems in foreign policy. 1919. L 17944

A vigorous criticism of the league of nations on the ground that it is un-American, provides for war rather than justice, and does not guarantee international law. The volume contains copies of the "fourteen points," the covenant of February, 1919, the senate round-robin, and the revised covenant.

Child Welfare

Doran, Mary S., and Reynolds, Bertha C. The selection of foster homes for children. 1919. L 18847

(Studies in social work. Monographs in child welfare.)

Principles and methods practiced by the Children's Aid Society of Boston, illustrated from actual cases within their experience.

Thurston, Henry W. Delinquency and spare time; a study of a few stories written into the court records of the city of Cleveland. 1918. L 19370, 27
(Cleveland foundation. Publications.)

Education

Alexander, Hartley Burr. Letters to teachers, and other papers of the hour. 1919. L 19362

Professor Alexander of the University of Nebraska is seeing to it that educational tradition there shall be founded on a spirit of liberalism as far as he can influence it. His letters are designed to combat the dangers that lurk in servility to texts and methods, in a standardized curriculum, and generally in the domination of the letter that killeth.

Bennett, G. Vernon. The junior high school. 1919. L 19803

Buisson, Ferdinand, and Farrington, F. E., ed. French educational ideals of today; an anthology of the molders of French educational thought of the present. 1919. L 19443

Shows the French republic face to face with the problem of moral education. Among the contributors are Jules Ferry, Ernest Lavisse, Jean Jauras, Georges Clemenceau, Ferdinand Buisson, and Emile Durckheim.—Dial.

Courtis, Stuart A. The Gary public schools; measurement of classroom products. 1919. L 20078

Cubberley, Ellwood P. Public education in the United States, a study and interpretation of American educational history; an introductory textbook dealing with the larger problems of present-day education in the light of their historical development. 1919. L 19447

(Riverside textbooks in education.)

An exceedingly helpful history of education for beginners, and refreshingly up to date.

A primer of public school progress. 1914. L 19465

Contents: Foreword: Citizenship and public education.—Pt. 1. History of public schools and public school activities in the United States.—2. The work accomplished by public education associations in New York city and elsewhere.

Issued by Public Education Association of the city of New York.

Shields, Thomas Edward. Philosophy of education. 1917. L 19425

(The Catholic University pedagogical series, v. 5.)

Vocational Guidance Choice of Occupations

Hoerle, Helen Christene, and Saltzberg, F. B. The girl and the job. 1919. L 14395

Outlines the required qualifications, difficulties, and rewards of the vast number of business opportunities open to the girl of the city, town, or country, to the professional woman, tradeswoman, or unskilled worker. Lays emphasis on the value of education and technical training, but gives detailed help and advice to the unskilled worker.

Mellor, J. W. Modern inorganic chemistry. 1918. K 19850

Moore, Forris J. A history of chemistry. 1918. K 19848

(International chemical series.)

A well-written compact history of the development of modern chemistry including the more significant biography of the subject. Valuable for the student, and both entertaining and instructive to the general reader.

Noyes, William A. College textbook of chemistry. 1919. K 19856

Rowley, Hannah Teresa, and Farrell, Helen W. Principles of chemistry applied to the household; an elementary text-book. 1918. K 19873

A chemistry text and laboratory manual in one. The experiments add interest to the text. The first third deals with the principles of chemistry, and the rest with its application to human physiology, dietetics, and sanitation.

Natural History

Bensley, B. A. Practical anatomy of the rabbit; an elementary laboratory textbook in mammalian anatomy. 1918. K 21603

Chamberlain, Charles Joseph. The living cycads. 1919. K 21249

(The University of Chicago science series.)

An untechnical account of these fernlike plants with a fossil ancestry which reaches back into the paleozoic age and affords valuable material for studies in evolution.

Downing, Elliot R. A field and laboratory guide in biological nature-study. 1918. K 20682

(The University of Chicago nature-study series.)

Companion volume entitled, A source book of biological nature-study, K 20681.

Farwell, Ellen Drummond. Bird observations near Chicago. 1919. K 22046

Hudson, W. H. The book of a naturalist. 1919. K 21595

Delightful informal excursions into the by-ways of natural history in which few of the small denizens of wood and field appear to escape the affectionate eye of the writer. The serpent is accorded the distinction of five chapters.—Booklist.

Long, William J. How animals talk, and other pleasant studies of birds and beasts. 1919. K 21605

Pseudo-scientific theories clothed with poetic sentiment and romance, which make engaging reading. The writer is confident that animals possess the power of direct communication and speculates upon the nature of that power.—Booklist.

Thomson, J. Arthur. Secrets of animal life. 1919. K 21616

Lectures to senior students of natural history in the University of Aberdeen.

Groups of essays on individual adaptation, interrelations of organisms, development and behaviour, and evolution and heredity by a follower of Weismann who makes the most occult mysteries of animal life a fascinating study to the layman and young student.

USEFUL ARTS

Inventions

Bond, A. Russell. Inventions of the great war. 1919. K 22447

Scientific Management Industrial Efficiency

Duncan, Carson S. Commercial research; an outline of working principles. 1919.

L 20411

A non-technical treatise intended to assist the average merchant to replace guesswork as a basis for his buying and selling by facts obtained by scientific methods of research. Chapters on collecting data and how to use them.

Ioteyko, Josefa. The science of labour and its organization. 1919.

L 20410

(Efficiency books.)

Link, Henry C. Employment psychology; the application of scientific methods to the selection, training, and grading of employees. 1919.

L 20319

The tests here presented were devised by Dr. Link in industrial plants under actual working conditions. The truly scientific basis of his work is not to be confused with the pseudo-psychology fad of character reading followed by many business men of to-day.

Meyer, Charles A. Mercantile credits and collections. 1919.

L 20320

Explains the fundamental principles of credit, methods of securing reliable information, the function of credit grantors, passing judgment on orders, systems, unique methods of preventing losses, the operation of your own collection agency, and the bankruptcy law.

Western Efficiency Society, Chicago. The human factor in industrial preparedness; report of the proceedings of the national conference, Chicago, May 23, 24, 25, 1917.

L 20318

Printing

Polk, Ralph W. Vocational printing. 1918.

Chemical Technology Metallurgy

Calvert, Albert F. Salt and the salt industry. 1919.

K 25413

(Pitman's common commodities and industries.) Presents some account of the chemistry of salt and the history of the industry, followed by a discussion of processes and deposits relating specifically to the salt district of Cheshire, England.

Fay, Irving W. The chemistry of the coal-tar dyes. 1919.

K 25533

Mitchell, C. Ainsworth. Edible oils and fats. 1918.

K 25466

(Monographs on industrial chemistry.)

Treats of the chemical composition and properties of oils and fats, their extraction, purification, hydrogenation, and the manufacture of margarine.

Oberg, Erik, and Jones, Franklin D. Iron and steel; a treatise on the smelting, refining, and mechanical processes of the iron and steel industry, including the chemical and physical characteristics of wrought iron, carbon, high-speed and alloy steels, cast iron, and steel castings, and the application of these materials in machine and tool construction. 1918.

K 25656

Sibley, Robert, and Delany, Chas. H. Elements of fuel oil and steam engineering; a practical treatise dealing with fuel oil, for the central station man, the power plant operator, the mechanical engineer, and the student. 1918.

K 25356

First an exposition of the elementary laws of steam engineering; second, the processes involved in the utilization of fuel oil in the modern power plant; and, third, the testing of boilers when oil fired.—Booklist.

Warnes, Arthur R. Coal tar and some of its products. 1919.

K 25586

(Pitman's common commodities and industries.) Simply and without the use of technical formulas the author follows an interesting historical introduction with an endeavor to explain to the ordinary business man the processes by which dyes, perfumes, ammonia, explosives, benzol, carbolic acid, naphtha, saccharine, etc. are obtained from coal tar.

Manufactures, Trades

Hall, A. Neely. Carpentry and mechanics for boys, up-to-the-minute handicraft. 1918.

K 26149

Treats of work for the home workshop, backyard, camp, and garden, and is illustrated with over 700 drawings, diagrams, and halftones. Attention is given the mechanics of the air, sea, undersea, and garden as they were developed by the war.

Johnson, Emil A. Furniture upholstery for schools. 1919.

K 26073

A manual for school shops. After a brief historical sketch and a preliminary chapter on tools and materials, the book is divided into two sections dealing respectively with upholstery without springs and upholstery with springs.

Kozmin, Peter A. Flour milling; a theoretical and practical handbook of flour manufacture for millers, millwrights, flour-milling engineers, and others engaged in the flour-milling industry. 1919.

K 25922

Levi, Louis E., and Orthmann, Aug. C. Laboratory manual of Pfister & Vogel leather company laboratories. 1918.

K 25779

A guide for chemists in leather laboratories, describing methods of analyzing leather and the materials used in its manufacture.

FINE ARTS

Anderson, Paul L. The fine art of photography. 1919. K 29424

Points out the underlying principles of art that apply to photography; and gives helpful suggestions on position, values, mystery, winter work, motion pictures, illustrations, portraiture, and landscape, architectural, and marine photography.

French, Thomas E., and Svensen, Carl L. Mechanical drawing for high schools; a text with problem layouts. 1919. K 28635

Peabody, Henrietta C., ed. Homemakers' questions and answers; a ready reference for those who are building, remodeling, furnishing, decorating or gardening. 1918. K 27734

Music

Cooke, James Francis. Music masters old and new; a series of educational biographies of the greatest musicians from Bach and Handel to the present time, prepared for individual reading and self-study as well as for use in clubs and history classes. 1918. Music Room

Martens, Frederick H. Violin mastery; talks with master violinists and teachers. 1919. K 29978

Interviews with twenty-four violinists—including Ysaye, Kreisler, Elman, Heifetz and Maud Powell—introduced by biographical notes and adorned with sixteen portraits.

Amusements

Elsom, J. C., and Trilling, Branche M. Social games and group dances; a collection of games and dances suitable for community and social use. 1919. K 30025

Contains music for the dances.

A comprehensive and clearly written book containing (1) chapters on acquaintance games, games of tag, games with pencil, and stunts; (2) description of group dances and the music for them; (3) description of children's singing games and dances, with music.

Athletics and Outdoor Sports

Fedden, Romilly. Golden days, from the fishing-log of a painter in Brittany. 1919. K 30821

Recollections, written at the front, of dallying hours spent by little streams and rivers of Brittany in the golden days of peace. There are many items of angler's lore but a great deal also of the quaint folklore and artistic beauties of the country.

Grey, Zane. Tales of fishes. 1919. K 30823

Stirring tales of battles of wit and muscle with cunning, powerful, and rare game fishes of the Pacific coast, and of angling in the Gulf Stream and along the coast of Florida, written by the fisherman-novelist.—Booklist.

Jacomb, William J. Boxing for beginners, with chapter showing its relationship to bayonet fighting. 1918. K 30641

Lessons consisting mainly of photographs accompanied by a few explanatory remarks.

—Practical self-defence. 1918. K 30642

Intended principally for use against those who attack without regard to the rules of boxing.

Miller, Warren H. Canoeing, sailing and motor boating; practical boat building and handling. 1919. K 30741

A wise and racy written treatise for the not too green amateur waterman. The author has evidently had broad experience in all three sports, and what is more unusual has reflected upon his experience.—Dial.

LITERATURE

Eagle, Solomon, pseud. of J. C. Squire. Books in general. 1919. J 4807

Snatches of entertaining literary gossip suggested by such subjects as a recent book of Mrs. Barclay, a request from the trenches for an opinion on the three most lasting books in literature, Mr. Archer's tirade on music-hall songs, or the alleged obscurity of Henry James.

Gordon, George, pseud. of Charles C. Baldwin. The men who make our novels. 1919. J 7110

(Modern American writers.)

Biographical outlines and some quoted critical comment on forty-seven American men novelists.

Mencken, H. L. Prejudices: first series. 1919. J 6439

Keen and stimulating essays combating many current prejudices. Howells is condemned, and Wells in his recent work. George Ade is glorified, Mary MacLane is pitied; Bernard Shaw is called "the Ulster Polonius," Hamlin Garland "a stranger on Parnassus," Henry Sydnor Harrison, "a merchant of mush," etc.

Mordell, Albert. The erotic motive in literature. 1919. J 4808

A Freudian discussion of the significance of the sex motive in literature, whether expressed or omitted.

Waugh, Arthur. Tradition and change; studies in contemporary literature. 1919. J 6356

Discerning papers on literary topics. The style is smooth and mellow, in keeping with the writer's tolerant spirit. He holds that youth must revolt or there would be no progress, but that youth must also accept something from tradition or its literature will perish with its own generation. He has more sympathy with the recent developments in the novel than with the new poetry.

Poetry

Brale, Berton. Buddy ballads; songs of the A. E. F. 1919. E 10660

Burr, Amelia Josephine. Hearts awake. The pixy; a play. 1919. E 10705

A new book of poems of simplicity and beauty by the author of the war verses published in the volume, The silver trumpet, E 10706.

Craigie, W. A., ed. The Maitland folio manuscript, containing poems by Sir Richard Maitland, Dunbar, Douglas, Henryson, and others. 1919. *J 1101,7
(The Scottish Text Society. New series.)

Kemp, Harry. The passing god; songs for lovers. 1919. E 11135

The first poem is based on the classical theme of Cressid, and the author acknowledges his debt to the 15th century tale of Robert Henryson. The rest, the New York Times says, are "pleasant, frequently felicitous lyrics upon the single topic of love."

McClure, John. Airs and ballads. 1918.
E 14858

Masefield, John. Reynard the fox; or, The Ghost Heath run. 1919.
E 11240

One of the most English poems ever written, an epic of the soil and of those who gallop over it. The narrative of a day's hunting.—London Times.

Speaight, Frank. My Dickens friends. 1916.
E 11542

The Yale book of student verse, 1910-1919; ed. by John Andrews and others. 1919.
E 14314

The poems by Stephen Vincent Benét are distinctly the best in the volume. He alone displays the fine enthusiasm of youth.—Dial.

Drama, Theater

Belasco, David. The theatre through its stage door. 1919.
E 13489

The well-known manager and playwright here tells how a play is evolved and produced, how actors are chosen and trained, and what mechanical devices are used to enhance the beauty of dramatic production. He also considers the problem of the child actor.

Craig, Edward Gordon. The theatre—advancing. 1919.
E 11957

A collection of brief theatrical criticisms written for the most part before the war. It comments on the use and abuse of the properties of the theatre, the possibility of a permanent theatre, the absurdity of a really perishable theatre, etc.

Harvard University. Dramatic club. Plays of the Harvard dramatic club. 1918-1919.
2v.
E 12296

One act plays.

v. 1. The florist shop, by Winifred Hawkrige. The bank account by H. Brock. The rescue, by Rita C. Smith. America passes by, by K. Andrews.

2. The harbor of lost ships, by Louise W. Bray. Garafelia's husband, by E. W. Bates. The scales and the sword, by F. Bishop. The four-flushers, by C. Kinkead.

Matthews, Brander. The principles of play-making, and other discussions of the drama. 1919.
E 14059

Prof. Matthews says that dramatic writing must be guided by the principles of the art rather than mere technical rules which are more or less changeable. He emphasizes the importance of the audience which requires that a play appeal to collective human nature—a closet drama being in his opinion an absurdity.

Plays

Gordon, Leon. The gentleman ranker, and other plays. 1919.
E 12267

Three actable little plays with good dialogue by an English actor and playwright. "The gentleman ranker" is a four-scene play of the war laid in German Southwest Africa; "As a pal" is a cockney comedy; and "Leave the woman out," in which a clever crackman matches wits with a keen detective recalls Gillette's interpretation of Sherlock Holmes.

MacKaye, Percy, and Barnhart, Harry. The will of song; a dramatic service of community singing. 1919.
E 14055

For use as a two days' song festival, in two parts; part I: Soul of earth; part II: Soul of light.

A two-part dramatic ritual of community singing designed to arouse the desire for group expression and activity in the American people. It is "the first work in its field to utilize the untrained singing of the people as a structural part of its artistry."

Mygatt, Tracy D. Good Friday; a passion play of now. 1919.
E 14071

An eloquent expression of wrath at the indignities suffered by conscientious objectors in this country as a result of their attitude during the war. John Haynes Holmes, the outspoken Unitarian minister of New York, justifies the arraignment in his introduction.

Porter, A. Kingsley. The seven who slept. 1919.
E 14195

A drama centering about the return to Ephesus of one of the seven sleepers who finds Christianity established in the world but the world no nearer perfection than in the days when he and his Christian companions had fled to escape persecution.

Tarkington, Booth, and Wilson, Harry L. The Gibson upright. 1919.
E 12890

In this play a capitalist surrenders his piano factory to his workmen and it goes to pieces almost immediately through their ignorance and bad management. Neither a serious problem play nor a farce.

Walker, Stuart. More portmanteau plays. 1919.
E 12978

Contents: A lady of the weeping willow tree.—The very naked boy.—Jonathan makes a wish.

The first is founded on the old Japanese legend of a human soul imprisoned in a tree; the second is a delightful bit of nonsense; the third is a sympathetic and artistic record of a dreamy boy eager to write plays whose stubborn and well-meaning uncle is determined to make him an engineer.

Essays

Duhamel, Georges. The heart's domain. 1919.
E 2528

The author is a French physician who emerges from four years of war with this gospel of broad and gentle humanity in which happiness is to be found in contact with man and with nature. He has also written Civilization, F 12599, and The new book of martyrs, A 6732.

Gardiner, Alfred G. Leaves in the wind; by Alpha of the plough. 1919.
E 3089

Informal sketches of commonplace subjects full of good sense and good humor. Appearing weekly in the dailies throughout the last two years of the war, they cannot but reflect incidentally some of its emotional aspects.

Littell, Philip. Books and things. 1919.
E 4271

A miscellany from the author's urbanely gossipy department in the New Republic, a department the more delightful for being rather less bookish than thingy.—Dial.

Maeterlinck, Maurice. Mountain paths. 1919.
E 4467

Smooth and well-written essays, like all of Maeterlinck's, covering a wide variety of subjects including life after death, German atrocities, and Fabre's work in natural history.

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION

Clark, Francis E. Our Italian fellow citizens in their old homes and their new. 1919. I 10444

The author's desire is to give Americans an intelligent and sympathetic acquaintance with the character and traditions of the many Italians who have come and will continue to come to our shores from every province of Italy.

Collins, Joseph. My Italian year; observations and reflections in Italy during the last year of the war. 1919. I 10443

The author has had excellent opportunities for studying the social life and customs, national characteristics, and political institutions of Italy, and he gives much useful information.

Fitch, R. Louise. Madame France. 1919. I 6867

An interesting record of woman's public and private war work in France founded on the author's personal survey of conditions.

Forbes, Rosita. Unconducted wanderers. 1919. I 11391

A dramatic account of the travels of two English women in America and eastern Asia which the Booklist characterizes as "amusing, astonishing, and flippant."

Hershey, Amos S., and Susanne W. Modern Japan, social—industrial—political. 1919. I 10693

(Problems of the nations.)

Every aspect of Japanese life is treated in this book, which is based on years of study of Japan and is intended to help toward a just estimate of the land and people as they really are.

Sedgwick, Anne Douglas. A childhood in Brittany eighty years ago. 1919. I 6877

A charming mosaic of childhood recollections of life in an out-of-the-way corner of old France, rich in legends and tenacious of its inherited customs and loyalties.—Dial.

United States

Abdy, H. Bennett. On the Ohio. 1919. I 4354

Genial, chatty account of sights, sounds, people, places, and yarns encountered along the Missouri river by rail, by water down the Mississippi and up the Ohio to Pittsburgh.—Booklist.

Faris, John T. Seeing Pennsylvania. 1919. I 4888

The state is divided so as to make eight delightful routes for travelers. The book contains appropriate historical reminiscences, and the descriptions of scenic beauty are accompanied by good photographs.

Henderson, Helen W. A loiterer in New York; discoveries made by a Rambler through obvious yet unsought highways and byways. 1917. I 4920

Moore, William Henry. The clash! a study in nationalities. 1919. I 4182

A careful presentation of the conflict between the Protestant English-speaking and Catholic French-speaking Canadians, which is not without application to Ireland, Poland, and possibly to the United States. Mr. Moore advocates the recognition of large national groups instead of attempted assimilation.

Ross, Edward Alsworth. What is America? 1919. I 4315

A short, extremely condensed exhibit of the United States, its racial make-up, social and political institutions, rural and urban conditions, its labor, and its cultural standards.—Survey.

Young, S. Hall. Adventures in Alaska. 1919. I 4438

The missionary labors of an "Alaska sky pilot" in the gold-rush days. His ministry was among Eskimos, Indians, trappers, gamblers, gold diggers of every degree, and professional men. Remarkable adventures and hardships are related which betray in spirit and incident a strong and winning personality.

BIOGRAPHY

HISTORY
Europe

Stephanove, Constantine. The Bulgarians and Anglo-Saxondom. 1919. A 5239

Turner, Edward Raymond. Ireland and England in the past and at present. 1919. A 5518

A thoroughly informed history of Ireland's political and economic struggle with England from its beginning to the end of the European war. There are also chapters on Irish language and literature and the modern revival of Celtic culture.

European War

Benwell, Harry A. History of the Yankee division, with appreciations by General John J. Pershing, Major-General Clarence R. Edwards and Secretary of war Newton D. Baker. 1919. A 6985

A record of official orders given and movements made day by day, producing a fine sense of actual operations.

Biddle, Charles J. The way of the eagle. 1919. A 7033

Letters from an American ace in the Lafayette escadrille, giving mechanical and tactical details of air fights and flights.

Carlo, Camillo de. The flying spy. 1919. A 7032

The diary of an Italian aviator who flew into the Austrian lines in search of information with regard to the enemy's movements. A spirited narrative of adventures.

Clover, Greayer. A stop at Suzanne's, and lower flights. 1919. A 7037

A memorial volume of lively sketches and letters written by a young American who served in the French camion service and later with the American aviators, together with tributes to the author in prose and verse.

Dennett, Carl P. Prisoners of the great war; authoritative statement of conditions in the prison camps of Germany. 1919. A 7031

Statement by the American Red Cross deputy commissioner to Switzerland in charge of finding, feeding, clothing and otherwise caring for American prisoners in German prison camps. Describes the organization of the service, the agreements with the enemy, and gives exciting details of many prison escapes.—Booklist.

Ely, Dinsmore. Dinsmore Ely, one who served. 1919. A 7041

Diary letters edited by his father, Dr. James O. Ely.

Gilliland, Horace Gray. My German prisons; the story of my two and a half years of captivity in Germany and my final escape, November 14, 1914–April 8, 1917. 1919. A 7040

In his introduction, Mr. James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, commends the book to the perusal of "those who are inclined to forgive an unrepentant Germany."

Harden, Elmer Stetson. An American poilu. 1919. A 7029

Letters from an American who early enlisted in the French army. The pen pictures are vivid and artistic and the author retains something of the civilian's cynicism toward the paradoxes of war.

Hurd, Archibald, and Bashford, H. H. The heroic record of the British navy; a short history of the naval war, 1914–1918. 1919. A 7034

A popular history in narrative form. It is much less technical and statistical than Hurd's The British fleet in the great war, A 6890, or Pollen's British navy in battle, A 6920.

Kelly, Florence Finch. What America did; a record of achievement in the prosecution of the war. 1919. A 7028

A series of chapters each dealing concisely and comprehensively with a separate war activity. It is written in a delightful style giving it a true narrative interest.

Kummer, Frederic Arnold. The battle of the nations, 1914–1918; a young folks' history of the great war. 1919. A 7038

Will also serve as a clear and simple review of the war for busy adults.

McKinley, Albert E., and others. A school history of the great war. 1918. A 7035

Red Cross. American National Red Cross. The work in Europe of the American Red Cross; a report to the American people by the Red Cross War Council. 1917. A 7027

With this is bound the Report by the War Council of appropriations and activities from outbreak of war to Nov. 1, 1917; and the Financial statement of Red Cross War fund, Mar. 1, 1918, with details of the various activities through which this fund is distributed.

Sanborn, Joseph. The 131st U. S. Infantry (First Infantry Illinois National Guard) in the world war. 1919. A 6982

"Narrative—operations—statistics, general narrative by Colonel Sanborn; special narratives by officers commanding various units and detachments; operations comp. by Capt. George N. Malstrom; statistics by the Personnel Adjutant's office, with maps, photographs taken on various battle fields, photographs of officers, rosters, etc."

Sibley, Frank P. With the Yankee division in France. 1919. A 6984

A careful description of the operations of the twenty-sixth division at Chemin des Dames, Chateau-Thierry, Belleau Wood, St. Mihiel, etc., at the same time retaining the perspective of the larger movements of the armies.

Tompkins, Raymond S. The story of the Rainbow division. 1919. A 6983

The story has been told accurately, fully, and absorbingly.—Maj. Gen. Menoher in the Foreword.

Vignes Rouges, Jean des, pseud. of Capt. Taboureau. Bourru, soldier of France. 1919. A 7039

A historical and psychological study outlined with characteristic Gallic keenness and delicacy of touch. Its glimpses of the war have not been surpassed in the horrors of their realism, or the tenderness of their sympathetic feeling.

Waugh, Alec. The prisoners of Mainz. 1919. A 7036

A spirited account by a young British lieutenant of how the tedious hours of eight months in a German prison were whiled away. Good natured and entertaining, illustrated with pen sketches as well as photographs.

Woolcott, Alexander. The command is forward; tales of the A. E. F. battlefields as they appeared in the Stars and Stripes. 1919. A 7030

Dramatic, pointed, slangy, touching and funny, as the war picture happens to appear at the moment. Illustrated with pen and ink sketches.—Booklist.

FICTION

Bassett, Sara Ware. The harbor road. 1919.
F 10858

A story of life in a New England seaport town told in a quiet and leisurely way.

Begbie, Harold. The convictions of Christopher Sterling. 1919. F 10984
A pacifist novel which is rather unconvincing.

Black, Alexander. The great desire. 1919.
F 11202

A story dealing with the every-day happenings in the life of a brother and sister who go from a New England town to New York in search of adventure. It has the charm of literary novelty and very uncommon power.

Blythe, Samuel G. Hunkins. 1919. F 11273
Hunkins is an old time political boss and he undertakes to organize the returned soldiers of his city to turn out the corrupt bosses. How he succeeds makes a good political story.

Cummins, Geraldine D. The land they loved. 1919. F 12218

A picture of Irish life which emphasizes the influence of love of country upon the characters. It is pleasantly told.

Dawson, Coningsby. The test of scarlet; a romance of reality. 1919. F 12353

Vivid pictures of the endless marches, the cold, the thirst, the despairing courage, the universal presence of death. They are half-connected episodes leading up to the time just before the signing of the armistice.

Day, Holman. The rider of the king log; a romance of the northeast border. 1919.
F 12295

A logging story in the Maine woods somewhat like King Spruce (F 12365). Full of incident and good description.

Dunbar, Ruth. The Swallow; a novel based upon the actual experiences of one of the survivors of the famous Lafayette esca-drille. 1919. F 12534

The thrilling experiences of a young aviator in the war told in his own language.

Foote, Mary Hallock. The ground-swell. 1919. F 12865

The liberal-minded and loving but meddling mother is the theme of the story and the question of the relation between parents and their modern children.

Footner, Hulbert. The substitute million-aire. 1919. F 12860

An absorbing mystery yarn and one that you cannot put aside until you know what happens.

Fraser, W. A. Bulldog Carney. 1919.
F 12963

Seven stories of adventure in the Canadian northwest. Bulldog Carney is a wild lawless superman who outwits every plan to capture him and keeps the Northwest Mounted Police busy.

Glasgow, Ellen. The builders. 1919.
F 13294

A picture of American life in the last two years dealing with our present political problems.

Gregory, Jackson. The bells of San Juan. 1919. F 13224

A well written story of a small town in the heart of the desert country of New Mexico and its deliverance from a band of outlaws.

Harry, Myriam, pseud. The little daughter of Jerusalem. 1919. F 13604

The story of the author's childhood in the sacred city. She tells of the pilgrims who came from all the nations and of the customs of the people who lived there. The book might have been better translated, but it makes interesting reading.

Hergesheimer, Joseph. Linda Condon. 1919.
F 13700

A book whose workmanship and artistry are supreme. Linda Condon is an odd child who lives apart from life, yet inspires others to great idealism. It is by far the best book of this author.

Hueston, Ethel. Leave it to Doris. 1919.
F 14153

A story that will appeal to girls.

Kenyon, Camilla. Spanish doubloons. 1919.
F 14465

Treasure hunting on a desert island is an old theme but this quest for treasure has a modern twist and makes pleasant reading.

Lardner, Ring W. Own your own home. 1919. F 14635

Fred Gross had been reading the signboards and he decided to see how it worked. He tells in a very funny way the difficulties of building a home in the suburbs.

Oemler, Marie Conway. A woman named Smith. 1919. F 15738

One of the most delightful stories of the year, its vitality is so invigorating, its plot so interesting, and its characters so charming. The woman named Smith falls heir to an old Carolina mansion with all its traditions, ghosts, and mysteries.

Roe, Vingie E. Tharon of Lost Valley. 1919. F 17418

A story of the Mexican border in which a girl undertakes the management of her father's ranch after his death, and the protection of her fellow ranchers from the maraudings of an outlaw.

Rohmer, Sax, pseud. of Arthur S. Ward. Dope. 1919. F 18954

An exposé of the opium traffic in London.

Rolland, Romain. Colas Breugnon. 1919.
F 17414

Colas Breugnon is a jolly Burgundian peasant who tells of the joys of his daily life.

Ruck, Berta, (Mrs. Oliver Onions). The disturbing charm. 1919. F 15769

A pleasant story of a Welsh girl who uses a love charm on some of her friends. The charm works, but not altogether, as she had expected.

Walpole, Hugh. Jeremy. 1919. F 18948

By some magic Hugh Walpole in this delightful story of a little boy has made to live again the childhood that we all knew and to which we all turn back with longing.

Williams, Ben Ames. The sea bride. 1919.
F 19516

A tale of the cruise of a whaler in the South Sea hunting grounds, of the mutiny of the crew, and how the captain's wife brings the vessel safely home after his death.

Wodehouse, Pelham Granville. A damsel in distress. 1919. F 19701

A book for the tired business man. It is full of gaiety and delightfully impossible. As usual a vigorous young American stirs up the atmosphere in a quiet conventional English hamlet.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S BOOKS

Miscellaneous

Arnadóttir, Hólmfríður. When I was a girl in Iceland. 1919. H 7234

(Children of other lands books.)

The story of Iceland written by one who has actually lived the foreign life described. It is told in a way attractive to Americans of any age.

Burgess, Thornton W. The Burgess bird book for children. 1919. H 7535

An attractively illustrated book, written primarily for the little child, but it also promises to be of much interest and helpfulness to the older children.

Collins, A. Frederick. The boys' airplane book. 1919. K 19395

A fund of information for the boy who is interested in flying. There are chapters on such topics as instruments used on airplanes and the varied uses of airplanes.

Fryer, Jane Eayre. The Mary Frances knitting and crocheting book; or, Adventures among the knitting people. 1918. H 3920

New adventures of Mary Frances with the knitting people. Unusually interesting to the girl who is fond of needlework.

McMurry, Frank M. The geography of the great war. 1919. Hughes Room

Maeterlinck, Maurice. The children's Life of the bee. 1919. K 21913

An especially well-written arrangement of this literary masterpiece for children. The illustrations are done in lovely coloring by E. J. Detmold.

Meyer, Zoe. Orchard and meadow. 1919. H 5067

A reader designed to interest the child in familiar objects of nature about his own home.

Stories

Altsheler, Joseph A. The lords of the wild; a story of the old New York border. 1919. H 7156

One of the French and Indian war series. Robert Lennox, Tayoga, Willet, St. Luc, and Tandakora and all the principal characters of earlier volumes reappear.

Bailey, Carolyn Sherwin. Once upon a time animal stories. 1919. H 7326

A varied collection of nature myths of many lands for story-telling and supplementary reading.

Bailey, Margery. Seven peas in the pod. 1919. H 7385

A group of modern fairy tales, with a story and a song for each day in the week. Interesting illustrations in color by Alice Preston.

Benson, Edward F. David Blaize and the blue door. 1919. H 7339

A story on the order of Alice in Wonderland. David has thrilling experiences after he passes through the blue door and, of course, he wakes up in the end.

Botsford, Charles A. Fighting with the U. S. army. 1919. H 7474

(Victory series, v. 2.)

Second book in a series of which "Joining the colors" is the first. Two boys join the A. E. F. after having served with Canadian forces. Methods of modern warfare are well explained, and boys of fourteen and sixteen years will enjoy the book.

Burgess, Thornton W. Mrs. Peter Rabbit. 1919. H 7534

Peter Rabbit's courtship with Miss Fuzzytail will be interesting to the little ones who have been reading the "Bedtime stories" by the same author.

Burton, Charles Pierce. The trail makers. 1919. H 7635

Two boy scouts are spending their summer vacation in a railroad construction camp at the time that war is declared. The book is full of exciting adventures including the detection of a huge bomb plot. It promises to be as popular as the "Bobs Hill" series.

Colver, Alice Ross. Babs at Birchwood. 1919. H 7715

The second book of the "Babs" series. When Babs finds herself in her cousin's spacious home in Birchwood, she wonders how she is going to like her year in civilization. She enters whole-heartedly into club and other activities and makes the most of a happy year in the city.

Curtis, Alice Turner. A little maid of old Philadelphia. 1919. H 7745

Another "Little Maid" book, describing the life in Philadelphia at the time when the city was in the hands of the British army. Two patriotic girls prove of great service to the American army.

Gray, Violet Gordon. Margery Morris, mascot. 1919. H 8281

The second of the Margery Morris series. Margery's attempt to bring happiness into the lives of others turns out to be not so simple as it seems. Her final resolution to stick it out brings her success and happiness once more.

Normand, Charles. The emerald of the Incas; a story of the Peruvian Sierras. 1917. H 5303

An intensely interesting story of South America with a number of Oriental characters whose experiences will interest boys and girls between the ages of twelve and fourteen.

Pier, Arthur Stanwood. The Hilltop troop. 1919. H 5688

A boy scout troop plays a vital part in the uniting of two factions in a village.

Price, Edith Ballinger. Blue magic. 1919. H 5806

Fen is a little crippled child whose parents have taken him to Egypt by the order of his physician. His utter lonesomeness is remedied by a friend in the guise of a Djinn, whose magic amuses and delights little Fen and makes life very much worth living.

Sabin, Edwin L. Lost with Lieutenant Pike. 1919. H 6328

(The trail blazers series.)

"How from the Pawnee village the boy named Scar Head marched with the young American chief clear into the snowy mountains, how in the dead of winter they searched for the lost river and thought that they had found it, and how the Spanish soldiery came upon them and took them down to Santa Fé of New Mexico, where another surprise awaited them."

Saunders, Marshall. Golden Dicky; the story of a canary and his friends. 1919. H 6386

An entertaining story of bird life and bird ways told by Dicky-Dick, a canary. In this story, Miss Saunders has enlarged her range of humane interests in the animal world to include the feathered world as well.

No. 2

Books of 1919

THE list of books following these paragraphs represents, not the "Best Books" of the year, but merely those which, out of all that swam within our ken during the twelve months, have proven most useful and important, judged by such standards of selection and experience as we have at our command.

The process of book selection in a large public library is perhaps a more serious and careful one than it is commonly understood to be. It generally begins with the actual reading or scanning of the book, supplemented by an examination and checking of reviews. The factor of probable public interest and demand is approximated by means of conferences of department heads and branch librarians most competent by contact with the library constituency to form an opinion. In these semi-monthly conferences a decision is reached as to whether (a) a given book shall be bought; (b) how many copies shall constitute the initial purchase; and (c) to what departments, branches, or other agencies these copies shall be assigned. An order for sixty to a hundred copies of a new book is rather more frequent than an order for one copy, and, in general, purchases range widely between these two figures. The whole number of new books acquired during the year, therefore, represents the result of critical judgments, carefully compiled and digested, plus an estimate as to probable public demand formulated as above described. There remains the final verdict rendered by the public itself as to the validity of the choice thus arrived at.

The monthly lists in these Book Bulletins show the whole number of books added. The list below comprises those which have received the public approval of most frequent and persistent use. It is thus a list of "Best Books" only in the sense that it presents the most useful books, or the most used books at any rate, as determined through the spontaneous suffrage of a large army of library patrons whose judgment we have every reason to receive with respect. As such it should be of interest to the patrons of the library at large.

Animism

Gilmore, George William. Animism; or Thought currents of primitive peoples. 1919. L 13047

An interesting study of the logic of animistic conceptions, showing the correctness of the mental processes of primitive man when once his premise is granted.

Character Analysis

Conduct of Life

Balkin, Harry H. The new science of analyzing character. 1919. L 13761

Principles formulated by the author on the basis of many years of experience as employment adviser.

Parlette, Ralph Albert. The university of hard knocks; the school that completes our education. 1917. L 14126

The fourth edition of a popular book on the lessons of adversity in the laboratory of experience.

Betts, George Herbert. How to teach religion. 1919. L 19913

(The Abingdon religious education texts. Teacher training series.)

By far the best book we have as yet on how to teach the child religion. . . . How not to teach religion in the Sunday school and the home as well is here set forth in many impressive contrasts.—Outlook.

Hough, Lynn Harold. The productive beliefs. 1919. M 4736, 1919

(The Cole lectures for 1919, delivered before Vanderbilt University.)

Lectures by the president of Northwestern University intended to outline on an orthodox basis an expression of Christian faith which shall meet the insistent demand of the present age for productive results.

Kelly, Caleb Guyer. French Protestantism, 1559-1562. 1918. *L 3201, 36

(Johns Hopkins University studies in history and political science.)

Contents: Social and economic forces.—The resources of the Huguenots.—The organization of the Calvinists.—The reform at its height.—Friends and foes at home and abroad.—Guise or Valois?—The arsenal of Protestantism.

Peck, W. G. The coming free catholicism. 1919. M 7855

The projected program will incorporate into Christianity both the element of natural religion expressed in Catholic ritual and the intellectual and spiritual freedom which Protestantism has exerted.—American Journal of Theology.

SOCIOLOGY

Chancellor, William Estabrook. Educational sociology. 1919. L 15293

A popular treatment which covers the subject quite fully and more readably than many others of its kind. Views social movements from an educational standpoint, in a general introductory survey.—Booklist.

Cram, Ralph Adams. Walled towns. 1919. L 15411

A plea for constructive reform.

Economics

Garvin, J. L. The economic foundations of peace; or, World-partnership as the truer basis of the league of nations. 1919. L 16623

Much of the extraordinary economic machinery devised to win the war "must be retained during the period of reconstruction, and some corresponding system of economic cooperation must be made a permanent and indispensable part of any league of nations."

Gebhard, Hannes. Co-operation in Finland. 1916. L 17533

Middleton, P. Harvey. Industrial Mexico; 1919 facts and figures. L 16668

Its accumulated evidence of commercial possibilities and of the willingness of the present government to modernize the institutions of the republic supports the movement in this country for friendlier relationships on the basis of open and honest dealings between private citizens.—Survey.

Labor

Cole, G. D. H. An introduction to trade unionism; being a short study of the present position of trade unionism in Great Britain, prepared for the trade union survey of the Labour research department. 1918. L 17192

(Fabian Society, London. Trade union series, no. 4.)

Mr. Cole suggests a plan for an easy transition from present industrial conditions through trade unionism to the formation of national guilds, which he regards as equally removed from state socialism and the pre-war system of wage exploitation.

—Labour in the commonwealth; a book for the younger generation. 1919. L 16932

(The new commonwealth books.)

A critical review of present industrial and social conditions from the standpoint of guild socialism. Mr. Cole distinguishes between state and commonwealth, desiring for the latter an interrelation of institutions subordinated to the will of the individual.

Hunter, Robert. Bolshevism and the labour movement. 1919. L 17589

MacIver, R. M. Labor in the changing world. 1919. L 16948

A statement of the liberal view of the labor problem and its solution, advocating a more cooperative rather than competitive order of production in which there shall be neither "prodigal waste nor sheer degrading poverty."

Renard, Georges. Guilds in the middle ages. 1918. L 17886

Finance, Tariff

Browne, Scribner, and others. Practical points on stock trading. 1918. L 17449

Political Science

The Aga Khan (Sultan Muhammad Shah). India in transition; a study in political evolution, by His Highness the Aga Khan. 1919. L 11838

A loyal conservative Indian subject criticizes the weak points of British rule, especially with regard to education. He thinks there is great need for radical changes, which should be brought about by fitting the masses for representative government.

Hobhouse, L. T. The metaphysical theory of the state; a criticism. 1918. L 15781

(London school of economics and political science. Studies.)

Mainly a criticism of the Hegelian theory of the state and a critique of Bosanquet's work, particularly of his Philosophical theory of the state, L 6412.

Weber, Gustavus A. Organized efforts for the improvement of methods of administration in the United States. 1919. L 18078

Published with the purpose of making available information regarding governmental and private agencies for investigating extravagant and inefficient machinery and methods of administration, local, state, and national, and of furnishing constructive suggestions.—Booklist.

Democracy

Desmond, Shaw. Democracy. 1919. F 12415

A young Irish writer expounds his views on democracy and the present political situation in Ireland and England.

Mallock, W. H. The limits of pure democracy. 1918. L 15901

Careful, conscientious, and sincere—albeit intolerant—discussion of our social and economic world. To the reactionary it will prove that all is well; to the progressive, an excellent mental exercise, but it offers no peril to liberal views.—Survey.

White, Bouck. The free city; a book of neighborhood. 1919. L 15835

Contrasts the advantages of municipal governments with the evils of national politics of today and advocates a chain of small republics as the formula for extending democracy over wide areas.

Negroes

Blascoer, Frances. Colored school children in New York. 1915. L 16167

Immigration and Americanization

Bogardus, Emory S. Essentials of Americanization. 1919. L 16046

The author writes from his experience as a settlement worker and believes that if the immigrant is protected from exploitation and given better standards of living and education he will automatically become a good American.

Brooks, Charles Alvin. Christian Americanization; a task for the churches. 1919. L 16047

The author is a secretary of the Baptist home mission society. He defines Americanization as the achievement of national unity for service upon the plane of the highest ideal, and recognizes the importance to this end of a common language.

Foerster, Robert F. The Italian emigration of our times. 1919. L 6587, 20
(Harvard economic studies. v. 20.)

A thorough survey of the greatest migratory movement of our times, studying the conditions in Italy which gave it rise and following the emigrant into Europe, Africa, South America, and especially with much detail into the United States.

International Relations

Chamberlain, Thomas G. Why we fought. 1919. L 17943

Short studies of the provisions of the covenant of the League of Nations, together with the text of the covenant and addresses in its favor. It is prefaced by a foreword by Mr. Taft.

Law

Hall, Fred S., and Brooke, Elisabeth W. American marriage laws in their social aspects; a digest. 1919. *N 5488

This work is divided into three parts dealing with (1) suggested proposals for marriage reforms, (2) state laws summarized by topics, and (3) a digest of marriage laws by states. The Survey regards it as a "valuable and much needed contribution to social science."

Reed, John C. Conduct of lawsuits out of and in court: practically teaching, and copiously illustrating, the preparation and forensic management of litigated cases of all kinds; being a new ed. of "Practical suggestions," rev. and rewritten. 1912. N 5465

Smith, Reginald Heber. Justice and the poor; a study of the present denial of justice to the poor and of the agencies making more equal their position before the law, with particular reference to legal aid work in the United States. 1919. L 10643, 13

(The Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching. Bulletin.)

Exhaustive inquiry by a member of the Boston bar into the methods of civil and criminal courts in the different states by which justice is supposedly obtained for the poor. The author concludes that the poor are at a disadvantage before the law, analyzes the causes, and suggests remedies.

Practical Sociology Social Survey

Bonser, F. G. School work and spare time. 1918. L19370, 28
(Cleveland foundation. Publications.)
Cleveland recreation survey.

Colcord, Joanna C. Broken homes; a study of family desertion and its social treatment. 1919. L 20771
(Social work series.)

A study of exceptional penetration and thoroughness, in which a clear insight into human personality and relationships and a warm appreciation of human values combine with an accurate knowledge of the various implications of the problem of family desertion and the skilled practice of a highly developed social case-worker.—Survey.

Gillin, John L. Wholesome citizens and spare time. 1918. L 19370, 29
(Cleveland foundation. Publications.)

Grant, Robert. Law and the family. 1919. L 20971

These essays were written by a judge of the probate court in Boston and refer particularly to the legal status of woman in Massachusetts, though showing also the general tendency of the age toward a broadening interpretation of the law.

Education

Blanton, Margaret Gray, and Smiley, Blanton. Speech training for children; the hygiene of speech. 1919. L 19614

Practical helps for the correct development of the speech organs and processes. The suggestions are excellent for early home training but helpful also for the teacher of children who have missed its advantages.

Dell, Floyd. Were you ever a child? 1919. L 19373

Mr. Dell thinks that the present system of education has failed to fit the child to meet the realities of life, and he contends in a clear-cut, humorous way for a new system which will consider the facts of the child's future.

Dooley, William H. Principles and methods of industrial education for use in teacher training classes. 1919. L 19568

Poetry

Aiken, Conrad. Scepticisms, notes on contemporary poetry. 1919. E 10615

Discriminating comments on English and American poets and poetry, preceded by a delightful essay on the difficulties of impartial criticism. The title comes from the author's uncertainty about the future standing of our current poetry.

Masters, Edgar Lee. Starved Rock. 1919. E 14863

Has humor and satire and a desire that leaps beyond life and that finds its symbol in that rock in the great valley that stands as a monument to vanished races and lost adventurers.—New Republic.

Proudfoot, Andrea Hofer. Trolley lines, jotted down coming and going. 1919. E 11422

Starrett, Vincent, ed. In praise of Stevenson; an anthology, with an introduction and notes. 1919. E 14316

(The Bookfellow series.)

Towne, Charles Hanson. A world of wind-dows, and other poems. 1919. E 8682

Sees life clearly and wholly through trained and sympathetic eyes, directed by a heart which is really in love with life. He is never sentimental. He uses vers libre for subjects to which it is suited and he manages it very skilfully.—Bookman.

Twelve poets; a miscellany of new verse. 1918. E 14315

Contents: Edward Thomas.—W. H. Davies.—Walter De La Mare.—Vivian Locke Ellis.—A. Hugh Fisher.—Robin Flower.—John Freeman.—James Guthrie.—Ruth Manning Sanders.—J. C. Squire.—Rowland Thirlmere [pseud. of John Walker].—W. J. Turner.

Drama

Plays and Pageants

Benavente, Jacinto. Plays; 2d series. 1919. E 11822, 2

Contents: Benaventiana.—No smoking.—Princess Bébé.—The governor's wife.—Autumnal roses.

Haney, James Parton. The pageant of Niké apteros, the wingless Victory. 1919. E 12282

Hellman, George S. Esther; a drama in three acts. 1918. *Ser.

(In the Menorah Journal, v. 3.)

Mayorga, Margaret Gardner, comp. Representative one-act plays by American authors, selected, with biographical notes. 1919. E 14058

Contents: The one-act play.—Sam Average by P. Mackaye.—Six who pass while the lentils boil, by S. Walker.—Voices, by H. Flexner.—The merry merry cuckoo, by J. Marks.—Sintram of Skagerrak, by S. Cowan.—Will of the wisp, by D. F. Halman.—Beyond, by A. Gerstenberg.—A good woman, by G. Middleton.—Funiculi Funicula, by R. Wellman.—Hunger, by E. Pillot.—In the zone, by E. G. O'Neill.—The brink of silence, by E. E. Galbraith.—Allison's lad, by B. M. Dix.—Mrs. Pat and the law, by M. Aldis.—Lima beans, by A. Kreymborg.—The wonder hat, by B. Hecht and K. S. Goodman.—Suppressed desires, G. C. Cook and S. Glaspell.—Where but in America, by O. M. Wolff.—A question of morality, by P. Wilde.—Martha's mourning, by P. Hoffman.—Ryland, by T. W. Stevens and K. S. Goodman.—The last straw, by B. Crocker.—Hattie, by E. De Pue.—Dregs, by F. P. Spencer.

Significant one-act plays of the "little theatre" movement in America, each preceded by a brief sketch of the author and his work. An appendix contains bibliographies of the movement, and of the one-act play, besides a list of those by American authors.

Payne, E. Ursula. Plays and pageants of democracy. 1919. E 14185

Contents: The vision of Columbus.—At the gate of peace.—The golden star.—The highway of the king.—The conversion of Mrs. Slacker.—Hardships at Valley Forge.

Patriotic plays for the upper grades. They are especially suited for school use since a large number of characters is desirable for the production of four of them.

Essays

Bergengren, Ralph. The perfect gentleman. 1919. E 1905

Turns a humorous plow into familiar furrows, shedding ephemeral freshness on such eternal themes as lying in bed, shaving, dressing, and visiting the barber. In the fashioning of essays, Mr. Bergengren strives for the droll rather than the durable.—Dial.

Holliday, Robert Cortes. Broome Street straws. 1919. E 3469

Charmingly written sketches in the vein of the Walking-stick papers (E 3467), but of somewhat uneven merit. The title of the collection is reminiscent of the author's early boarding-house days.

Howe, E. W. Ventures in common sense. 1919. E 3465

(The free lance books, II.)

Apothegms collected from E. W. Howe's Monthly and prefaced by H. L. Mencken. They deal cleverly and succinctly with such subjects as women, politics, the poor, business, literature, fools, war, critics, and advertising. Something on the order of Nathan's Book without a title (E 4691) and Mencken's Damn! (E 4475).

Jenkins, MacGregor. Literature with a large L and Fellow travelers. 1919. E 3840

Two essays in a gently satirical vein. The first deplores the sacredness of the literature cult, and the second sums up the essential task of education as the imparting of optimism, helpfulness, faith, and enthusiasm in the child mind.

Overton, Grant M. Why authors go wrong and other explanations. 1919. J 7385

A justification of literary critics—especially when connected with the daily press—in catering to the cheaper elements of popular taste.

BIOGRAPHY

Barnett, Samuel A. Barnett, Mrs. Henrietta O. Canon Barnett, warden of the first University Settlement, Toynbee Hall, Whitechapel, London; his life, work, and friends, by his wife. 1919. 2 v. C 20750

The record of an energetic human life lived in simplicity and greatness where it counted most. All the powers of Barnett's life are united in his endeavor to bring to the east end of London the highest values of life.—Nation.

Browne, Charles Farrar. Seitz, Don C. Artemus Ward (Charles Farrar Browne); a biography and bibliography. 1919. C 21023

An excellent biography long meditated and amply documented. It has been a labor of love and Mr. Seitz has spared no pains to dig the facts out of the files of newspapers and magazines, to set them in order and to arrange them in a seemly narrative.—Brander Matthews in New York Times.

Clarke, Sir Edward. The story of my life. 1919. C 21269

Comiskey, Charles A. Axelson, G. W. "Com-mey." 1919. C 21328

"The life story of Charles A. Comiskey, the 'Grand Old Roman' of baseball and for nineteen years president and owner of the White Sox."

Dante Alighieri. Dinsmore, Charles Allen. Life of Dante Alighieri. 1919. C 21503

A more comprehensively biographical and historical treatment than Grandgent's Power of Dante (E 10824), against the background of Florence and thirteenth century Europe.

Dundee, John Graham of Claverhouse, 1st Viscount. Barrington, Michael. Grahame of Claverhouse, Viscount Dundee. 1911. C 21660

A handsome volume dealing with exciting events in the history of Scotland during the latter half of the seventeenth century.

Forsyth, Christina. Livingstone, W. P. Christina Forsyth of Fingoland; the story of the loneliest woman in Africa. 1919. C 21954

A remarkable missionary biography showing what one woman accomplished in thirty years in "a wild region of unbroken heathenism" in South Africa.

Frederick the Great. Young, Norwood. The life of Frederick the Great. 1919. C 21997

A work based on a large volume of literature second in quantity and interest only to the Napoleon literature. It points out that Frederick has become the center of much legendary material that is not warranted by the facts.

Marks, Murray. Williamson, George C. Murray Marks and his friends; a tribute of regard. 1919. C 23256

Delightful reminiscences of the pre-Raphaelite group, centering about the charming personality of Murray Marks, the famous connoisseur and collector.

Massenet, Jules. My recollections (1848-1912). 1919. C 23291

An authorized translation of the popularly interesting memoirs of the French composer who is most known here through his operas Thais and Manon.

Roosevelt, Theodore. Henderson, Daniel. Great-heart; the life story of Theodore Roosevelt. 1919. C 23984

This is not a complete biography but a series of anecdotes and incidents reflecting the romance and inspiration of Roosevelt's life and justifying Kipling in looking upon him as the incarnation of Bunyan's allegorical character.

—Sewall, William Wingate. Bill Sewall's story of T. R., with an introduction, by Hermann Hagedorn. 1919. C 23983

An intimate account of Roosevelt's early days in Maine and the happenings on his Dakota ranch, written by the friend who was his guide in the eastern woods and the manager of his ranch in the west.

Saint-Saëns, Camille. Musical memories. 1919. C 24062

An informal and untechnical book of reminiscences of contemporary musicians by one of the most eminent of them.

Wilson, Woodrow. Nelson, Lars P. President Wilson; the world's peace-maker. 1919. C 24841

Wood, Leonard. Sears, Joseph Hamblen. The career of Leonard Wood. 1919. C 24926

An enthusiastic account of General Wood as Indian fighter, official, soldier, organizer, administrator, statesman, and patriot.

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION

Atlas América Latina; a geographic, economic and commercial atlas of Mexico, Central America, West Indies and South America, presenting a series of new maps, commercial charts and descriptive data of the twenty Latin American republics. 1919. Civics Dept.

Spanish, English, and Portuguese text.

Briggs, Martin S. Through Egypt in wartime. 1919. I 9045

A lively and entertaining account of Egypt and Palestine, their history, art, and archeology, by a soldier-architect who served in the British army as captain and sanitary officer.

Burnett-Smith, A. As others see her; an Englishwoman's impressions of the American woman in war time. 1919. I 4316

A tribute to the beauty and generosity of American women while deploring the restlessness which formed the author's strongest impression of the club movement.

Chase, J. Smeaton. California desert trails; and an appendix of plants, also hints on desert travelling. 1919. I 4435

With whole-souled interest in the desert as a desert, in its solitude and thirst, its plant, animal and human life, the author describes the beauty of the wastes along the Colorado river valley in California. Suggestive to travelers, both as to routes and equipment.—Booklist.

Frank, Waldo. Our America. 1919. I 4317

Contents: The land of the pioneer.—New England.—The chosen people.—The land of buried cultures.—Chicago.—The Puritan says "yea."—New York.—The multitudes in Whitman.—The turning of the soil.

Writing primarily to interpret America to the young French generation. Mr. Frank succeeds in giving a fairly convincing picture of the continuity of motives and powers which runs through American history and is expressed so differently in east and west.

Hallays, André. The spell of Alsace. 1919. I 7515

A sympathetic account of the land and people of Alsace prefaced by a rapid historical survey from the time of Caesar to the present.

HISTORY

Europe

Bigelow, Poultney. Prussianism and pacifism; the two Wilhelms between the revolutions of 1848 and 1918. 1919. A 5544

A sharp criticism of Prussianism by a boyhood acquaintance of the Kaiser who believes that Prussia must not only be made harmless but must be compelled to keep so. Mr. Bigelow has no patience with the consideration of a league of nations as a practical solution.

Brown, Carroll N., and Ion, T. P., tr. Persecutions of the Greeks in Turkey since the beginning of the European war; tr. from official Greek documents. 1918. A 6146
(American-Hellenic Society. Publications.)

Bullard, Arthur. The Russian pendulum; autocracy—democracy—bolshevism. 1919. A 6039

The Russian pendulum, the author says, has swung its full length from the autocracy of the czar to the autocracy of the Bolsheviks. He writes in July 1918 and defends armed intervention by the Allies as necessary to save Russia for democracy.

Ferriman, Z. D. Greece—and tomorrow. 1918. A 6147

(American-Hellenic Society. Publications.)

Holt, Lucius Hudson, and Chilton, A. W. A brief history of Europe from 1789 to 1815. 1919. A 5952

A non-technical treatment of the French Revolution and the Napoleonic era, including a careful account of important military campaigns of the period.

Vizetelly, Ernest Alfred. Paris and her people under the third republic. 1919. A 5777

A detailed account of the social and artistic aspects of Parisian life since the rebellion of the Commune following the Franco-Prussian war.

Younghusband, Sir George. The Tower of London from within. 1919. A 5410

The keeper of the "jewel house" in the Tower of London here seems, as the Spectator says, "not only to dwell within the precincts of the Tower but to have entered, as it were, into its memory."

European War

Addison, James Thayer. The story of the First Gas Regiment. 1919. A 6986

The chaplain's record of the organization and training of the 30th Engineers—the first U. S. regiment to use gas as its only offensive weapon—and of their activities all along the western front from Ypres to Switzerland.

Gibbs, A. Hamilton. Gun fodder; the diary of four years of war. 1919. A 7046

The author is a younger brother of the war correspondent Philip Gibbs who introduces the diary. He saw service in Salonica, in Egypt, and on the Marne, and describes it with a graphic pen.

Greece. Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The Greek white book; diplomatic documents, 1913–1917, prefaced by the treaties dealing with the establishment of the Hellenic state and the incorporation with it of the Ionian islands. 1918. A 7054

(American-Hellenic Society. Publications.)
Contains also supplementary diplomatic documents, 1913–1917, issued by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Greek government, dealing with the Greco-Serbian treaty and the Germano-Bulgarian invasion of Macedonia, and containing telegrams exchanged by the royal courts of Athens and Berlin.

Hart, W. Lee, comp. History of Base Hospital Number Fifty-three, Advance Section, Service of Supply. 1919. A 7052

Iogolevitch, Paul. The young Russian corporal; the story of the youngest veteran of the war. 1919. A 6987

An interesting personal record of the war escapades of a Russian-Jewish lad of twelve who served in the Russian army, was decorated for bravery, and after the Russian collapse did war propaganda work in the United States.—Booklist.

Jesse, F. Tennyson. The sword of Deborah; first-hand impressions of the British women's army in France. 1919. A 7050

Both informative and interesting. Here one makes friends with war organizations and thrills with respect at the really serious, useful work they do. The author approached them with much of the skepticism that an ordinary stay-at-home woman does, but this adds to the reader's confidence in the descriptions.—Booklist.

Kellogg, Vernon. Germany in the war and after. 1919. A 7044

Contents: A post-mortem: the German army.—German control of Germans.—What the blockade did to food.—Other inside difficulties during the war.—How the people were deceived.—What the Germans thought during the war and armistice.—Germany now and to-morrow.

Mr. Kellogg was with the Commission for Belgian Relief at German headquarters until the United States entered the war, and he gives an authentic report of German conditions and policies.

Magnes, Judah L. Russia and Germany at Brest-Litovsk. 1919. A 7042

A compilation of documentary evidence bearing on the situation at Brest-Litovsk and after. The sources have of course been secondary since original documents are not available.—Book Review Digest.

The Palestine News. A brief record of the advance of the Egyptian Expeditionary Force, under the command of General Allenby, July 1917 to October 1918. 1919. A 7051

Consists of maps accompanied by descriptive text.

Peixotto, Ernest. The American front. 1919. A 7049

An attractive book by an official artist of the A. E. F. who was an eye-witness at all the important offensives in which America took part. The plates, mostly architectural, are made from U. S. official photographs of the author's drawings.

Pepys, Sam'l, jun'r., pseud. A last diary of the great warr. 1919. A 6989

Sequel to A diary of the great warr, A 6297; A second diary of the great warr, A 6604.

Powell, E. Alexander. The army behind the army. 1919. K 31086

This describes the work of all the different departments in which the two million soldiers who saw service in this country were engaged, including the signal corps, the gas makers, the quartermaster corps, the ordnance, the motor transport corps, and the medical department.

Punch. Mr. Punch's history of the great war. 1919. A 7048

An extraordinarily interesting and entertaining volume of pictures and comment made up from the pages of Punch during the war.—Bookman.

Red Cross. American National Red Cross. Reports of the American Red Cross Commissions upon their activities in Macedonia, Thrace, Bulgaria, the Aegean islands, and Greece. 1919. A 7053
(American-Hellenic Society. Publications.)

Roosevelt, Kermit. War in the garden of Eden. 1919. A 6990

There is little of war and much of the Garden of Eden in this book by Theodore Roosevelt's son. The picturesque country is interestingly described and the photographs taken by the author are really very fine.

Roosevelt, Theodore. Average Americans. 1919. A 6988

Lieut.-Col. Roosevelt's narrative of the war, aside from the identity and family connections of the author, is little different from numerous others. It is interesting descriptive reading.—Springfield Republican.

Saint-René Taillandier, Mme. The soul of the C. R. B.; a French view of the Hoover relief work. 1919. A 7047

A sentimental expression of French appreciation of America's assistance given through the agency of the Commission of Belgian Relief.

Stoddard, F. R., jr. War time France; the story of an American commission abroad. 1918. A 7043

The author was chief of the commission sent to study anti-aircraft artillery, and he gives a spirited report of their many adventures at the front and the valuable work accomplished.

The Jews

Ravage, M. E. The Jew pays; a narrative of the consequences of the war to the Jews of eastern Europe, and of the manner in which Americans have attempted to meet them. 1919. A 2686

Peace finds the Eastern Jew with no more hopeful outlook than at the beginning of the war. It is the task of American Jews to persuade the civilized world to demand that the Jew everywhere be allowed to live his life in the freedom and usefulness that is accorded to him here.

Sokolow, Nahum. History of Zionism, 1600-1918; with an introduction by the Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, M.P. 1919. 2v. A 2688

Scholarly in its inception and clear and readable in style, this book gives to all who are interested in the many-sided aspects of the economic, social and political questions not only of Europe but of America, an insight into the predominating Jewish point of view.—Boston Transcript.

Asia

Coleman, Frederic. The Far East unveiled; an inner history of events in Japan and China in the year 1916. 1919. A 4826

A spicy interesting record of what came to the attention of an experienced newspaper correspondent in China and Japan, who had had a long early acquaintance with those countries. It is full of information on financial, industrial, and political conditions.

Gibbons, Herbert Adams. The new map of Asia (1900-1919). 1919. A 4825

This book presents a record of the encroachments of each of the European powers upon Asia. The author believes that in Japan the increasing democratic sentiment is a hopeful sign and that Japan is not to be blamed for refusing to permit herself to be exploited like China, for instance.

Kendall, Carleton Waldo. The truth about Korea. 1919. A 4791

North America

Mexico

Inman, Samuel Guy. Intervention in Mexico. 1919. B 4839

An American educator discusses various aspects of the Mexican problem as much as possible from the Mexican's point of view: the present disturbances, the character of Carranza, the present and future relations between Mexico and the United States, etc.

United States

Davidson, Gordon Charles. The North West Company. 1918. B 2918, 7

(University of California publications in history.) An excellent history of the Canadian fur trade, describing especially the development of one of the great fur-trading corporations of North America.

Dunn, Jacob Piatt. Indiana and Indianans, a history of aboriginal and territorial Indiana and the century of statehood. 1919. 5 v. *B 8426

Kino, Eusebio Francisco. Kino's historical memoir of Pimeria Alta; a contemporary account of the beginnings of California, Sonora, and Arizona; tr. into English, ed. and annotated, by Herbert Eugene Bolton. 1919. 2 v. *B 6005, 3-4

(Spain in the West, vol. III-IV.)

The author was a young pioneer Jesuit missionary explorer, cartographer, and ranchman living from 1683 to 1711.

Phillips, Mary Schuyler. Colonial Virginia. 1915. B 8347

The Colonial Dames of America in the state of Ohio. Studies on the colonial period for use in the public schools.

The South in the building of the nation; a history of the southern states designed to record the South's part in the making of the American nation, to portray the character and genius, to chronicle the achievements and progress, and to illustrate the life and traditions of the southern people. 1909-13. 13 v. B 7569

- v. 1-3. History of the states.
4. Political history.
5. Economic history, 1607-1865.
6. Economic history, 1865-1909.
7. History of the literary and intellectual life.
8. History of southern fiction.
9. History of southern oratory.
10. History of the social life.
- 11-12. Southern biography.
13. Index, and courses of study.

Illinois

Cole, Arthur Charles. The era of the civil war, 1848-1870. 1919. B 7675, 3

(The centennial history of Illinois, v. 3.)

For the period the history of no one of the Northern states is more important nor interesting. It includes the rise of the great Free Soil movement, the origin of the Republican party, the Lincoln-Douglas debates, the election of 1860, and finally the profound disturbance of society wrought by the war itself.—Review of Reviews.

Kirkland, Caroline, comp. Chicago yesterday; a sheaf of reminiscences. 1919. B 7853

Contents: The twenties and thirties by C. Kirkland.—A pioneer couple, letters of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Burley.—A new home, letter of Mrs. Leander McCormick.—The first church wedding in Chicago, by Mrs. A. B. Meeker.—Gleanings from a family memoir, by J. T. Ryerson.—Out of the past, by Mrs. W. Blair.—As I remember it, by Mrs. J. F. Ward.—Long ago, by M. Drummond.—Forgotten Chicago, by Mme. C. Bigot.—A Kentucky colony, by C. H. Harrison.—Old Hyde Park, by Mrs. B. F. Ayer.—Before the fire, by Mrs. F. Greeley.—The Chicago Club, by E. Blair.—Through a child's eyes, by Mrs. F. T. West.—Early Lake Forest, by Mrs. R. G. McGann.—From fire to fair, by various people.—The yesterday of the horse, by H. C. Chatfield-Taylor.—The World's Fair, by Mrs. W. J. Calhoun.

Frank, illuminating, historically interesting accounts of Chicago's infancy and development. Tribune. A gay and informative book.—Chicago

McLean, John. One hundred years in Illinois (1818-1918); an account of the development of Illinois in the first century of her statehood. 1919. B 7693

Includes several chapters on Pullman, Illinois.

Pease, Theodore Calvin. The frontier state, 1818-1848. 1918. B 7675, 2

(The centennial history of Illinois, v. 3.)

In the drawing of the outlines the perspective remains admirable throughout. Although some tediousness of detail could not always be avoided the author nowhere loses his perception of the vital relation between state politics and the larger aspects of national affairs.—Amer. History Review.

FICTION

Andrews, Mary Raymond Shipman. Joy in the morning. 1919. F 10572

Contents: The ditch.—Her country too.—The swallow.—Only one of them.—The V. C.—He that loseth his life shall find it.—The silver stirrup.—The Russian.—Robina's doll.—Dundonald's destroyer.

Stories of the war republished from different magazines.

Bacon, Josephine Daskam. Square Peggy. 1919. F 10793

Contents: Square Peggy.—Comrades in arms.—The ghost of Rosy Taylor.—Alice of the red tape.—The fruits of the earth.—The film of fate.—Stepping stones.—Merry-go-round.—Quartermastery.—Ru of the reserves.

Ten romantic stories, with a Fifth Avenue atmosphere, about some charming New York girls who helped in the war and so found themselves.

Barbusse, Henri. Light. 1919. F 10864

The story of a French soldier who has been through the war, and as a result sees the big realities of life. He decries war and all social injustices. The descriptions are most graphic.

Benson, E. F. Up and down. 1918. F 11123

More a series of essays and bits of travel than a novel, but charmingly written in Benson's best style. He tells of his travels from day to day in Italy, and intermingles the narrative with spiritual musings.

Bertrand, Adrien. The call of the soil (L'appel du sol). 1919. F 11102

The translation of a French novel written by a young soldier who fell in the war. It is the history of a company and shows the intense patriotism and exaltation of the men who died that France might live.

Bindloss, Harold. Partners of the out-trail. 1919. F 11135

A tale of an adventurous young Canadian woodman in British Columbia who falls heir to an estate in Northern England.

Birmingham, G. A., pseud. of James Owen Hannay. Our casualty, and other stories. 1918. F 11192

Contents: Our casualty.—Getting even.—A matter of discipline.—The second bass.—Her right.—Journey's end.—His girl.—Sir Galahad.—A gun-running episode.—Ireland for ever.—Sir Timothy's dinner-party.—United Ireland.—Old Biddy and the rebels.—Civilized war.—The mermaid.—An upright judge.

Humorous stories of the war with a touch of sadness here and there.

Bower, B. M., pseud. of Mrs. B. M. Sinclair. Rim o' the world. 1919. F 18149

A typical Bower story dealing with ranch life in the Idaho desert and a feud to be settled. Full of action and gun-play.

Brown, Alice. The black drop. 1919. F 11298

The story, vividly told, of a patriotic American family whose son has the black drop of blood and becomes a German spy.

Cannan, Gilbert. Pink roses. 1919. F 11671

A little group of young men in London is broken up by the war and only one is left at home. The story deals with his re-adjustment to conditions and is a satire upon life.

Couperus, Louis. Ecstasy; a study of happiness. 1919. F 12209

One of the author's first novels but only just translated. It is the story of an ideal love told in a very poetic and mystical way.

- Fletcher, Joseph S. The Middle Temple murder. 1919. F 12853
 Frank Spargo is a keen-brained reporter who with no clue solves the mysterious murder of Middle Temple Lane. The plot is clever and skillfully worked out.
- Fuller, Henry B. Bertram Cope's year. 1919. F 13072
 An Evanston professor's adventures in love and learning.
- Gale, Zona. Peace in Friendship Village. 1919. F 13107
 More Friendship Village stories which make enjoyable reading because they are so human and portray life in a little town so well.
- Henry, O., pseud. of W. S. Porter. Waifs and strays; twelve stories, together with a representative selection of critical and biographical comment. 1919. F 16586
Contents: Pt. 1. Twelve stories: The red roses of Tonia.—Round the circle.—The rubber plant's story.—Out of Nazareth.—Confessions of a humorist.—The sparrows in Madison Square.—Hearts and hands.—The cactus.—The detective detector.—The dog and the playlet.—A little talk about mobs.—The snow man.—Pt. 2. Critical and biographical comment.
 Stories taken from old magazines and newspapers and not among his best work.
- Hergesheimer, Joseph. The lay Anthony; a romance. 1919. F 13701
 Written in 1914 and recently re-written. It is a character study of a boy who was elemental in his love of nature and in his outlook on life. A good piece of writing.
- Hichens, Robert. Mrs. Marden. 1919. F 13828
 A bereaved mother goes to a medium in search of comfort and then in her hour of disillusion turns back to find in answer to her questions "the divine adventure."
- Irwin, Inez Haynes. The happy years. 1919. F 14270
 A sequel to the author's Phoebe and Ernest, F 13257, and Phoebe, Ernest, and Cupid, F 13268.
 The grandparents decide that "there is no such thing as old age" and keep young by always having new plans and interests.
- Lee, Jennette. The rain-coat girl. 1919. F 14673
 A wholesome story for older girls.
- Lefèvre, Edwin. Simonetta. 1919. F 14691
 A charming Florentine mystery story in which the heroine is the living counterpart of Botticelli's Simonetta. How her artist father takes advantage of this and how he is discovered make a delightful tale.
- Lewis, Sinclair. Free air. 1919. F 14743
 A breezy tale of an automobile trip from Minneapolis to the coast.
- London, Jack. On the Makalooa mat. 1919. F 14768
Contents: On the Makalooa mat.—The bones of Kahelili.—When Alice told her soul.—Shin-bones.—The water baby.—The tears of Ah Kim.—The Kanaka surf.
 The setting of these seven adventure tales is Hawaii. They give a vivid picture of life on the islands but would not be ranked among London's best work.
- MacGrath, Harold. The yellow typhoon. 1919. F 15128
 A swift moving tale with plenty of incident, adventure and mystery, and a beautiful woman who is a German spy.
- McKenna, Stephen. Sonia married. 1919. F 14929
 A sequel to Sonia, (F 14925) and rather disappointing.
- Malet, Lucas, pseud. of Mrs. M. St. L. K. Harrison. Deadham Hard; a romance. 1919. F 13534
 A sequel to "Damaris" (F 13555). Victorian in plot and treatment, it relates the inner life of Damaris Verity from the age of eighteen.

- Norton, Roy. Drowned gold; being the story of a sailor's life. 1919. F 15707
 A tale of Spanish waters and a sunken treasure which is found by a submarine equipped with a light so powerful that it can penetrate any depths.
- Ogden, George W. The land of last chance. 1919. F 15747
 A tale of Oklahoma in the days of the homesteading rush. There are fights between settlers and squatters and there is plenty of action throughout.
- O'Higgins, Harvey. From the life. 1919. F 15743
Contents: Owen Carey.—Jane Shore.—Thomas Wales Warren.—Benjamin McNeil Murdock.—Conrad Norman.—W. T.—Hon. Benjamin P. Divins.—Sir Watson Tyler.—District-Attorney Wickson.
 Imaginary portraits of men and women taken at the psychological moment in their lives when a trifling event starts them on toward success. They are very original and skillfully done.
- Oppenheim, E. Phillips. The box with broken seals. 1919. F 15837
 This tale deals with the hiding and discovery of certain papers which are vitally important to one of the neutral governments. It was written to explain how the documents missing from the chest belonging to Ambassador von Bernstorff when he sailed from America were conveyed to Europe.
- Parrish, Randall. Comrades of peril. 1919. F 15990
 A spirited tale of Indian uprisings, kidnapping, and other thrilling events.
- Pertwee, Roland. The old card. 1919. F 16139
 A book of incidents and episodes in the life of an old English provincial actor who is a very human and lovable character.
- Philip Dru: administrator; a story of to-morrow, 1920-1935. 1912. F 16243
 A novel in which Woodrow Wilson is supposed to be the leading character.
- The rain-girl; a romance of today, by the author of Patricia Brent, spinster. 1919. F 16067
 A readable romance which shows that very interesting things can happen on rainy days.

Reynolds, Mrs. Baillie. "Open sesame!" 1918. F 17110

Contents: "Open sesame."—It began with a wedding.—Her final choice.—The haunted well. Four spirited tales of adventure.

Richardson, Norval. The world shut out. 1919. F 17167

A charming tale with an Italian villa for a background, the splendor of old palaces, and the atmosphere of all that is most appealing in Italian life, interwoven with a mystery.

Robins, Elizabeth, (Mrs. G. R. Parkes). The messenger. 1919. F 17386

Story of a most intricate web of intrigue spun by a German woman spy, who has found her way into the household of an English official as governess.

Sinclair, Bertrand W. Burned bridges. 1919. F 18153

Wesley Thompson makes a failure as a missionary in the Hudson Bay country, so he sets out for the Pacific coast. The story of his struggles and ultimate success makes an interesting book.

Smith, Henry Justin. The other side of the wall. 1919. F 18243

A story portraying life in Chicago at the present time and showing how the war made a man out of Lance, the hero.

Stacpoole, H. De Vere. The breach of dreams; a romance. 1919. F 18360

A really new castaway story with an unusual heroine. The book is full of impressive descriptions of the sea and the South Sea islands.

Terhune, Albert Payson. Lad; a dog. 1919. F 18536

An interesting account of the main incidents in the life of a "super dog" who is almost too wonderful and intelligent to be true.

Van Dyke, Henry. The broken soldier and the Maid of France. 1919. F 18822

A French veteran about to desert because of his shell-shock fears, visits Jeanne d' Arc's home, and in a dream receives the inspiration from her which leads to his sacrifice for France.

Van Slyke, Lucille. Little Miss By-the-day. 1919. F 18823

Felicia's efforts to provide a home for poor artists in New York City is well told and we have a rather improbable but delightfully refreshing story.

Ward, Mrs. Humphry. Helena. 1919. F 18982

A lighter novel than Mrs. Ward usually writes without any background of English politics or society. The love affairs of Helena are told in an interesting way.

Wiggin, Kate Douglas, (Mrs. K. D. W. Riggs). Ladies in waiting. 1919. F 17217

Contents: Miss Thomasina Tucker.—The turning-point.—Hulda the prophetess.—Two on a tour.—Philippa's nervous prostration.

Five pleasant little stories for an hour's reading.

Willis, Honoré. The forbidden trail. 1919. F 19582

Another novel of the Arizona country, dealing with a young inventor who goes to the desert to perfect a solar engine which will promote irrigation.

Music for Easter and Lent

THE Music Collection in the Chicago Public Library now comprises more than 4,000 bound volumes and 20,000 pieces of sheet music, all of which may be borrowed for home use. The Music Room on the fifth floor of the Library building enjoys a large and steadily growing patronage of appreciative music lovers, students, amateurs and professional musicians, who have found pleasure and profit in the use of these varied collections and have frequently taken occasion to express their gratitude and approval.

The season of Lent and the approach of Easter afford an opportunity for calling attention to our musical resources by means of the following brief selected lists of compositions appropriate to their religious observance. Complete and exhaustive card indexes kept in the Music Room will reveal the wealth and variety of its resources, of which the present list is merely a suggestion. Compositions for all instruments as well as for the voice, and in all combinations, in great variety, and for every degree of skill will be found in abundance.

Music cards are issued in the Music Room to all registered holders of book cards on presentation of the latter. One bound volume and five pieces of sheet music will be issued as a single loan, the former for a period of four weeks, the latter for two weeks, without renewal.

All compositions in the list below are in vocal score with piano accompaniment unless otherwise described.

Spiritualism

Doyle, Arthur Conan. The vital message. 1919.

L 13503

Here, as in The new revelation (L 13487), the author treats spiritualism as a religion. The book has little new to offer by way of argument, but much as to the ethical and religious import of spiritualism.

Herbine, Charlotte G. The meeting of the spheres; or, Letters from Doctor Coulter. 1919.

L 13500

The letters purport to be spirit communications and contain remarkable messages.

Raupert, J. Godfrey. The new black magic and the truth about the ouija-board. 1919.

L 13501

The author expresses the attitude of the Catholic church toward spirit communications, maintaining their reality but discouraging as dangerous all efforts to seek after them.

Temperance

Carver, Thomas Nixon. Government control of the liquor business in Great Britain and the United States. 1919.

L 17921

(Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Preliminary economic studies of the war.)

Bound with the author's War thrift. Discusses the repression of drunkenness and conservation of food materials in both countries; also why America has tended toward prohibition rather than control of liquor traffic.

Smith, Randolph Wellford. The sober world. 1919.

L 14543

An altogether timely, quite readable, and undeniably entertaining recital of the march toward prohibition. The indictment is couched in such lurid terms that the Rev. Billy Sunday could use it verbatim.—Dial.

RELIGION

Bible. The Holy Bible, containing the Old and New Testaments (King James version). 1897.

*R 3417

Oxford self-pronouncing Bible.

Buckham, John Wright. Progressive religious thought in America; a survey of the enlarging Pilgrim faith. 1919.

M 8680

Contents: Introduction: Horace Bushnell and the liberators.—Theodore T. Munger: the new theology defined and related.—George A. Gordon: the new theology universalized.—William J. Tucker: the new theology in action.—Egbert C. Smyth and the Andover theology.—Washington Gladden and the social theology.—Newman Smyth and later representatives of theological progress.—Conclusion: the future of theology in America.

An optimistic view of the development of theological thinking written with reference to the Pilgrim tercentenary.

English, John Mahan. For pulpit and platform; a handbook on preparation. 1919.

M 8904

A handbook for theological students and pulpit crators.

Singer, Ignatius. The rival philosophies of Jesus and of Paul; being an explanation of the failures of organized Christianity, and a vindication of the teachings of Jesus, which are shown to contain a religion for all men and for all times. 1919.

M 9951

The author thinks that the Christology of the churches has been founded on a Christ-myth originated by Paul, and that the present falling off of attendance at public worship is due to a revival of religion rather than its decline.

SOCIOLOGY

Economics

Carter, Huntly, ed. The limits of state industrial control; a symposium on the present situation and how to meet it. 1919.

L 9178

Views of such representative men as Lloyd George, Bonar Law, Lord Bryce, Sir Edward Carson, and Bernard Shaw are cited.

Keynes, John Maynard. The economic consequences of the peace. 1920.

L 16626

An arraignment of the peace terms as economically dangerous by a representative of the British treasury who resigned from the Conference and Economic Council because of his objections to their entire economic policy.

Labor and Laboring Classes

Hobson, S. G. National guilds; an inquiry into the wage system and the way out. 1919.

L 17883

This is the third edition of the first book to be devoted entirely to the new philosophy of guild socialism. Mr. Hobson portrays the evils of the wage-system, pleads for a new conception of labor, and analyzes his idea of the guild system.

MacIver, R. M. Labor in the changing world. 1919.

L 16947

This book was listed in the February Book Bulletin on page 21, where by a clerical error it was given the wrong call number.

National Civic Federation. Commission on foreign inquiry. The labor situation in Great Britain and France. 1919.

L 16949

Offers comparisons between America and European trade unions and discusses valuable attempts that have been made toward the solution of housing and kindred problems.

Odencrantz, Louise C. Italian women in industry; a study of conditions in New York city. 1919.

Civics Dept.

Southern Pine Association, New Orleans. Homes for workmen; a presentation of leading examples of industrial community development. 1919.

L 17053

It advertises some very good work, with illustrations and special articles on financial and other details by competent authorities.

Finance

It forms a serviceable compendium of up-to-date information regarding America's mineral wealth.—Review of Reviews.

Political Science

Democracy

- Atwood, Harry F. Back to the republic: the golden mean—the standard form of government. Can the world be made "safe for democracy?" 1919. L 15724
The author regards the initiative, referendum, recall, and government commissions as undesirable deviations from the federal constitution, in which he has the utmost faith as the safeguard of the republic from the dangers of autocracy and radical democracy.
- Coolidge, Calvin. Have faith in Massachusetts; a collection of speeches and messages. 1919. E 2314
Addresses and proclamations delivered by Governor Coolidge 1914-1919.
- Robinson, Charles P. American democracy. 1896. L 15902
- Woods, Arthur. Policeman and public. 1919. L 18350
(Yale lectures on the responsibilities of citizenship.)
New York experienced an enlightened administration of its police force during the commissionership of Mr. Woods. He now writes an interesting book which emphasizes the part the public may play in maintaining an honest and efficient police.
- League of Nations
- Walston (Waldstein), Sir Charles. The English-speaking brotherhood and the league of nations. 1919. L 17942

A re-issue of the two essays contained in The expansion of western ideals and the world's peace (L 6426) published in 1899 by the author under the name of Charles Waldstein; together with three later essays on Nationality and hyphenism, The next war, and League of dreams and league of realities.

Government of India

- Curtis, Lionel. Letters to the people of India on responsible government. 1918. L 11839
Mr. Curtis offers a constructive liberal policy for constitutional reform in the affairs of India with a view to breaking down the barriers between the races and counteracting the movement for India's complete independence.
- Rai, Lajpat. The political future of India. 1919. L 11840
A consideration of India's needs in the way of reconstruction. The author claims that the Montagu-Chelmsford official report on India directly voices the dissatisfaction of the Indian people and admits the truth of their claims.

Education

- Chicago. Commercial Club. Vocational schools for Illinois. 1915. L 19566
Gives a draft of the bill proposed by the club, explaining its principles and plan and comparing it with other proposed laws.
- Evenden, E. S. Teachers' salaries and salary schedules in the United States, 1918-19. L 19500
(Commission series.)
- Hartshorne, Hugh. Childhood and character; an introduction to the study of the religious life of children. 1919. L 19918
(Manuals of religious education for parents and teachers.)
A study of child psychology for untrained Sunday School teachers. It emphasizes the social point of view in religious training and summarizes in a purely untechnical manner the laws of mental and physical development.
- Tidyman, Willard F. The teaching of spelling. 1919. J 4586
(School efficiency monographs.)
- Winship, A. E. Danger signals for teachers. 1919. L 19554
Many don'ts and a few do's for teachers rather epigrammatically expressed.
- Wrightson, Hilda A. Sense training for children's development in the form of simplified games and exercises. 1919. L 19757
A continuation of the author's Games for children's development, K 30124.
Simple exercises for subnormal children and those below school age. They are characterized by frequent repetition to facilitate memorizing, combined with enough change to vary the monotony.

Rehabilitation

An informal discussion of the sources of interest in a novel and the various phases of plot, character, setting and point of view. It is adapted to the general reader who likes to analyze the pleasure he derives from novels.

Poetry

Collections, Anthologies

Rittenhouse, Jessie B., ed. The second book of modern verse; a selection from the works of contemporaneous American poets. 1919. E 14317

Companion volume to the author's Little book of modern verse, E 10466.

Comprehensive and interesting. It is a book for everybody. Critic and reader, student and teacher—all will find in it something to admire and enjoy if they know good poetry and care for it sincerely.—New York Times.

Thomas, Charles S., and Paul, H. G., ed. Atlantic prose and poetry, for junior high schools and upper grammar grades. 1919. E 5978

An attractive and diverse collection from the Atlantic Monthly files for junior high schools and upper grades. The war interest is apparent but not obtrusive.—Booklist.

Yanks' A. E. F. verse; originally published in The Stars and Stripes, the official newspaper of the American Expeditionary Forces. 1919. E 11554

Poetry by Individual Authors

Daly, Thomas A. McAroni ballads, and other verses. 1919. E 6548

Verses in Italian dialect presenting a sympathetic plea for the immigrant.

Henderson, Daniel. Life's minstrel; a book of verse. 1919. E 11032

Poems on a variety of subjects—love, war, home and children.

Kipling, Rudyard. Rudyard Kipling's verse. Inclusive ed., 1885–1918. 1919. E 7707

A one-volume edition of Kipling's complete poetical writing in a large-page, thin-paper edition with large type and a clear open arrangement. It includes many elusive poems that have struck the popular fancy but once read have been hard to locate again.

McIntyre, Carlyle C. In conclusion; a poem. 1919. E 14859

O'Neil, George. The cobbler in Willow Street, and other poems. 1919. E 11372 (The Penguin series.)

A book of melody and simple and joyous emotion. The poems are youthful and say many things that have been said before. But it has one clear thing in its favor—fresh-eyed visions and gladheartedness.—New Republic.

Rilke, Rainer Maria. Poems. 1918. E 8387

Rilke is an Austrian who is chief among contemporary German lyric poets and stands for a revolt against the traditional naturalism of North German poetry. The translation is upon the whole as successful as is possible for such an undertaking.

Shorter, Dora Sigerson. Sixteen dead men, and other poems of Easter week. 1919.

E 11540

Poems of the Irish uprising of 1916 by one who died of a broken heart for the sorrows of Ireland.

Tree, Iris. Poems. 1919. E 12935

She has a gift for music and for brilliant words. She is intense; she is passionate; in fact she seems to be the slave of passion and death. In spite of her tensities she has the poetic gift.—Bookman.

Untermeyer, Louis. Including Horace. 1919.

E 8767

Paraphrases of the best of Horace's odes, including twenty-four versions of Integer vitae to suggest how other such different poets as Browning, Rossetti, Whitman, Amy Lowell, Robert Frost, etc., might have written it.

Waley, Arthur, tr. More translations from the Chinese. 1919. E 14318

A continuation of the translator's A hundred and seventy Chinese poems, E 14312. Here he aims more definitely at poetic form which enables him to "achieve the poetic charm" which the Times regards as the distinguishing feature of his translations for the ordinary reader.

Theater, Drama

Nathan, George Jean. Comedians all. 1919.

E 12659

Chiefly concerned with showing up contemporary dramatic criticism. Mr. Nathan has a marvelous grasp of drama in its history both here and abroad and, as usual, displays it with many an idea and figure to startle the ultra-fastidious.

Scott, Mrs. Clement. Old days in Bohemian London; recollections of Clement Scott. 1919. E 12838

Memoirs of the London theater for the last thirty years, told in a lively gossip fashion.

Plays

Churchill, Winston. Dr. Jonathan; a play in three acts. 1919. E 11917

The scene is laid in a New England mill town and the theme is industrial democracy.

Claudel, Paul. Tête-d'Or; a play in three acts. 1919. E 13610

Cunningham, Leon. The wonder ship; a play in one act. 1919. E 13165

Poet Lore plays.

Dreiser, Theodore. The hand of the potter; a tragedy in four acts. 1918. E 12028

There is excellent character drawing against an authentic background of east-side family life, but the looseness of dramatic technique makes this courageous story of a congenital degenerate's struggle with the world more suited for reading than acting.

Hayes, Bridget T. Winter bloom; a play in one act. 1919. E 13165

Poet Lore plays.

Hunter, Rex. Stuff o' dreams, and other plays. 1919. E 12368

Contents: The wild goose.—Stuff o' dreams.—Hands and the man.—The Romany road.

Four one-act plays that lend themselves easily to production. "The wild goose" is the most distinctive but "Stuff o' dreams" contains some lines that read with all the charm of a prose poem.

Lodovici, Cesare. The idiot; a play in three 1919. E 13165

Poet Lore plays.

McKinney, Isabel. Mud; a play in one act. 1919. E 13165.

Poet Lore plays.

Trench, Herbert. Napoleon; a play. 1919. E 12934

The Times calls the play "a fine achievement, clearly conceived, closely elaborated, with a moving and heroic story and characters." Its chief incident is Napoleon's secret trip across the Channel on a reconnoitering expedition along the Kentish coast.

Essays and Miscellanies

Browne, Sir Thomas. The works of Sir Thomas Browne, ed. by Charles Sayle. 1912. 3v. *J 328

3. Pseudodoxia epidemica (concluded).—Hydrophobia and The garden of Cyrus.—Certain miscellany tracts.—A letter to a friend.—Posthumous works.—Christian morals.

Gosse, Edmund. Three French moralists, and the gallantry of France. 1918. E 3162

In the three French moralists, La Rochefoucauld, Le Pruyère, Vauvenargues, the author traces the ancestry of the idea of glory which has been the inspiration of the gallant young heroes in the world war.

Holliday, Robert Cortes. Peeps at people. 1919. E 3471

Types of the people one meets on the street and in every-day intercourse, the forgetful tailor, a nice man, an old fogey, a human cash register, a friend indeed, etc.

Phillpotts, Eden. A shadow passes. 1919. E 5164

Little studies of English rural life, few more than a paragraph in length, and an occasional poem.

Warner, Frances Lester. Endicott and I. 1919. E 6258

Charming sketches of family life which permit us to "join in the family prayers—not always a solemn occasion; help Margaret retrieve the Aire-dale pup, which had a deceptively aged look and the easy gait of a zebra; or sit with the family before a driftwood fire and watch the rainbow in the flames" (Nation).

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION

Frizzell, Mrs. Lodisa. Across the plains to California in 1852; a journal. 1915. I 4436

Contents: Abigail Adams.—Sarah Alden Ripley.—Mary Lyon.—Harriet Beecher Stowe.—Margaret Fuller Ossoli.—Louisa May Alcott.—Frances Elizabeth Willard.—Emily Dickinson.

Bright, keen little character sketches of eight interesting personalities.

Individual Biography

Butler, Samuel. Jones, Henry Festing. Samuel Butler, author of Erewhon (1835–1902); a memoir. 1919. 2v. C 21059

The book is a chronicle, all narrative and little description; but the narrative itself describes, and with each chapter we know more of Butler as a man living and changing and growing before us.—Times (London).

Granville, 2d Earl. Fitzmaurice, Lord Edmond. The life of Granville George Leveson Gower, second earl Granville, K. G. 1815–1891. 1906. 2v. C 22169

Meredith, George. Hammerton, J. A. George Meredith; his life and art in anecdote and criticism. 1911. C 18517

Riley, James Whitcomb. Dickey, Marcus. The youth of James Whitcomb Riley; fortune's way with the poet from infancy to manhood. 1919. C 23951

Anecdotes and quotations presenting a sympathetic picture of Riley's childhood, schooldays and early attempts at making a living, successful and otherwise.

Lauder, Sir Harry. Between you and me. 1919. C 22879

As Lauder himself says, "in this book there's no great plan, it's just as if we were speerin' together." It is little more than a collection of rambling personal incidents and anecdotes in Scotch dialect, like those he is famous for on the stage.

Taylor, James Monroe. Haight, Elizabeth Hazelton. The life and letters of James Monroe Taylor; the biography of an educator. 1919. C 24496

Dr. Taylor was president of Vassar from 1886 to 1914. Mrs. Haight collaborated with him in his history of the college (L10551), to which this account of his life and tribute to his devotion to ideals furnishes a fitting supplement.

Tucker, William Jewett. My generation; an autobiographical interpretation. 1919. C 24602

Reminiscences as pastor, instructor at Andover and president of Dartmouth during the latter half of the nineteenth century.

White, J. William. Repplier, Agnes. J. William White, M. D.; a biography. 1919. C 24812

Dr. White is a distinguished surgeon of Philadelphia who was one of the most outspoken advocates of the Allied cause before we entered the war and did valuable work in organizing hospital service in France.

Williams, Albert Rhys. Lenin, the man, and his work; and the impressions of Col. Raymond Robins and Arthur Ransome. 1919. C 22943

Mr. Williams' contribution is the least impressive of the three. Colonel Robins, with William Hard for amanuensis, does much better and in fact shares honors with the chapters reprinted from Ransome's Russia in 1919 (A 6044).—Dial.

HISTORY

Adams, Henry. The degradation of the democratic dogma. 1919. A 2335

Contents: Introduction.—The heritage of Henry Adams.—The tendency of history.—A letter to American teachers of history.—The rule of phase applied to history.

Three essays on history and its teaching which express the author's creed as summed up by his brother Brooks in the introduction: "The perfect plebiscite, the democratic ideal, is the synonym not of perfect truth but of disaster and confusion."

European War

Aldrich, Mildred. When Johnny comes marching home. 1919. A 6997

Continuation of the author's Hilltop on the Marne, A 5805; On the edge of the war zone, A 6450; The peak of the load, A 6886.

Letters from August 1918 to June 1919 relating the suspense in France during the last months of the war, the sense of joy and relief occasioned by the armistice, and the welcome accorded the returning soldiers.

Barton, George. Celebrated spies and famous mysteries of the great war. 1919. A 6995

Contents: The curious disappearance of Lord Kitchener.—Miss Edith Cavell, first martyr of the great war.—The fate of Nicholas II., the greatest mystery of the war.—Consul-General Gottschalk and the mystery of the Cyclops.—The judicial murder of Captain Charles A. Fryatt.—Eugene Van Doren and the secret press of Belgium.—The mad adventure of Sir Roger Casement.—The mystery of the Turkish beauty.—The romantic life of the Dutch-Japanese dancer who was shot as a spy.—Amazing adventures and tragic death of Bolo Pasha.—The story of Lieutenant Robert Fay and the ship bomb plots.—Ram Chandra and the German-Hindu plots in the United States.—The soldier of fortune who became a German spy.—The artless German who dynamited the Vanceboro bridge.—The unsolved mystery of the master German spy.—The dark mystery surrounding the murder of the Archduke Ferdinand.

Companion volume to The world's greatest military spies and secret service agents, K 31018.

Bogart, Ernest L. Direct and indirect costs of the great world war. 1919. A 6993

(Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Preliminary economic studies of the war.)

A greatly enlarged and improved edition of Direct costs of the present war, A 6730. This book, which is virtually a new work, compares the war expenditures for the different nations and provinces with the corresponding expenses in peace time.

Duffy, Francis P. Father Duffy's story; a tale of humor and heroism, of life and death with the Fighting Sixty-ninth, with a historical appendix by Joyce Kilmer. 1919. A 7000

A detailed account of the war record of Joyce Kilmer's division faithfully told by its genial, warm-hearted chaplain. Kilmer was to have written it and his brief beginning, interrupted by death, is added in the appendix.

Dunsay, Lord. Unhappy far-off things. 1919. A 6998

In these sketches the utter desolation of war-ridden France is vividly portrayed in what the New York Times calls Dunsany's "singularly lucid and beautiful style, in which the simplest description takes on a dramatic value."

Freeman, Lewis R. To Kiel in the "Hercules." 1919. A 6996

An account of the tour of inspection made by the Allied Naval Armistice Commission reporting conditions in the ports of northern Germany and incidentally giving a German view of the battle of Jutland.

The Greek army and the recent Balkan offensive. 1919. A 6968

Contents: Summaries of the campaign.—Official communiqués and press dispatches.—Congratulatory telegrams and orders of the day.—Official statements.—Editorials and articles.

Knapp, Grace H. The tragedy of Bitlis; being mainly the narratives of Grisell M. McLaren and Myrtle O. Shane. 1919. A 4814

An American who was once a teacher in this little Armenian town relates the story as she had it from two missionary witnesses of the terrible suffering and brave resistance of the village when it was besieged by the Turks, captured by the Germans, and deserted by the Russians.

A list of neutral ships sunk by the Germans, from August 8, 1914, to April 26, 1917. 1917. A 6994

Maurice, Sir F. The last four months; how the war was won. 1919. A 6999

A comprehensive picture of Foch's great campaign by a British major general. He attributes victory chiefly to three causes: the genius of Foch, the surprising development of America's fighting power, and the British army's recovery from the spring reverses.

The Peace Conference

Baker, Ray Stannard. What Wilson did at Paris. 1919. A 6991

Being director of the press bureau of the conference Mr. Baker speaks as the official press agent of the administration. His report is clear and concise and emphasizes President Wilson's devotion and energy and explains his decisions.

Hansen, Harry. The adventures of the fourteen points; vivid and dramatic episodes of the peace conference from its opening at Paris to the signing of the treaty of Versailles. 1919. A 6992

An entertaining, informing and dramatic account of the peace conference written by a journalist who is also a student of European diplomacy and has a gift for presenting salient facts in a fair-minded way.

France

Davis, William Stearns. A history of France from the earliest times to the treaty of Versailles. 1919. A 5726

A complete survey of French history written for purposes of instruction in the American army. Emphasis is naturally placed upon the period since the Revolution. The world war is treated briefly.

Russia

Sayler, Oliver M. Russia, white or red. 1919. A 6038

An American newspaper correspondent reports conditions in 1917 and 1918 during the early months of the Bolshevik regime. He writes dispassionately from a somewhat liberal point of view.

Trotsky, Leon, pseud. The history of the Russian revolution to Brest-Litovsk. 1919. A 6040

The revolution is treated as a people's movement during which the changing popular consciousness has caused the Bolshevik party to replace other political parties. The book contains a vigorous indictment of the Central Powers.

United States

Dyer, Gus W. A school history of Tennessee. 1919. B 4405

Our Annual Catalog

OUR yearly list of accessions, the "Books of 1919," is now off the press and on sale at the nominal price of ten cents per copy. This is the ninth annual issue of the list which has established itself as a convenient and useful library guide. It is printed from the type used in the monthly Book Bulletin, stored and re-arranged for this purpose at the end of the year. Cost of new composition is thus eliminated and publication expense reduced, making the low selling price possible. Copies of the lists covering former years are still available at the same price.

It is interesting to follow the literary fashions and predilections of the year as exhibited by the new publications appearing in various classes. The number of books here recorded as added to the Library in 1919 is 2,502, of which 286 are novels and other forms of fiction for adult readers, 106 are juvenile stories, and 101 are juvenile books on various subjects. All classes of adult literature other than fiction are represented by 2,009 titles, their distribution being conditioned by the output of the publishers, expert in anticipating the desires of the reading public and enterprising in the business of responding thereto.

It is not surprising, therefore, to find the overwhelming public interest in psychic phenomena, spiritualistic manifestations and kindred topics represented by sixteen new books, general psychology by eight, and the absorbing topic of personal efficiency and the development of personality as an aid to success by six, not to mention a ten-volume treatise on character analysis and three new books on New Thought. Prohibition, as a phase of personal ethics, is represented by two new books evenly balanced for and against. Eighty-five titles, nearly all new, on various topics in Religion were added to the Library; fourteen of these being on Bible study, four on future life, seven volumes of sermons, and four on missions.

In the wide field of Sociology the most fruitful divisions were Economics, economic post-war readjustment (thirty-five titles), Labor, including syndicalism and socialism, Democracy (ten titles), books on citizenship and Americanization, government in Europe, and Foreign Relations. No less than fourteen books appeared on the League of Nations. In Practical Sociology the problem of the disabled soldier is represented by the same number of new publications, special efforts having been made by the Library to cover this subject as completely as possible.

Americanization is again met with in the field of Languages, where books on learning English and teaching English to foreigners are listed in great variety. Interest in the Sciences, pure and applied, together with technology and the Useful Arts in general, appears, on the other hand, to have been temporarily eclipsed by the preoccupation of the world with political and economic problems. Exceptions were the ever-popular subject of automobile construction and operation, military science, and the more peaceful pursuits of husbandry and housewifery. Thirty-four new books on different branches of farming, gardening, and animal culture found their way to our shelves and twenty new cook books brought up the rear.

The perennial and highly significant interest in books on business subjects again brought forth a large number of admirable works. Business management, efficiency and methods; office practice, stenography and typistry; advertising, accountancy and salesmanship, are some of the phases of commercial life upon which a steadily growing number of excellent manuals is published, evidently in response to a keen and wholesome demand from young business folk seeking help in getting ahead. These books are usually costly and the number of copies required to meet the persistent call involves large expenditures from the book fund. But their usefulness and importance is so obvious that there can be no question as to the propriety of making the most generous provisions possible in this one of the most practical and least literary fields of library service.

The Fine Arts, covering altogether but four scant pages in this catalog, hardly received their due meed of attention from the makers of books, but Literature fills fifteen pages with three hundred and thirty-eight book titles, reflecting again the steadily widening interest in literary pursuits among both readers and writers. The number of readable volumes of literary criticism and causerie is specially noteworthy, while the growing popularity and increasing number of clever essayists, both English and American, is a phenomenon pleasant to note. Writing for the fun of writing instead of for the fashioning of grindstones for axes is coming again into its own, and our new American practitioners of the art, with their Walking-stick papers, Chimney-pot papers, Percolator papers, Broome street straws and similar delightful titles, are making places for themselves besides such true and tried Britons as Hilaire Belloc and E. V. Lucas. But Poetry and Drama still take the lead by sheer weight of numbers, and we "point with pride" to the ten solid columns under the former head, in which, we venture to hope, not a single worthy new versifier, however free, will be found missing. The drama, too, is worthily represented in this selection from the year's product, both in quality and quantity.

Travel and description scarcely held its own in the number of new works published, perhaps because of world conditions which have extinguished the tourist and rendered even arm-chair travels uninviting. The perennial interest in the lives of other human beings is sustained in the large number of biographies recorded in our list, while History was naturally engrossed with the story of the War, which here fills no less than eight pages. This material is properly added to the Library for the use of students and future historians, though the casual reader has been glad to turn away from the subject and makes small demands upon our vast and growing collection of War literature. There are, besides, several flaming new books about Ireland, twenty on Russia, and a whole page of miscellaneous material on American subjects, including a detailed list of the charming little volumes comprising the scholarly and fascinating Chronicles of America.

The total number of works of fiction published in this country in 1919 was 671. Out of this number 286 were chosen for addition to the Library, after examination of practically the entire annual crop, and as the result of such critical and selective methods as have been evolved from our experience, combined with knowledge of the average desires and preferences of our patrons. We are fairly confident that the selection is, on the whole, adequate and representative. The total number of American publications in all fields during the year was 7,625, of which our catalog comprises 2,502.

Anatole France has defined criticism as the "adventures of a soul among masterpieces." The "Books of 1919" may be regarded as an annual report of our adventures among the literary manufactures of the year, taking the masterpieces with the humbler products. As such it is submitted to our readers for their use and approval.

—The threshold of the spiritual world. 1918. L 14913

The Bible

Case, Shirley Jackson. The Revelation of John; a historical interpretation. 1919. M 6783

There is a new translation of Revelations with a running commentary explaining the meaning of its language in the light of history and conditions in the Roman province of Asia at the time; also some account of other contemporary apocalyptic literature to explain the use of that form.

Genung, John Franklin. A guidebook to the Biblical literature. 1919. M 6371

A constructive study showing the reciprocal action of Biblical literature on the mind and racial culture of the Hebrew people.

Missions

Beard, Frederica. Graded missionary education in the church school; progressive plans of social service and missionary instruction for training pupils from four to eighteen years of age. 1917. M 8124

Speer, Robert E. The Gospel and the new world. 1919. M 11201

The author is secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions and discusses among other things whether under the changed world conditions foreign missions must undergo a radical reorganization or merely broaden out in their relation to social and political activities.

Stowell, Jay S., and others. Making missions real; demonstrations and map talks for teen-age groups. 1919. M 8123

SOCIOLOGY

Dobbs, A. E. Education and social movements, 1700-1850. 1919. L 19448

A contribution to the history of social science from the time when England was mainly agricultural down through the Chartist movement, whose failure resulted in the beginnings of economic organization.

Ellis, Havelock. The philosophy of conflict, and other essays in war-time. 2d ser. 1919. L 15408

First series, Essays in war-time, L 8805.

Many of these essays are concerned with the philosophy of war and related subjects; others consider aspects of the sex problem—eugenics, birth-control, and psycho-analysis in sex; a few deal with the problems of woman, and a number are purely literary.

Economics

Bureau of Applied Economics, Washington, D. C. Standards of living; a compilation of budgetary studies. 1919. Civics Dept. L 16615

Carver, Thomas Nixon. Principles of political economy. 1919. L 16615
A textbook popularly written, but somewhat advanced for high schools.

Labor and Laboring Classes

Basset, William R. When the workmen help you manage. 1919. L 16934

While opposed to profit-sharing as a substitute for the wage system, Mr. Basset believes the increased dividends that follow from the increasing representation of workmen in the management of industry point the way to the solution of labor difficulties.

Clark, Neil M. Common sense in labor management. 1919. L 16933

The editor of System draws these suggestions from the experience of practical managers. Appendices by way of illustrations give the industrial council plan of the International Harvester Co., and the wage policy of the Oneida community.

Hammond, M. B. British labor conditions and legislation during the war. 1919. L 16936

(Carnegie endowment for international peace, Preliminary economic studies of the war.)

Society of Industrial Engineers. American and international labor conditions. 1919. Civics Dept.

Socialism, Bolshevism

Goldstein, David, and Avery, Martha Moore. Bolshevism: its cure. 1919. L 17584

Myers, William Starr. Socialism and American ideals. 1919. L 17608

The author's thesis is that "socialism is in theory and practice opposed and contrary to the principles of Americanism, of democracy, and even of the Christian-Jewish religion itself."

Spargo, John. The psychology of bolshevism. 1919. L 17635

Explains the causes of the movement, the severe measures of repression it has brought out, and the cure for what the author calls an anti-social evil. He shows that Lenin's doctrines are old Marxian socialism popularized, and that unrest can not be overcome by brute force.—Booklist.

Finance

Anderson, B. M. jr. Effects of the war on money, credit and banking in France and the United States. 1919. L 17326

(Carnegie endowment for international peace, Preliminary economic studies of the war.)

The book contains over a hundred experiments and requires no knowledge of mathematics beyond that of the college freshman year.

Southall, James P. C. Mirrors, prisms and lenses; a text-book of geometrical optics. 1918.

K 19557

An introduction to the theory of modern optical instruments, based on the extraordinary progress in ophthalmology and applied optics in recent years. The fundamental principles of ophthalmic lenses and prisms are explained and the whole field of spectacle optics reviewed.

Geology

Miller, Benjamin L., and Singewald, Joseph T., jr. The mineral deposits of South America. 1919.

K 20403

Based upon the authors' experiences in several of the countries and upon published data. The location and sizes of the deposits, metallic and non-metallic, are given, together with complete descriptions of the important mining districts.—New Technical Books.

Biology

Gruenberg, Benjamin C. Elementary biology; an introduction to the science of life. 1919.

K 20578

The author lays stress upon the dynamic phase of biological phenomena and is careful to apply the scientific principles to matters of everyday life. The book is intended for high schools and contains an excellent elementary presentation of Mendel's theory.

Natural History

Mills, Enos A. The adventures of a nature guide. 1920.

K 18570

Mr. Mills brings down his observations with a keen pair of eyes rather than a shotgun, and presents his experiences in modest narrative.—Dial.

USEFUL ARTS

Hygiene

Carroll, Robert S. Our nervous friends; illustrating the mastery of nervousness. 1919.

Poetry

Colson, Ethel M. How to write poetry. 1919. J 3381

Mackenzie, W. Roy. The quest of the ballad. 1919. E 14319

There is still a class of people in Nova Scotia who up to recent years have practiced ballad-singing as a form of social enjoyment. Mr. Mackenzie's quest was undertaken for the purpose of rescuing the relics of these ballads from oblivion.

Untermeyer, Louis, ed. Modern American poetry; an introduction. 1919. E 14320

This is the most comprehensive and concise selection that we have had. There are poems of humor, pathos, irony, sentimentalism, buffoonery, of social content, and of pure beauty, poems by the rigid adherents to the traditional forms and poems by the freest of the vers libristes.—Chicago Tribune.

Poems

Presland, John. Poems of London, and other verses. 1918. E 11414

The pictures of London suggest rather than depict the familiar scenes to those who know London well. Mr. Presland often reminds the Spectator (London) of Stevenson "in the imaginative effects he secures by simplicity and directness of statement."

Robinson, Corinne Roosevelt. Service and sacrifice; poems. 1919. E 11474

The sonnets are extraordinarily fine. The poems on her brother, Theodore Roosevelt, are not mere lines written on the occasion of his death, but real poetry gushing from a bereaved heart. In her nature poems Mrs. Robinson becomes the sympathetic interpreter.—Bookman.

Rostrevor, George. Escape and fantasy, poems. 1919. E 11477

Excellent technically, and many of the pieces are lifted from the ordinary by a sprightly fancy and a lyric swing. This young man has a pleasing way of his own.—Springfield Republican.

Drama

Austin, Jane G. Standish of Standish. 1919. E11773

Barney, Laura Clifford. God's heroes; a drama in five acts. 1910. E 13485

A drama of early Babism.

Guibour; a miracle play of Our Lady; version from the Old French by Anna Sprague Macdonald. 1919. E 12278
(Neighborhood playhouse plays.)

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION

Gauguin, Paul. Noa-Noa. 1920. I 1638

The record of two years spent in Tahiti by the French artist in whom Maugham has created a widespread interest through his Moon and sixpence (F 15183). It is illustrated with ten of Gauguin's paintings and is redolent with the charm of life on the perfumed island in the South Seas.

Loti, Pierre, pseud. of L. M. J. Viaud. Madame Prune. 1919. I 10706

Sequel to Madame Chrysanthème, F 7325.

A succession of pictures of Japan fifteen years after the author's first visit. Contact with the Occident has changed and commercialized the people, and while they imitate the white man, they seem secretly to hate him.

Shackleton, Sir Ernest. South; the story of Shackleton's last expedition, 1914–1917. 1920. I 11351

The simple account of the loss of the ship Endurance, of the months of drifting on huge floes, of the journey made by six men in an open boat for 800 miles to find aid for those left behind and of the four attempts at their rescue, make a fascinating tale of unparalleled heroism.

Government Aid for Gardeners

THE following lists offer a brief selection from the hundreds of publications issued by the Federal and State governments to help the amateur gardener. The choice has been made with special reference to the needs of those city people who are fond of outdoor work and are at the same time anxious to do what they can to reduce the high cost of living and yet are not experienced in agricultural details.

Comprehensive lists of the Farmers' Bulletins and other series published by the United States Department of Agriculture together with the circulars of the various Agricultural Experiment Stations of the different states may be found in the Civics and Documents Department (Randolph Street entrance) and these documents may be taken out on the usual Library cards.

The bulletin board at the door of the Department and the last page of the monthly Book Bulletin will give information of additional material from time to time.

Political Science

Pillsbury, Walter B. The psychology of nationality and internationalism. 1919. L 15866

From a consideration of questions rising out of the war the conclusion is reached that national differences can be so overcome by the spread of literacy and intercommunication that political organization may reach its ultimate unity in a community of states.

Citizenship, Americanization

Aronovici, Carol. Americanization. 1919. L 16045

Mr. Aronovici's practical suggestions hinge on the idea of cross-fertilization, culturally speaking. The book is independent, thoughtful, based on twenty years' experience, and entirely free from the clap-trap that so often accompanies the discussion of this topic.—Survey.

Seybolt, Robert Francis. The colonial citizen of New York city; a comparative study of certain aspects of citizenship practice in fourteenth century England and colonial New York city. 1918. L 15368, 1

(University of Wisconsin studies in the social sciences and history.)

Negroes

Du Bois, W. E. Burghardt. Darkwater; voices from within the veil. 1920. L 16168

Only an artist like Dr. Du Bois can possibly speak as he does for the negro. And the strength of the case is manifested by the story of his own relations with people, his own temptations and struggles, his own appreciation of beauty through the landscape veiled in pain.—From Francis Hackett in the New Republic.

Sandburg, Carl. The Chicago race riots, July, 1919. 1919. L 16190

A report of the conflict as it occurred from day to day, accompanied by suggestions for avoiding its recurrence. These include a federal investigation of race relations and insistence on better housing and labor opportunities.

Journalism

Ramsay, Robert E. Effective house organs; the principles and practice of editing and publishing successful house organs. 1920. J 7259

The book is greatly needed because many publications of commercial and professional organizations are short lived from lack of knowledge of just the fundamental technical details that are here discussed. There are many illustrations of house-organ covers and inside pages for comparison and criticism.

Composition and Rhetoric

Curl, Mervin James. Expository writing. 1919. J 7175

A really interesting college text on rhetoric with a wide variety of suggestive topics for themes and of illustrations from classical and contemporary writers that will make it a boon to high school teachers.

Foerster, Norman, and Steadman, J. M., jr. Sentences and thinking; a practice book in sentence making. 1919. J 7174

A review of the chief rules of rhetoric and composition from the standpoint of the underlying principles of right thinking on which they have been based. A textbook for college freshmen with many useful suggestions for writers in general.

Poetry

Braithwaite, William Stanley, ed. The book of modern British verse. 1919. E 14323

By "modern" Mr. Braithwaite means the strictly contemporary period coming to be known as Georgian, which he defines as beginning with Masfield and growing into the newer blossoming of Sassoon, Graves and Nichols.

Bunker, John. Shining fields and dark towers. 1919. E 10702

A first book by a young poet who tries his hand both at the classical models and the simplicity of the most unrestricted verse. Critics differ widely as to his merits.

Cromwell, Gladys. Poems; with an introduction by Padraic Colum. 1919. E 10782

Donaldson, Robert A. Turmoil; verses written in France, 1917-1919. E 6550

War pictures of which the best poetry, according to the Dial, is to be found in the imagist verses.

Hay, Elijah. Poems. 1919. E 11525
Published with Marjorie A. Seiffert's A woman of thirty.

Heidenstam, Verner von. Sweden's laureate; selected poems tr. from the Swedish with an introduction by Charles Wharton Stork. 1919. E 11024

Among the earlier poems are narratives of oriental color and some puerily gloomy subjective pieces. Through a middle period of ripening, the poet passes into warmer, more vigorous feeling and greater understanding. He has an ironic humor of a taking sort.—Dial.

Lindsay, Vachel. The golden whales of California and other rhymes in the American language. 1920. E 7742

He chants of just those unmitigated vulgarities which only emotion can rarify. He is strongly imaginative, gaily inventive, hugely humorous and whole-souled.—Hackett in the New Republic.

Besides the title poem the most notable are The comet of prophecy, Bryan and Kalamazoo, The Statue of old Andrew Jackson, Daniel-Jazz, and those on Roosevelt and Alexander Campbell.

Mathers, Edward Powys. Coloured stars; versions of fifty Asiatic love poems. 1918. E 14321

A selection not only from the poetry of China, Japan, and India, but of Arabia, Persia, Afghanistan and minor countries as well. In their English guise the poems show that Oriental opulence of color and passion which must characterize the original.

Misrow, Jogesh Chander. Usha songita; songs of the dawn. 1920. E 14871

Patience, a West Midland poem of the fourteenth century, ed. by Hartley Bateson. 1918. J 4847, 3

(Publications of the University of Manchester. English series.)

Rice, Cale Young. Shadowy thresholds. 1919. E 11441

Little lyrics preceded by a preface on current criticism of poetry, in which the author expresses his disapproval of Mr. Untermeyer's appraisal of his work.

Seiffert, Marjorie Allen. A woman of thirty. 1919. E 11525

Contains also poems of Elijah Hay.

Shanks, Edward. The queen of China, and other poems. 1919. E 11529

Poems distinguished by a cultured artistry in the use of really poetic phrasing. "The queen of China" is a dramatic poem; many others are love poems. Not striking any new note in imagination but fluent in the use of conventional form.—Booklist.

Drama, Theater

Sayler, Oliver M. The Russian theatre under the revolution, 1920. E 12846

The Russian theater went serenely on, conservative, occupied with much the same problems and movements as the theater in America. He describes its activities in Moscow and Petrograd, giving many scenes from plays and ballets in vivid detail.—Booklist.

Stoll, Elmer Edgar. Hamlet: an historical and comparative study. 1919. J 3387, 7
(Research publications of the University of Minnesota.)

Young, Karl. Ordo Rachelis. 1919. J 4855, 4

(University of Wisconsin. Studies in language and literature.)

A type of the Nativity mystery play presenting the story of the slaughter of the innocents. Mr. Young gives a detailed textual criticism of this medieval Latin liturgical play.

Plays

Alencar, José de. The Jesuit; tr. from the Portuguese. 1919. E 13166
(Poet Lore plays.)

Bennett, Arnold. Sacred and profane love; a play in three acts, founded on the novel of the same name. 1920. E 13491

The heroine renounces her "profane" love for a noted musician, becomes a famous novelist, later returns to her lover on learning that he has lost everything and has taken to drugs, and nurses him back to health, sanity, and to his art.

Cunningham, Leon. The dralda bloom; a play in one act. 1919. E 13166
(Poet Lore plays.)

McKnight, Robert Wilson. The pigeon. 1919. E 13166
(Poet Lore plays.)

Ross, Clarendon. Reconsiderations: The murderer, a miracle; The derelict, a fantasy. 1919. E 13166
(Poet Lore plays.)

Tassin, Algernon. The craft of the tortoise; a play in four acts. 1919. E 12886
A highly humorous intellectual comedy on the Shavian order but not an imitation. It illustrates the relation of man and woman in four moments of history, each act ending with the woman ahead on another stretch in the unequal race.

Essays and Miscellaneous

Dreiser, Theodore. Hey rub-a-dub-dub; a book of the mystery and wonder and terror of life. 1920. E 2504

Mr. De Casseres in the New York Times calls these observations on the vanity of life "good, solid, ponderous, bourgeois skepticism with a tremendous piece of satiric buffoonery at the end called The court of progress, which is worth all the iterations of the obvious that precedes it."

Gerould, Katherine Fullerton. Modes and morals. 1920. E 3096

Stimulating and provocative essays on a variety of subjects of literature and life written for the most part in the conservative spirit of what Francis Hackett calls "New England idealism and priggishness."

Maulsby, David L. The growth of Sartor resartus. 1899. J 6361
(Tufts College studies.)

More, Paul Elmer. With the wits. 1919. E 4586, 10

(Shelburne essays.)

Contents: Beaumont and Fletcher.—Halifax.—A bluestocking of the restoration (Aphra Behn).—Swift.—Pope.—Lady Mary Wortley Montagu.—A philosopher among the wits (Bishop Berkeley).—A duke among the wits (Duke of Wharton).—Gray's Letters.—Decadent wit.—Index to Shelburne essays.

Morley, Christopher. Mince pie; adventures on the sunny side of Grub street. 1919. E 4648

A collection of essays which the Booklist calls "a mixture of chuckles on any subject that seems to come to mind—babies, alarm clocks, dogs, Christmas cards, Robert Holliday, syntax, President Wilson, and others."

Tomlinson, H. M. Old junk. 1920. E 6032

Sketches of ocean travel and sailing jaunts in the most colorful of imaginative prose, interspersed with intimate incidents of home and streets that betray as lovable a personality as Lamb's own. "On leave" shows the pathetic estrangement between those who have suffered the war-experience and even the most sympathetic of home folk.

BIOGRAPHY

Blake, William. Gardner, Charles William Blake, the man. 1919. C 20883

As an introduction to Blake's whole attitude toward life, this book could hardly be bettered. The author is sanely critical and always sympathetic.—Chicago Evening Post.

Browne, John. Brown, George Tilden. John Browne, gentleman, of Plymouth (and one branch of descendants to the 12th generation); assistant, commissioner, magistrate, pioneer in New England colonial life. 1919. C 20193

Carnegie, Andrew. Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. A manual of the public benefactions of Andrew Carnegie. 1919. Civics Dept.

Edwards, Matilda Betham. Mid-Victorian memories, with a personal sketch, by Mrs. Sarah Grand. 1919. C 19471

Contents: Coventry Patmore.—Frederic Harrison.—George Eliot, Madame Bodichon, and Herbert Spencer.—A visit to Baron Tauchnitz.—An afternoon with Lord John Russell.—Henry James.—Amelia Blandford Edwards.—An hour with Miss Braddon.—A French talk with Lord Kitchener.—Recollections of Viscount Morley.—"Mark Rutherford."—A trio of pioneers.—Mudie.—Mr. John Murray.—Postscript.

A thoroughly entertaining volume of literary reminiscence. The author's shrewd and kindly judgments are to be found implicit in the selection and point of her many anecdotes rather than expressly stated.

Joan of Arc. Richards, Laura E. Joan of Arc. 1919. C 22636

An attractive biography in narrative form simply told.

La Fayette, Marquis de. Morgan, George. The true La Fayette. 1919. C 22834

A biography which aims to give the story of La Fayette in America, in his home, and in the light of his connection with French politics. His power as a personality and friend rather than as a statesman is made evident.—Booklist.

Laurier, Sir Wilfrid. McArthur, Peter. Sir Wilfrid Laurier. 1919. C 22892

Lincoln, Abraham. Barton, William E. Abraham Lincoln; an address, delivered Feb. 29, 1920. 1920. C 24757

Bound with the author's George Washington.

Marcosson, Isaac F. Adventures in interviewing. 1920. C 19788

Mr. Marcosson, whom the Bookman calls "an incorrigible and irrepressible reporter," has had more or less intimate contact with very many of the dominating personalities of England and our own country for twenty-five years. Besides leading soldiers, statesmen, and financiers we find also delightful glimpses of Barrie, Bennett, Wells, Frank Norris, Eugene Field, O. Henry, etc.

Meredith, George. Butcher, Lady. Memories of George Meredith, O. M. 1919.

C 23374

Procter, Addison G. Lincoln and the convention of 1860. 1918.

C 23043

The author was a delegate from Kansas to the convention that nominated Lincoln and a delegate from Michigan to the Republican National Convention of 1916.

Roosevelt, Theodore. Barton, William E. Theodore Roosevelt; an address delivered Jan. 12, 1919. 1920.

C 24757

Bound with the author's George Washington

Washington, George. Barton, William E. George Washington; an address delivered Feb. 22, 1920. 1920.

C 24757

Whitman, Walt. Bazalgette, Léon. Walt Whitman, the man and his work. 1920.

C 24823

It has been said that to know Whitman all that is necessary is to know Bazalgette's life—besides, of course, the Leaves of grass. The translator is Miss Ellen FitzGerald of Chicago.

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION

Birmingham, George A., pseud. of James Owen Hannay. An Irishman looks at his world. 1919.

I 10256

Cannon Hannay describes Ireland's religion and culture, her political parties, educational methods, aristocracy and middle classes, and concludes that the form of the state is less important than the work of church and school, and especially of parents in the home.

Brady, Edwin J. Australia unlimited. 1919.

V 3156

Chesterton, G. K. Irish impressions. 1920.

I 10249

Contents: Two stones in a square.—The root of reality.—The family and the feud.—The paradox of labour.—The Englishman in Ireland.—The mistake of England.—The mistake of Ireland.—The example and a question.—Belfast and the religious problem.

He argues his case characteristically. In making out a case for Ireland he also makes out a case for a rural, a Catholic, and a "distributive" civilization. Everywhere there are quotable sayings.—London Mercury.

Irving, Washington. The journals of Washington Irving (from July, 1815, to July, 1842). 1919. 3v.

I 11392

v. 1. The tour in Wales, 1815.—France, 1820.—Aix-La-Chapelle, etc.—The Rhine country, Dresden, etc.

2. France, August 1824 to February 8, 1826.

3. Spain.—Tour through the west.—Esopus and Dutch tour.

La Varre, William J. Up the Mazaruni for diamonds. 1919.

I 11145

A vivid first-hand account, modestly told, of adventure in British Guiana by a boy of twenty who is a product of boy scout training.

Moore, Frederick F. Siberia to-day. 1919.

I 8391

The author sees Bolshevism as a scheme of Germany to gain an ultimate foothold in Russia. His outlook is not cheerful for the immediate future of Siberia which he believes can be saved only by education of its peasantry.—Booklist.

United States

Aller, Curtis C. An industrial survey of Seattle. 1918.

K 25272, 3

(University of Washington. Bureau of industrial research bulletin.)

Bauerlein, George W. The book of New Orleans and the industrial South. 1919.

I 4480

Nathan, George Jean, and Mencken, H. L. The American credo; a contribution toward the interpretation of the national mind. 1920.

I 4320

Four hundred and eighty-eight witty aphorisms set forth as conscious or subconscious beliefs of the usual American. These are preceded by a much longer preface containing destructive criticism of things as they are in the trenchant style of these stimulating satirists.

Shipley, Arthur E. The voyage of a vice-chancellor. 1919.

I 4321

This member of the British university mission who toured the United States in 1918 had a good time along with his educational studies. Except for one chapter seriously discussing American university education the book is a diary running smoothly through a maze of dinners and receptions.—Booklist.

Europe

Brailsford, Henry Noel. Across the blockade; a record of travels in enemy Europe. 1919.

I 11244

Observations of an English liberal presenting a dismal picture of the misery, hardship, starvation and unrest in central Europe between February and May, 1919. Frankly written.

Faure, Gabriel. Wanderings in Italy. 1919.

I 10460

Gibbons, Helen Davenport. Paris vistas. 1919.

I 6829

A lively, intimate autobiographical description of life and scenes in Paris by one who knew it as a child, as a young girl, as a wife living in the Latin Quarter, and as a mother during the war.—Booklist.

HISTORY

Ancient and General

Gray, William Dodge. A study of the life of Hadrian prior to his accession. 1919.

A 2238, 4¹¹¹

(Smith College studies in history.)

Laufer, Berthold. Sino-Iranica; Chinese contributions to the history of civilization in ancient Iran, with special reference to the history of cultivated plants and products. 1919.

K 15902, 15¹¹¹

(Field Museum of Natural History. Anthropological series.)

Webster, Hutton. Medieval and modern history. 1919.

A 5945

Europe

Antonelli, Étienne. Bolshevik Russia. 1920.

A 6036

A report of conditions in Russia in April 1918, and of the first Bolshevistic decrees. In spite of the later progress of events it is still a wholesome and helpful presentation of the subject. The author accounts for Bolshevism as the logical resultant of Slavic psychology.

Butler, Ralph. The new eastern Europe. 1919. A 6035

Deals in a singularly broad-minded way with the status of the Baltic territory, Finland, Lithuania, Ukraine, and of Poland in 1917, 1918, and 1919. Mr. Butler lays due stress on the importance of nationalism as a factor, but does not regard it for that reason as necessarily good or an end in itself.

Greece (modern). Delegation to Peace Conference, 1919. Reply of the Hellenic Delegation to the statements submitted to the Peace Conference by the Bulgarian Delegation with regard to the policy of Bulgaria and its claims to Thrace. 1920. A 5154

(American Hellenic Society.)

Hard, William. Raymond Robins' own story. 1920. A 6034

This book shows clearly and vigorously what Mr. Robins considers the opportunity of Allied diplomacy and its failure. He strongly desires economic and other intercourse with the present Russian government and people.

Lynd, Robert. Ireland a nation. 1920. A 5511

Notes on the history and literature of Ireland are here sandwiched in between arguments for self-determination as the only way for England to save herself and the world from another destructive war. Mr. Lynd is a strong nationalist, though a Protestant.

Puaux, René. Greece. 1920. A 6148
One of the publications of the American Hellenic Society on modern Greece.

European War

Bairnsfather, Bruce. From mud to mufti; with old Bill on all fronts. 1919. A 7013

A continuation of Bullets and billets (A 6343) of which most of the writing and illustrating was done among the Americans in France or "not so far from the shadow of the Woolworth Building."

Bourne, Randolph. Untimely papers. 1919. A 7010

Contents: Old tyrannies.—The war and the intellectuals.—Below the battle.—The collapse of American strategy.—A war diary.—Twilight of the idols.—Unfinished fragment on the state.

Political papers by one who was never reconciled to America's participation in the war. "Below the battle" interprets the feeling of the young American who could not fight with enthusiasm. The last fragment is part of a projected book interrupted by its author's death.

Derby, Richard. "Wade in, sanitary!" The story of a division surgeon in France. 1919. A 7019

The personal narrative of Ethel Roosevelt's husband, pointing out the lessons for the medical department to be drawn from the experiences of the war and incidentally casting critical reflections upon the administration's conduct of affairs.

George, Albert E., and Cooper, Edwin H. Pictorial history of the twenty-sixth division, United States army; with appreciation by Major-General Clarence R. Edwards. 1920. A 7014

Hunter, Francis T. Beatty, Jellicoe, Sims and Rodman; Yankee gobs and British tars, as seen by an 'anglomaniac.' 1919. A 7012

Experiences of a lieutenant of the American navy testifying to the friendly relations that existed between the American and British navies.

Lindsey, Ben. B., and O'Higgins, Harvey. The doughboy's religion and other aspects of our day. 1920. A 7017

Contents: The doughboy's religion.—The junker faith.—Horses' rights for women.—A league of understanding.

The publishers' announcement calls this book "salt for the tail" of the dove of peace. "The radicals will quarrel with it because it does not go far enough. The reactionary will be displeased because it goes too far. But the average American will be stimulated and helped because it points the road that he will inevitably travel."

Palmer, Frederick. Our greatest battle (the Meuse-Argonne). 1919. A 7008

A reference work giving a detailed account of the part taken by each division of the American and Allied armies, and containing many sections of popular interest.

Richards Robert P., and others, comp. History of Co. "F," 108th engineers, 33rd div. 1920. A 7018

United States. Committee on Public Information. National service handbook. Issued by the committee on public information; corrected to July 30, 1917. A 7015
(Red, white, and blue series.)

U. S. Artillery. 47th Coast Artillery, 1918-1919. Story of the Forty-seventh; being the history of a regiment of heavy artillery made up of men from every state in the Union, from its formation to demobilization, written by members of the regiment. 1919. A 7016

United States

A story for Catholic readers.

Dane, Clemence. Legend. 1920. F 12282

The story of a famous novelist as the world knows it. Her true life is revealed through the reactions of her friends to her acts and motives. The book is remarkable in characterization and technique.

Dillon, Mary. The farmer of Roaring Run. 1920. F 12481

The owner of the Virginia estate did not want a woman to manage his farm, but Constance Sinclair showed her ability by developing the herds, turning the timber land to profit, raising poultry and increasing the value of the land in many ways.

Evarts, Hal G. The cross pull. 1920. F 12788

Flash is a very interesting and unusual dog who leads his master into many adventures.

Ford, Sewall. Torch and Vee. 1919. F 12869

Sequel to Torch, F 13026; Trying out Torch, F 12978; On with Torch, F 12979; Torch, private sec., F 12928; Wilt thou, Torch? F 12926; The house of Torch, F 12867.

Torch's latest adventures are just as breezy and entertaining as ever. His efforts in righting things for his friends carry some serious purpose behind the humor of the tales.

Harker, L. Allen. Allegra. 1920. F 13602

Allegra is "Mr. Wycherly's ward" grown up. She is an actress with a serious purpose in life, which, however, she does not succeed in fulfilling.

The Book Bulletin

of the

Chicago Public Library

Volume 10

June, 1920

No. 6

"Why, I Never Knew—!"

THE secretary to the president of a large coal company was requested to look up data on publicity for the coal business. She came first to the Public Library where she was given Borsodi's 'Coal Advertising,' which seems to have been just what the chief wanted. "Why!" he exclaimed, "I never knew there were such books!" The next time he addressed his sales force he took occasion to mention his "efficient secretary who knows how to use the Public Library," adding that his hearers might find much to profit them by acquiring similar familiarity with it.

The librarian of our largest branch recently called upon some of the business men in her district. Among others she visited the banker, taking with her 'Advertising and Service,' published by the A. W. Shaw Company. "Why!" said the banker, "that's a book I've been wanting to read for a long time but it is so expensive that I hesitated about buying it. Can I borrow it for a few days?" "Of course," said the librarian, "that is what I bought it for. And, by the way, we have others along the same lines." "You don't tell me!" replied the banker. "Do you know, I never knew you kept such books."

For her visit to the caterer the librarian armed herself with Kirkland's 'Modern Baker, Confectioner and Caterer,' an English work replete with elaborate illustrations of table decorations and fancy cookery and bakery in the highest reaches of the art. "Say," spoke the caterer, "I have a big wedding job that I want to do in particular style. Let me take that book for three days." He got the book and came to the branch on the third day to return it with profuse expressions of gratitude, to which he added: "That book just earned me fifty dollars. I got some ideas out of it that had never been used before. I never knew I could get such books in the Public Library."

One of the largest of the packing companies at the Stock Yards was slow in accepting the suggestions of certain heads of departments who desired to assemble an office library of the few but expensive books that have been published on the meat industry, together with some collateral lines. When the idea was finally approved and the books bought, the house grudgingly assigned a young woman file clerk to take charge of them in her odd moments. A representative of our traveling library department, calling to "sell" a Public Library deposit of books, found the young woman responsive but uninformed, and deeply sceptical about the attitude of the firm. A beginning was made, however, with a small collection from the Library, comprising works on publicity, salesmanship, accounting, and other pertinent subjects, which were eagerly welcomed by the staff in the several departments. The enthusiasm of the young file clerk was kindled and her latent ability brought into play, with the result that the officials finally became interested, the deposit was increased to include a good collection of leisure-time reading, the entire personnel was put in touch with the library, and, incidentally, the file clerk developed into a real and highly efficient librarian. A few weeks ago she was sent at Company expense to the convention of the Special Libraries Association in New York, where she met, heard and mingled with some hundreds of her own kind, librarians of "special libraries" in business houses, factories, banks and industrial plants; an assemblage of experts who, within a few years, have made a distinct place for themselves in modern business administration. And thus the library idea was "sold" to the last of the big packers. Our deposit department declares that it takes about ninety days to sell the Library to a new prospect in the business world. Nearly always the first response, either expressed or pointedly implied, is to the effect that "we never knew there were such books!"

It is no longer good natural history to refer to the alleged propensity of the ostrich to stick his head in the sand by way of escaping trouble. Yet the outworn simile suggests itself as a fit illustration of the attitude still held by a large though rapidly diminishing number of business men toward the Public Library. The fault, no doubt, rests partly with the libraries—but not altogether.

BOOKS FOR VACATION

VACATION loans are made on and after June first to any registered card-holder. Ten books or less may be taken out to be returned on or before October first. Five of the ten may be fiction, other than seven-day books; the rest may be drawn at will from any or all classes of literature, except the most recent books, or all ten may be non-fiction if preferred.

Vacation loans are made to juvenile borrowers upon the written request of parent or guardian.

The loan must be made in one transaction either at the Central Library or at a branch. Ten books or less will be issued at one time for the whole vacation period and may be returned in installments. The borrower's regular library card must be surrendered when the vacation loan is made, and will be returned to him when all obligations have been canceled.

Borrowers may arrange to have their vacation books shipped out of town to their summer address by leaving the amount of postage plus a fee to cover wrapping and shipping, at the rate of three cents per volume or twenty-five cents for ten. All shipping, both ways, will be at the borrower's risk.

Borrowers may obtain help in making their selections by inquiring at any branch or at the Information Desk of the Central Library.

When books urgently desired for vacation use are not available on the day when the borrower calls, arrangements may be made to have them sent later by leaving a deposit to cover postage and shipping charges. Any balance of such deposit remaining at the end of the vacation period will be refunded.

Parcel-Post Cards

We would call attention, also, to the parcel-post card issued by the Library. This is a plan enabling the borrower to pay for a dollar's worth of postage at a time, so that he may receive and send back books by mail when out of the city. This arrangement, however, covers only the regular loan period of two weeks (with the privilege of renewal for two more weeks) and does not have reference to vacation loans.

Books Added to the Library

Books marked * do not circulate; those with the letter P are in the Art room, and those marked Doc. are in the Document department. *Ser. represents serials which do not circulate.

PHILOSOPHY

Nietzsche, F. W. The antichrist. 1920. L 14787

(The free lance books.)

H. L. Mencken, who is responsible for this revival of Nietzsche, defends it on the ground that in his opinion Nietzsche will prove to be civilization's most important ally against Bolshevism which he virtually described in terms of one of the hated forms of democracy.

Psychology and Ethics

Bradby, M. K. Psycho-analysis, and its place in life. 1920. L 13891

(Oxford medical publications.)

A discussion of the practical possibilities of psycho-analysis not merely confined to the practitioner and neurotic. The London Times calls it a "good-tempered" book.

Bowen, Majorie, pseud. of G. M. Campbell. The burning glass. 1920. F 11661

The romance of Julie de Lespinasse, in whose salon were gathered all the learning, wit and beauty of Paris in the latter part of the eighteenth century.

Brooks, Charles S. Luca Sarto; a history of his perilous journey into France in the year 1471. 1920. F 11288

A story of medieval adventure, in the time of Louis XI which has clearly had its inspiration in Cellini's autobiography. It is written by the author of Chimney pot papers and Journeys to Bagdad.

Chekhov, Anton. The chorus girl and other stories. 1920. F 11896

Contents: The chorus girl.—Verotchka.—My life.—At a country house.—A father.—On the road.—Rothschild's fiddle.—Ivan Matveyitch.—Zinotchka.—Bad weather.—A gentleman friend.—A trivial incident.

The eighth volume of an excellent translation of Chekhov's tales. The longest story, "My life," is among his best.

Cochran, Jean Carter. Foreign magic; tales of every-day China. 1919. F 12083

Contents: The shadow on the light of Asia.—Web Sao Tze the militant.—Mr. Chang of the Crystal Spring village.—Père Perrin.—A Chinese doctor.—The incense burner.—How Betty saved the kiddies.—A gone goose.—The devious ways of a house-boat.—Foreign magic.

Short stories dealing with life in China and mostly about missionaries and the natives with whom they came in contact.

Cohen, Octavus Roy. Gray dusk. 1920. F 12052

A detective story which holds the interest and whose plot and denouement are worked out along scientific lines.

Cooper, Henry St. John. Sunny Ducrow. 1920. F 12143

She was just a little English cockney girl who worked in a jam factory, but she wanted to succeed and you will be interested to see how she did it.

Cournos, John. The mask. 1919. F 12169
The experiences of a young Russian Jew in America, written with power and evident truthfulness to life.

Daviess, Maria Thompson. The matrix. 1920. F 12292

The story of the mother and father of Lincoln told in a rather superficial way.

Dell, Ethel M. The tidal wave, and other stories. 1920. F 12411

Contents: The tidal wave.—The magic circle.—The looker-on.—The second fiddle.—The woman of his dream.—The return game.

Fitzgerald, F. Scott. This side of paradise. 1920. F 12851

A young writer of promise has given us this interesting study of a young man's life in college.

Forster, Edward M. Where angels fear to tread. 1920. F 12945

In the marriage of an English widow to an Italian peasant the author finds material for a keen analysis of character. The fools are her English relatives who try to impose upon her their standards of conduct.

Gale, Zona. Miss Lulu Bett. 1920. F 13106

A book that is faultless in workmanship and almost uncanny in its penetration of character. It tells of the drab life of a woman preceding her unexpected release.

Galsworthy, John. Tatterdemalion. 1920. F 13129

Contents: Pt. 1. Of war-time: The grey angel.—Defeat.—Flotsam and jetsam.—The bright side.—"Cafard."—Recorded.—The recruit.—The peace meeting.—"The dog it was that died."—In heaven and earth.—The mother stone.—Poitrot and Bidan.—The muffled ship.—Heritage.—"A green hill far away." 2. Of peace-times: Spindleberries.—Expectations.—Manna.—A strange thing.—Two looks.—Fairylend.—The nightmare child.—Buttercup-night.

A collection of tales and essays which show all the charm of his style and the artistry of his skillful word portrayal.

Haggard, H. Rider. The ancient Allan. 1920. F 13413

Sequel to King Solomon's mines, F 3882; Allan Quatermain, F 3870.

Hewlett, Maurice. The outlaw. 1920. F 13767

An old Icelandic saga retold; the story of the outlaw Gisli, a Viking-like character, told in Hewlett's romantic style.

Hutten, B. R., Baroness von. Happy house. 1920. F 14237

A quiet little story of the domestic type, dealing with English rural life. It records the happenings of the family of a successful authoress who do not appreciate her in spite of the fact that her writings have supplied all their needs and luxuries.

McCutcheon, George Barr. Anderson Crow, detective; illustrated by John T. McCutcheon. 1920. F 15071

Sequel to The daughter of Anderson Crow. F 14993.

McKenna, Stephen. Sheila intervenes. 1920. F 14951

Sheila is happy and she wants every one else to be happy, so she tries to make over four lives. She gets them all in a hopeless tangle from which she eventually frees them. It is one of the author's earlier novels reprinted.

Marshall, Archibald. Many Junes. 1920. F 15087

An early novel recently rewritten by the author. The hero's happy childhood is brought abruptly to an end by his father's death. After that follow bitter sorrow and the loss of all he loves. We are led to believe that he will build on the ashes of his failure a rather make-the-best-of-it philosophy of living.

Morley, Christopher. Kathleen. 1920. F 15576

A slight and improbable story of the college prank of some Oxford students out in search of adventure.

Mundy, Talbot. The eye of Zeitoon. 1920. F 15576

This book describes the present conditions among the Armenians. The four friends who followed the "Ivory trail" appear also in this exciting tale of war and adventure in the mountains of Armenia.

Orczy, Baroness, (Mrs. Montague Barstow). His Majesty's well-beloved. 1919. F 15847

The story of Thomas Betterton, an English actor in the seventeenth century, and his many adventures in winning the love of the lovely Lady Barbara.

Rowland, Henry C. Duds. 1920. F 17519

An interesting, improbable, swiftly moving and very entertaining tale of mystery and intrigue.

Serao, Matilde, (Signora M. S. Scarfoglio). Souls divided. 1920. F 17731

A translation from the Italian telling a love story in the form of a man's impassioned letters to the object of his hopeless adoration. They breathe an old world atmosphere and are very romantic.

Sidgwick, Mrs. Alfred. Iron cousins. 1919. F 18083

A young English governess who is in Germany just before the war tells her story. It is a description of German family life and conditions with an international love interest.

Smith, Gordon Arthur. The pagan. 1920. F 18216

Contents: The pagan.—Tropic madness.—Jeanne, the maid.—Every move.—Letitia.—A young man's fancy.—The return.

Short stories much above the average. The first three tell of the life and adventures of a vagabond poet.

Somerville, Edith C., and Ross, Martin, pseud. Mount Music. 1920. F 18305

This book is a study of life in an Irish village and contains some thoughts on Irish nationalism.

Ward, Mrs. Humphry. Harvest. 1920. F 18983

A novel which is in many ways a disappointment to Mrs. Ward's admirers, as it is little more than a light romance without background or character study.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S BOOKS

Miscellaneous

Carpenter, Frank G. Around the world with the children. 1917. H 3409

A very simple geographical reader, in which the child visits his little brothers and sisters in other parts of the world, to see their homes and to learn how their wants are supplied. The illustrations, of which there are many, tell a most interesting story.

Haines, Donal Hamilton. The dragon-flies; a tale of the flying service. 1919. H 4289

An interesting, live account of the experiences of an American college athlete who becomes a member of the Aviation Corps and sees active service overseas. The book would appeal to boys from the age of twelve upwards.

Rowell, Cora W. Leaders of the great war. 1919. H 6052

Contents: Marshal Joffre.—Marshal Pétain.—Marshal Foch.—Lord Kitchener.—Marshal Haig.—Admiral Beatty.—David Lloyd George.—Georges Clémenceau.—Admiral Sims.—General Pershing.—Woodrow Wilson.

Interesting and instructive accounts of the youth, manhood, and international achievements of the great leaders of the war. Many intimate touches and anecdotes make the stories very human.

Stories

Skinner, Ada M., and Skinner, Eleanor L., comp. The garnet story book; tales of cheer both old and new. 1920. H 6574

(The jewel series.) Some of the stories will be very acceptable to the story-teller, while others are especially adapted to reading aloud, for example, "The good-natured bear."

Holmes, Fenwicke L. The law of mind in action; daily lessons and treatments in mental and spiritual science. 1919. L 13222

The chapters are optimistic, tending to give poise and control, and are built upon the creative power of thought. Their chief value is their simplicity of statement.—Booklist.

Randall, John Herman. The spirit of the new philosophy. 1919. L 13228

An after-the-war book of consolation.—Booklist.

Tridon, André. Psychoanalysis; its history, theory and practice. 1919. L 13954

This book is more valuable than the usual popular exposition of psychoanalysis, since it summarizes on all important points the views of Freud, Jung, Adler, White, Jelliffe, Kempf, Jones and others who are working in this unsettled field.—Booklist.

Ethics

Cheley, F. H. Stories for talks to boys. 1920. L 14102

Chesterton, Gilbert K. The superstition of divorce. 1920. L 14298

Clever and witty articles deploring the frequency of divorce and remarriage in England, where this book of Mr. Chesterton's has been one of the most popular of the season.

La Motte, Ellen N. The opium monopoly. 1920. L 14562

From her intimate acquaintance with the Far East the author pleads for the protection of subject nations from the evils of drugging.

RELIGION

Carpenter, Edward. Pagan and Christian creeds: their origin and meaning. 1920. M 7972

The evolution of religion from the era of "simple consciousness," through the stage of "self-consciousness," typified by Cain and Abel and culminating in the world war, to the stage of "universal consciousness" on which we are now entering; The Nation says he draws more radical conclusions from the researches of Tyler and Frazer than those authors themselves would have thought of drawing.

Eliot, Charles W. The road to unity among the Christian churches. 1920. M 8893

Dr. Eliot advises abolishing the sectarian training of ministers, removing from rituals the phrases no longer believed, allowing the admission of members without subscription to a creed, and cooperating effectively against physical evils.

Franke, Elmer E. Pagan festivals in Christian worship; thoughts on the day of Christ's resurrection. 1919 M 8989

Gordon, George A. Humanism in New England theology. M 9046

A history and criticism of New England Calvinism, including a review of the Unitarian developments with which it has later come into conflict.

Graves, Frank Pierrepont. What did Jesus teach? An examination of the educational material and methods of the Master. 1919. M 7132

Approaches the subject from the viewpoint of the confused or doubting person, and without attempting great depth of research, comes to common sense appreciation of the character of Jesus stripped of the sentimentality and legend which has grown up about him.—Booklist.

Heagle, David. Do the dead still live? or, The testimony of science respecting a future life; new foundations for man's great hope, with introduction by Bishop Samuel Falwols. 1920. M 9160

Touches but lightly on spiritualistic claims, and brings out most prominently orthodox religious aspects of the question.—Booklist.

Jones, Rufus M. The world within. 1918 M 9305

Dwells on the inner and mystical aspect of Christianity, but is never mere theorizing concerning the esoteric and metaphysical.

Joseph, Oscar L. Freedom and advance; discussions of Christian progress. 1919. M 9309

Remey, Charles Mason. The Bahai revelation and reconstruction; a general brief treatise upon the history and the spiritual, social and economic principles of this religious movement, with special regard to the application of these principles to, and their influence on, the coming peace of nations and the tranquillity and welfare of humanity. 1919. M 7971

Schmidt, George T. The American priest. 1919. M 7708

Douglas, C. H. Economic democracy. 1920. L 16621

The author advocates "administration of credit by a decentralized local authority; the control of process entirely by the organized producer, and the fixing of prices, on the principle of use-value, by the community as a whole operating by the most flexible representation possible."

Thompson, Charles Manfred. Elementary economics, with special reference to social and business conditions in the United States. 1919. L 16679

Written for high school students with the aim of spreading among the masses an understanding of the underlying principles of our economic life.—Booklist.

Usher, Abbott Payson. An introduction to the industrial history of England. 1920. L 16678

By considering the rise of crafts in antiquity and the craft guild in France, the industrial development of England is made a part of a general European trend. The facts are presented with scholarly care, but the style is not too technical.—Booklist.

Labor

Beard, Mary. A short history of the American labor movement. 1920. L 16955

A brief popular statement of the origin and development of the A. F. of L., the rise of the more radical organizations now hostile to it and the latest currents of thought and action.

Bloomfield, Daniel, ed. Selected articles on problems of labor. 1920. L 16956

(The handbook series.)

A compilation of articles covering causes of industrial unrest, cost of living, compensation, hours, trade unionism, adjustment of disputes, housing, occupational hygiene, industrial insurance, etc.

Carlton, Frank Tracy. Organized labor in American history. 1920. L 16954

Contains much general discussion of a historical character. While differing somewhat from the author's judgment in the selection of material, the Survey grants that "his temper is tolerant and his mood understanding."

Crowther, Samuel. Common sense and labour. 1920. L 16757

Mr. Crowther has no faith in "profit-sharing delusions" and the "fetish of industrial democracy." He sees that today's unrest is caused by the "divorce of labor from work"; that production must exceed consumption, and that there must be open dealings between labor and capital.

Gleason, Arthur. What the workers want; a study of British labor. 1920. L 16959

It is vivid, singularly intimate in its knowledge, and with a frank recognition of the problems involved that gives it an objectivity rare in books of the kind.

Hammond, John L., and Hammond, Barbara. The skilled labourer, 1760-1832. 1919. L 16952

Companion volume to The village labourer, 1760-1832, L 16942, and The town labourer, 1760-1832, L 16941.

This history incidentally produces striking analogies with present conditions, showing the industrial and social results of war, the conflict between capital's zeal for productivity and labor's anxiety for traditional liberties, and the struggle over compulsory arbitration.

Holmes, John Haynes. Is violence the way out of our industrial disputes? 1920. L 16758

Johnson, F. Ernest. The new spirit in industry. 1919. L 16748

Mr. Johnson seems to follow the lines laid down by Carleton Parker in emphasizing the psychology of labor. The introduction thus explains the "new spirit": "Production, distribution, and consumption are being evaluated in terms of the mind of men which the processes produce."

Orth, Samuel P. The armies of labor; a chronicle of the organized wage-earners. 1919. B 5086, 40

(The chronicles of America series.)

Safety Institute of America. Safety fundamentals; lectures given for the benefit of factory inspectors employed by the city of New York, the states of New York and New Jersey and insurance companies operating in and near New York city. 1920. L 16953

Housing

Aronovici, Carol. Housing and the housing problem. 1920. L 17042

(The national social science series.)

Regards the difficulties of the housing problem as an important aspect of reconstruction and advocates a constructive national program.

Whitaker, Charles Harris. The joke about housing. 1920. L 17058

The "joke" is the paradox that the more houses we build the poorer we build and the higher the rents, and Mr. Whitaker sets about suggesting ways out of the difficulty.

Finance

Atwood, Albert W. Putnam's investment handbook; a stimulus and a guide to financial independence. 1919. L 17453

Fisk, Harvey E. English public finance from the revolution of 1688, with chapters on the Bank of England. 1920. L 17723

Kimber, Albert W. Foreign government securities; a text-book for banker and statistician. 1919. L 17726

Kimber's record of government debts. 1916-1920; formerly the Fitch record of government finances. 1st-4th annual ed. 1916-1920. 4 v. *R 3272

Latest edition in Civics Dept.

Moody, John. The masters of capital; a chronicle of Wall street. 1919. B 5086, 41
(The chronicles of America series.)

Mr. Moody discusses the necessity and value of capital and outlines the leading factors in its development. He relates the rise of the Morgans, the ironmasters, and Standard Oil, the development of railroads and the relation of Wall Street to the war.

Owen, Robert L. Foreign exchange. 1919. L 17302

St. Clair, Labert. The story of the Liberty Loans; being a record of the volunteer Liberty Loan army, its personnel, mobilization and methods. How America at home backed her armies and allies in the world war. 1919. *P 3762

Contains interesting reproductions of the official posters of the Allies.

Tariff, Taxation, Insurance

Dominge, Charles C., and Lincoln, Walter O. Fire insurance inspection and underwriting; an encyclopedic handbook defining insurance terms and describing processes and materials used in mercantile and manufacturing establishments, and their fire hazards. 1920. L 19255

Holmes, George E. Federal income tax; war-profits and excess-profits taxes, including stamp taxes, capital stock tax, tax on employment of child labor. 1920. Civics Dept.

Taussig, Frank W. Free trade, the tariff and reciprocity. 1920. L 17798

Presents all sides of the tariff question in an instructive way.

Political Science

Browne, Waldo R., ed. Man or the state? A group of essays by famous writers. 1919. L 15728

Contents: Kropotkin: The state, its historic role.—Buckle: Inquiry into the influence exercised by government.—Emerson: Politics.—Thoreau: On the duty of civil disobedience.—Spencer: The right to ignore the state.—Tolstoy: Appeal to social reformers.—Wilde: The soul of man under socialism.

Seven essays by as many distinguished men, the general plea of which is for a renascent individualism. . . . They seek release from the pressure of social institutions by making the individual free of the state.—Nation.

Burton, Theodore E. Modern political tendencies and the effect of the war thereon. 1919. L 15731

(The Stafford Little lectures for 1919.)

It is marked by that tone of restrained liberalism which is coming to be a mark of our more important bank presidents, to the amazement and confusion, no doubt, of their editorial satellites.—Dial.

Dunn, Arthur Wallace. How presidents are made. 1920. L 15933

An analysis of recent elections which endeavors to point out the real forces that decide our presidential choice and reveals the machinery of the two great political parties.

Lenin, Nikolai, pseud. The soviets at work; the international position of the Russian Soviet Republic and the fundamental problems of the socialist revolution. 1918. L 18502

Scott, Emmett J. Negro migration during the war. 1920. L 16191

(Carnegie endowment for international peace. Preliminary economic studies of the war.)

—Scott's official history of the American negro in the world war; a complete and authentic narration, from official sources, of the participation of American soldiers of the negro race in the world war for democracy; a full account of the war work organizations of colored men and women and other civilian activities, including the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A. and the War Camp Community Service. 1919. A 7062

International Relations

League of Nations

Butler, Sir Geoffrey. A handbook to the league of nations with an introduction by the Right Hon. Lord Robert Cecil. 1919. L 21444

Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. American foreign policy, based upon statements of presidents and secretaries of state of the United States and of publicists of the American republics. 1920. L 11742, 17

(Publications.)

Hall, Arnold Bennett. The Monroe Doctrine and the great war. 1920. L 21449
(The national social science series.).
Concludes that the League of Nations is the logical method of extending the principles of the Monroe doctrine to the larger diplomatic problems of the present.—Booklist.

Jastrow, Morris, jr. The Eastern question and its solution. 1920. A 5250
Discusses the importance of the Near East question to America and the failure of European diplomacy to solve it, criticizes the mandatory system, desiring an international cooperation that will make those peoples capable of governing themselves.

Nearing, Scott. Labor and the league of nations; with the full text of the revised covenant of the league of nations. 1919. L 21451

Stoddard, Lothrop. The rising tide of color against white world-supremacy. 1920. L 16333

Mr. Stoddard furnishes in this book a distinct contribution to race consciousness. He believes the recent war a civil war of the white race and the beginning of race suicide.

United States. Treaties. Treaties for the advancement of peace between the United States and other powers negotiated by the Honourable William J. Bryan, secretary of state of the United States, with an introduction by James Brown Scott. 1920. L 21456

(Publications of the Carnegie endowment for international peace.)

(Publications of the Carnegie endowment for international peace.)

Education

Athearn, Walter Scott. A national system of education. 1920. L 19900

(The Merrick lectures.)

Offers the groping church worker who is unsatisfied with religious education a scheme ambitious and expensive, but very constructive. The example of what has been done in Malden, Massachusetts, is full of suggestion for social Christian workers.—Booklist.

Klapper, Paul, ed. College teaching; studies in methods of teaching in the college, with an introduction by Nicholas Murray Butler. 1920. L 19518

Articles suggesting general principles of educational psychology are followed by thirty-one contributions on the teaching of special subjects by instructors in these branches.

Koos, Leonard V. The administration of secondary-school units. 1917. L 19749, 1^{III}
(Supplementary educational monographs.)

Russell, William F. Schools in Siberia; one way to stand by Russia. 1919. L 19466

Sharp, Dallas Lore. Patrons of democracy. 1920. L 20069

A brief, witty essay advocating a truly democratic public school, breaking away from all trade and private schools, except for abnormal pupils.

Studensky, Paul. Teachers' pension systems in the United States; a critical and descriptive study. 1920. L 19531

(The Institute for government research. Studies in administration.)

A very detailed discussion of the subject that will be particularly valuable as a reference work for committees contemplating establishing a pension system.

Woodrow, Herbert. Brightness and dullness in children. 1919. L 19699

(Lippincott's educational guides.)

The special education of the abnormally bright child is here stressed as well as that of idiots, morons, and other backward children. Much clear explanation of psychological tests and of children's development, mental and physical.—Booklist.

FINE ARTS

Painting, Drawing

Holme, Geoffrey, ed. Early English water-colour drawings by the great masters, with articles by A. J. Finberg. 1919.

Contents: Introduction.—The Turners.—Turner's predecessors.—Turner's contemporaries.—Descriptive catalogue of an exhibition of water-colour drawings by artists of the early English school.

Shelved in the Art Room.

Special number of The Studio (1919) containing reproductions in black and white and in color.

Ross, Denman Waldo. The painter's palette; a theory of tone relations, an instrument of expression. 1919. K 29027
Companion volume to On drawing and painting, K 10791.

Villiers, Frederic. Days of glory; the sketch book of a veteran correspondent at the front, with an introduction by Philip Gibbs. 1920. *P 3122

Fifty pencil sketches portraying vividly every phase of modern warfare—trench life, air fighting, ambulance work, etc. Many of them represent scenes during 1914-15, at which no camera had a chance.—Booklist.

Photography, Coins

Ives, Herbert E. Airplane photography. 1920. K 29457

A first book on the subject which discusses very fully types of airplane cameras, the taking, developing and printing of pictures and the future of aerial photography.—Booklist.

Venn, Theodore J. U. S. three dollar gold pieces, large United States cents, United States half cents, U. S. bronze two-cent pieces; a series of four monographs on obsolete United States coinage. 1919.

Music

Forsyth, Cecil. Choral orchestration. 1920. K 29870

A Festival Te deum by Walter Henry Hall, bound in back of book.

Huneker, James. Bedouins: Mary Garden, Debussy, Chopin or the circus, Botticelli, Poe, Brahmsody, Anatole France, Mirbeau, Caruso on wheels, Calico cats, The artistic temperament; Idols and ambergris; with The supreme sin, Grindstones, A masque of music, and The vision malefic. 1920. K 29588

Essays in Huneker's usual exotic style. At least four of the Bedouin chapters are on Mary Garden, whom he regards as the "superwoman."

Jean-Aubry, G. French music of today; with a preface by Gabriel Fauré. 1919. K 29589

(Library of music and musicians.)

French music has the same qualities as the French character: "The fear of emphasis in expression, the avoidance of all that is redundant, knowledge without the desire to display it, a horror of pedantry, a taste for pleasantry and wit."

Lang, Edith, and West, George. Musical accompaniment of moving pictures. 1920. K 29914

A wise and helpful guide for the amateur accompanist. The reader is impressed with the peculiar gifts required—the large repertoire, and a thorough knowledge of musical principles to enable improvisation and of the psychology of harmony to avoid jarring keys or speed.

Rosenfeld, Paul. Musical portraits; interpretations of twenty modern composers. 1920. K 29652

Contents: Wagner.—Strauss.—Moussorgsky.—Liszt.—Berlioz.—Franck.—Debussy.—Ravel.—Borodin.—Rimsky.—Korsakoff.—Rachmaninoff.—Scriabine.—Strawinsky.—Mahler.—Reger.—Schoenberg.—Sibelius.—Loeffler.—Ornstein.—Bloch.

LITERATURE

Center, Stella Stewart, comp. The worker and his work; readings in present-day literature presenting some of the activities by which men and women the world over make a living. 1920. J 6267

(Lippincott's school text series.)

A compilation of poems and narrative extracts intended to inspire a realization of the romance of different kinds of labor in young people who are still undecided what work to take up. The best are from Bennett, Wells, Phillpotts, Maeterlinck, Garland, and Margaret Deland.

De La Mare, Walter. Rupert Brooke and the intellectual imagination. 1920. E 10698

This essay is short but full, both of wise judgments and beautiful sayings. It conveys a sense not only of the value of Brooke's poetry, but also of the charm of his personality.—London Mercury.

Goldberg, Isaac. Studies in Spanish-American literature. 1920. J 5485

Contents: The "modernista" renovation.—Ruben Dario.—José Enrique Rodó.—José Santos Chocano.—José María Eguren.—Rufino Blanco-Fombona.—Translations.

These five men are selected as best representing the latest important literary movement of Spanish America, which, however, seems to indicate French influence rather than Spanish.

Grozier, Edwin A., and others, ed. One hundred best novels condensed. 1920. 4 v. *R 1464

Olgin, Moissaye J. A guide to Russian literature (1820–1917). 1920. J 5576

Includes information on recent writers not available elsewhere, covering all who have significantly influenced the social, economic, and political life of Russia, besides the authors of belles lettres.

Schofield, William Henry. Mythical bards and The life of William Wallace. 1920. J 4850, 5

(Harvard studies in comparative literature.)

Smith, Logan Pearsall, ed. A treasury of English prose. 1920. J 6367

A book of beauty, a book to keep at one's bed's head, a book to dip into, to travel with, to reread. It goes back to Chaucer, it ends with Mr. George Santayana.—New Republic.

Authorship, Journalism

Follett, Frederick. History of the press in western New York, from the beginning to the middle of the nineteenth century. 1920. B 5714, 34

(Heartman's historical series.)

Greever, Garland, and Jones, Easley S. The Century handbook of writing. 1919. J 7177

Lippmann, Walter. Liberty and the news. 1920. L 15787

Convincing and far-reaching criticism of the methods of gathering, interpreting, and distributing the news. A calm, impersonal and general survey.—Survey.

Sinclair, Upton. The brass check; a study of American journalism. 1919. J 7263

An accusation that the entire American press is corrupted in the interests of powerful financial forces. The indictment seems to be largely based on the author's own difficulties in finding a market for his radical productions.

Stevenson, Robert Louis. Learning to write; suggestions and counsel. 1920. J 7392

A compilation of Stevenson's remarks on his art which will be interesting to his admirers and helpful to those who wish to practice writing.

Poetry

Adams, Franklin P. Something else again. 1920. E 10614

Amusing paraphrases and parodies of classical verse, together with such clever stunts as "If Amy Lowell were J. W. Riley," and yellow-journal headlines for the tragic stories of Annabel Lee and other sentimental ballads.

Barr, Amelia E. Songs in the common chord; songs for everyone to sing, tuned to the C major chord of this life. 1919. E 10637

Poems for the common John Jones families of this world, says Joseph C. Lincoln in his introduction, which were gathered together shortly before the writer's death. People who like the old-fashioned hymns and ballads will like these.—Booklist.

Boni, Albert, ed. The modern book of French verse in English translations, by Chaucer, Francis Thompson, Swinburne, Arthur Symonds, Robert Bridges, John Payne and others. 1920. E 14330

(The modern books of verse.)

A comparatively complete collection covering the entire field from the eleventh century to the young poets of today and including practically all of the well-known names of French poetry.

Claudel, Paul. Three poems of the war; tr. into English verse by Edward J. O'Brien. 1919. E 10781

French and English text.

Contents: Yes, General, as often as you direct (Tant que vous vondre, mon général!).—Behind them (Derrière eux).—To the dead in the armies of the republic (Aux morts des armées de la république).

Conkling, Grace Hazard. Wilderness songs. 1920. E 10775

They are delicately wrought imaginings of nature, war, old places, and nocturnes.—Booklist. Mrs. Conkling is the mother of Hilda. See the following title.

Conkling, Hilda. Poems by a little girl; with a preface by Amy Lowell. 1920. E 14547

Hilda began to write poems—or rather to talk them—at the age of four. The quality which shines behind practically all of these facets of loveliness is an almost mystic divination. It has its own stamp of unaffected originality, a genuine ingenuousness.—Louis Untermeyer in The Dial.

Davies, Mary Carolyn. Youth riding; lyrics. 1919. E 6554

Songs of a girl's awakening to life and love.

Doyle, Arthur Conan. The guards came through, and other poems. 1920. E 6551

Songs written in praise of Britain's glory and prowess.

Eliot, Thomas S. Poems. 1920. E 10897

A reviewer in the London Times says that Mr.

Eliot's verse is decidedly original and ingenious, but somewhat impoverished as to subject matter because he is "fastidiously on his guard against echoes," whether of thought or cadence.

Farrar, John Chipman. Forgotten shrines. 1919. E 10908

(The Yale series of younger poets.)

Clear cut little portraits, merry songs for children, sonnets, and other poems, none seeking newness in form, but beautiful in thought and expression.—Booklist.

Graves, Robert. Country sentiment. 1920. E 10985

The verse of Robert Graves charms you with a whimsical tenderness that is appealing, but you feel all the time a hidden sense of something for which the whimsey is protection. That something is the stern reality of life.—Boston Transcript.

Guest, Edgar A. The path to home. 1919. E 10989

For readers who like old-fashioned, homey, sentimental poetry.—Booklist.

Johnson, Robert Underwood. Collected poems, 1881-1919; comprising his volumes: "The winter hour," "Songs of liberty," "Saint-Gaudens: an ode, and other verse," "Poems of war and peace," "Italian rhapsody," and other poems not before collected. 1920. E 7595

Ledwidge, Francis. Complete poems, with introductions by Lord Dunsany. 1919. E 11198

Includes Songs of the fields, Songs of peace, and Last songs. Even when the poet had experienced active service in the war, his poetry was unchanged—it is all memories of the old field life or glimpses of new beauty in France, Greece or Siberia.—Booklist.

Lomax, John A., comp. Songs of the cattle trail and cow camp, with a foreword by William Lyon Phelps. 1919. E 14327

An important contribution to the literature of American ballads and folksongs. The poems are characterized by realism, and many of them betray a true poetic spirit and a rich sense of humor.

Markham, Edwin. Gates of Paradise, and other poems; the fourth volume of verse. 1920. E 14860

Maynard, Theodore. Poems, with an introduction by G. K. Chesterton, 1919. E 14866

Devout Catholic poems side by side with love lyrics and drinking songs. A mystical religious note seems to pervade the poet's every-day life in a peculiarly touching way.

Roberts, Cecil. Poems; with a preface by John Masefield. 1920. E 11478

Conventional verse on war, love, nature, and early memories.

Robinson, Edwin Arlington. Lancelot; a poem. 1920. E 11479

He varies his verse in admirable accord with situation and character. Since Browning there has been no finer dramatic dialogue in verse than that spoken by Lancelot and Guinevere, and no apter characterization than in the ironical talk of Gawaine.—Nation.

Ryan, Agnes. A whisper of fire. 1919. E 11497

Little fragments of poetry describing together the cycle of a woman's loneliness, love and loss, ending in a group of childish verses called "Ashes." Some slight, others beautiful and touching.—Booklist.

Sarett, Lew. Many, many moons; a book of wilderness poems; with an introduction by Carl Sandburg. 1920. E 11500

A book of beautiful rugged verse interpreting the wild north and the Indian of to-day, by a university instructor who has been taken into the Chippewa tribe.—Booklist.

Seymour, W. Kean, ed. A miscellany of British poetry. 1919. E 14326

A miscellany of things fine and thoughtful, dainty and pretty, which one reads throughout with pleasure.—Booklist.

About thirty poets are represented.

Shepard, Clyde Sheldon. The undisturbed; some verses of the victorious spirit. 1919. E 11534

Swem, Earl Gregg, ed. Poems on several occasions, by a gentleman of Virginia. 1920. B 5714, 33

(Heartman's historical series.)

Waley, Arthur, comp. Japanese poetry, "the Uta." 1919. E 14350

The Japanese text is given with parallel translation in English.

Contents: Poems from the Manyō.—Poems from the Kokin and minor collections.

This selection is drawn from the earliest and most famous Japanese anthologies by the man who has probably been the most successful in interpreting to the West the poetic art of the Far East.

Wilson, Albert Frederick. The township line; New England narratives. 1919. E 11650

Poems which picture stark poverty, hard toil, and ideals on the wornout farm lands of New England. Mostly free verse narrative.—Booklist.

Drama, Theater

Chandler, Frank Wadleigh. The contemporary drama of France. 1920. E 11914

(The contemporary drama series.)

A history of French drama from Scribe and Augier to the "war exploiters." It characterizes movements and playwrights, and gives brief analyses of their works.—Booklist.

Hill, Wycliffe A. Ten million photoplay plots; master key to all dramatic plots. 1919. E 11774

Hornblow, Arthur. A history of the theatre in America from its beginning to the present time. 1919. 2 v. E 12346

A detailed and informing account of theaters, managers, and actors, beginning with the mummies of colonial days. We can see how the development of American drama has been shaped by the varying conditions of production.

Joseph, Helen Haiman. A book of marionettes. 1920. E 12437

A fascinating, well-illustrated volume tracing puppet-history from its shadowy beginnings in antiquity, through its later development in the Orient and Europe, down to the marionettes formerly brought here by the Little Theater and those of Tony Sarg.

MacClintock, Lander. The contemporary drama of Italy. 1920. E 14084

(The contemporary drama series.)

An excellent book for the student of drama and for general references purposes. It covers the Italian drama of to-day from its foundations in Manzoni to the latest production of Benelli with comprehensive lists and outlines.

Powell, A. Van Buren. The photoplay synopsis. 1919. E 13094

(The writer's library.)

Plays

Baker, George Melville. A sea of troubles; an original farce. E 13483

One-act play.

Balderston, John Lloyd. The genius of the Marne; a play in three scenes, with an introduction by George Moore. 1919. E 13484

The play represents Joffre as receiving from Napoleon in a dream the inspiration that led to his success at the Marne.

Bryce, Catherine T. The light; an educational pageant. 1920. E 13495

This pageant was written for presentation at a convention of Ohio school superintendents, but will be of equal appropriateness and value for educational purposes in other states.

Davis, Allan, and Stratton, Anna R. The inward light; a drama in four acts. 1919. E 11982

A dramatic and convincing study of the pacifist's problem in war time. The setting is a Quaker community during the Civil War, and the tragedy lies in the conflict between the consciences of the older and younger generations.

Heidenstam, Verner von. The birth of God, translated from the Swedish. 1920. E 13810

A simple and dramatic treatment of very abstract material.

Jonson, Ben. Volpone; or, The fox, ed., with introduction, notes, and glossary, by John D. Rea. 1919. J 4450, 59

(Yale studies in English.)

Kane, Helen P. Yot-che-ka; an Indian play in one act. 1914. E 13925

Kennedy, Charles Rann. The army with banners; a divine comedy of this very day, in five acts, scene indivisible, setting forth the story of a morning in the early millennium. 1919. E 12457

Mr. Kennedy smites the warlike capitalistic Christian patriot hip and thigh. . . . To this muscular Christianity he opposes the ideas of the 13th century. He has a clear vision of the villain of his own day; his saints he seeks in the past.—Nation.

Lamkin, Nina B. The gifts we bring; a Christmas pageant for boys and girls or for grown-ups. 1919. E 12511

This pageant was written for community celebrations and contains minute directions for the stage setting, dances, costumes, etc., with suggestive lists of music.

—The passing of the kings; a pageant; illustrations of costumes in colors, by Buckton Nendick. 1920. E 12509

Longfellow, Henry Wadsworth. A dramatization of Longfellow's The Courtship of Miles Standish, by Fanny A. Comstock. 1911. E 13990

Manners, J. Hartley. Three plays: All clear—God of my faith—God's outcast. 1920. E 14081

O'Connor, Norreys Jephson. The fairy bride; a play in three acts; with music composed and arranged by Elliott Schenck. 1916. E 14161

O'Neill, Eugene G. Beyond the horizon; a play in three acts. 1920. E 14169

The play is as near perfect as anything the American drama has produced. So dramatic is it, with a real drama of psychological struggle as well as physical, that it reads fully as well as it plays.—J. V. A. Weaver, in The Daily News.

Oppenheim, James. The pioneers; a poetic drama in two scenes. 1910. E 14173

Pinsky, David. Ten plays; tr. from the Yiddish. 1920. E 14193

Contents: The phonograph.—The god of the newly rich wool merchant.—A dollar.—The cripples.—The inventor and the king's daughter.—Diplomacy.—Little heroes.—The beautiful nun.—Poland, 1919.—The stranger.

One-act plays which are often unpleasantly grim, though not sordid.—Booklist.

Pushkin, Alexander Sergiyevich. Boris Godunov; a drama in verse. 1919. E 14198

A Russian political drama of the beginning of the seventeenth century. The author, says C. Nabokoff in his preface, built his dramas of history upon a pattern which closely resembles Shakespeare. The translation by Alfred Hayes is in blank verse.—Booklist.

Rice, Wallace. Primavera; the masque of Santa Barbara. 1920. E 12759

Rostand, Edmond. The romancers; comedy in three acts. 1915. E 13420

(The world's best plays by celebrated European authors.)

Schell, Stanley, ed. Hiawatha entertainments; scene of "Hiawatha bids farewell to his people," "transformation scene," and half-tone illustrations by Irving Vin- ing. 1907. E 14227

Contents: Hiawatha; a pantomime reading.—Hiawatha; a drama in six acts.—Hiawatha battles with his father; a dramatic scene.—The famine; a pantomime. Contains music.

Steiner, Rudolf. Four mystery plays. 1920. 2 v. E 12860

v. 1. The portal of initiation.—The soul's proba- tion.
2. The guardian of the threshold.—The soul's awakening.

Subert, František Adolf. Petr Vok Rozm- berk; an historical drama in five acts, tr. from the Bohemian. 1920. E 13167

Poet-Lore plays.

Essays and Miscellanies

Arlen, Michael, pseud. of Dikran Kouyoumd- jian. The London venture. 1920. E 4035

Delightful reminiscences written by a young Ar- menian in a witty fashion admittedly resembling the style of George Moore. They tell of a beautiful lady and her loves, of London, of books, of many things.

Clemens, Samuel L. (Mark Twain). Mo- ments with Mark Twain, selected by Al- bert Bigelow Paine. 1920. E 2275

Selections compiled to prove to those who do not know him well that Mark Twain was "something more than a mere fun-maker," and to give those who know and love his work "something of its es- sence."

Cobb, Irvin S. "Oh, well, you know how women are!" 1920. E 5389

Contains also "Isn't that just like a man!" by Mary Roberts Rinehart.

Each of these two authors tries to explain what there is in the opposite sex to give rise to the fre- quent use of these title phrases, and they have a merry time of it.

Herford, Oliver. This giddy globe, by Peter Simple, F. T. G., Fellow of the Terrestrial Globe. 1919. E 3495

An entertaining story of the creation of the earth, its countries, including Boston, its geology, its peo- ples, their morals and governments. The pictures are delightfully funny and help the humor of the text.—Booklist.

Rinehart, Mary Roberts. "Isn't that just like a man!" 1920. E 5389

Contains also "Oh, well you know how women are!" by Irvin S. Cobb.

Scarborough, Dorothy. From a southern porch. 1919. E 5569

One almost wishes there were less porch and more of the darkey life in which the writer is at her best, adroitly worming out of her colored friends amusing bits of their voices and folksongs which she repeats for us.—Booklist.

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION

C. S. Hammond & Co. The new world loose-leaf atlas; containing new and com- plete historical, economic, political and physical maps of the entire world, includ- ing the new states of Europe. 1920. *R 5101

Contents: From tideway to tideway (1892).—Letters to the family (1907).—Egypt of the magi- cians (1913).

Newbolt, Henry. The book of the long trail. 1919. I 11393

Contents: John Franklin.—Richard Burton.—Da- vid Livingstone.—Henry Stanley.—Burke and Wills. Francis Younghusband.—Robert Scott.—Alexander Wollaston.

Peaceful but none the less thrilling adventure.—Spectator.

Europe

Adam, H. Pearl. Paris sees it through; a diary, 1914-1919. 1919. A 5743

Chapters written in Paris from 1914 to 1919, which depict with intimate detail the changes in habits of living, dressing and recreation and in the general attitude of Parisians as they passed through the crisis.—Booklist.

Blanchard, Raoul, and Todd, Millicent. Geo- graphy of France. 1919. I 6758

Bohemian Union for Promoting Visits of Foreigners to the Kingdom of Bohemia, Prague. Prague and the kingdom of Bo- hemia; illustrated guide. 1913. I 7552

Boswell, A. Bruce. Poland and the Poles. 1919. I 10561

The author tries to give us a clear and truthful picture of the extent and importance of the coun- try of which he writes and of the character and persistence of the national ideals of its people.

Fitch, C. L. Some women of France; ag- ricultural and commercial ideas and photo- graphs of France, ideals and morals of France and America. 1920. I 6876

Howells, W. D. Hither and thither in Germany. 1920. I 7516
(Harper's Travel Companions.)
Scenes taken from Their silver wedding journey.

Lockington, W. J. The soul of Ireland; with an introduction by G. K. Chesterton. 1920. I 10264

Father Lockington believes that if the truth about Ireland, as he tries to present it, were rightly understood, the world would rally to her support.

Powell, E. Alexander. The new frontiers of freedom from the Alps to the Ægean. 1920. I 11258

A post-war visit to the south European countries that have been prominent in the war told in chatty travelogue style.

Asia and Africa

Bank of Chosen. Seoul, Korea. Pictorial Chosen and Manchuria, comp. in commemoration of the decennial of the Bank of Chosen. 1919. *V 3157

Chamberlain, James Franklin, and Arthur Henry. Africa, a supplementary geography. 1919. I 9004
(The continents and their people.)

Gamewell, Mary Ninde. New life currents in China. 1919. I 10652

An attractive, brief account of the new life in China, which shows missionary work, particularly medical, to be the animating force.—Booklist.

Sweet, Charles F. New life in the oldest empire. 1919. M 11202
The influence of missions on life in Japan.

Werner, E. T.-C. China of the Chinese. 1920. I 10657
(Countries and peoples series.)

An impartial treatment of the main aspects of Chinese life and institutions each taken chronologically through the feudal period (2357 B. C. to 221 B. C.), the monarchical period (221 B. C. to 1912 A. D.), and the new republican period.

United States and Alaska

Chicago Plan Commission. Ten years work of the Chicago Plan Commission, 1909-1919; a resumé of the work on the plan of Chicago, presented by the Executive Committee to and approved by the Chicago Plan Commission in session, April 9, 1920. 1920. B 7814

James, George Wharton. New Mexico, the land of the delight makers. 1920. I 4412
(See America First series.)

"The history of its ancient cliff dwellings and pueblos, conquest by the Spaniards, Franciscan missions; personal accounts of the ceremonies, games, social life and industries of its Indians; a description of its climate, geology, flora and birds, its rivers and forests; a review of its rapid development, land-reclamation projects and educational system; with full and accurate accounts of its progressive counties, cities and towns."

Morley, Christopher. Travels in Philadelphia. 1920. I 11583

"Not intended as a formal portrait, merely as snapshots of vivacious phases of the life of to-day," these articles combine a happy, not too studied description with pleasant humor into a congenial guide-book.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Nitzsche, George E., comp. Philadelphia; guide to the city. 1920. I 2759

Salisbury, Rollin D., and Alden William C. The geography of Chicago and its environs. 1920. B-3053, 1st ed.
(Geographic Society of Chicago.)
Library has also ed. of 1899, B 3053, 1st ed.

Sloane, Julia M. The smiling hill-top, and other California sketches. 1919. I 4416
Slight, discursive essays on the author's experiences with homes, servants and living in southern California. There are two lovely dogs in the book.—Booklist.

Stuck, Hudson. A winter circuit of our Arctic coast; a narrative of a journey with dog-sleds around the entire Arctic coast of Alaska. 1920. I 11791

Tillson, Christiana Holmes. A woman's story of pioneer Illinois. 1919. B 7715
(The Lakeside classics.)

A narrative of pioneer life and history by a woman who came from Massachusetts as a bride in 1822 in company with her husband then county postmaster at Hillsboro. They came by carriage and boat and the journey took seven weeks.

United States. Department of Interior. National parks portfolio. I 4411

Contents: Yellowstone National Park.—Yosemite.—Sequoia National Park.—Mount Rainier National Park.—Crater Lake National Park.—Mesa Verde National Park.—Glacier National Park.—Rocky Mountain National Park.—Grand Canyon of the Colorado river in Arizona.

Van Dyke, John C. The Grand Canyon of the Colorado; recurrent studies in impressions and appearances. 1920. I 4437

It is not a guide book; it is a very simple and direct series of pictures, personally colored but not overcolored, of scenes of which every American is proud.—New York Times.

Wood, Frederic. The turnpikes of New England and evolution of the same through England, Virginia and Maryland. 1919. I 4811

Most valuable to engineers and to those interested in the history of transportation, but the delightful illustrations, the anecdotes, and the maps make it interesting to the general reader and the traveler.—Booklist.

Brazil, Australia

Koebel, William H. The great south land; the river Plate and southern Brazil of to-day. 1919. I 11164

The author shows the impetus given by the war to industry and commerce in South America.

White, Gilbert, bp. Thirty years in tropical Australia. 1919. I 9193

Experiences of the Bishop of Carpentaria as a missionary. Not a page which fails to tell something new and interesting about that extraordinary country. One of the best books of travel of recent times.—Boston Transcript.

BIOGRAPHY

Collective

Fletcher, C. R. L. Historical portraits; the portraits chosen by Emery Walker. 1909-1919. 4v. C 19336

- v. 1. 1400-1600
2. 1600-1700.
3. 1700-1800.
4. 1800-1850.

The reproductions are all that one could ask of modern photographic engraving. . . . The lives are an excellent match to the portraits; they are rapid and clear in characterization, closely packed but not heavy.—Nation.

The historical register, 1919; a biographical record of the men of our time who have contributed to the making of America. 1919. C 19615

Kuykendall, George Benson. History of the Kuykendall family since its settlement in Dutch New York in 1646, with genealogy as found in early Dutch church records, state and government documents, together with sketches of colonial times, old log cabin days, Indian wars, pioneer hardships, social customs, dress and mode of living of the early forefathers. 1919. C 20319

Wildman, Edwin. Famous leaders of industry; the life stories of boys who have succeeded. 1920. C 20100

Contents: Philip D. Armour.—P. T. Barnum.—Alexander Graham Bell.—John M. Brown.—William Andrews Clark.—William L. Douglas.—James Buchanan Duke.—George Eastman.—Thomas A. Edison.—Henry Ford.—Charles Goodyear.—Henry J. Heinz.—Cyrus H. McCormick.—Hudson Maxim.—John H. Patterson.—John D. Rockefeller.—Charles M. Schwab.—Isaac M. Singer.—Louis F. Swift.—John. Wanamaker.—George Westinghouse.—John North Willys.—Frank M. Woolworth.—Orville and Wilbur Wright.—Linus Yale and Henry R. Towne.—Adolph Zukor.

Snappy, readable portraits, emphasizing the importance of invention and scientific progress as elements in industrial achievement.

Individual Biography

Bispham, David. A Quaker singer's recollections. 1920. C 20874

An interesting book full of the writer's engaging personality. His Quaker parentage kept him long from singing in opera. He studied in Europe for concert work, knew Huxley, and sang before Brown- ing in Italy.

Campbell, John Archibald. Connor, Henry G. John Archibald Campbell, associate justice of the United States Supreme court, 1853-1861. 1920. C 21141

The biography of a southern lawyer who was connected with the famous Dred Scott case.

Clark, Champ. My quarter century of American politics. 1920. 2 v. C 21265

Chatty reminiscences, with many anecdotes of public men.

Clemens, Samuel L. Brooks, Van Wyck. The ordeal of Mark Twain. 1920. C 21292

This study of Mark Twain explains the pessimistic tone of his philosophy as caused by "a certain miscarriage of his creative life, a balked personality, an arrested development of which he was himself wholly unaware."

Clevenger, Dr. S. V. Robinson, Victor. The Don Quixote of psychiatry. 1919. C 21290

Debs, Eugene V. Karsner, David. Debs; his authorized life and letters. 1919. C 21552

With a modesty becoming the true biographer, Mr. Karsner has permitted Debs to speak for himself and to show us, through his letters and addresses, that a man may grow to maturity without permitting the cowardices and compromises of life to corrupt him.—Nation.

Douglas, Stephen A. Howland, Louis. Stephen A. Douglas. 1920. C 21630

(Figures from American history.)

Foch, Ferdinand. Recouly, Raymond. Foch, the winner of the war. 1920. C 21944

Gladstone, Mrs. W. E. Drew, Mary. Mrs. Gladstone, by her daughter. 1920. C 22113

More a series of impressions and reminiscences than a biography. It is none the less interesting and authoritative on that account, however, and will serve very well in the place of a more extended and formal biographical record.—Boston Transcript.

Hamilton, Alexander. Ford, Henry Jones. Alexander Hamilton. 1920. C 22286

(Figures from American history.)

An account of Hamilton's political ideals and career, including also his personal life and character.

Hankey, Donald. Letters of Donald Hankey, "a student in arms"; with introduction and notes by Edward Miller, M. A. 1920. C 22295

Through his letters run his love of life and of his fellow men, his confidence in mankind, his whole-souled humanity. They reflect the spirit with which the best of English youth went to war.—Daily News.

James, Henry. The letters of Henry James, selected and ed. by Percy Lubbock. 1920. 2 v. C 22600

These four hundred letters to distinguished relatives and friends give a continuous story of James's life from his twenty-sixth to his last year. They contain interesting passages of criticism, but little on his own work, and reveal an affectionate and sympathetic friend.

Lafayette, Marquis de. Roberts, Octavia, (Mrs. Barton Corneau). With Lafayette in America. 1919. C 22835

A picturesque portrait of (1) the marquis, when he came to help America at the age of nineteen, and (2) the nation's guest, when almost fifty years afterward he made a triumphal journey through the United States.

Lincoln, Abraham. McMurdy, Robert. Lincoln and slavery. 1920. C 23016

An address delivered at Fisk University on Emancipation day, Jan. 1, 1920.

—Storey, Moorfield. Abraham Lincoln. 1909. C 23017

Mercier, Cardinal. Kellogg, Charlotte. Mercier, the fighting cardinal of Belgium; foreword by Brand Whitlock. 1920. C 23368

Mrs. Kellogg's work for the relief of Belgium brought her constantly in close and sympathetic touch with Cardinal Mercier, and her sketch of his whole career completes one of the most admirable and touching figures of the war.—Nation.

Meyer, George von Lengerke. Howe, M. A. De Wolfe. George von Lengerke Meyer; his life and public services. 1920. C 23378

Mailais, John G. A sportsman's wanderings. 1920. K 30878

Altogether a very delightful story of an active life in many phases, as soldier, sailor, artist, zool-

ogist, and author. Mr. Millais is the son of the famous English painter.

Penn, William. The tryal of William Penn & William Mead for causing a tumult, at the sessions held at the Old Bailey in London the 1st, 3rd, 4th, and 5th of September 1670. Done by themselves; transcribed from the compleat collection of state tryals, first published in 1719 and ed. by Don C. Seitz. 1919. C 23715

Redmond, John. Gwynn, Stephen. John Redmond's last years. 1909. C 23899

Records the history of a moving failure, and the record is set down with a fairness which even Redmond's most bitter opponents can hardly fail to praise. Mr. Gwynn writes from the angle of a nationalist of the Dominion Home Rule school.—Harold Laski in The Nation.

Wallace, William. Schofield, William Henry. Mythical bards and The life of William Wallace. 1920. J 4850, 5
(Harvard studies in comparative literature.)

Wilson, Woodrow. Dodd, William E. Woodrow Wilson and his work. 1920. C 24913

An appreciation of Wilson's earlier life and political career, but devoted chiefly to his statesmanship from the beginning of the war in 1914 to the conclusion of peace in June, 1919.

HISTORY

General Works

Harding, Samuel Bannister. New mediæval and modern history; based upon the author's "Essentials in mediæval and modern history" prepared in consultation with Albert Bushnell Hart. 1913. A 5947
(Essentials in history.)

Partridge, G. E. The psychology of nations; a contribution to the philosophy of history. 1919. A 2336

The conclusion with regard to war is that it can be avoided in the future only by education, for political readjustment is not sufficient.

Tuell, Harriet E. The study of nations; an experiment in social education, with chapters on China and Japan by Kenneth Scott Latourette. 1920. A 2360
(Riverside educational monographs.)

Each nation is studied from the point of view of its present individuality, of how history has made it what it is, and of what it may be expected to contribute to history.—Booklist.

Europe

Brown, Carroll N. tr. Hellas and unrequited Hellenism; The policy of victory in the East, and its results, by Georges Bourdon.—Smyrna, a Greek city, by Charles Vellay.—Hellenism in Asia Minor in the middle ages, by Charles Diehl. 1920. A 5148
(American-Hellenic Society publications.)

Cole, Grenville A. J. Ireland, the outpost. 1919. A 5508

Mr. Cole emphasizes the part played in Ireland's history by her geography, her physical structure, and the successive waves of migration which have brought varied races and civilizations to her shores.

Cresson, W. P. The Cossacks; their history and country. 1919. A 6021

This is probably the first book in English on the history of these people. It relates their legendary beginnings, the development of their efforts for a free government, and the present administration of Ukraine.

Gibbons, Herbert Adams. France and ourselves; interpretative studies, 1917-1919. 1920. A 5750

Dr. Gibbons describes in some detail the industrial and political problems that are confronting France. He would have us realize that the principle of balance of power is as important and eternal as the law of gravity.

Kalpaschnikov, Andrew. A prisoner of Trotsky's. 1920. A 6022

A partisan account of revolutionary events in Russia. The author blames Col. Raymond Robins for his imprisonment, and is strongly opposed to Kerensky. Among many interesting fellow prisoners was the slayer of Rasputin, from whom he learned the details of the monk's death.

Pons, A. A. The holocaust, 1919. A 5110

Bryce's introduction says that in her struggle with the Hapsburgs Italy's leaders were "thinking not of territorial extensions, but of the rule of justice in a world set free for peace in which nationalism was to be subordinated to the common welfare of humanity."

Power, Rhoda. Under the Bolshevik reign of terror. 1919. A 6024

Contents: From Newcastle to Rostov-on-Don.—A Russian bourgeois household.—The revolution.—A criminal's paradise.—A journey and a holiday.—An autumn of anxiety.—Civil war.—Under Cossack protection.—Enter the Bolsheviks.—Under Bolshevik rule.—The anarchists and departure.—From Rostov to the Murman coast.—Refugees in Murmansk.

Scott, Sir Percy. Fifty years in the royal navy. 1919. A 5398

Treitschke, Heinrich Gotthard von. Treitschke's history of Germany in the nineteenth century. 1915-1919. 7v. A 4205
Ends with the year 1848.

A discursive treatment of the political aspects of German home policy up to 1848.

Trevelyan, Janet Penrose. A short history of the Italian people from the barbarian invasions to the attainment of unity. 1920. A 5115

Vinogradoff, Sir Paul, ed. The reconstruction of Russia, essays. 1919. A 6031

Contents: The situation in Russia, by Sir P. Vinogradoff.—Russia as an economic organism, by N. Nordman.—Russian Jews and the League of nations, by S. L. Poliakov-Litovtzeff.—The Ukrainian question, by I. V. Shklovsky (Diones).

A plea for the League of Nations to assist in furthering a unified Russia in which there would be local autonomy under nationalistic guidance.

Young, George. The new Germany. 1920. A 5578

A vivid account of events and conditions in Germany from the Armistice to the Treaty of Versailles. One chapter is devoted to an analysis of the new constitution and one to comment on the treaty, which the author regards as "the worst of peaces."

The European War

Czernin, Count Ottokar. In the world war. 1920. A 7082

Memoirs and reflections which present Austria in the leading strings of Germany, exonerate the Kaiser, denounce the peace of Versailles, but say nothing of the League.—Booklist.

Doyle, Arthur Conan. A history of the great war. 1916-1920. 6v. A 6313

The British campaign in France and Flanders: v. 1, 1914.—v. 2, 1915.—v. 3, 1916.—v. 4, 1917.—v. 5, Jan. to July, 1918.—v. 6, July to November, 1918.

Falkenhayn, General von. The German general staff and its decisions, 1914-1916. 1920. A 7084

Gibbs, Philip. Now it can be told. 1920. A 7064

A colleague of the author's, Arthur Gleason, tells in The Freeman how, as early as the fall of 1914, Mr. Gibbs had declared his purpose to spend the rest of his life "telling what war really is,"—and it is not the glory of war that he celebrates.

Hornung, E. W. Notes of a camp-follower on the western front. 1919. A 7070

The creator of Raffles has written his experience as a Y. M. C. A. canteen worker. There are vivid pictures of many scenes and places and men, some thrilling adventures and many humorous incidents.—Booklist.

Lovejoy, Esther Pohl. The House of the Good Neighbor. 1919. A 7060

An account of a social center in France. Dr. Lovejoy describes the devastations of war, the hunger and diseases of the women and children, and tells of some of the things that were done to make these sufferings less cruel.

Ludendorff, Erich von. Ludendorff's own story, August 1914–November 1918; the great war from the siege of Liège to the signing of the armistice as viewed from the Grand Headquarters of the German army. 1920. 2 v. A 7071

He sees himself as a sort of Gulliver bound down by the politicians at home, and finally ruined by them. He was never wrong. He alone really understood the war, and while the victories are to his credit, the defects are due to others.—New Republic.

Mayo, Katherine. "That damn Y"; a record of overseas service. 1920. A 7086

A very timely and readable book which may well be read by those who give snapshot denunciations of the "Y." The history of its work in the war very ably presented, answering some of the commonest charges with facts.—Booklist.

Red Cross. American National Red Cross. The work of the American Red Cross during the war; a statement of finances and accomplishments for the period July 1, 1917 to February 28, 1919. Civics Dept.

Causes

Gordy, Wilbur F. The causes and meaning of the great war. 1919. A 7080

Beginning with Germany under Bismarck its aim is to show the reasons for the struggles following, and to develop an ideal of democracy from the part played by America. Intended for junior high schools.—Booklist.

Goričar, Joseph, and Stowe, Lyman Beecher. The inside story of the Austro-German intrigue; or, How the world war was brought about. 1920. A 7076

The views of a Slav with a strong Russian bias, who holds the evils of secret diplomacy responsible for the war, and recommends the establishment of a United States of Slavia as a solution.

Jonescu, Take. Some personal impressions, with an introduction by Viscount Bryce. 1920. A 7079

Moments in European history with the former prime minister of Roumania. Through them one receives rather striking and interesting characterizations of such figures as Poincaré, Lichnowsky, Venizelos, the Kaiser, and others.—Booklist.

Loreburn, Earl. How the war came. 1920. A 7081

A keen, though kindly, analysis of Sir Edward Grey's qualifications for the post of Foreign Secretary, the excellence of his motives, and the errors in his management of the crisis in 1914, together with a strong denunciation of secret diplomacy.

Personal Narratives

Albertson, Ralph. Fighting without a war; an account of military intervention in north Russia. 1920. A 7077

The British-American expedition into North Russia and the reaction of the Russian people during the year it lasted. It is a tragic story of good intentions, stupidity, suffering, and misunderstanding—of utter failure.—Survey.

Bacon, Sir Reginald. The Dover patrol 1915-1917. 1919. A 7074

Written particularly to give the student of naval history the underlying reasons for action or inaction, combining narrative with highly technical treatment.

Callwell, Sir C. E. The Dardanelles. 1919. A 7075

(Campaigns and their lessons.) A very careful and sometimes technical description of the Dardanelles campaign from the military point of view, which goes into great detail about the purpose, the expedition, the attack, and the military organization.—Booklist.

Domville-Fife, Charles. Submarines and sea power. 1919. K 23273

Records of many romantic events on England's sea frontier, 1914 to 1918; preparation of the new navy to meet the submarine menace, and new weapons devised; an examination of the effect of the submarine on naval strategy.—Booklist.

Evans, E. R. G. R. Keeping the seas. 1920. A 7083

Captain Evans' account of the Dover patrol which the Booklist calls "a clear record of events enlivened by much anecdote and many humorous incidents."

Freeman, Lewis R. Sea-hounds. 1919. A 7073

Contents: The men who changed ships.—"Fire-brand."—"Back from the jaws."—Hunting.—The convoy game.—Yank boat versus U-boat.—Adriatic patrol.—Patrol.—"Q."—The whack and the smack.—Bombed.—Against odds.—Rounding up Fritz.

These accounts are breathless with daring and also very instructive. They are written by a British navy correspondent who has a keen appetite for the dramatic side of every incident and who also knows the ways of submarines.—Booklist.

Hogan, Martin J. The Shamrock battalion of the Rainbow; a story of the "fighting sixty-ninth." 1919. A 7069

A corporal's personal narrative of experiences in camp, on transport and at the front at Luneville, Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel, and the Argonne.—Booklist.

Mabry, Gregory, comp. Recollections of a recruit; an official history of the Fifty-fourth U. S. Infantry. 1919. A 7067

MacVeagh, Ewen Cameron, and Brown, Lee D. The Yankee in the British zone; with a foreword by Leonard Wood. 1920. A 7055

It includes many anecdotes of the characteristic failings of both Briton and Yank resulting in the growth of mutual respect. The authors' sense of humor will save them from any serious charge of propaganda.

Rainsford, W. Kerr. From Upton to the Meuse with the 307th Infantry; a brief history of its life and of the part it played in the great war. 1920. A 7061

It is illustrated by striking photographs and drawings which, as the Booklist says, suggest a beauty that is the antithesis of war.

Stringer, Harry R., ed. Heroes all! A compendium of the names and official citations of the soldiers and citizens of the United States and of her allies who were decorated by the American government for exceptional heroism and conspicuous service above and beyond the call of duty in the war with Germany, 1917-1919. 1919. *A 7058

Military and Naval Operations

Jones, Elias H. The road to En-Dor; being an account of how two prisoners of war at Yozgad in Turkey won their way to freedom. 1920. A 7085

An amazing combination of ouija boards and British wits used to cheat credulous Turks out of two war prisoners.—Booklist.

Keable, Robert. Standing by; war time reflections in France and Flanders. 1919. A 7059

A book of war reminiscences which is not out of date because its author is constantly putting frank, fearless questions, which came to him as a Catholic chaplain at the front, before himself and the reader.—Booklist.

Keith, Eric A. My escape from Germany. 1919. A 7068

The thrilling story of an English subject's three attempts to escape from a German internment camp—the last of which was successful.

McKean, G. B. Scouting thrills. 1919. A 7078

Twelve episodes describing the scouting experiences of a captain in the Canadian army, and written to interest Boy Scouts.

O'Shaughnessy, Edith. (Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy.) Alsace in rust and gold. 1920. A 7065

Yeats-Brown, Francis. Caught by the Turks. 1920. A 7063

The writer was captured from a broken plane by Arabs and imprisoned in Turkey during the war. A very vivid account.—Booklist.

The Peace

Dillon, Dr. E. J. The inside story of the Peace conference. 1920. A 7072

A journalist's criticism of the United States, Great Britain and France for their impractical idealism and unfairness to small countries, drawn from press reports and interviews with delegates.

Documents and statements relating to peace proposals and war aims (December 1916–November 1918); with an introduction by G. Lowes Dickinson. 1919. A 7057

A record of the aims of the belligerent governments as set forth by themselves in official notes and representative speeches.

Harris, H. Wilson. The peace in the making. 1920. A 7066

Asia and the Pacific

Czaplicka, M. A. The Turks of Central Asia in history and at the present day; an ethnological inquiry into the Pan-Turanian problem, and bibliographical material relating to the early Turks and the present Turks of Central Asia. 1918. A 4815

Gowen, Herbert H. The Napoleon of the Pacific, Kamehameha the Great. 1919. A 3893

The story of a native Hawaiian chieftain who displayed remarkable gifts of organization and government almost unparalleled in the history of uncivilized races. Hawaii celebrated the centenary of his death in 1919.

McKenzie, Frederick A. Korea's fight for freedom. 1920. A 4797

Mr. McKenzie explains the present situation in Korea with reference to the Japanese problem there and its historic basis.

Sherrill, Charles H. Have we a Far Eastern policy? With an introduction by David Jayne Hill. 1920. A 3889

With the traveler's eye for the picturesque, the author describes the Philippines, Hawaii, Australia, Korea, and Japan; but underneath this interesting writing is the purpose of the diplomatist and suggestions for a careful foreign policy.—Condensed from Booklist.

Böhme, Jacob. Six theosophic points and other writings. 1920. L 14608

Contents: Six theosophic points.—Six mystical points.—On the earthly and heavenly mystery.

A new translation of a sixteenth century German mystic, occasioned doubtless by the revived interest in mystical thought.

Harrison, Frederic. On society. 1918. L 13817

Contents: pt. I. The ethic of humanism.—Family life.—The functions of the state.—A state church.—Economic duties.—The economic problem.—The future of the working classes.—The gospel of industry.—Comte and Mill.—The morals of trade.—The morals of the intellect.—Note: on Newton hall.—II. Inaugural address, 1881.—Mediaeval chivalry, 1881.—First annual address, 1882.—Annual address, 1884.

Essays on positivism intended to some extent as a reply to John Stuart Mills' criticisms of Comte in his book "On liberty."

Hoernlé, R. F. Alfred. Studies in contemporary metaphysics. 1920. L 12967

Sets forth the ideals of philosophy with reference to the reality of the world, mechanism and vitalism, the soul and the self, and then discusses contemporary tendencies in philosophy (Dewey, Bertrand Russell and others), concluding with an epilogue on religion.

Psychology

Mental Healing, Psychoanalysis

Brown, Charles Reynolds. Faith and health. 1910. L 13203

Hill, J. Arthur. Psychical miscellanea; being papers on psychical research, telepathy, hypnotism, Christian Science, etc. 1920. L 13539

A collection of popular articles in which the subjects are lightly and sympathetically treated.

Hunt, H. Ernest. Self-training; the lines of mental progress. 1918. L 13226

Sensible little talks on how the mind and nervous system work, and how, consequently, one may conserve energy and form useful habits of thought and action. Good for the discouraged person who is capable of taking himself in hand.—Booklist.

Low, Barbara. Psycho-analysis; a brief account of the Freudian theory. 1920. L 13939

Spiritualism

Lane, Anne W., and Beale, Harriet Blaine. To walk with God; an experience in automatic writing. 1920. L 13510

A special interest will attach to this book from the fact that the authors are the wife of Secretary Lane and the daughter of James G. Blaine.

McEvilly, Mary A. Meslom's messages from the life beyond. 1920. L 13511

Messages from "L", a war victim, transmitted through Meslom to "L's" mother, who records these messages automatically.

Revelations from the beyond communicated by a young soldier to Joan and Darby, the anonymous authors of the book.

RELIGION

Church and Church Work, Y. M. C. A.

Gray, A. Herbert. The Christian adventure. 1920. M 9051

Discussion of the subject, What is Christianity? Author states he has confined himself to the presentation of the message of Jesus.

Luccock, Halford E. Five-minute shop-talks. 1916. M 9491

Terse, pointed talks on practical ethics and religion, addressed to workingmen. Their manly, democratic tone has appealed to workingmen, who are, the author says, the first to detect and despise two things in a speaker—"patronage and cant."—Booklist.

McAfee, Cleland Boyd. The Christian faith and the new day. 1920. M 9506

Theology and its application to present day needs is the subject of this discussion, which is addressed to ministers and laymen.

McGarrah, Albert F. Practical inter-church methods. 1919. M 9516

Discusses church efficiency, inter-church programs, publicity and advertising, and all phases of co-operative church work.

Moxcey, Mary E. Leadership of girls' activities. 1919. M 8253

(Training courses for leadership.)
Miss Moxcey writes especially to help Sunday School teachers who have no previous training or experience to deal with the recreational problems of mixed ungraded groups of girls, but her suggestions are helpful for any volunteer club leaders.

Pringle-Pattison, A. Seth, and others. The Spirit; the relation of God and man, considered from the standpoint of recent philosophy and science. Ed. by B. H. Streeter. 1919. M 4272

Protestant Episcopal Church. The church and its American opportunity. 1919. M 7859

Contents: The effect of the war on religion.—Shall we retain the Old Testament in the lectionary and the Sunday-school?—The obligation of the church to support a league of nations.—Essentials of prayer book revision.—The need of an American labour party.—Necessary readjustments in the training of the ministry.—The functions of the episcopate in a democracy.

Stevenson, Andrew, and others. Chicago pre-eminently a Presbyterian city. 1907. M 7856

"Supplementary sketches of McCormick Theological Seminary, by the Rev. Jas. G. K. McClure, Lake Forest University, by Prof. John J. Halsey, Presbyterian Hospital, by Albert M. Day."

A collection of critical editorials, by the editor of the English Review, which will be particularly enjoyed by people who are well informed on men and events of our day.

Labor

Coghlan, T. A. Labour and industry in Australia, from the first settlement in 1788 to the establishment of the commonwealth in 1901. 1918. L 16958

An exhaustive work on the immigration, land legislation, prices, and political action of Australia during seven consecutive chronological periods.—The London Times calls it a "quarry to which every student of social policy must come."

Lauchheimer, Malcolm H. The labor law of Maryland. 1919. *L 3201, 37
(Johns Hopkins university studies in historical and political science.)

Leverhulme, Lord. The six-hour shift and industrial efficiency. 1920. L 16957
An abridged and rearranged edition of the author's Six-hour day. L 16944.

National Civic Federation. Profit sharing by American employers; examples from England, types in France. 1920. L 16759
A new edition carefully revised throughout.

Smelser, D. P. Unemployment and American trade unions. 1919. *L 3201, 37

(Johns Hopkins university studies in historical and political science.)

A valuable contribution to the problem of unemployment is this monograph dealing with the methods and policies of trade unions designed to provide employment and prevent idleness among their members.—American Economic Review.

Socialism

Guild Socialism, Syndicalism

Cole, G. D. H. Social theory. 1920. L 15292

An attempt, which the New Republic regards as "wonderfully successful," to outline the political philosophy underlying guild socialism. The London Times describes it as a treatment "for Oxford, as distinct from labor, consumption."

Laidler, Harry W. Socialism in thought and action. 1920. L 17598

Mr. Laidler presents a vivid account of the socialist theory of economic development and a future social state, as well as the achievements and present activities of organized socialists in all parts of the world.

Scott, J. W. Syndicalism and philosophical realism; a study in the correlation of contemporary social tendencies. 1919. L 17211

In contemporary syndicalism and in the philosophies of Bergson and Russell he diagnoses the same spiritual sickness to which he gives the name of realism.—New Republic.

Finance

Budgets, Taxation

Cleveland, Frederick Albert, and others. The budget and responsible government; introduction by W. H. Taft. 1920. L 18369
(American social progress series.)

"A description and interpretation of the struggle for responsible government in the United States, with special reference to recent changes in state constitutions and statute laws providing for administrative reorganization and budget reform."

De Villiers, Victor. Financial independence at fifty. 1919. L 17452

Gulick, Luther H. Evolution of the budget in Massachusetts. 1920. L 17722

(Special studies in administration.)

Presents an account of actual methods of appropriation for state budgets and the practice prevailing under an important piece of budget legislation.

Hobson, J. A. Taxation in the new state. 1920. L 17749

An endeavor to outline a new philosophy of taxation which shall provide a more unified system and produce a permanently sufficient revenue. The author advocates a proportionate tax on surplus income without recourse to direct taxation.

McCaleb, Walter Flavius. Present and past banking in Mexico. 1920. L 17365

Political Science

Government, Democracy

Goode, William T. Bolshevism at work. 1920. L 18501

Mr. Goode was at first prejudiced against the Bolsheviks, but is surprised to find himself admiring everything, their political machinery, industrial organization, judiciary, educational system, and art. The Nation thinks him sincere but uncritical.

Macdonald, J. Ramsay. Parliament and revolution. 1920. L 15899

(The new library of social science.)

A defense of the democratic and parliamentary method of socialist reform as contrasted with the method of which Lenin is the most conspicuous example. It may convert some revolutionists but it is not intended to convert them to the ranks of social content.—Nation.

Peterson, Samuel. Democracy and government. 1919. L 15796

A lawyer's suggestion for the improvement of our present governmental machinery. It advocates, among other reforms, restricting suffrage to intelligent voters, and a program that will bring the government in closer touch with the people.

Webster, Nesta H. (Mrs. Arthur Webster). The French revolution; a study in democracy. 1919. A 5749

An attempt to throw light on the part played by the people in the French revolution, which the author regards as having been unnecessary and disastrous.

Civil Service

Civil Service Chronicle. Fire college extension course and supplement to Fire dept promotion examination instruction; answers to most recent New York civil service examination questions. 1919. L 18161

Hartog, P. J. Examinations and their relation to culture and efficiency. 1918. L 18176

Army and Navy

Crowder, E. H. The spirit of selective service. 1920. K 31088

Major-General Crowder compares the English and American draft methods and finally recommends the use of the selective machinery to control and promote education and arbitrate labor disputes.

Hampton Roads Training Station for men of the United States navy. B 6818

Social Life and Customs

Clark, Alice. Working life of women in the seventeenth century. 1920. L 20964

The motive of Miss Clark's work is to show how the rise of capitalism affected the productive capacity of women. With considerable elaboration she traces the history of women in the professions, in the crafts and trades, in textiles, in agriculture and among the upper classes.—Survey.

Clephan, R. Coltman. The tournament; its periods and phases. 1919. *P 4580

Mr. Clephan rudely strips the tournament of the deceitful trappings woven around it by poets and story-tellers. He traces its decline from a primitive combat through stages of undeniable usefulness to that last period when it had become a clumsy and very expensive sport.—Times (London).

Dunn, Courtenay. The natural history of the child; a book for all sorts and conditions of men, women and children. 1920. L 20778

A desultory assortment of facts and allusions with reference to the child's ancestry, early life, environment, schooling, religion, play.

Reynolds, Myra. The learned lady in England, 1650-1760. 1920. L 20992

(Vassar semi-centennial series.)

We begin to see that these women, fluttering and disparate as they seem, actually moved with steady progress toward the goal of liberty of thought and action which the women of today congratulate themselves on having almost reached. An interesting and original piece of work.—Bookman.

Education

Eggleston, Margaret W. The use of the story in religious education. 1920. L 19901

Lays down and illustrates principles helpful for any story-telling, though given with special reference to Bible stories and their lessons.

Gray, Clarence Truman. Types of reading ability as exhibited through tests and laboratory experiments. 1917. L 19749, 1*
(Supplementary educational monographs.)

Knight, Edgar W. The academy movement in the South. 1919. L 19813

Meriam, Junius L. Child life and the curriculum. 1920. L 19742

Presentation of a plan for a curriculum which will bring the subject matter of the child's studies into closer relationship with his life.

Munroe, James Phinney. The human factor in education. 1920. L 19399

Vigorous criticism of past and present methods of education, urging more adequate training for definite social needs.

Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. The award of the Williams medal; Williams College victory celebration, October seventeenth, 1919. L 19964

Folklore

Gregory, Lady, comp. Visions and beliefs in the west of Ireland; with two essays and notes by W. B. Yeats. 1920. 2 vo. L 21136

Fairy lore of the Irish peasants revealing the Irish mind and the atmosphere of the life in these localities. Entertaining reading and usable as a folklore reference aid.

SCIENCE

Buddington, Arthur Francis. Pre-Cambrian rocks of southeast Newfoundland. 1916. K 20353

(Princeton University contribution to the geology of Newfoundland.)

Hudson, W. H. (naturalist). Adventures among birds. 1920. K 22052

The work in reality is a record of adventures among men and women, children and trees, wild hills and rich valleys, with a kind of bird-song obligato. The chapter on bird and animal friendship is as entertaining as it is astonishing.—Walter Prichard Eaton in The Bookman.

Keeler, Harriet L. Our northern autumn; a study of its characteristic flowers, its brilliant foliage and its conspicuous fruits. 1920. K 21297

Ordoñez, Ezequiel. Oil in southern Tamaulipas, Mexico. K 25480

Slosson, Edwin E. Easy lessons in Einstein; a discussion of the more intelligible features of the theory of relativity, with an article by Albert Einstein. 1920. K 19105

A comprehensible and attractive presentation of the Einstein theory and its implications, the experiments leading up to it, and its relation to the theory of gravitation.

USEFUL ARTS

Engineering

Schmidt, Edward C., and Dunn, Harold H. Passenger train resistance. 1919. K 22724, 110

(University of Illinois. Engineering experiment station bulletin.)

Willard, A. C. Report of progress in warm-air furnace research. 1919. K 22724, 112
(University of Illinois. Engineering experiment station bulletin.)

Cooley, Anna M., and Spohr, Wilhelmina H. Household arts for home and school. 1920. 2v. K 24579

Contents: v. 1. The family budget.—Care of the baby.—Home furnishing.—Textiles and sewing.—Selection of clothing. 2. Care of the home.—Cooking and serving.—Selection of food.—Laundering.—Hospitality.

Practice problems for school are outlined and suggestions for the daily routine of home work are thoroughly discussed in these volumes which are written for the use of household arts classes.

Harvey, Lucile Stimson. Food facts for the home-maker. 1920. K 24639

Presents scientific information in an informal manner and especially discusses the proper feeding of the child. Although it contains recipes it is more properly a food manual than a cook book.

Stockbridge, Bertha E. L. What to drink; the blue book of beverages. 1920. K 24761

"Recipes and directions for making and serving non-alcoholic drinks for all occasions."

Commerce, Business

Lee, James Melvin. Business writing. 1920. L 20575, 2

(Language for men of affairs.)

Direct and specific information about business writing for business men of every status. It discusses the essentials of writing in general, and the special needs for writing letters, reports, advertising copy, and publicity articles.

Liverpool (England). Chamber of Commerce. Liverpool, its trade and commerce, official handbook of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, with classified trade indices in English, French, Spanish, Italian, and Russian. 1918. Civics Dept.

Public Utilities

Bradley, Glenn Danford. The story of the Santa Fe. 1920. K 25137
(Frontiers of America.)

Hartman, Harleigh, H. Fair value; the meaning and application of the term "fair valuation" as used by utility commissions. 1920. L 20148

(Hart, Schaffner & Marx prize essays.)

A most exhaustive and illuminating work on current economics, with principles, laws, court decisions and commission opinions all set forth in such a fashion that even the uninitiated in such matters are able to grasp Mr. Hartman's theories.—Boston Transcript.

Chemical Technology, Trades

Campbell, Andrew. Petroleum refining. 1918. K 25482

Describes the preparation of commercial products in both laboratory and works practice. There are chapters on candle-making and on the distribution of petrol, kerosene, and heavy oils, including packing, tinning and soldering machinery, barrels, drums, etc.

Jones, Bernard E., ed. Gilding, silvering and bronzing. 1919. K 25946
(“Work” handbooks.)

Wehrle, George. American gas works practice; standard practical methods in gas fitting, distribution and works management. 1919. K 25481

(Gas Age handbook series.)

Whittaker, C. M. Modern dyeing methods; the application of the coal tar dyestuffs, the principles involved and the methods employed. 1919. K 25543

(Industrial chemistry.)

Useful information from a research chemist who has been in charge of the experimental dyehouse of a large dye factory for many years.

FINE ARTS

Painting

He really does care for art as an end in itself, an end more important than life; and the kind of artists he cares about in letters as well as painting are the fellows who took art supremely seriously. . . . Comes from a man who knows esthetic emotion when he has it.—Francis Hackett in The New Republic.

Bradley, A. C. The reaction against Tennyson. 1917. J 6323

(The English Association.)

Ker, W. P. The eighteenth century. 1916. J 6362

(English Association pamphlet.)

Lowell, James Russell. The function of the poet, and other essays. 1920. E 4292

Contents: On poetry and belles-lettres: The function of the poet; Humor, wit, fun, and satire; The five indispensable authors, Homer, Dante, Cervantes, Goethe, Shakespeare; The imagination; Critical fragments.—Reviews of contemporaries: Henry James's tales and sketches; Longfellow: The courtship of Miles Standish, Tales of a wayside inn; Whittier: In war time, and other poems, Home ballads and poems, Snow-bound, Poetry and nationality; W. D. Howells: Venetian life; Edgar A. Poe; Thackeray: Roundabout papers.—Two great authors: Forster's life of Swift; Plutarch's morals.—A plea for freedom from speech and figures of speech-makers.

Critical essays and reviews, hitherto unpublished, which reveal Lowell at his best.

Nadal, E. S. A Virginian village; and other papers; together with some autobiographical notes. 1917. E 4692

Contents: Autobiographical notes.—A Virginian mountain village.—Southern literature.—A horse-fair pilgrimage.—Impressions of Lincoln.—Impressions of Lowell.—London recollections of Lowell.—A Virginian journey.—Contrasts of English and American scenery.—Cumberland Gap.—Types of Kentucky saddle-horses.—Texan scenery.—Lincoln and Stanton.—Washington and Lincoln.—Lincoln and foresight.—Virginia women

A delightful volume of reminiscences by a southerner who served as Lowell's secretary of legation in London.

Pound, Ezra. Instigations of Ezra Pound, together with an essay on the Chinese written character, by Ernest Fenollosa. 1920. J 4840

Studies of Henry James and Remy de Gourmont with a chapter on French poets and reviews of such varied books as Eliot's Prufrock, Joyce's Portrait of the artist, and Strachey's Eminent Victorians. Other chapters are on "Our tetrachal préceuse," Genesis, Arnaut Daniel, and Translators of Greek.

Schinz, Albert. French literature of the great war. 1920. J 5363

Professor Schinz of Bryn Mawr divides his literature into three classes chronologically; the earliest, strongly emotional; the second, memoirs and documents on the war itself; the third, philosophical reflections. His partisanship is clearly evident.

Wilde, Oscar. A critic in Pall Mall; being extracts from reviews and miscellanies. 1919. E 6442

Reviews and critical miscellanies gleaned from the obscurity of contemporary journals by Mr. E. V. Lucas, which Brander Matthews says are as devoid of the flavor of Wilde's personality as they are free from his customary affectation.

Poetry

Barrett, Wilton Agnew. Songs from the journey. 1920. E 10636

Reprinted poems in free verse and conventional meters.

Bynner, Witter. A canticle of Pan and other poems. 1920. E 10701

A wide variety of poems of all forms, subjects, and degrees of merit. W. A. Norris in the Chicago Daily News calls Bynner the most purely poetical poet in America, the "deftest handler of cadences and rhymes and most ardent disciple of clear-cut perfection in verse."

Carlin, Francis, pseud. of James F. C. Mac Donnell. The cairn of stars. 1920. E 14857

Charming, quaint Irish ballads and lyrics treating of peasant lore in lilting rhythms.

Douglas, Lord Alfred. Collected poems. 1919. E 14593

Drinkwater, John. Loyalties. 1919. E 6552

These poems are soft-voiced and tranquil, for the most part rhymed but with much liberty in length of line. They are fugitive verses, some occasional, some memorials to the poets fallen in the war.

Hillyer, Robert. The five books of youth. 1920. E 11035

Mr. Braithwaite in the Boston Transcript calls the author "a poet who both as sonneteer and lyricist writes with a grave and passionate simplicity." He adds in commendation, "I do not think there is a poem in this book where one may charge the poet with a gesture of emotion."

Hopkins, Gerard Manley. Poems, ed. with notes by Robert Bridges. 1918. E 11056

Lyrics and sonnets by a contemporary of Swinburne who is a follower of Shelley in the careful technique of his work. He is regarded as distinctly a poet's poet, a master of his craft.

Johns, Orrick. Black branches; a book of poems and plays. 1920. E 11105

Contents: Dedication.—Three plays in Chiaroscuro: Shadow; Eclipse; Lumière.—Songs of deliverance.—Tunings.—New songs of deliverance.—Kysen.—Hedone.—The little generation.

These free verse poems and poetic dramas please one with their air of depth and poignancy. Many are fantastic, some with a classical or Oriental setting, and the meaning of none is for the runner to read.

Lawrence, D. H. New poems. 1919. E 7731

Sitwell, Osbert. Argonaut and juggernaut. 1920. E 11538

Poems—mostly satirical—by one of Britain's young soldier-poets.

Squire, J. C. The birds, and other poems. 1919. E 11544

Strange, Michael, pseud. of Mrs. B. M. L. O. Thomas. Poems. 1919. E 15059

Free verse characterized by striking diction, a command of rhythm, and skill in design.

Swinburne, A. C. Selections from A. C. Swinburne; ed. by Edmund Gosse and Thomas James Wise. 1919. E 11558

Thompson, John R. Poems of John R. Thompson. 1920. E 8734

Love of country, love of the South, devotion to his friends, tributes to great men, love sentiment in Elizabethan vein, are among the characteristics of Mr. Thompson's verse. It is good poetry of its time and kind, perfectly typical of the spirit of the mid-nineteenth century.

Wild, Payson Sibley. On the Hades Golf Club portico. 1919. E 11648

(Chicago Literary Club papers.) A clever skit in classic pentameters introducing a Homeric ode on the recent designs against the "city of Helen's spouse," and a new "Last chapter of Kings" bringing the Biblical narrative up to date.

Woodberry, George Edward. The roamer and other poems. 1920. E 15123

A book of conventional poetry containing one long allegory of the soul's aspirations, a sonnet sequence, a group of war poems, and a few miscellaneous verses.

Drama

Hutchinson, M. F. The masque or pageant of English trees and flowers, for girls' schools. E 12369

—The masque of the woodlands. 1908. E 12369

Bound with The masque or pageant of English trees and flowers.

Mitchell, Roy. Shakespeare for community players. 1919. E 10172

Taking Shakespeare as his text, he teaches the fundamentals of stagecraft which are applicable to community production, starting with the choice of a play, and discussing organization, rehearsal, stage-setting, furniture, dresses, lighting, make-up, music and other important elements.—Survey.

Schnell, Stanley. Maid of Plymouth, courtship of Miles Standish; colonial play in eight scenes. 1902. E 14226

Stewart, Anna Bird. A midsummer dance dream; a fantastic comedy in one act. 1916. E 14234

Symons, Arthur. The toy cart; a play in five acts. 1919. E 14237

Founded on a Hindu drama.

Turner, Genevieve, and others. Corn silk; a Mandan legend adapted for school plays. 1914. E 14247

Young, F. Brett, and Stirling, W. Edward. Captain Swing; a romantic play of 1830. 1919. E 13073

The subject is the rick-burning and other outrages frequent in and about 1830 when the commons had been enclosed, the threshing machine was replacing the flail, and a laborer's wages were a shilling a day.—Times (London).

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION

Beaver, Wilfred N. Unexplored New Guinea; a record of the travels, adventures, and experiences of a resident magistrate amongst the head-hunting savages and cannibals of the unexplored interior of New Guinea. 1920. I 1639

Posthumous papers of a man who fell in the battle of Polygon Wood. They give the author's impressions of the different cultures of the wildest tribes in New Guinea.

Bell, Walter George. Unknown London. 1920. I 10115

An admirable guide to old London written with enthusiasm and a sense of humor. It deals mostly with those antiquities which are a household word and yet are practically unknown to most people, as the Domesday Book, the Roman baths, the bells of St. Clements, etc.

Dewey, John, and Dewey, Alice Chipman. Letters from China and Japan. 1920. I 10658

Charming gossip family letters with the all-around interest in Eastern questions one would expect from the highest type of American mind in the presence of these ancient civilizations.

Franck, Harry A. Vagabonding through Germany. 1920. I 7517

Adventures on a walking trip through unoccupied Germany, relating the docile and conciliatory attitude of the German today. Gives full reports of the food scarcity in the cities and the profiteering in the villages and farms.

Ionides, Cyril, and Atkins, J. B. A floating home, with illustrations by Arnold Bennett. 1919. I 10361

Mr. Ionides sold his house, bought a barge with the proceeds, fitted her up, and now moors her among the Essex waterways near such station, school, or friendly village as fancy or necessity dictates. The story is told with a delight that is infectious.—Times (London).

Muirhead, Findlay, ed. London and its environs. 1919. I 10114

(The blue guides.)

A new guide book carefully prepared from new materials to supersede Baedeker, by one of Baedeker's experienced associate editors.

United States

Chatham, Dennis and Marion, pseud. Cape Coddities. 1920. I 4831

This collection of essays, the authors say, is not to be taken as a serious attempt to describe the Cape or to delineate its people, but merely to express their perennial enthusiasm for this summer holiday land.—Book Review Digest.

Edwards, Agnes, pseud of Agnes E. Rothery. The old coast road from Boston to Plymouth. 1920. I 4835

A guide book made up of delightful essays centering about this historical region as it is found today and the traditions belonging to it.

Her pages present portraits of many well-known musical characters, Brahms, Mahler, Lili Mendelssohn, Rubinstein, Joachim, Henschel, Grieg, and Tchaikowski down to Fritz Kreisler. The Dial calls them "shrewd, lively, evocative views of big personalities."

HISTORY

Europe

Fairlie, John A. British war cabinets. 1918. A 5389

McBride, Isaac. Barbarous soviet Russia. 1920. A 6023

A journalist's record of a five-week visit. He was impressed with the systematic efforts at propaganda. Pamphlets are read aloud to illiterate peasants, and foreign prisoners are kept supplied with government literature translated in their own language.

MacNeill, Eoin. Phases of Irish history. 1920. A 5515

Contents: The ancient Irish a Celtic people.—The Celtic colonization of Ireland and Britain.—The Pre-Celtic inhabitants of Ireland.—The five fifths of Ireland.—Greek and Latin writers on pre-Christian Ireland.—Introduction of Christianity and letters.—The Irish kingdom in Scotland.—Ireland's golden age.—The struggle with the Norsemen.—Medieval Irish institutions.—The Norman conquest.—The Irish rally.

The Russian diary of an Englishman. Petrograd, 1915-1917. 1919. A 6025

This diary is as full of trivial personal details as Pepys's own. It is written from the point of view of a friend of the court, who as the Athenæum says, regards the greatest revolution in history as an extraordinarily inconvenient riot.

Seligman, Vincent J. The victory of Venizelos, a study of Greek politics. 1910-1918. 1920. A 6149

Tilley, Arthur. The dawn of the French renaissance. 1918. A 5744

Williams, Ariadna Tyrkóva-, (Mrs. Harold Williams). From liberty to Brest-Litovsk; the first year of the Russian revolution. 1919. A 6026

She has remarkably abundant and accurate information, though of somewhat too generalized a character. She might have made her work a skillful and telling arraignment of her political opponents if she could have restrained her quite intelligible hatred and indignation.—Nation.

European War

"As you were;" reminiscences of the General Supplies Division, General Staff, United States Army. 1919. A 7098

Berger, Maurice. Germany after the armistice; a report, based on the personal testimony of representative Germans, concerning the conditions existing in 1919. 1920. A 7090

An engrossing report of personal interviews of the author with prominent diplomats of Germany, in which he portrays distinctly the men he met.

Bernstorff, Count. My three years in America. 1920. A 7100

The tone is reasonable and conciliatory and often sounds as though it were meant for German as well as American consumption, though written in English.

Brownrigg, Sir Douglas. Indiscretions of the naval censor. 1920. A 7092

Admiral Brownrigg has command of a straightforward, telling style. His book is full of humour, good spirits, and the kind of information which only he is in a position to impart.—Saturday Review.

James, Henry. Within the rim, and other essays, 1914-1915. 1918. A 7101

Contents: Within the rim.—Refugees in Chelsea.—The American volunteer motor-ambulance corps in France.—France.—The long wards.

Johnston, R. M. First reflections on the campaign of 1918. 1920. A 7089

Constructive criticism of methods employed by the United States in the European war, urging a greater efficiency in organization for preparedness for further wars.

Klein, Daryl. With the Chinks. 1919. A 7091

(On active service series.)

Mr. Klein, a second lieutenant in the Chinese labor corps, describes his daily life with 490 coolies whom he trained as laborers behind the lines in France.

West, Arthur Graeme. The diary of a dead officer; posthumous papers. 1918. A 7095

Whitehouse, Vira B., (Mrs. N. de R. Whitehouse). A year as a government agent. 1920. A 7087

Mrs. Whitehouse's task was to tell the German people what we are doing to counteract their own propaganda. She tells with dramatic interest how she had to contend against the prejudices of our diplomatic group as well as the solid wall of Prussian censorship.

Peace

Allied and Associated powers. The treaty of peace between the Allied and Associated powers and Germany, the Protocol annexed thereto, the Agreement respecting the military occupation of the territories of the Rhine, and the Treaty between France and Great Britain respecting assistance to France in the event of unprovoked aggression by Germany. Signed at Versailles, June 28th, 1919. 1919. Dcc.

Bartlett, Vernon. Behind the scenes at the peace conference. 1919. A 7093

Huddleston, Sisley. Peace-making at Paris. 1919. A 7096

A book remarkable for its succinct analysis of facts and circumstances. He has given us atmosphere, clever character portrayals, plots and counterplots; illumined throughout with vivid flashes of wit.—Nation.

Thompson, Charles T. The Peace Conference day by day; a presidential pilgrimage leading to the discovery of Europe, with an introductory letter by Colonel E. M. House. 1920. A 7094

Diary of events centering about the activities of Mr. Wilson . . . all about how the President breakfasted, lunched, dined, attended receptions, and official functions, and drove out; whom he saw, what was said, what he did, and what others thought about him.—Nation.

United States

Crawford, Mary Caroline. In the days of the Pilgrim fathers. 1920. B 5516

A readable narrative of the historical facts connected with the Mayflower voyage. Cambridge as "the cradle of the Pilgrim idea," and the whole political life of England at that period is described, as is also the Dutch mode of life and government which influenced the Pilgrims in organizing their colony.

Marble, Annie Russell. The women who came in the Mayflower. 1920. B 7953

Full of pleasant gossip about the Mayflower folks is this little volume.—Boston Transcript.

Merlant, Joachim. Soldiers and sailors of France in the American war for independence (1776-1783). 1920. B 5468

The volume gives that part of our history from a new angle and does so in a very humanly interesting way.—Booklist.

Nicolay, Helen. Our nation in the building. 1916. B 5909

A good history for the man or woman who wants to see our history as a whole and to do it in the pleasantest manner possible.—Wisconsin Library Bulletin.

Panama

Bunau-Varilla, Philippe. The great adventure of Panama; wherein are exposed its relation to the great war and also the luminous traces of the German conspiracies against France and the United States. 1920. B 4905

The author regards himself as solely responsible for the revolution of Panama when she proclaimed her independence of Colombia. He also lays the blame for all our troubles with Colombia, and prejudicial opinion with regard to the transaction, on German propaganda.

FICTION

Bæverförm, Max. The happy hypocrite; a fairy tale for tired men. 1918. F 10979

Benson, E. F. "Queen Lucia." 1920. F 11116

A brilliant satire on society and culture in a small English village.

Buckrose, J. E., pseud. of Mrs. A. E. F. Jameson. Young hearts. 1920. F 14343

A romantic comedy of life in rural England. A man transplants his family to the country, where they find that romance flourishes as well as vegetables.

Butler, Ellis Parker. Swatty; a story of real boys. 1920. F 11358

Daily adventures in the lives of three boys in a little town on the Mississippi River, somewhat after the manner of Tom Sawyer.

Carswell, Catherine. Open the door. 1920. F 11665

An unusual first novel centering about a Glasgow family and the experiences of the daughter Joanna whose problems the author works out with much ability and good delineation of character.

Fletcher, J. S. The Paradise mystery. 1920. F 12854

(The Borzoi mystery stories, no. 7.)

The story revolves around a physician in an English cathedral town and his two wards, a brother and sister, about whose origin there is a mystery.

Hall, Herschel S. Steel preferred. 1920. F 13444

A vivid picture of Pittsburgh and the steel industry, relating the story of a waif who worked himself up to be general manager and finally mayor of the city.

Holme, Constance. The splendid fairing. 1919. F 14062

Latzko, Andreas. The judgment of peace. 1919. F 14651

Very similar in form and trend to "Under fire" although Latzko does not, like Barbusse, offer a single solution, but is content merely with picturing the reaction to war of a variety of characters.

Martin, George Madden. Children in the mist. 1920. F 15173

Contents: The flight.—The blue handkerchief.—An Inskip niggah.—Pom.—The sleeping sickness.—Fire from heaven.—Malviney.—Sixty years after.

A group of short stories of the American negro sympathetically told and with the aim of bringing about a clearer understanding of the race.

Maugham, W. Somerset. Mrs. Craddock. 1920. F 15194

A reprinted edition of an earlier novel. It is the story of a woman's disillusionment after marriage.

Opera Scores, Librettos, and Plots

IN the Music Room on the fifth floor of the Main Library building are to be found librettos together with from ten to twenty copies of the vocal scores of all the favorite operas and a smaller number of the less familiar ones. They may be borrowed on special music cards issuable to all registered book borrowers on application.

Much difficulty has been experienced in trying to secure scores of the new operas announced for production in the Chicago Opera repertory for this season, and not all have proved to be obtainable. Below is a list of references to books containing plots of the operas in the program for the coming season. The figures refer to the pages and the letters to the books according to the following key:

PHILOSOPHY

Cannan, Gilbert. The release of the soul. 1920. L 13045

An attempt to evoke the soul and turn it upon the world of men and things so that men may recognize that a new world is already here if they would but see it. The Nation says the book is abundantly worth reading twice over to gain its full significance.

Davis, Andrew Jackson. A stellar key to the summer land. 1920. L 13084

A new theory of the structure of the universe based on spiritualistic experiences.

Holmes, Fenwicke Lindsay. Being and becoming; a book of lessons in the science of mind showing how to find the personal spirit. 1920. L 13219

SPIRITUALISM

O'Donnell, Elliot. The menace of spiritualism. 1920. L 13512

From the point of view of orthodox Christianity it [spiritualism] menaces faith and morality alike; from that of the medical profession it is injurious to health; from that of the greater number of most eminent scientists it is a sham; and from the point of view of common sense it is a hotch-potch of imbecility, gullibility, and roguery.—Book Review Digest.

PSYCHOLOGY

Mental efficiency

Goddard, Henry Herbert. Human efficiency and levels of intelligence. 1920. L 13899

(The Louis Clark Vanuxem foundation lectures.) Four lectures explaining how the recognition of different degrees of intelligence among children and adults can effect greater social efficiency by aiding each person to train for the work and responsibility which his mental equipment warrants.—Booklist.

Hall, G. Stanley. Morale; the supreme standard of life and conduct. 1920. L 14106

The author holds that the war itself revealed the bankruptcy of the old criteria and that our human standards and values must now be subjected to a re-definition. This the book sets out to do, using morale with a psychophysic connotation.—Book Review Digest.

Yoakum, Clarence S., and Yerkes, Robert M. ed. Army mental tests. 1920. L 13731

A description of the methods and results of the psychological tests used in the army. Besides giving a record of what has been accomplished, the book is intended to stimulate similar practices in schools and industry.

RELIGION

Elliott, Ernest Eugene. How to advertise a church. 1920. M 8900

Inge, William Ralph. Outspoken essays. 1920. M 9255

Contents: Our present discontents.—Patriotism.—The birth-rate.—The future of the English race.—Bishop Gore and the Church of England.—Roman Catholic modernism.—Cardinal Newman.—St. Paul.—Institutionalism and mysticism.—The indictment against Christianity.—Survival and immortality.

Keen rapierlike satire by the Dean of St. Paul's directed against everything in church and state that is not Tory and Established Church. Preserved Smith, writing in The Nation, calls the author (among other epithets) "a Christian gentleman with a tongue like the sting of a wasp."

La Rue, William Earl. The foundations of Mormonism; a study of the fundamental facts in the history and doctrines of the Mormons from original sources. 1919. M 7950

Moulton, Richard G., ed. The modern reader's Bible for schools: the New Testament. 1920. M 6773

An abridgment for schools of Dr. Moulton's famous work. The sayings of Jesus in the Gospels (which are given entire) are distinguished by different type. The Acts and Epistles are considerably abridged.

SOCIOLOGY

Hapgood, Norman. The advancing hour. 1920. L 15418

Contents: In time of revolution.—The storm cellar.—The blockade of thought.—What the issues are.—Without a party.—Facing bolshevism: our follies in Russia.—Facing bolshevism: the future in Russia.—Is socialism needed?—The answer of cooperation.—The answer of liberalism.—From Wilsonism to the future.—What is our faith?

An attempt to analyze the present transition period in politics and industry from a patriotic and idealistic point of view.

O'Brien, George. The economic history of Ireland in the seventeenth century. 1919. L 16680

Economics

Feld, R. C. Humanizing industry. 1920. L 17196

In the form of a story, schemes are worked out for accident prevention, health measures, education, pensions, disability funds and death benefits, housing, profitsharing, and industrial representation.

Labor, Wages

Brooks, John Graham. Labor's challenge to the social order; democracy its own critic and educator. 1920. L 16760

A discriminating study of the problem involved in labor's rapid accession of power, in what it is to do with its mastership, and in the readjustments of the social order required by present conditions.

Cole, G. D. H. The payment of wages; a study in payment by results under the wage-system. 1918. L 16846
(Trade union series.)

Litchfield, Paul W. The industrial republic; a study in industrial economics. 1920. L 16761

The manager of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber factory outlines the representation plan in use there, stating that on the analogy of republican government it is necessary that labor be given the management of an industry on the condition that the interests of capital be safeguarded.

Parker, Carleton H. The casual laborer, and other essays, with introduction by Cornelia Stratton Parker. 1920. L 16960

Contents: Toward understanding labor unrest.—The casual laborer.—The I. W. W.—Motives in economic life.

These four essays are about all the writings we have from which to restore Professor Parker's industrial theories and ideals. His method of approach was from the psychology of the workingman, and much of the labor unrest is held to be the explosion resulting from instincts thwarted by the present economic environment.

Selley, Ernest. Village trade unions in two centuries. 1919. L 17198

Treats of conditions in Great Britain.

Conference of Working-Class Associations. (London, 1920). The trade unions and output; papers by J. T. Brownlie and H. A. Grimshaw; with a report of the discussions to which they gave rise. 1920. L 16661, 7

(The reorganization of industry series.)

Contents: The workers' interest in output, by J. T. Brownlie.—The influence of the distribution of wealth upon the output, by H. A. Grimshaw.

Southern textile bulletin. Dec. 25, 1919, v. 18, no. 17. Health and happiness number. 1919. R 4297

Showing the working and living conditions in the southern cotton mills.

Finance

Laughlin, J. Laurence. Banking progress. 1920. L 17366

An account of the development of banking theories, presupposing in the reader a familiarity with fundamental principles.

Montgomery, Robert H. Excess profits tax procedure. 1920. L 17752

Political Science

Bonjour, Félix. Real democracy in operation; the example of Switzerland. 1920. L 18491

An exposition of Swiss government in which the twenty-five separate cantons test different details in forms and methods of administration and borrow from one another those that prove most successful.

Butts, Alfred Benjamin. Public administration in Mississippi. 1919. B 1706, 3
(Mississippi Historical Society publications.)

Gaston, Herbert E. The Nonpartisan League. 1920. L 16496

The story of the League's successful effort to free the market from abuses, to liberate the state (N. Dak.) from thralldom to the big business interests, to stimulate agriculture, to make rural life more agreeable, and to conserve the wealth and production of the state for the people who live in it.—Freeman.

Hearnshaw, F. J. C. Democracy at the crossways; a study in politics and history, with special reference to Great Britain. 1919. L 15898

A conservative view defending representative government founded on the two-party system, and regarding the increasing political influence of labor as an unwarranted encroachment by a powerful minority.

Macdonald, James Ramsay. The government of India. 1920. L 18581

An analysis of the form of English administration in India. The author desires its reconstruction with self-government as the goal.

Verlie, Emil Joseph, ed. Illinois constitutions. 1919. B 3235,13

(Collections of the Illinois state historical library.)

Contents: History of the constitutions.—Ordinance of 1787.—Act of Congress, May 7, 1800.—Act of Congress, February 3, 1809.—Act of Congress, April 18, 1818.—Ordinance of 1818.—Constitution of 1818.—Constitution of 1848.—Constitution of 1870.—Table of cases.—Index to constitution of 1870.

Woman's City Club of Chicago. Illinois voters' handbook. 1920. L 18476

(Johns Hopkins university studies in historical and political science.)

Landon, Fred. Canada's part in freeing the slave. 1920. L 16178

Seligmann, Herbert J. The negro faces America. 1920. L 16192

An attempt to enlighten the prejudice of uneducated white people showing that riots are caused by economic and political conditions and not by instinctive racial antagonisms. The cruelty and injustice arising from the denial of social equality are described and the questions of race absorption and the "anthropological myth" discussed.

International Relations

League of Nations

Cumming, C. K., and Pettit, Walter W., comp. and ed. Russian-American relations, March, 1917–March, 1920; documents and papers. 1920. L 16334

A singularly dramatic record. It has its ensembles of moving armies, its outstanding contrasts of character, its rising tide of climax, its denouements. . . . The collected telegrams of those days offer a liberal education in the way American foreign affairs are handled.—New Republic.

The Hague (Holland). Peace Conferences. The proceedings of the Hague Peace Conferences; translations of the official texts, prepared under the supervision of James Brown Scott. 1920. 2v. L 21447
v. 1. The Conference of 1899.
2. The Conference of 1907.

Hill, David Jayne. American world policies. 1920. L 21450

These essays relate in clear and vigorous language the position of the most bitter opponents to President Wilson and the League of Nations.

National Bank of Commerce in New York. Trading with the enemy act; with the report on the act submitted to the Senate by the committee on commerce. 1917. N 5413

Contents: I. Note by John Quinn.—II. The act, approved by the President, October 6, 1917.—III. Report on the act submitted to the Senate, August 15, 1917, by the Senate committee on commerce.—Appendix: Memorandum of American cases and recent English cases on the law of trading with the enemy, by Charles Warren, assistant attorney general of the United States.

The author is instructor of human anatomy in the Art Students' League of New York. The book consists of over eighty pages of plates showing drawings of surface portions of the body and the play of muscles. The plates are accompanied by a little valuable explanatory text.

McDowall, Arthur. Realism; a study in art and thought. 1918. K 26731

The greater part of the book is devoted to realism in art as affecting form, subject and treatment, including its confusion with nationalism and touching also on English poets and novelists of today. The last two chapters deal with realism in political and philosophic thought.

New York (city). Public Library. Christ in art; notes on the John Powell Lenox Collections, by Frank Weitenkamp. 1920. K 29016

Pennell, Joseph. Etchers and etching; chapters in the history of the art, together with technical explanations of modern artistic methods. 1919. *P 3181, 2
(The graphic art series.)

A beautiful book giving a study of the work of the great etchers (of whom Whistler is recognized as first), followed by a technical review of all known methods of the art. Both parts are appropriately illustrated with unusually fine reproductions.

Music

Duff, Sarah Robinson. Simple truths used by great singers. 1919. K 29789

Simpson, Eugene E. America's position in music. 1920. K 29617

A discussion of Indian and Negro music together with their effect upon modern composition both here and abroad. The book gives some account of the beginnings of American composition and its tendency is to encourage acquaintance with our native music.

Athletics, Hunting

Camp, Walter. Football without a coach. 1920. K 30673

Caswell, John. Sporting rifles and rifle shooting. 1920. K 30863

"Its purpose is to supply data for the hunter against game, and to give both hunter and target shooter more simple solutions of the rather intricate methods in use for the calculation of elevation, windage, and atmospheric conditions."—Preface.

Roosevelt, Kermit. The happy hunting-grounds. 1920. K 30887

Contents: The happy hunting-grounds.—In quest of sable antelope.—The sheep of the desert.—After moose in New Brunswick.—Two book-hunters in South America.—Seth Bullock, sheriff of the Black Hills country.

Intimate recollections of Theodore Roosevelt in his American hunting adventures, closing with a sketch of the frontiersman, Seth Bullock. The illustrations are from photographs taken by the author.

LITERATURE Criticism

Firkins, O. W. Jane Austen. 1920. J 6386

A dispassionate critique, apparently written more for the benefit of ardent admirers of Miss Austen's novels than to allure others to their perusal.

Fiske, George Converse. Lucilius and Horace; a study in the classical theory of imitation. 1920. J 4855, 7

(University of Wisconsin studies in language and literature.)

Moore, T. Sturge. Some soldier poets. 1920. J 6364

Contents: Introduction.—Julian Grenfell.—Rupert Brooke.—A half Pleiade: Robert Nichols, Siegfried Sassoon and Robert Graves.—R. E. Vernede.—Sorley.—Francis Ledwidge.—Edward Thomas.—F. W. Harvey.—Richard Aldington.—Alan Seeger.—The best poetry.

In the opinion of the New York Times, these essays "furnish the most compact and pleasurable volume put together so far about these men," and the one on Alan Seeger is especially recommended.

Perry, Bliss. A study of poetry. 1920. J 4804

A study of poetry in general and the lyric in particular intended for the use of the teacher and to enable the average reader to get more enjoyment from the reading of verse.

Polti, Georges. The thirty-six dramatic situations. 1917. E 14194

Robertson, J. M. The problem of Hamlet. 1920. E 10211

Seeks to explain many of the critic-baffling problems of Hamlet by the fact that in writing it Shakespeare was adapting an old play whose main features he was compelled to preserve.

Three priests of Peblis. The three prestis of Peblis, how thai tald thar talis; ed. from the Asloan and Charteris texts by T. D. Robb, M. A. 1920. *J 1101, 8
(The Scottish text society.)

Van Doren, Carl, ed. Benjamin Franklin and Jonathan Edwards; selections from their writings. 1920. E 6228
(The modern student's library.)

Authorship, Journalism

Cook, Sir Edward. The press in war-time, with some account of the official press bureau. 1920. J 7245

A brief essay describing the functions of England's press bureau during the war, explaining the principles of censorship it followed and presenting some of the chief problems with which it was concerned.

Cushing, Charles Phelps. If you don't write fiction. 1920. J 7382

Useful suggestions for general journalistic work, including the preparation of manuscripts, the taking of photographs for publication, and finding a market.

Gay, Robert M. Writing through reading; a suggestive method of writing English, with directions and exercises. 1920. J 7176

The author advocates imitation of different authors of dissimilar styles to give the student experience in the use of his tools and a conscious striving after definite effects. He believes such a practice will also tend to produce habits of more effective reading.

Poetry

Baker, Karle Wilson. Blue Smoke. 1919. E 10635

She draws down trees, birds, stars, prints them on her page with a diamond delicacy, heats and lights them into a tender, fiery transparency.—Nation.

Bridges, Robert. October, and other poems, with occasional verses on the war. 1920. E 10697

Shows the poet laureate's reactions to the war. There are dignified apostrophes to England, hands-across-the-seas poems to America and an arraignment of Germany in clever and intricate verse forms.

Glaenger, Richard Butler. Literary snapshots, impressions of contemporary authors. 1920. E 10951

Brief clever sketches in imagist verse portraying the literary features of about fifty of the best known English, American and foreign prose writers, and more than half as many poets.

Huxley, Aldous. Leda. 1920. E 11073

The subject is Jove's courtship of Leda, and the London Mercury regards the poem as a remarkable work for a young man and far ahead of any of Mr. Huxley's previous work. A few of his earlier poems are reprinted in this small volume.

Kemp, Harry. Chanteys and ballads; sea-chanteys, tramp-ballads and other ballads and poems. 1920. E 7675

Kreymborg, Alfred. Blood of things; a second book of free forms. 1920. E 11153
Companion volume to Mushrooms; a book of free forms. E 11152.

McLeod, Irene Rutherford. Before dawn. 1918. E 14856

A series of love lyrics that rise from the conditions of the war, a sonnet sequence also interpreting love from the woman's side, a dramatic poem, a number of independent lyrics, and a narrative monologue in what may be called the Masefield manner.—Nation.

Mallarmé, Stéphane. L'après-midi d'un faune; tr. from the French, by Joseph Twadell Shipley. E 13168

Masefield, John. Enslaved. 1920. E 14862
Contents: Enslaved.—The hounds of hell.—Cap on head.—Sonnets.—The passing stranger.—Animula.—The Lemmings.—Forget.—On growing old.—Lyric.

A long narrative poem in which, as the London Times says, Masefield has justified the use of verse in the telling of a story which is always exciting and often moving. Some critics think it may have allegorical intention, representing the trials and successes of England in the adventures of the hero.

Simmons, Lucretia Van Tuyl. Goethe's lyric poems in English translation prior to 1860. 1919. J 4855, 6
(University of Wisconsin studies in language and literature.)

Symons, Arthur. Lesbia and other poems. 1920. E 11557

Contents: Lesbia.—Intermezzo.—Birds in the night.—Silhouettes.

Fugitive poems gathered together from many scattered corners. In the era of Oscar Wilde and Beardsley, while in his twenties, Symons was a dominant figure, and was said to have given the most perfect psychology of love. But novelty-demanding critics are now classing him as unmodern and out of date.

Tanner, Aleph, comp. Homage to Robert Browning. 1920. E 14347

Collection of poems written in honor of Robert Browning.

Thorley, Wilfrid, ed. Fleurs-de-lys; a book of French poetry freely translated into English verse, with an introduction and notes. 1920. E 14331

From the twelfth century to the present time.

The introduction contains a treatise on translating and a historical survey of French verse. The poems are grouped chronologically and the English of the free translations is adapted to the period of the original.

Untermeyer, Louis, ed. Modern British poetry. 1920. E 14328

A companion volume to Modern American poetry. Modern British poetry covers the same period (from about 1870 to 1920), follows the same chronological scheme, but it is more amplified and goes into far greater detail.—Introduction.

Drama

Browne, Dorothea Gore. Sweetbriar; a pastoral with songs. 1905. E 13496

Clements, Colin Campbell. Seven plays of old Japan. 1920. E 13168

Poet Lore plays.

Contents: The cherry-blossom river.—By the Sumida river.—Growing old together.—The star dust path.—The father.—A man and his wife.—Life is a dream.

Dixon, Thomas, Jr. A man of the people; a drama of Abraham Lincoln. 1920. E 13659

The play itself is a closely knit story dramatizing an incident in Lincoln's career. It is built on the discontent with Lincoln's second candidacy, manifested by the Republican national committee, which proposed that Lincoln resign and Thaddeus Stevens run in his place.

Downey, June E. A study in the nude. 1920. E 13168

Poet Lore plays.

Goldring, Douglas. The fight for freedom, a play in four acts; with a preface by Henri Barbusse. 1920. E 12268

(Plays for a people's theater.)

A dramatic portrayal of English middle-class society in 1918.

Lawrence, D. H. Touch and go; a play in three acts. 1920. E 12520

(Plays for a people's theater.)

Deals with the relations of labor and capital in an English mining community.

Longfellow, H. W. Miles Standish, dramatized for performance by Edith Ashby. 1911. E 13992

(Vigo cabinet series.)

Nethercot, Arthur H. The funeral march of a marionette; a fantasia. 1920. E 13168

Poet Lore plays.

Pushkin, Alexander. Mozart and Salieri; a dramatic poem. 1920. E 13168

Poet Lore plays.

Humor

Day, Clarence, Jr. This simian world. 1920. E 2389

Amusing it unquestionably is, but a great deal more than amusing, to follow this grim parallel between the ways of apes and men.—New Republic.

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION

Curle, Richard. Wanderings; a book of travel and reminiscence. 1920. I 11365

An autobiographical record dedicated to Joseph Conrad and portraying with an impressionistic touch the atmosphere and scenes of the author's travels over four continents. His effects are considered the best in descriptions of the least trodden paths.

Europe

Garey, E. B., and others. American guide book to France and its battlefields. 1920. I 6643

Chapters on Paris, provincial French life, and battle-field localities, are preceded by valuable instructions and advice for the inexperienced traveler with regard to passports and the multitude of necessary details belonging to an ocean passage.

Maugham, William Somerset. The land of the Blessed Virgin; sketches and impressions in Andalusia. 1920. I 10481

Andalusian sketches showing Moorish influence in Spanish architecture and local color. The people are represented as indolent, truthless, and proud but picturesque and fascinating to read about.

Zimmern, Helen, and Agresti, Antonio. New Italy. 1920. I 10445

A very helpful up-to-date study of modern Italy: its history from 1866 to the present time; its political parties and government; its home and foreign policy; its educational system, economic development, and artistic and literary life.

Russia

Davis, Malcolm W. Open gates to Russia. 1920. I 10526

Mr. Davis is anxious to arouse America to her opportunity in the new Russia. Not only does he show how America can be of efficient service to Russia, but he also creates a healthy respect for what Russia might contribute to America.

Hindus, Maurice G. The Russian peasant and the revolution. 1920. I 10529

The author was a Russian peasant and he has written a book which Prof. E. A. Ross calls "so concrete, so careful of fact, so impartial, and so free from propaganda that a hundred years hence historians will treat it with respect."

United States

Moran, George E. Moran's official automobile route and trail guide. 1920. I 2768

"A conveniently arranged automobile pocket guide comprising many delightful auto tours within easy driving distance of Chicago, comprehensive route and state maps, descriptions of marked highways and trails, and much information of value to the motorist."

Rabb, Kate Milner, ed. A tour through Indiana in 1840; the diary of John Parsons of Petersburg, Virginia. 1920. I 4355

The picture of early Indiana is remarkably interesting and complete, including, among other things, visits to the colleges in the state, with amusing comment on their faculties and curriculums.—Daily News.

Upham, Warren. Minnesota geographic names, their origin and historic significance. 1920. *B 1520, 17

(Collections of the Minnesota historical society.)

Furniss, Harry. My Bohemian days. 1920. C 22030

Sparkling sketches by one of the best known caricaturists and humorists of England. There are many reminiscences of prominent men and women, especially artists and actors.

Huneker, James Gibbons. Steeplejack. 1920. 2v. C 22539

It is given to few to roam so irresponsibly throughout the artistic world, and to fewer still to record so well and with so much vivacity the result of their roaming.—Names—names—names. Is this man's fount of friendship and acquaintance inexhaustible?—Chicago Daily News.

Jonson, Ben. Smith, G. Gregory. Ben Jonson. 1919. C 22665

(English men of letters.)

Lincoln, Abraham. Barton, William E. The Soul of Abraham Lincoln. 1920. C 23018

The first part of Dr. Barton's work reviews the various backgrounds against which Lincoln's life was lived; the second examines previous biographies and the evidence as to his religious beliefs; the third constructs his religious belief from his life and words.

Murray, John, III., Murray, John IV. John Murray, III., 1808–1892; a brief memoir. 1919. C 23514

The story of the third of the famous "Handbook" Murrys.

Swinburne, Algernon Charles. Kernahan, Coulson. Swinburne as I knew him, with some unpublished letters from the poet to his cousin, the Hon. Lady Henniker Heaton. 1919. C 24457

Intimate personal reminiscences of Swinburne and his associates, notably Watts-Dunton. Mr. Kernahan calls Swinburne "the knightliest poet-figure to pass this way since the Elizabethan days in which, surely, he should have been born."

PHILOSOPHY

Hunter, Thomas. History of philosophy, for use in high schools, academies and colleges. 1900. L 13009
(Science primers.)

Powys, John Cowper. The complex vision. 1920. L 14716

A system of philosophy based upon actual human experience, midway between materialism and spiritualism.—Publishers' Weekly.

Spiritualism

Magnussen, Julius. God's smile. 1920. L 13515

Tells how a Danish dramatist, an agnostic, personally received spirit writing and was influenced to play the piano under spirit control; deeply sincere.—Booklist.

Sewall, May Wright. Neither dead nor sleeping; with an introduction by Booth Tarkington. 1920. L 13513

Mrs. Sewall records the beneficent services of the spirits (especially her husband) in teaching and helping her to receive messages and to spread the good news abroad.

Thiébauld, Jules. The vanished friend; evidence, theoretical and practical, of the survival of human identity after death. Foreword by Margaret Deland. 1920. L 13514

Temperate, sincere and dignified, this translation from the French contains fresh testimonial matter on the subject of survival.

Psychology

Psychoanalysis

Freud, Sigmund. A general introduction to psychoanalysis; authorized translation, with a preface by G. Stanley Hall. 1920. L 13890

Lectures, almost conversational in tone, by the proponent of the psychoanalytic theory. The book is not only authoritative—it is very clearly written and easy of comprehension and will naturally supersede all other introductions to the subject.

Hollingworth, Leta S. The psychology of subnormal children. 1920. L 13699
(Brief course series in education.)

A study of the physical traits, instincts and emotions associated with different degrees of subnormality, together with the causes and prevention of mental deficiency.

Major, Clare Tree. How to develop your will power. 1920. L 13974
(How to develop series.)

Practical chapters on self-examination, courage, habit, self-control, business success, etc.

Walsh, William S. The psychology of dreams. 1920. L 13657

A clear and stimulating presentation for the general reader, emphasizing the sanity and naturalness of dream states.

Woodworth, Robert Sessions. Dynamic psychology. 1918. L 13959
(Columbia university lectures.)

Occasionally one encounters a thinker who can be both sane and stimulating, at once clear and suggestive. That Professor Woodworth is such a thinker is perhaps more apparent than ever before in this little volume. Withal it has great charm of style.—W. F. Washburn in Science.

Woolley, Helen Thompson, and Fischer, Charlotte Rust. Mental and physical measurements of working children. 1914. L 13724

(Psychological review publications.)

RELIGION

Bosanquet, Bernard. What religion is. 1920. M 8651

Knox, R. A. A spiritual Aeneid. 1919. M 7716

The history of how, from an evangelical ancestry which included an Episcopal father, he was driven first into Anglicanism and then into the Roman Catholic church. His book is one of the most fascinating, because one of the most candid, in recent years.—H. J. Liski in The New Republic.

The missionary outlook in the light of the war, by the Committee on the War and the Religious Outlook. 1920. M 11203

Religion among American men, as revealed by a study of conditions in the army; by the Committee on the War and the Religious Outlook. 1920. M 8779

Swisher, Walter Samuel. Religion and the new psychology; a psycho-analytic study of religion. 1920. M 10006

A book, simply and logically written, explaining many phenomena of religious repression and ecstasy from the point of view of psychoanalysis, with many striking illustrations from Biblical characters.

SOCIOLOGY

Emerson, Guy. The new frontier; a study of the American liberal spirit, its frontier origin, and its application to modern problems. 1920. L 15424

An exposition of the dominant character of the American spirit, disclosing its source in the successive struggles of the people in pushing further westward the boundaries of its material prosperity.

Ersine, John. Democracy and ideals; a definition. 1920. L 15423

Contents: Democracy and ideals.—American character.—French ideals and American.—Society as a university.—Universal training for national service.—University leadership.

"I have tried to express a central conviction that we in the United States are detached from the past, and that this detachment is the striking fact in all our problems; that if in the future we are to become and to remain a nation we must collaborate for common ends."—Preface.

George, Henry. The law of human progress. 1917. L 15304

A separate issue of Book X of Progress and Poverty (1888), L780.

Kahn, Otto H. Our economic and other problems; a financier's point of view. 1920. L 15426

Contents: The last figure of an epoch: Edward Henry Harriman.—Concerning business and economics.—Concerning war and foreign relations.—Concerning art.

Occasional speeches and writings.

Ross, Edward Aisworth. The principles of sociology. 1920. L 15348

(The Century social science series.)

Any one qualified to take a respectable part in trade-union discussions should find it gripping. It is essentially not a book for specialists, but for every one who is trying intelligently to find himself in the adventure of the common lot.—American Journal of Sociology.

Sumner, William Graham. What social classes owe to each other. 1920. L 3965

A new edition of Social classes. Its editor, Professor Keller of Yale, thinks that our age is in need of just this vigorous emphasis on the individualistic position to guard against even "that pseudo-openmindedness that toys with bolshevism and anarchism."

Economics

Powers, H. H. The American era. 1920. L 16681

Rowe, L. S. Early effects of the war upon the finance, commerce and industry of Peru. 1920. L 16682

Annals.

Budish, J. M., and Soule, George. The new unionism in the clothing industry. 1920. L 17190

The "new" unions, best exemplified by the clothing workers, are those which are conscious of their desire for a new order and base their demands on more fundamental considerations than immediate relief.

Crowther, Samuel. Why men strike. 1920. L 16985

Mr. Crowther thinks that the reason is because they are dissatisfied with working for someone else, "capital"; and that if they would invest their surplus instead of spending it extravagantly they would become capitalists and be working for themselves.

Gompers, Samuel. Labor and the employer. 1920. L 16762

He deals with the company store, the right of collective bargaining, the eight-hour day, the open shop, the strike, picketing, profit sharing, compulsory arbitration. He leaves the great solutions to the future.—Nation.

Interchurch World Movement. Commission of Inquiry. Report on the steel strike of 1919. 1920. L 17224

A scientific study of each phase of the steel strike which . . . shows the steel industry to be automatically managed, imposing intolerant hours and insufficient wages—the issues of the strike still unsettled.—Booklist.

Socialism, Guild Socialism

Boucke, O. Fred. The limits of socialism. 1920. L 17567

A critique of certain phases of Marxism in the light of present-day scientific conclusions. Most of the familiar dogmas are passed over, and attention is directed to an examination of socialism as a promise of effective social reform.—Nation.

Penty, Arthur J. A guildsman's interpretation of history. 1920. L 15539

From the point of view of guild socialism.

Finance, Foreign Exchange

American Academy of Political and Social Science, Philadelphia. Bonds and the bond market; ed. by S. S. Huebner. 1920. L 17454

(Annals.)

Contents: Bond features and services of the investment banker.—American government and corporate bonds.—Foreign government and corporate bonds.—Leading problems of current interest.—Bond prices.—Index.

Burnham's manual of Chicago securities. 1917–1918. 1920. 3v. L 17455

Latest edition in Civics Dept.

"An investor's handbook of useful information concerning the principal securities bought and sold in Chicago and the Middle West."

The Fitch bond descriptions; containing complete statistical descriptions of the bond issues of industrial, railroad and public utilities companies of the United States and Canada. 1920. *R 3591

Shelved in Civics Dept.

Ignatius, Milton B. The financing of public service corporations. 1918. L 20149

Because the author's point of view is so balanced his discussion of such questions as the regulation of rates, the safeguarding of investments, franchises, and intangible values may be read with profit by all students of corporate problems whatsoever their prejudices.—American Economic Review.

Whitaker, Albert C. Foreign exchange. 1920. L 17314

A book which the author intends to serve as a treatise in economics and a practical business manual as well. M. J. Shugrue writing in the American Journal of Economics thinks it in many ways the most satisfactory work on the subject.

York, Thomas. Foreign exchange; theory and practice. 1920. L 17319

Markets, Prices, Land

American Academy of Political and Social Science, Philadelphia. Prices; edited by Clyde L. King. 1920. L 17845

(Annals.)

Contents: Present day prices.—Price factors in typical commodities.—Wages, profits and excess profit taxes.—Production.—Coöperation.—International finance and trade in their relation to prices.—Inflation and prices.—The world's monetary problems.

Cherington, Paul T. The elements of marketing. 1920. L 17848

Description of the processes of distributing merchandise, including storing, transporting, selling, and other concrete problems.

Litman, Simon. Prices and price control in Great Britain and the United States during the world war. 1920. L 17854

(Carnegie endowment for international peace. Preliminary economic studies of the war.)

Mead, Elwood. Helping men own farms; a practical discussion of government aid in land settlement. 1920. L 17496

Mr. Mead describes the conditions and influences which led to the passage of the Land Settlement Act in California, and explains the methods and policies which it has brought into operation.

Political Science

Bigelow, Melville M. Papers on the legal history of government; difficulties fundamental and artificial. 1920. L 15726

Contents: Unity in government.—The family in English history: an inquiry.—Medieval English sovereignty.—The old jury.—Becket and the law.

Mr. Bigelow undertakes to study the past with reference to the fundamental principles underlying society rather than the multiplicity of facts, for these may not be rightly known and the consensus of opinion with regard to their significance may vary from time to time.

Laski, Harold J. Political thought in England from Locke to Bentham. 1920. L 15786

(Home university library of modern knowledge.) It is Mr. Laski's opinion that this apparently stagnant century was really productive of much philosophical political thought which bore fruit in the more active period that followed.

Taylor, Hugh. Origin of government. 1919. L 15825

U. S. Politics and Government

Becker, Carl. The United States; an experiment in democracy. 1920. L 15897

The author thinks that the United States is in danger of mistaking the form of democracy for its substance and so ceasing to stand as a "fruitful experiment in democracy." The menace lies in what he regards as the "habitual dislike of thinking" of Americans.

Farrow, Edward S. Riots and riot duty. 1919. K 31090

Lee, Gerald Stanley. The ghost in the White House; some suggestions as to how a hundred million people (who are supposed in a vague, helpless way to haunt the White House) can make themselves felt with a president, how they can back him up, express themselves to him, be expressed by him, and get what they want. 1920. L 15425

A serious attempt to grapple by means of gentle revery with current economic and political problems.

Russell, Charles Edward. The story of the Nonpartisan league; a chapter in American evolution. 1920. L 16497

A brief account of the recent remarkable political movement among the farmers of the northwest, preceded by a deplorable tale of short weights, false grading and other immoral and illegal devices used against them by representatives of special interests.

United States. Constitutional Convention, 1787. The debates in the Federal Convention of 1787, which framed the Constitution of the United States of America, reported by James Madison, a delegate from the state of Virginia. 1920. L 18028

(Publication of the Carnegie endowment for international peace. Division of international law, Washington.)

Waldman, Louis. Albany: the crisis in government; the history of the suspension, trial and expulsion from the New York state Legislature in 1920 of the five Socialist assemblymen by their political opponents. 1920. L 16420

An interesting and readable account of a noteworthy episode in our political history from the pen of one of the expelled members of the legislature.

International Relations

Allen, Stephen Haley. International relations. 1920. L 21442

Its purpose is to present "the ancient and modern conceptions of a nation . . . and, more particularly, the modern progress in regulating international intercourse by international conventions, efforts to prevent war and to mitigate its barbarities when it does come."

Nida, William L. The league of nations and the peace treaties, for junior and senior high schools. 1919. L 21452

Wilhelm II, German emperor. Letters from the Kaiser to the Czar, copied from government archives in Petrograd, unpublished before 1920; private letters from the Kaiser to the Czar found in a chest after the Czar's execution and now in possession of the Soviet government, copied and brought from Russia by Isaac Don Levine. 1920. L 16335

The free and frank correspondence of one monarch to another, never dreaming that his letters would meet the public eye. They give an intimate portrait of the man and his intentions.

Education

Clark, Thomas Arkle. The high school boy and his problems. 1920. L 20065

It is concrete in every paragraph, reminiscent, replete with glimpses of real boys facing actual situations. Almost as important as is its content is the fact that it promises to win a reading from the high-school boy to whom it is addressed.—School Review.

Finney, Ross L., and Schafer, Alfred L. The administration of village and consolidated schools. 1920. L 20053

Intended for the use of principals and normal schools, this book contains many helpful suggestions.

McMurry, Charles A. Teaching by projects; a basis for purposeful study. 1920. L 19537

Rapeer, Louis W., ed. The consolidated rural school. 1920. L 20067

A thoroughgoing survey of the difficulties which drive country people cityward and of their solution through the vitalized consolidated school.—Booklist.

Richards, Claude. The man of tomorrow; a discussion of vocational success with the boy of today. 1917. L 14409

Showalter, N. D. A handbook for rural school officers. 1920. L 20068

(Riverside textbooks in education.)

Discusses school organization, election and work of officers, resources and finances; school sites and furnishings; selection of teachers; home and school cooperation and supervision; the consolidation of rural schools; health education, medical inspection, lunches, and finally citizenship.

Stockton, James Leroy. Project work in education. 1920. L 19538

(Riverside educational monographs.)

Its object is to replace by a practical psychological method the lifeless traditional teaching through isolated subjects.

Christian Sociology

Blachly, Clarence Dan. The treatment of the problem of capital and labor in social-study courses in the churches. 1920. M 8637

A survey of the movement for social study in American churches, summarizing and criticising the various policies followed. The author favors incorporating modern scientific and sociological facts into teaching that is primarily religious.

Coffin, Henry Sloane. A more Christian industrial order. 1920. M 8778

The author advocates an attempt to reorganize the industrial order according to the spirit of Christ, while recognizing that the fragments of his sayings are not sufficient to form a working basis.

Colt, H. S., and Alison, C. H. Some essays on golf-course architecture. 1920. K 30594

A brief exposition of the elements of a new departure in landscape gardening by an expert in golf courses. It also suggests to the golfer additional possibilities of his game.

Roper, William W. Winning football. 1920. K 30686

An exposition of the newer way to play by "thinking football," which the author regards as an excellent preparation for life and superior in every way to the old game that was mainly a "trial of speed and strength and weight and courage."

LITERATURE

Journalism, Criticism

Lewisohn, Ludwig, ed. A modern book of criticism. 1919. J 4805

(The modern library of the world's best books.)

This book is made up of extracts from the comments of twenty-five of the best critics of the past ten years in France, England, Germany, and America, including Anatole France, Shaw, Bennett, George, Powys, Huneker, Mencken, and Hackett.

Looney, J. Thomas. "Shakespeare" identified in Edward De Vere, the seventeenth earl of Oxford. 1920. E 10154

Critics differ on the value of this book. The Times says it is "unencumbered by any knowledge at first hand"; the Bookman, "Impossible to do justice to the wealth of evidence collected . . . , and it is to be hoped that his leads will be followed up"; the Nation questions the validity of the evidence.

Muir, Edwin. We moderns; enigmas and guesses. 1920. L 14711

(The free lance books.)

Contents: Introduction.—The old age.—Original sin.—What is modern?—Art and literature.—Creative love.—The tragic view.

About two hundred paragraphs on criticism of life and literature from a somewhat Nietzschean point of view. The author is a young Scotchman, the Edward Moore of The New Age.

Payne, George Henry. History of journalism in the United States. 1920. J 7258

A history not only of journalism, but also of the parallel development of democracy in connection with politics and public events from 1690, the date of the first newspaper here, down to the present time.

Russell, Frances Theresa. Satire in the Victorian novel. 1920. J 7223

An interpretative study of Victorian fiction and survey of the methods and purposes of modern satire. Satire is discussed in its use by different novelists as directed against individuals, institutions and types.

Thayer, William Roscoe. The art of biography. 1920. C 20052

Three lectures by the biographer of Cavour, John Hay, and Roosevelt, dividing the subject chronologically into Biography in antiquity, From medieval to modern, and Biography in the nineteenth century.

Poetry

Allen, Morse S. The satire of John Marston. 1920. J 6382

A university thesis on the satirical poetry of a contemporary of Shakespeare who was a dramatist and divine as well as a satirist.

Ersikine, John. The kinds of poetry, and other essays. 1920. J 4803

Contents: The kinds of poetry.—The teaching of poetry.—The new poetry.—Scholarship and poetry.

These four essays reveal a lover of poetry who accepts the best in the new verse and the old, and thinks the world is the better for the existence of both.

Gayley, Charles Mills, and Kurtz, Benjamin Putnam. Methods and materials of literary criticism; lyric, epic and allied forms of poetry. 1920. J 4734

A better book for reference than for general reading. It gives an analysis and history of lyric and epic poetry by characterizing the leading theories of the more important earlier critics.

Poems

Hardy, Thomas. Collected poems. v. 1. Lyrical, narratory, and reflective. 1919. E 11038

Kerr, R. Watson. War daubs. 1919. E 11137

These poems reveal a poet's agony amid the horrors of war shorn of all its glamour. They are as sincere as Sassoon's verse, but lack the satirical touch that gives it vigor.

Millen, William A. Songs of the Irish revolution and songs of the newer Ireland. 1920. E 14870

The author is an Irish-American who spent eight student years in Ireland, of which he is very fond. He sympathizes with her modern spirit, and believes that her salvation will come through her national university and her men of learning.

A miscellany of American poetry. 1920. E 14332

Contents: Conrad Aiken.—Robert Frost.—John Gould Fletcher.—Vachel Lindsay.—Amy Lowell.—James Oppenheim.—Edwin Arlington Robinson.—Carl Sandburg.—Sara Teasdale.—Jean Starr Untermeyer.—Louis Untermeyer.

Nichols, Robert. Aurelia and other poems. 1920. E 11339

A sequence of Shakespearean sonnets telling the story of a disappointed lover whose passion grows with the falseness of his mistress.

Sandburg, Carl. Smoke and steel. 1920. E 11499

A third volume of Mr. Sandburg's poems containing some of his best work. Many of the verses have Chicago for their theme.

Tucker, Allen. There and here. 1919. E 15074

A few short poems, among them some, keenly sensitive, on the war, and others though in praise of more lovely things always touched with a note of sadness at its remembrance.—Booklist.

Drama

Baker, George P. Modern American plays. 1920. E 13488

Contents: Introduction.—As a man thinks, by A. Thomas.—The return of Peter Grimm, by D. Belasco.—Romance, by E. Sheldon.—The unchastened woman, by L. K. Anspacher.—Plots and playwrights, by E. Massey.

Five plays representing the greatest possible variety of theme and treatment among the most successful of the output of the last ten years.

Ferber, Edna, and Levy, Newman. $1,200 a year; a comedy in three acts. 1920. E 12133

An amusing and clever farce containing many touches of skillful character depiction.—Jack Crawford in the N. Y. Evening Post.

Milne, A. A. First plays. 1920. E 14070

Contents: Wurzel-Flummery.—The lucky one.—The boy comes home.—Belinda.—The red feathers.

This volume is "not the work of a professional writer, but the recreation of a (temporary) professional soldier." It contains one war play and one operetta (The red feathers). Ethel Barrymore played Belinda in London and New York.

Essays

Clark, Francis E. The gospel of out of doors. 1920. E 2306

An appeal for the lure and health-giving comforts of an old farm. Delightful essays on the pleasures to be derived from contact with nature.

Cook, Sir Edward. More literary recreations. 1919. E 2330

Contents: Traveling companions.—The classics in daily life.—A ramble in Pliny's letters.—The art of editing.—Poets as critics.—A short study in words.—Single-poem poets.—The charm of the Greek anthology.

Delightful essays dealing with the beauties of poetry in general and the Greek and Roman classics in particular, written in complete detachment from the exacting duties of the Official Press Bureau in wartime.

Gosse, Edmund. Some diversions of a man of letters. 1919. E 3144

Contents: On fluctuations of taste.—The shepherd of the ocean.—The songs of Shakespeare.—Catherine Trotter, the precursor of the bluestockings.—The message of the Wartons.—The charm of Sterne.—The centenary of Edgar Allen Poe.—The author of "Pelham."—The challenge of the Brontës.—Disraeli's novels.—Three experiments in portraiture: Lady Dorothy Nevill, Lord Cromer, The Last Days of Lord Redesdale.—The lyrical poetry of Thomas Hardy.—Some soldier poets.—The future of English poetry.—The agony of the Victorian age.

Sober, discreet, mellow, judicious.—Times (London).

Milne, A. A. Not that it matters. 1920. E 4597

A delightful book for an idle hour, composed of gentle, humorous little sketches on just anything at all, from goldfish to intellectual snobbery.

Montaigne, Michel. Essays of Montaigne; selected and ed. by Percival Chubb. Florio's translation. E 4496
(The Scott Library.)

Murry, John Middleton. The evolution of an intellectual. 1920. E 4442

Contents: The sign seekers.—The honesty of Russia.—The dream of Dostoevsky.—The discovery of pain.—The daughter of necessity.—The great hallucination.—Mr. Sassoon's war verses.—Realism.—The gulf between.—The sorrows of Satan.—A hero of our time.—The problem of the intelligentsia.—The defeat of imagination.—The nature of civilization.—The equivocation of democracy.—Democracy and patriotism.—Internationalism and the international.—The question.—The republic of the spirit.

Delightful papers by the editor of the London Athenæum arranged in chronological order, thus exhibiting the development of the author's point of view.

Ritchie, Lady Anne Thackeray. From friend to friend; ed. by Miss Emily Ritchie. 1920. E 5393

Contents: From friend to friend.—Mrs. Sartoris, 1814-1879.—Mrs. Kemble, 1809-1893.—A Roman Christmas-time.—Present tapestries and far-off bells and pomegranates.—Two letters to a painter from W. M. Thackeray.—In a French village.—Binnie.

BIOGRAPHY

Collective

Dombrowski, Eric. German leaders of yesterday and today. 1920. C 19459

The political editor of the Berliner Tageblatt presents a vivid portrait of forty-five Germans of all opinions who have played a prominent part in the history of the last six years.—Ebert, Ludendorff, Tirpitz, Haase, Liebknecht, Rosa Luxemburg, the Kaiser, etc.

Who was who; a companion to Who's who, containing the biographies of those who died during the period, 1897-1916. 1920. *R 556

Individual Biography

Bok, Edward. The Americanization of Edward Bok; the autobiography of a Dutch boy fifty years after. 1920. C 20917

The fascination of success hangs about this account of how the Dutch immigrant boy became editor of the Ladies Home Journal, of the work he did, and of the people he knew.—Roosevelt, Kipling, Holmes, Gladstone, and many others.—Booklist.

Clough, Arthur Hugh. Osborne, James Insley. Arthur Hugh Clough. 1920. C 21294

Mr. Osborne has written a judicious and balanced essay on Clough. He does not claim for him that he was a great poet; but he rightly insists on his interest in his period.—London Mercury.

Fisher, John Arbuthnot, Lord. Memories and records. 1920. C 21909

An old man's reminiscences of a long career in the British navy—disjointed and jerky, but with plenty of punch and little respect for personages.

Frame, Nathan T., and Frame, Esther G. Reminiscences. 1907. C 21985
Quaker evangelists.

Holberg, Ludvig. Hammer, S. C. Ludvig Holberg; the founder of Norwegian literature and an Oxford student. 1920. C 22458

A biographical and critical essay, including a short note on Holberg literature and Holberg students.

Lloyd George, David. Spender, Harold. The prime minister. 1920. C 23022

The first thirteen chapters, devoted to Lloyd George's childhood, youth and early career, are particularly interesting. The author claims "twenty-seven years of unbroken friendship" and the tone is eulogistic throughout.

Moton, Robert Russa. Finding a way out; an autobiography. 1920. C 23491

The life story of Booker T. Washington's successor told with a sense of humor and betraying a disposition of sweetness and dignity. The author's object is to contribute something to a better understanding of his race.

Roosevelt, Theodore. Bishop, Joseph Bucklin. Theodore Roosevelt and his time shown in his own letters. 1920. 2 v. C 23982

These volumes supplement the Autobiography and with it form a valuable history of our own times. The work was undertaken with Mr. Roosevelt's entire approval and five-sixths of it are devoted to his administration and the years following.

Tussaud, Mme. Marie. Tussaud, John Theodore. The romance of Madame Tussaud's. 1920. C 24608

Madame Tussaud, for a time the companion of Louis XVI's sister, was the originator of the wax works of characters of the French Revolution which, augmented by succeeding members of her family with late historical characters, still forms a unique historical collection in London.

Whiteley, Opal. The story of Opal; the journal of an understanding heart. 1920. C 24827

With its human interest, unconscious humor and minor tragedies, its self-taught wisdom and naive charm, as well as its keen observant record of things usually unseen and unfelt by the ordinary child or adult in wood and field, the book is truly the "journal of an understanding heart."—Boston Transcript.

Wilson, William B. Babson, Roger W. W. B. Wilson and the Department of Labor. 1919. C 24845

Mr. Wilson's life is followed from his boyhood in Scotland, his early coming to America, work in a cobbler's shop, in coal mines, and on railroads; the six years in Congress, the creation of the Department of Labor and Mr. Wilson's appointment as the first secretary.—American Economic Review.

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION

Bentwich, Norman. Palestine of the Jews, past, present and future; with an appendix, The redemption of Judæa, and other articles on the British advance. 1919. I 10905

Black, William Harman. The real Europe pocket guide-book. 1920. I 2622
Black's blue books.

Bryas, Comtesse Madeleine de, and Bryas, Jacqueline de. A Frenchwoman's impressions of America. 1920. I 4323

"Their book is vivacious, sprightly, entertaining, incisive, shrewd, full of wit and humor, especially when the authors tell us about things which struck them as being particularly American."—Freeman.

Brigham, Albert Perry. Cape Cod and the Old Colony. 1920. I 4799

How the first colonists and those who followed them have adjusted themselves to the mobile conditions of nature and of man.—Preface.

Dodd, Anna Bowman. Up the Seine to the battlefields. 1920. I 11849

Such a volume as the present will be grateful reading to all those who love France and who feel the force of the old days, no matter how modern some parts of New France have become.—Outlook.

Franck, Harry A. Roaming through the West Indies. 1920. I 11806

Together with the usual "character sketches of bizarre personalities, rarely poetic descriptive passages, and narratives as tense as their backgrounds are colorful," as the New York Times describes Franck's books, we have here a critical study of the U. S. occupancy of Haiti and San Domingo.

Heaton, Eliza Putnam. By-paths in Sicily. 1920. I 10446

A charmingly written book full of curious and intimate bits of Sicilian life.—Booklist.

Hutton, S. K. By Eskimo dog-sled and kayak; a description of a missionary's experiences and adventures in Labrador. 1919. I 4212

Kent, Rockwell. Wilderness; a journal of quiet adventure in Alaska, with drawings by the author and an introduction by Dorothy Canfield. 1920. I 11790

The Alaskan diary—simple, virile, interesting—of Rockwell Kent, an artist who went into the wilderness for the sake of his art. He took his small son as a companion, and together they lived in a cabin, and worked, played, read, and painted.

Malone, Colonel C. L. The Russian republic. 1920. I 10535

Colonel Malone is an aviator and an M. P., but not a socialist. He reports certain facts from an objective and somewhat skeptical point of view and reaches the conclusion that the only reasonable way to avoid a possible military dictatorship in Russia is to recognize the soviet republic and give it a chance.

Safroni-Middleton, A. South Sea foam; the romantic adventures of a modern Don Quixote in the southern seas. 1920. I 1640

A tale of adventure and romance replete with the legendary lore of a tropical people. The author's experience has brought him in contact with friends of Stevenson in Samoa rather than the exotic haunts of Gauguin.

HISTORY

Wells, H. G. The outline of history; being a plain history of life and mankind, written with the advice and editorial help of Ernest Baker, H. H. Johnston, E. Ray Lankester and Gilbert Murray. 1920. 2v. A 2228

From the beginning of the world to 1920.

The book shows wonderful vision and the keen power of analysis and swift characterization which is H. G. Wells. An atmosphere of disillusionment and gentle skepticism envelops the narrative which is remarkably fluid and easy to read.

Europe

Belloc, Hilaire. Europe and the faith. 1920. A 5959

Contents: Introduction.—The Catholic conscience of history.—What was the Roman empire?—What was the church in the Roman empire?—What was the "fall" of the Roman empire?—The beginning of the nations.—What happened in Britain?—The dark ages.—The middle ages.—What was the reformation?—The defection of Britain.—Conclusion.

Buxton, Leland. The black sheep of the Balkans. 1920. A 5251

Crosley, Pauline S. Intimate letters from Petrograd. 1920. A 6029

Covering the period from April 28, 1917, to April 1, 1918.

Dawson, Richard. Red terror and green; the Sinn-Fein-Bolshevist movement. 1920. A 5512

A study of the Irish nationalist movement which the Nation describes as "as thorough as it is merciless." Mr. Dawson believes that "Sinn Fein has obeyed the law of revolutionary evolution and no longer controls the force it sets in motion."

Good, James Winder. Ulster and Ireland. 1919. A 5509

The author holds Carson responsible for the "triumph of the influences that make for division in Ireland." He feels that Ireland must decide her own destiny, but Ulster is only to be won by reason and argument. Mr. Good is a native of Munster who has spent his "happiest years" in Belfast and professes to "boast himself an Ulsterman."

Hibben, Paxton. Constantine I and the Greek people. 1920. A 6150

Mr. Hibben was the Associated Press correspondent in Greece through most of 1915, 1916, and into 1917. He dedicates his book to King Constantine and claims the popular sentiment was with the throne "in desiring to remain neutral and not with Venizelos and the Allied cause."

O'Hegarty, P. S. Sinn Fein, an illumination. 1919. A 5516

Tells the story of Sinn Fein from the inside, tracing its evolution from the establishment of the Gaelic League in 1893, but looking backward to the pre-Norman period in a historical survey of Irish nationalism.

Spargo, John. "The greatest failure in all history;" a critical examination of the actual workings of bolshevism in Russia. 1920. A 6027

"A part of the indisputable evidence upon which I base my condemnation of Bolshevism as a mad attempt, by a brutal and degrading tyranny, to carry out an impossible program."

Walling, William English. Sovietism; the A B C of Russian bolshevism—according to the Bolsheviks. 1920. A 6028

An arraignment of Bolshevism substantiated by fragmentary extracts from speeches and official manifestoes.

European War

Bellairs, Carlyon. The battle of Jutland; the sowing and the reaping. 1920. A 7112

This story of Jutland is by a critic of Lord Jellicoe's policy, and readers of the Admiral's own account will be interested in comparing the two.

Cornford, L. Cope. The paravane adventure. 1919. A 7103

The true and romantic story of the adventures of an English vessel fighting against submarines, told with the consent of the admiralty Board.

Creel, George. How we advertised America; the first telling of the amazing story of the Committee on Public Information that carried the gospel of Americanism to every corner of the globe. 1920. A 7113

Mr. Creel accuses Congress of trying to keep from the public any final statement of what was accomplished, and says that he has written the book in order to defeat that purpose and chronicle the facts in detail.

—The war, the world, and Wilson. 1920. A 7107

A defense of President Wilson and a plea for the ratification of the peace treaty and acceptance of the league of nations. It was our pledges that won the war, the author states, and our repudiation of those pledges that is losing the peace.—Book Review Digest.

Folks, Homer. The human costs of the war. 1920. A 7110

What we have is not a succession of harrowing scenes, but a real explanation of what happened to the people. It is the closing chapters on War and the children, War the best friend of disease, and Civilization's indictment of war, that reveal the author's personality and special experience.—Survey.

Gaines, Ruth. Ladies of Grécourt; the Smith College relief unit in the Somme. 1920. A 7111

A continuation of the record, begun in Helping France (A 7022), of the relief work of the Smith College unit in sixteen villages, where from a population of nearly 5600 only 1740 were left, six hundred of whom were children under fifteen.

Gordon-Smith, Gordon. From Serbia to Yugoslavia; Serbia's victories, reverses and final triumph, 1914-1918. 1920. A 7116

"A 'story of Serbia's crucifixion' by a war correspondent who followed the campaign personally from the headquarters of the Serbian army."

Hayes, Carlton J. H. A brief history of the great war. 1920. A 7108

In mastery of detail, in perspective, in proportion, in perspicuity, in philosophic grasp of his subject as a whole he outclasses all rivals . . . Apparently innocent of literary artifice, he has drawn a picture that has not the color and poetry of a painting but the fidelity of a photograph.—Nation.

Kluck, Alexander von. The march on Paris and the battle of the Marne, 1914, with portrait and maps and notes by the historical section (military branch) of the Committee of Imperial Defense. 1920. A 7115

Observations of a commanding general who reviews his own actions in the quietude of his study and illustrates them with the orders issued to him and by him, but with very little information beyond the maneuvers of his own army in the field and almost none of the enemy.—New York Times.

Mercier, D. J., Cardinal. Cardinal Mercier's own story. 1920. A 7097

Not a first person narrative, as the title would indicate, but a collection of the letters that passed between the Cardinal and the German authorities, connected often by brief explanatory notes written by the editor.

Murray, Gilbert. Our great war and the great war of the ancient Greeks. 1920. A 2615

(The Creighton lectures.)

A comparison with the Peloponnesian war, showing many striking similarities as betrayed in Greek history and literature. It points a lesson from the peace that was no peace but was followed by other wars resulting in the destruction of both combatants.

Paine, Ralph D. The Corsair in the war zone. 1920. A 7114

The story of the yacht which J. Pierpont Morgan put at the service of the United States government as soon as we entered the war. It patrolled the coast from Lisbon to Queenstown and its story is one of courage and patriotism.

Pollard, A. F. A short history of the great war. 1920. A 7109

A critical and interpretative one-volume history by a professor of history in London University. Critics consider it as reliable a presentation as we can have at so short a perspective of time.

Repington, C. à Court. The first world war, 1914-1918; personal experiences. 1920. 2v. A 7122

The diary of a military expert who writes with extreme self-confidence and from the aristocratic point of view.

Schreiner, George Abel. The craft sinister; a diplomatico-political history of the great war and its causes—diplomacy and international politics and diplomatists as seen at close range by an American newspaperman who served in Central Europe as war and political correspondent. 1920. A 7099

Scott, Arthur Pearson. An introduction to the peace treaties. 1920. A 7104

An analysis of the treaty of Versailles which will greatly simplify the subject to all who find the text hard reading. The author begins with the causes of the war and is careful to present both sides of disputed points of the treaty, though in general his own attitude is favorable.

Seton-Watson, R. W. Europe in the melting pot. 1919. A 7105

A collection in book form of a number of essays, written at intervals during the war, on race problems and politics in Austria, Russia, The Balkans and Turkey.

Spencer-Cooper, H. The battle of the Falkland islands, before and after. 1919. A 7106

United States Artillery. 333 regt., 1917-1919. The Blackhawk howitzer. 1920. A 7088

Asia

Simon, Leon. Studies in Jewish nationalism. 1920. A 2687

Contents: Religion and nationality.—Hebraism and Hellenism.—Zionism and the Jewish problem.—Hebrew education in Palestine.—"One of the people."—Palestine and Jewish nationalism.—The renaissance of Hebraism in Palestine.—The future of Palestine.—Palestine as the spiritual centre of Jewry.

Smith, Vincent A. The Oxford history of India, from the earliest times to the end of 1911. 1920. A 3852

This comprehensive survey of India was written upon the conclusion of many years spent in the Indian Civil Service, during which Mr. Smith was an earnest and sympathetic student of Indian antiquity and later history.

America

United States

Alvord, Clarence Walworth. The Illinois country, 1673-1818. 1920. B 7675, 1
(Illinois centennial publications.)

Bogart, Ernest Ludlow, and Thompson, Charles M. The industrial state, 1870-1893. 1920. B 7675, 4

(Illinois centennial publications. The centennial history of Illinois.)

Three chapters are contributed by other authors: Agnes Wright-Dennis writes on "New forces astir," H. B. Fuller on the development of arts and letters, and Nellie O. Barrett on the development of mineral wealth.

Haworth, Paul L. The United States in our own times, 1865-1920. 1920. B 5708

A straightforward chronological account . . . presented in an easy flowing style which carries the reader along in the current of narration.—Nation.

Henderson, Archibald. The conquest of the old Southwest; the romantic story of the early pioneers into Virginia, the Carolinas, Tennessee, and Kentucky, 1740-1790. 1920. B 5568

A very condensed history, with a great number of witness-references showing the care with which Mr. Henderson has done his work. He has added a valuable and convenient treatise concerning a somewhat overlooked section to the history of the formation of the United States.—Boston Transcript.

Schnure, William Marion, comp. Selinsgrove, Penna., chronology. (1700-1850). 1918. B 8188

Violette, Eugene Morrow. A history of Missouri. 1918. B 3647

Mexico, South America

Blasco Ibáñez, V. Mexico in revolution. 1920. B 8567

Frankly criticizes the Mexican leaders and contrasts the poverty and misery prevailing there (in spite of great wealth of national resources) with the prosperity of the rest of the continent. He lays the deplorable conditions to the lack of an educational system and Mexico's policy of isolation.

Bulnes, Don Gonzalo. Chile and Peru; the causes of the war of 1879. 1920. B 4943

O'Shaughnessy, Edith, (Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy). Intimate pages of Mexican history. 1920. B 8578

Contents: Porfirio Diaz.—Francisco Leon de la Barra.—Francisco I. Madero.—Victoriano Huerta.

The author thinks Mexico needs a dictator. She calls the administration of Diaz Mexico's Augustan age and portrays his successors with their successive victories and defeats. She has little sympathy with Wilson's Mexican policy.

FICTION

Bojer, Johan. Life. 1920. F 11277

An interesting and powerful novel of Norwegian life, contrasting two families, one who dwells on the brighter side of life and the other in the shadows.
